but it is positively inexcusable to administer or take narcotics or potent sedatives to relieve intranquility of the nerves, the easily discoverable cause of which is simply indigestion. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the remedy indicated when the nervous system is weak, and consequently super-sensitive and untranquil. Braced and quieted by this superlative tonic, the system obtains needful repose at night, dyspeptic qualms cease to disturb the stomach, and mental inquietude disappears. The habit of body becomes regular, the liver and kidneys are healthfully stimulated, and bodily or mental exertion cease to be a wearisome and difficult task. Neuralgia, rheumatism and malarial disorders, and kidney troubles, are entirely eradicated by this matchless invigorant and regulator.

The body of John Boyle of Calais, Me., who disappeared last January, has been found on the New Brunswick shore. George Cox is suspected of his murder.

Look at Him!

A year ago he was not expected to live. Liver complaint almost killed him. He got great relief from three bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and six bottles cured him.

An external application of St. Jacobs Oil goes to the seat of the complaint and cures.

The German police raided a secret meeting of socialists at Frankfort, Nov. 15th, and seized documents and lists of members.

Amy Hewitt, daughter of Abram S. Hewitt, was married to James O. Green, son of President Green of the Western Union Telegraph company, at Mr. Hewitt's country residence at Ringwood, N. J., Nov. 15th.

A dog belonging to David English, of Frankfort, Mich., lay on a bridge an entire day and could not be driven off. A search was finally begun for its master. His dead body was soon found in the water near the bridge.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

GRAVES OF THE PRESIDENTS.

Scattered Throughout the Country—Graves of the Wives of the Presidents.

The remains of the presidents do not rest together in a national mausoleum at Washington, as it has often been urged they should. They are scattered throughout the country.

Washington's are at Mount Vernon, in the family tomb; his wife's remains lie beside his. John Adams and Abigail, his wife, lie with the remains of their son, John Quincy Adams, the sixth president, at Quincy, Mass. A suitable monument marks their resting place. Jefferson's grave is at Monticello, beside those of his wife and daughters. It is marked by a monument which congress had erected to take the place of the one hacked to pieces by relic hunters. Monticello long ago passed out of the possession of the family, but the family burying ground is the property of the descendants of the third president, and the remains will never be disturbed. An effort was made some years ago to induce Mrs. Melkleham, the granddaughter of Jefferson, to consent to their removal to Washington, but the opposition it aroused caused the project to be abandoned.

Madison is buried at his old Virginia home, Montpelier, in Orange county. A plain shaft of granite, erected by the people of the county, marks his grave. A smaller monument is over the grave of Mrs. Madison, near by. Monroe died in New York, and his body was buried in the old cemetery on Second avenue. It was unmarked by a monument for some years; and the legislature of Virginia had it removed to Richmond, where it is buried in Hollywood cemetery. His wife's grave is at Oak Hill, their old home. Andrew Jackson's grave is beside Rachel's, his wife's, at the Hermitage. It is marked by a beautiful monument of large dimensions.

Van Buren, the eighth president, was buried at Kinderhook, New York. A granite shaft was erected over his grave by his sons. Harrison's body was removed from the congressional cemetery at Washington and buried at North Bend, Ind., and his tomb marks the grave of his wife. James K. Polk's monument stands in the front yard of his former home, Polk Place, at Nashville. President Taylor's grave was in Cove Hill cemetery, at Louisville, Ky., but was removed to Frankfort, where a monument was erected over it. His wife's grave is at Pascagoula, Miss. Fillmore's grave is in Forest Lawn cemetery, Buffalo. His two wives and daughters are buried beside him. President Pierce was buried at Concord, N. H., and his grave is marked by a handsome monument. In Woodward Hill cemetery, at Lancaster, Pa., near his beloved Wheatland, is buried President James Buchanan. His niece, Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson, erected a superb monument over his grave. Lincoln's sarcophagus is at Oak Ridge cemetery, Springfield, where Mrs. Lincoln's remains were interred. Andrew Johnson's children placed a noble monument over his grave near Greenville, Tenn. Mrs. Johnson, their daughter, Mrs. Stover, Robert Johnson, and Andrew Jr., are buried about him. Grant's splendid tomb is at Riverside, New York, and Garfield's is at Cleveland

As may be seen by recapitulation, Virginia has the bodies of her five presidents buried in her soil, Tennessee has her three, Kentucky one, Ohio two, Massachusetts two, New York three, Pennsylvania and Illinois one each, and New Hampshire one.—New York Sun.

Agassiz and the Chestnut Bell.

The chestnut bell is the latest variation of the method of checking old stories. I don't think old stories ought to be checked. If they're good enough to live a few centuries, so much the better. I don't believe in killing anything, not even a chestnut. But I suppose the ancient Persians had some way of showing their recognition of old stories, and very likely when the tars of Tyre and Sidon came in off a cruise with purple dyes and things, and sat over their grog in the taproom or beer cellar of the period, some signal stopped the narration of the venerable maritime chestnut.

Even in San Diego a great many years ago they had heard all the stories before. When Agassiz stopped there for a brief spell, and imperiled his digestion at the hotel of the time, he fell into a crowd who had exhausted their after-dinner conversation, and fallen so desperately back on old Joe Millerisms that whenever a man began to tell an old story every fellow as he recognized it put his spoon across his glass. Agassiz had not noticed this very much, but catching the spirit of the crowd, he started in to telling stories. He had hardly begun the first when a fellow put his spoon on his glass, and most of the boys followed. Being a scientist, he was slow to take any notice of this cranky proceeding. It came to the third story, and when he got through every spoon was on every glass on the table. But they pretended to laugh. Then one of the circle began, and the second spoon stopped him dead.

"What does it mean?" Agassiz asked of his neighbor.

"Well, when anybody tells an old story we put our spoons up like that to show we've all heard it before."

"Oh! Then all the stories I told were old ones, I suppose?"

"Well—yes; that is, we had heard them before."

"I'm not surprised. I heard them myself thirty years ago," he said slowly and with a twinkle, "and to tell you the truth I haven't learned any since."—San Francisco Chronicle.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Chief Engineer John P. Kelley has been ordered to duty at the works of the De Lancy Forge and Iron company, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Assistant Paymaster John Corwine has been promoted to be passed assistant paymaster, and ordered to duty on the Ajax and other monitors at City Point.

Assistant Paymaster S. S. Heap has been detached from the ironclads at City Point, and ordered to settle accounts and wait orders.

Ensign W. C. P. Muir has been detached from the naval war college, and ordered to the naval academy.

Leave of absence for one year, with permission to leave the United States, has been granted Lieutenant Commander F. M. Barber.

Rear Admiral Davis, commanding the Asiatic squadron, reports to the navy department under date of Nagasaki, Japan, October 11th, the following movements of the vessels at that station: The Marion, flagship, left Chefoo, China, October 2d, and reached Nagasaki October 5th; the Omaha left Chemulpo, Corea, October 11th, for Chefoo; the Ossipee started for New York October 9th, with men and material received from the Omaha; the Monocacy when last heard from was at Hong Kong, and the Palos at Canton. The health of the officers and men of the squadron was excellent.

Canada's Finances.

The official statement of the revenue and expenditure in Canada for the year ending June 30th, 1886, is published. The deficit of 1885—86, added to that of the preceding year, makes a total deficit for the two years of $8,105,614. The deficit of the last fiscal year is the largest that has ever occurred in the history of Canada.

Canadian agents in the United States report that American fishermen have lost 240,000 barrels of fish this year, as a result of the enforcement of the treaty of 1818. It would seem as if Canada was quite anxious about American fishermen, even more so than a prominent secretary at Washington.

The ingratitude of republics was exemplified in miniature in the late election at Newcastle in an instructive way. Probably no citizen of town has ever done so much for its interests as Capt. Geo. W. Towle; as, for a long period past, chairman of the selectmen, he has kept the accounts and affairs of the town in perfect order; taxes have been collected more nearly than ever before; the interest on the funded debt has been promptly paid. Besides, he has several times obtained money from the county to aid in repair of roads, etc., and has attended to the details of expenditure in things usually neglected and slighted. When no one else could be found, or was willing to take care of the schools, he has done it; and their most prosperous years have been when under his charge. His heart has been in his work for the town, and he has attended to its business in a business-like way, and has not followed the usual practice of getting elected to an office and then relinquishing all interest in it. As an old soldier, and one who had distinguished himself, he was deserving of consideration. But when nominated as representative, in the November election, his long and faithful services went for nothing. This little honor was withheld from him, when it would have been simply a grateful and courteous act to have sent him to Concord. Really the inducement to good citizenship, to public service, is not much in the town of Newcastle.—Penny Post.

George Parsons was caught in the act of setting fire to the new summer residence of Mr. Frost, of Waltham, at Rockport, Mass. The damage was slight. Parsons was locked up.

AYER'S SUGAR CATHARTIC COATED PILLS

CURE

Headache, Nausea, Dizziness, and Drowsiness. They stimulate the Stomach, Liver, and Bowels, to healthy action, assist digestion, and increase the appetite. They combine cathartic, diuretic, and tonic properties of the greatest value, are a purely vegetable compound, and may be taken with perfect safety, either by children or adults. E. L. Thomas, Framingham, Mass., writes: "For a number of years I was subject to violent Headaches, arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. About a year ago I commenced the use of Ayer's Pills, and have not had a headache since." W. P. Hannah, Gormley P. O., York Co., Ont., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the last thirty years, and can safely say that I have never found their equal as a cathartic medicine. I am never without them in my house." C. D. Moore, Elgin, Ill., writes: "Indigestion, Headache, and Loss of Appetite, had so weakened and debilitated my system, that I was obliged to give up work. After being under the doctor's care for two weeks, without getting any relief, I began taking Ayer's Pills. My appetite and strength returned, and I was soon enabled to resume my work, in perfect health."

INVESTMENTS.

I am prepared to furnish the most desirable investments in County Bonds and Guaranteed Farm Mortgages, paying 6 and 7 per cent semi-annually. On Farm Mortgages, only from 25 to 33 per cent of the actual cash value of the property is loaned, and the title, location, quality of land and future prospects of the property are personally looked up. Farm Loans are, when negotiated by experienced and responsible parties, the most profitable security offered, especially for those having small sums to invest from time to time. The Loans I offer are First-Class in every respect. Principal and interest when due, paid here without expense to the holder.

I have these Loans in sums from $300 to $5,000.

Kansas City Investment Co.

An Examiner from our Western Office makes a personal examination of every piece of Real Estate on which our Loans are based. His Report accompanies the Loan. We thus know that all statements made in the applications are correct. Loans taken in this way are perfectly secure. We offer these Loans ranging from $200 to $10,000 with every assurance that they are as safe as anything in the market.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Ma s.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of his title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall informe their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be suffic ent authority for such registration, and no registration of or the 15th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The Voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Holders of certificates of indebtedness are notified that the company will issue in exchange for certificates of indebtedness, par for par, $3,150,000 of preferred stock, entitling the holders to annually receive annual net earnings of the corporation to an amount equal to but not exceeding six dollars per share, payable in semi-annual instalments on the first days of March and September, in such sums as the directors may determine, in preference and priority to the common stock, provided however that certificates to the amount named are tendered in exchange and are deposited for that purpose with LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. or KIDDER, PEABODY & CO. of Boston, Mass., or the Company's Agents in London, by twelve o'clock of the twenty-third day of November current. As soon as practicable thereafter, the preferred stock will be delivered, or, if not taken to the full amount named, the certificates deposited will be returned. If bonds in excess of the amount named are tendered, exchange will be made pro rata.

Sterling bonds will be exchanged at par of exchange, fractional sums being adjusted by purchase and sale of fractions.

Each bond exchanged must have all unmatured coupons attached.

By order of the Board,

FRANCIS I. AMORY, Clerk.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The voting register of certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Eastern Railroad on Causeway street, Boston, Mass. Holders already registered are not required to register anew. Any holder not already registered can register on presenting at said office of said Eastern Railroad Company to Edward Leslie a written statement signed by himself of his name, address and the denomination and numbers of the certificates held by him. If the company shall so require, the holder desiring to register shall also duly verify that it is owned by producing said certificates of indebtedness, or filing with the company the written order of the person last registered as the holder, or in such other mode as may be prescribed by the laws of Massachusetts and the regulations of the Trustees.

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting, on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

Per order of the Directors.

LONGFELLOW'S DREAM.

Notwithstanding the extremely unfavorable weather, a large audience greeted the representation of Longfellow's Dream Masque at Music hall on the evening of the 17th inst., and all were well repaid for attending, the entertainment being pleasing throughout, and everything moving smoothly and without hitch. The statues and moving tableaux were really fine, the draping being marked by good taste, and the several characters well sustained. There was some very excellent singing, with most judicious and satisfactory piano accompaniment. The large audience was very evidently much pleased with the entire entertainment. The cast of characters was as follows:

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 17th.

Patrick Ryan, drunk, sixty days at Brentwood, costs $6 90.

Charles Edwards, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; paid.

Thomas Devine, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; Brentwood in default of payment.

James Milmore, drunk, fine $3, costs $6.90; paid.

George W. T. Brown, drunk, sixty days at Brentwood, costs $6.90.

William Hunter, assault with a sheath knife upon John S. Chandler, with intent to kill. Bound over to the April term of the supreme court in $600; jail in default of sureties.

It appeared in evidence that Hunter, alias Ferris, shipped on board the schooner James A. Donahoe, Capt. Chandler, at Bangor, as a sailor. The schooner was bound for New York, and came into the lower harbor in distress, having had an important sail blown away on Monday night, the 15th inst. Capt. Chandler had some trouble with Hunter before arriving here, and took a loaded pistol away from him. After arriving in the lower harbor Hunter refused duty, and attempted to go ashore. The captain informed him that if he persisted he would be put in irons. Hunter still refused to turn to, and as the captain approached him with the irons it is alleged that he made an assault on the captain with a sheath knife. With the assistance of the mate and a seaman, Hunter was knocked down, ironed, and sent on board the U. S. S. Kearsarge, he receiving a cut four or five inches long on the head from an iron bar, during the fracas. Sheriff Kent was sent for, and Hunter landed at Newcastle in double irons; the irons were removed, and after some parley the man was taken to jail by the sheriff that night. Judge Page defended Hunter, who claims to have a wife in Bangor, and a brother in New Bedford, Mass.; the latter he says is keeper of the house of correction, and was formerly city marshal of Fall River.

ANOTHER NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN CARED FOR.

The president has appointed Samuel D. Leavitt, of Eastport, collector of customs for the district of Passamaquoddy, Me.

Mr. Leavitt was formerly of Seabrook, this state, and was credited with doing some excellent work in his town in favor of Hon. Frank Jones when that gentleman was a candidate for Congress, years ago. Possibly Mr. Jones' stop-over in Washington, on his way to Florida, may have had something to do with the appointment of a collector of Passamaquoddy just at this time.

The Passamaquoddy collectorship is the second fattest one in Maine—salary $3,000, with the appointment of six deputy collectors and six inspectors of customs, besides minor offices.

WILL PROBABLY DECLINE.

It is reported that Henry Austin, Esq., of Rye, the democratic candidate for register of deeds at the late election, has been offered inducements to enter into a law business in another state, so advantageous that he probably will not qualify for the position to which he was elected. In this case the appointment of a successor to Mr. Weston will rest with the court, and according to precedent a democrat will be named for the place, (the county having gone democratic,) unless Mr. Jones and the other local democratic rulers should indicate their pleasure to have Mr. Weston reappointed, in which case that would unquestionably be done.

PORTSMOUTH BREWING CO.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth Brewing Co. was held on Wednesday, Nov. 17th, and officers elected as follows:

Arthur Harris of New York, president;
George Scott, vice president;
Mark A. Scott, treasurer;
Herman A. Tarlton, clerk;
Arthur Harris, George Scott, Mark A. Scott, P. Harrington, George A. Mudge, George E. Hodgdon, Herman A. Tarlton, directors.

FINANCIAL.

In 1849 a deposit of nineteen dollars was made in the Savings Bank for the county of Strafford, at Dover. On the 16th inst. the bank book was presented for the first time to have the interest added, and one hundred and ninety-five dollars and eighty-eight cents was the accumulation on the same. This is a forcible argument in support of the theory of the Portsmouth man who says the financial problem is one of the simplest things he knows of, the correct solution being as follows: "Always have the interest coming to you, instead of going from you!"

YORK, ME., Nov. 16th.

Fish in York bay were last week remarkably plentiful for the season. Joseph Donnell, Elmer Donnell, George Lucens, George Donnell, John Banks and George W. Webber are fishing from Lobster cove in dories. Webber brought in 1500 lbs. on Monday and Tuesday. The others have been bringing in from 200 to 500 lbs. each, the fares generally being purchased by Ed. Jameson of Portsmouth. Some of the rear guard of the mackerel now disappearing have been caught off here within the last few days; George Donnell and Geo. W. Webber caught thirty of them in their nets, and they were very large and fat, two of them weighing three and a half pounds. The writer can testify to the excellence of their flavor.

Samuel and Frank Donnell are trawling from York harbor; on the 15th they brought in 1500 lbs. of cod and haddock, which were carried on Monday to Portsmouth buyers.

Mr. Oliver Bracey died at Ground Nut hill on Saturday evening, aged about fifty years. He was well known on Portsmouth Parade, where he has for many years been accustomed to take his loads of charcoal and baskets, and being familiarly known by those in the habit of purchasing those articles, he generally found a ready sale. He visited Portsmouth on Saturday, and came out early in the day. When at Portsmouth bridge he complained of a great thirst, which he attempted to allay at places along the road; and it is said he alleged he must have been poisoned by some liquor he drank in Portsmouth, and that it was his last drink. He lived only eight hours after taking the liquor, according to reports. He was the father of thirteen children, of whom nine are living, one in Portsmouth. VIATOR.

Gilman Poor of Revere, Mass., foreman of the spare gang of track layers on the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine railroad, at Lynn on Wednesday morning, the 17th inst., jumped from one train directly in front of another, and was run over and instantly killed, his head and one foot being cut off. He was fifty-five years old, and very highly esteemed; he leaves a widow and two children.

During the present changeable weather the purchase of a really serviceable chest protector is one of the best investments that can be made, and the "Ventilated Common Sense," for sale by all druggists at fifty cents, is unquestionably the best thing of the kind yet invented. It is not claimed that this article will cure liver complaint, corns, tooth-ache, tight boots and all the other ills to which flesh is heir, but that it is the best, most comfortable and only unobjectionable chest protector yet invented. It is made by the Common Sense Jacket Co., and is of the same material as the jackets.

The Athletic club's rowboat "Mascot" was on Tuesday of this week stored for the winter in George J. Fernald's building near his boat-landing.

Some of the so-called shore-fishing boats, which supply the local market, and when lucky are enabled to sell fares be sent to other cities, during the summer, are now being placed in winter quarters on the islands at the south end.

Dr. Ed. S. Fay has sold his handsome span of horses to a gentleman by the name of Hill, of Concord, for $1000.

A Destructive Fungi.

In the present extensive use of timber and lumber, only the roughest approximate estimate is possible of the annual loss by fungi; and the amount of loss can be indicated in only a few items. The cost of replacing decayed ties by the railways of the United States for 1885 exceeded $30,000,000. Repairs of station buildings and road crossings, $18,500,000. Repairs of wooden and wood parts of bridges, $6,250,000 (estimated). Repairs of freight cars, $23,500,000 (estimated). Repairs of passenger cars, $7,500,000 (estimated). The renewal of telegraph poles and fixtures on 160,000 miles of line constitutes a large item.

The loss to the agricultural interests is much greater. The tenth census reports the cost of fencing in 1879 at $77,768,473, the most of which was for repairs. The loss caused by fungi on the 9,000,000 dwellings, with their accompanying buildings, and the $406,520,055 worth of agricultural implements which appears in the census reports, and that on the 6,654,997 tons of marine and on wharves above water, form other large items. The lumber interests are also a great loser through the quantities of timber that are destroyed in store. The mere mention of these facts makes it evident that the regular annual loss from this source must be rated at many million dollars. — Popular Science Monthly.

Waked Up by Telephone.

Some enterprising people in Belgium have applied the telephone to a novel use. Little bells are supplied and fitted to the beds of all who desire to rise early in the morning, but can not do so of their own accord. A certain time is fixed and communicated to the central station, and at a precise moment agreed upon the current is turned on and the bells commence to ring, and continue long so until the slumberer awakes, leaves his couch and informs the head office that he has had enough.—Boston Transcript.

Peculiarity of the Soil.

A peculiarity of Oglethorpe, Ga., is the marked division between the red and gray lands. The line between them can be plainly seen and can be followed its entire length. Even in roads it is so distinct that it can be marked out to the inch.—Chicago Times.

The Above Picture Represents

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kenawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and white as some years ago, or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he tried the great Kidney and Liver Remedy, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

A Horrible Form

Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasmaborn disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the liver, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

There was a great fall in pork at Chicago, Nov. 16th, when a drove of hogs broke through a bridge and landed on top of a moving passenger train, smashing in the tops of several cars, but injuring no person.

The most perfect modern remedy known for the cure of rheumatism is St. Jacobs Oil.

Delegates from encampments of the Union Veteran legion, in Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana and Pennsylvania, met in Pittsburg, Penn., Nov. 18th, to form a national encampment.

Ex-Mayor Latrobe of Baltimore, says the best cough medicine is Red Star Cough Cure.

A new York paper states that Mrs. Kate Terry, whose husband, Juan Petro Terry, recently died in Spain, leaving $6,000,000 to her and her unborn child, was formerly married to Charles Ballard, alias Charles Wells, the notorious bank burglar.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.

For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.

MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.

If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. A

AN AUTUMN DAY.

Leaden skies and a lonesome shadow
Where summer has passed with her gorgeous train.
Snow on the mountain and frost on the meadow—
A white face pressed to the window pane.
A cold mist falling, a bleak wind calling,
And oh! but life seems vain.

Rain is better than golden weather
When hearts are chilled with a dumb despair.
Dead leaves lie where they walked together;
The hammock is gone and the rustic chair.
Let bleak snows cover the whole world over,
It will never again seem fair.

Why should the beautiful, passionate Summer
Always leave pain where her footsteps have trod,
Hopes that were brought by this treacherous comer,
Chilled like her roses lay crushed on the sod.
Yet love dead with sorrow may spring up tomorrow,
And bloom like the garden of God.

Time laughs lightly at youth's sad "never."
Summer shall come again smiling once more;
High o'er the cold world the sun shines forever—
Hearts that seem dead are alive at the core.
Oh! but the pain of it! oh! but the gain of it—
After the shadows pass o'er.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in New York Mercury.

MAXIMILIAN'S "BLACK DECREE."

The Unfortunate Monarch Said To Be a Martyr to His Wife's Ambition.

The princess Josefa de Iturbide, who still reveres the memory of Maximilian, had told me so much of his sincere desire to "regenerate Mexico" and his firm belief that he was not offered the throne by a mere faction, but by a large majority of the people, that one day I ventured to reply: "Princess, I admit all you have said with regard to Maximilian, but Carlotta certainly was a monster of cruelty—so ambitious that she was willing to wade to the throne through a sea of blood—and to her influences is attributed the issuance of the "Black Decree." You can scarcely excuse her for the promulgation of that infamous measure." The princess turned a shade paler and replied:

"The real history of the decree is little known. The suggestion of that military measure came from France. Not only Bazaine—whom I so often warned his majesty was an arch-traitor—but other commanders indorsed and urged it; but from personal knowledge I assure you the emperor three times refused to sign it. Then the ministers said: 'It need not be enforced. Sign the document and let the decree be promulgated and merely held in terrorism over the heads of the rebels.' At a fourth meeting of the council some of the most distinguished French and Mexican generals were permitted to assist, and upon the full understanding that the decree of death was not to be enforced, but that on various pretexts lives were to be spared, his majesty signed the order, and only upon the condition I have named did the empress urge him to consent to its promulgation."

For the benefit of our countrymen who have never heard of this episode in Mexico's last struggle for liberty I beg leave to state that the substance of the imperial order, generally called "The Black Decree," was:

"If any Mexican taken in arms refuses to swear allegiance to the Imperial government, he shall be shot within twenty-four hours.

"MAXIMILIAN."

Boys of from 16 to 20 years of age and hundreds—some assert thousands—of patriotic men were murdered because they refused to take the oath of fealty to the emperor. It has been affirmed that the "Black Decree" occasioned the death of 8,000 Mexicans. Mothers have told me of their youthful sons, who, animated by patriotism, secretly left their homes and colleges to join the patriots in defense of their country and, having been taken prisoners, were shot a few hours after their arrest without being allowed even spiritual aid or consolation. colonels, captains, and others stating "There is no priest here." "We have no time to seek for godly counselors," etc. Some of these victims were even denied the meagre privilege of writing a few words of farewell to their parents and other dear ones—wives or children, officers brutally stating: "We can not furnish writing materials or undertake to transmit letters for hordes of rebels."

Maximilian bewailed his weakness when to late to stay the evil he had sanctioned, but Carlotta rejoiced in the death of those who refused to acknowledge imperial sway, and no sentiment of pity did she ever express for bereaved wives, orphaned children or soul-stricken parents. Therefore the women of Mexico in general say: "God punished her: her insanity is a judgment;" yet Maximilian is pitied—is regarded as a martyr to his wife's ambition.—City of Mexico Cor. Philadelphia Times.

How Fossils Are Deformed.

Dr. Heim, of Zurich, has suggested that fossils are often greatly deformed by the pressure of the rocks in which they occur, concluding that such distortions may have led Agassiz to an overestimate in distributing the fossil fishes of the older rocks into eighty distinct species.—Arkansas Traveler.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Miss Jennie Sexton, an accomplished beauty of Richmond, Vt., aged twenty years, is under arrest, charged with forging the name of John L. Mason to orders for $1300 on the Burlington savings bank. Miss Sexton claims that he authorized her to sign his name, and says he effected her ruin when she was but thirteen years old, and has maintained illicit relations with her ever since. Mason is a director of the Vermont Central railroad, and a prominent citizen.

DEATH OF EX-PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

Chester Allan Arthur, Ex-President of the United States, died at his home on Lexington avenue, New York city, at five o'clock A. M., on Thursday, Nov. 18th, after an illness of a year or more.

He was born at Fairfield, Franklin county, Vermont, Oct. 5th, 1830. Entered Union college, N. Y., at the age of fifteen, and graduated with high honors in 1848. Commenced the practice of law in New York city in 1852. At the breaking out of the rebellion he was appointed engineer-in-chief upon the staff of Gov. E. D. Morgan, and did yeoman service in forwarding New York troops to the seat of war. In 1871 President Grant appointed him to the collectorship of the port of New York, which position he held until removed by President Hayes in 1876. He was nominated for vice president on the ticket with James A. Garfield at the Chicago convention, June 10th, 1880, and succeeded to the presidency on the death of Mr. Garfield, Sept. 19th, 1881. After Mr. Cleveland became president, Mr. Arthur re-engaged in the practice of law in New York city, but was unable to give it much attention by reason of a complication of diseases which have finally ended his existence.

The Senatorship.

The Tribune reports Ex-Secretary William E. Chandler as expressing to his friends in New York, recently, the belief that he will be successful in securing the senatorship in this state. Mr. Chandler is not over sanguine in entertaining the belief. The legislature can but recognize that in choosing so able a man, one whose great energy, courage and industry, whose capacity for public usefulness is so well known, New Hampshire will be honored and the whole country benefitted. We have entertained a strong hope that Governor Currier would appoint Mr. Chandler to supply the vacancy in the senatorial delegation now existing, and trust that he will do so; but no matter who may be appointed at this time, he should have the unqualified support of every republican at the next session of the legislature.

Extended Storm.

A great storm prevailed in Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Wyoming, Minnesota, Michigan and Kansas, Nov. 17th. Over a foot of snow fell in some places, and railroad travel was wholly stopped in many sections. The thermometer was from four to twenty below zero in Colorado, and a blizzard prevailed over a large part of the territory visited by the snow storm. A number of marine disasters occurred on the great lakes.

The Labor Muddle at Chicago.

Not only is the matter of the strike in Chicago still unsettled, but also the relations of the local assemblies of the Knights of Labor to the central authority of the order. At the present moment it looks as though the local district assembly would order another strike, and this without expectation of support from the general order, but in the hope of aid from subordinate authorities. This discloses the utterly chaotic state of discipline in the organization, and that at present no reliance can be placed upon the wisdom or the power of Grand Master Workman Powderly. He has been from the first opposed to the Chicago strike. He thought he had settled it, and now the lesser tribunal unanimously refuses to submit to the agreement prefected. It is claimed that the packers have introduced new elements into the case. Even if that be so, the local body does not refer the matter to the central executive board, but assumes to deal with it conclusively upon its own motion. The business of the country is not dependent upon one board, but upon a thousand. The Knights of Labor are as yet a dissonant and a disintegrated set of folks.

Naval Intelligence.

The president on the 17th inst. appointed Pay Director James Fulton to be chief of the bureau of provisions and clothing, and paymaster general of the navy.

Commodore Beaman, inspector of the third lighthouse district, which embraces Bedloe's Island, is ordered to take steps for the lighting of the Bartholdi statue of Liberty as soon as possible. The light will cost about $850 a month, it is estimated.

How to Cook Your Thanksgiving Dinner.

Boston, Nov. 19.—The editor of the Globe has invited all his lady readers to send to him descriptions of the best manner in which to prepare the Thanksgiving turkey and "fixins," and these, in connection with recipes by the chief cooks of the leading Boston hotels, will be published in the next Sunday Globe. Other articles and stories pertinent to Thanksgiving will appear in next Sunday's Globe. There will be such a great demand for this issue that orders should be placed with the dealers to-day.

A gentleman who has recently returned from Canada says that the Canadian government is likely to encounter new obstacles in its efforts to maintain the cruisers to watch the American fishermen, in the matter of expenses. The recent Canadian balance shows that the government ran nearly $8,000,000 behind last year, and the expenses of maintaining the fishing cruisers is considerable. Prior to the purchase of the last iron steamer it cost the Canadian government $6000 per week to maintain this preventive and detective service. Six vessels were employed at an average cost of $1000 each, and it may be doutful whether the government will feel like continuing this large expense.

The jury in the case Wilson vs. Moen, in the United States circuit court at Boston, on the 17th inst. rendered a verdict. There were two claims in the case, Wilson demanding $96,000 of Moen, and Moen demanding $72,000 of Wilson. The jury threw Wilson's claim out, and found for Moen in the sum of $86,522.16, the amount claimed, with interest added.

No Monopoly.

The United States circuit court in Michigan, in a case against the city of Saginaw, has decided that a contract of a town to give a lighting company an exclusive right for many years to supply light for its streets and for the inhabitants is a monopoly, and it cannot be enforced. The city made a contract with a gas light company giving it the exclusive right to light the street lamps and supply the inhabitants with gas for thirty years, but in 1886 the council passed a resolution accepting a proposition from an electric light company for city and commercial lighting. The gas company sought to restrain the city and the electric light company from carrying out the contract, but the court held that the first contract was not within the power of the city to legally make.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 123 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of a title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall indorse their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration after the 15th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Holders of certificates of indebtedness are notified that the company will issue in exchange for certificates of indebtedness, par for par, $3,150,000 of preferred stock, entitling the holders to annually receive annual net earnings of the corporation to an amount equal to but not exceeding six dollars per share, payable in semi-annual instalments on the first days of March and September, in such sums as the directors may determine, in preference and priority to the common stock, provided however that certificates to the amount named are tendered in exchange and are deposited for that purpose with LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. or KIDDER, PEABODY & CO. of Boston, Mass., or the Company's Agents in London, by twelve o'clock of the twenty-third day of November current. As soon as practicable thereafter, the preferred stock will be delivered, or, if not taken to the full amount named, the certificates deposited will be returned. If bonds in excess of the amount named are tendered, exchange will be made pro rata.

Sterling bonds will be exchanged at par of exchange, fractional sums being adjusted by purchase and sale of fractions.

Each bond exchanged must have all unmatured coupons attached.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Cloudy, unsettled weather, local rains or snows, falling temperature and barometer, variable winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 32 degrees above zero.

INSPECTING THE KEARSARGE.

The naval board of inspection and survey, consisting of Rear Adm. James E. Jouett, president, Capt. Charles S. Norton, Chief Engineer Philip Inch and Naval Constructor Philip Hichborn, members, arrived in this city on Thursday morning, to inspect the U. S. S. Kearsarge, recently arrived home from the European station. Capt. Robert F. Bradford, captain of the navy yard, will assist the board by direction of the commandant, in compliance with a request from Rear Adm. Jouett. The board visited the ship on Thursday.

Two or three days will be consumed in the inspection of the vessel, which we think more than likely will go out of commission at this navy yard.

A GREAT PERFORMANCE.

Mr. Louis James and his talented wife have achieved the greatest success in their starring tour. They will be seen next Wednesday night at Music hall. Seats are now on sale at Goodrich's. Of the performance the St. Louis Republican says:

The Virginius of Mr. James was a veritable triumph which artistically has scarcely been surpassed. The role was superbly filled in voice, figure and action, and the rendition not only held the audience deeply interested from begining to end, but at times electrified it with splendid bursts of intensity and power. Mr. James' Virginius is great. Miss Wainwright's Virginia is a charming and strong piece of work and the performance of these two in the play makes the performance full of interest.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

A called meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 18th, Mayor Eldredge in the chair. Absent, Aldermen Urch and Russell.

The mayor stated that he had called the meeting in response to a numerously signed petition to have a new plank sidewalk laid on Lincoln avenue, from Miller avenue to Broad street. He further stated that the first wooden walk laid there was at private expense, and that it was taken up by the city on account of its having become dangerous through decay and breakage. It was voted to grant the prayer of the petitioners, provided they will pay the expense of laying the walk, the city to give for the purpose the planks now being taken up from the north millbridge.

Bills amounting to $1638.69 were ordered paid.

MARINE DISASTERS.

The schooner Daniel M. French, of Barnstable, Mass., Childs master, bound from Boothbay, Me., for Greenwich, Conn., with lumber, put into the lower harbor late on the night of the 17th inst., leaking badly. The master has noted his protest, and the vessel will be repaired here. She registers 191 tons, and was built in 1848.

The schooner Darius Eddy, bound from Salem, Mass., to Bangor, Me., in ballast, went ashore on the night of the 17th inst. on "Sunk rocks," off Concord point, at the western end of Foss' beach, Rye, and about two miles east of the life-saving station. The vessel is reported as probably a total loss, and the crew saved, they abandoning the wreck in their own boat during the night, and landing at Kittery Point.

The Darius Eddy was built at Brewer, Me., in 1867; she registered 141.5 tons, and was owned in Bangor.

The coasting schooner Emma A. Cutting, of Bath, Me., was on Thursday afternoon brought into this port by three men belonging to the crew of the fishing schooner Morrill Boy, of Rockport, Mass., and berthed at C. E. Walker & Co.'s wharf. The coaster was found abandoned off Hampton beach, being close in to the breakers at Boar's Head when first seen; as she appeared to be all right a boat was sent on board, sail made, and the vessel quickly extricated from her dangerous position. The Emma A. Cutting registers 71.6 tons, hails from Bath, Me., and was built in 1867. She is loaded with wood, and nothing was found to indicate the cause of her abandonment or the whereabouts of her crew, the deck load not being disturbed, as would have been likely to have occurred had she been slammed around much by a heavy sea, and the captain's trunk and the effects of the crew remaining on board. Both her anchors are gone, the parted chains being found hanging from the hawsepipes when she was picked up.

HIS RECORD IS TOO GOOD.

The Penny Post laments that Capt. Geo. W. Towle was not sufficiently appreciated by his fellow citizens of Newcastle to receive an election as representative to the General Court. The Penny Post should not forget that the democracy have never forgiven Capt. Towle for his loyalty to his country during the rebellion, when he raised a company to serve in the 10th Reg't N. H. Vols. The old stagers never have forgiven Alderman Hodgdon for his share in putting down the rebellion, and he has at last been elected to office in ward two in spite of, rather than through the efforts of, the political bosses, who at one time would not allow him to be chosen on the board of instruction.

Capt. Towle has been a faithful municipal officer at Great island. He has done the town great service, accepting positions in town affairs when the debt was oppressive and taxes high, and town affairs were in a confused and uninviting condition. He has been unselfish in his devotion to the interests of his adopted town, and deserved every honor in the power of her inhabitants to bestow. But he has been a war democrat, and when we see that even the civil service commissioners at Washington have decided against the Union veterans in the matter of promotion in government offices, especially in the custom houses, it of course must be apparent that no war democrat need apply for any aid or comfort even at this late hour. Except in isolated cases where the party managers cannot help themselves or there is a point to make, a war record in favor of the Union side is a bad antecedent for political honors outside of the republican party, and it always will be with this generation of democrats.

The Chronicle has seldom received a more saddening despatch than that which was placed on our bulletin board at an early hour Thursday forenoon, announcing the passing from this life of Chester A. Arthur, a man who, assuming the highest position in the world, that of President of the United States, under the most adverse circumstances and with the open and outspoken hostility of a very large majority of his own party papers, so worthily fulfilled his duties that when he retired from his exalted office and became again a private citizen, he carried with him the respect and good will of the entire people.

The Granite State Manufacturing Co. have rented the whole of the Association building on State street, including the Salvation Army rooms, and will utilize all the space for the accommodation of their rapidly increasing business.

There was a very handsome rainbow in the east, just before sunset on Thursday.

Rev. C. D. Hainer, pastor of the Court street Christian church, was on Thursday reported as being dangerously ill. One of his brothers, Rev. W. H. Hainer, arrived in this city on Wednesday, the 17th inst., from New Bedford, Mass.; and another, Rev. John A. Hainer, arrived from Millbridge, Me., Thursday evening.

Mr. John Caldwell, of Boston, has sold his part of the Rollins farm in Newington to Mrs. Margaret Prescott, a niece of the former owner of the place.

The schooner Jonathan Sawyer is discharging a cargo of coal at Sise's lower wharf, near the Spring market.

Mr. Daniel Littlefield has bought the standing wood on the Dow farm and the Rand farm, on Lafayette road, and will cut it off as soon as cold weather sets in, for sale at his wood yard on Green street.

The removal of the public library from its present quarters to Congress hall is mooted.

A Biddeford despatch says the directors of the Pepperell and Laconia manufacturing companies have endorsed the proposition to consolidate the two companies, with $2,550,000 capital, the consolidated stock to be exchangeable at the rate of three shares for one of Laconia, and seven and a half shares for one of Pepperell.

In the fur department, Lewis E. Staples is selling a good Black Hare Muff for 68 cts. All the different kinds of furs are shown at very low prices.

Capt. Asa McIntire, of Beech Ridge, York, born Aug. 12th, 1800, is still well and hearty. He rises at five o'clock in the morning, and works every day. He "pitched on" hay in the field in the summer, and is yet the champion fox hunter of the town.

A Provincetown despatch of the 17th inst. says: "The mackerel fleet now in this vicinity is meeting with poor success. Schooner Alice is high line of the Cape Cod fleet, landing 750 barrels and stocking $7,000. The traps are taking small lots of herring daily, which are used for bait and canning. Netters continue making good hauls of mackerel, the catch yesterday ranging from three hundred to four thousand per boat. The fish taken are the largest seen in these waters for many years."

The Dominion cruiser General Middleton, Capt. McLean, arrived at St. Andrew's, N. B., on the 16th inst. Captain McLean reported that on Nov. 12th he seized, in East Quoddy river, four Eastport, Me., fishing vessels, a schooner and three sloop-rigged boats, for violations of customs regulations. The fact of the seizure was wired to Ottawa by Commander McLean, who received orders to release the boats upon their owners depositing $20 for each boat. The deposits were made, and the boats released.

The case of the Gloucester schooner Moro Castle, which has been detained at Port Hawkesbury, N. S., for several months, is to be investigated next week. She is charged with minor infractions of the customs laws, but the original charge upon which she was arrested was smuggling, which is understood to have been successfully met by the owners of the vessel. The inquiry next week will be conducted by Customs Inspector Hill, and will be watched by Consul-General Phelan.

Practice of Shaving at Home.

The steady growth of the practice of shaving at home will soon revolutionize the trade of the city. Our customers fall off one by one, and only come in to have their hair cut, and there is a marked falling off in the receipts of all the best houses. It is difficult to account for a fashion, but it is probably due in part to the cheapening of razors and the general sale of good steels. It is argued sometimes that 15 cents is too much to charge, and that maintaining prices means killing the goose for the golden egg. There seems to be a good answer to that argument in the fact that for every American or German who shaves himself there are three Englishmen. These latter bring the custom with them, having acquired it in the old country, where the charge for shaving runs from 2 to 6 cents. Cheap rates there don't seem to have led to the discarding of home razors, and it is not likely they would have effect here.—Barber in Globe-Democrat.

Injection in the Heart.

Dr. Engram, of Buenavista, Ga., visited a negro woman who had a congestive child. He thought she would die very soon, but prepared some brandy and ammonia to inject hypodermically for temporary relief. When he returned to the patient she was pulseless, her heart had ceased beating, she was dead. As an experiment, he says, with no expectation of the results that followed, he inserted the syringe directly over the heart, and pressed it slowly until he thought that it touched that organ, and injected the brandy and ammonia. Very soon the heart began beating feebly, before long the pulse was perceptible, and at last accounts the woman was getting well.—New York Sun.

The Meaning of a Little Act.

Telegrapher's Paralysis.
Following is an interesting letter from one of the managers of the Western Union Telegraph company:
Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 12th, 1886.
I have been in the telegraph business, for the past five years have been troubled with what is called Writer's Cramp, or Telegrapher's Paralysis. At times my arm became so weak that I could not use it in sending dispatches, and had to use my left. Have spent many restless nights, the pain reaching from my hand up into my shoulder. Tried everything I could hear of, but with scarcely any relief. Having strained my left side a few weeks ago, I got one of Allcock's Plasters, as I usually do in such cases, and accidentally happened to see where some one had cured a weak wrist by using one of the plasters. I got another at once and cut it in two and put one half around my wrist. In less than two days after the pain had entirely left my wrist and arm, and in two weeks I could send nearly as well as ever. I write this hoping it will reach the eyes of others who may be afflicted as I was, as I know there are scores of them. W. S. CASSELL.

A Horrible Form
Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasma-born disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the liver, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

A number of bailiffs, protected by a strong police force, attempted to carry out an eviction process on the 18th inst. at Bally Cannion, county Kerry, Ireland. They were attacked by a mob of 500 persons, and after a severe battle the mob rescued the cattle seized by the officers. In the encounter a number of men were severely wounded.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED
expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Nashua, N. H., March 17, 1886.
For rheumatism and rheumatic afflictions I believe Athlophoros a most excellent remedy, it penetrates all parts of the body, driving out rheumatism and makes a sure cure if taken according to directions. It is a splendid tonic for a run down system, a condition rheumatism is sure to make of one's health. I heartily recommend Athlophoros to all suffering with rheumatism, it is a fine medicine.
MRS. A. C. WRIGHT, 43 Granite St.

Amesbury, Mass., March 3, 1886.
If I had depended on the doctors I believe I would have died, for they did me no good whatever. Rheumatism was the trouble and what a trouble it was, but now, thanks to Athlophoros, not to the doctors nor to the many other remedies I took, the rheumatism is kept off where it belongs. For two weeks I could not sleep, so severe was my pains; after a few doses of Athlophoros I felt relief and soon I enjoyed my sleep and rested very well. Gradually but surely the rheumatism disappeared, and to-day I can without the slightest hesitation say to anybody suffering with rheumatism, if you would be cured, don't wait to experiment with this and that cure, but take Athlophoros, it will do all it claims to do and will cure you. MRS. MARY E. GOODWIN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

THE CHINESE KITCHEN GOD.

Displayed in Chinatown's Restaurants—Charms—The Ancestral Tablet.

In restaurants and eating houses of the poorer class—and probably many housekeepers in this city have seen the same in their kitchens where Chinese cooks hold sway—there will be observed pieces of red paper with characters written upon them. The paper represents the kitchen god, and the hieroglyphics are his name—Tsznin. Sometimes the paper is white, and contains the likeness of the god and other figures of human beings and the lower animals. This is pasted upon a board and hung up. The devout cook burns incense before this, as well as candles, the first and fifteenth day of every month. Kitchens having these gods are, as a rule, more economically run than others, as the paper god is responsible for all that occurs, and is obliged to report to the great Yuh-Hwang, the "Pearly Emperor Supreme Ruler." If the lady of a house should ask her cook—presupposing him to be a churchman—where his kitchen god was, the first five days before the Chinese New Year, he would, in all probability, reply that he had gone to heaven to make the yearly report referred to above. Not only does John know that he goes, but the exact time. The day before the trip feasts are offered, and every attention paid him, for the honest purpose of getting on his right side, so that he will make a good report and overlook any little shortcomings that have occurred during the year; in other words, every attempt is made to conciliate or bribe this god of the kitchen. The moment he departs firecrackers are set off and incense burned, so that he may start in good humor, or, as a Chinaman put it, "Havee good send-off, alle samee Melican man's joss."

In nearly all the Chinese stores along Dupont and the adjoining streets will be seen pieces of red paper pasted on the wall. Nearly every laundry has one or more. On these are written, "the gods of wealth," and at certain times counterfeit or bogus money is burned before them—for the benefit of the paupers and beggars in the Chinese sheol.

Charms form a prominent feature of Chinese life, and these can be purchased in Chinatown in bewildering variety, and almost every Chinaman has one or more. These are purchased by tourists from the east as bric-a-brac or curiosities. One of the most common is a dagger about twelve inches long, made of coins of various kinds, and known as the sword charm. Brass mirrors can be purchased for a small sum that will cure mad people. The money dagger, that costs perhaps $1, is to hang on the bed or about the room to ward off malignant influences, demons, genii, and other troublesome possibilities. Other and less expensive charms are the leaves of the sweetflag and Artemisia joined in a roll, and near beds or bunks or over the lintel a branch or sprig of peach blossoms is often seen that will drive off the most powerful demon. Gourds, tiger claws and a thousand and one other objects are sold for the same purpose, rich and poor being, as a rule, equally superstitious.

The believer in Confucianism has many curious ideas. In almost any Chinese residence will be found an ancestral tablet, and sometimes these or their imitation are offered for sale in the shops in the city. The tablet is known as the Shin Chu, or home of the spirit, and, as a rule, is made of wood, about a foot in height and three inches wide—generally some fragrant wood is employed, and, owing to the rich ornamentation in the way of carving, the tablet is made up of three pieces—a solid pedestal and two upright sections. The back side often contains a niche, in which are placed pieces of paper bearing the names of ancestors. Before this prayers are offered daily, incense burned, etc.; the prayers not being, as one might suppose, for the dead, but being appeals made to them, the belief being that every man has three souls, which at death have different duties—one goes to heaven, another remains in the grave with the body, while the third takes up its abode in the ancestral tablet, and to this the prayers are offered, and the believer has the satisfaction of knowing that his ancestors become gods, no matter what their station on earth. The worship of ancestors at graves is not seen here, as the bodies are sent back to China; but there every April, on a certain day, the family tombs are visited and offerings made. The Chinese think we do the same on Decoration day; at least this is the impression of many. The prayers offered at the tomb of an ancestor are ready made and printed, and are not recited, as the bearer very naturally argues that the soul of the ancestor if it knows anything is aware of what is wanted, so it is simply burned at the tomb.—San Francisco Call.

Injurious to Agriculture.
It is estimated by those who have made the subject a study that the losses occasioned by insects injurious to agriculture in the United States reach the enormous sum of $400,000,000 every year.—New York Tribune.

His Soul in His Playing.
The truth of the whole matter is this: Liszt's whole soul went into his playing. Like Milton, music to him was but another name for religion. Like all great geniuses, moreover, he put himself into every effort—stamped with individuality every outpouring. His playing naturally could resemble none other in the world, just because there lived no second Liszt.—Temple Bar.

The President Recedes.

When Senator Vest called on Attorney General Garland and intimated to the administration in language that was plain that if the president insisted upon his order suspending District Attorney Benton of Missouri it would mean "War to the knife" between the president and the democracy of Missouri, Mr. Garland at once proceeded to the White House without stopping long enough to change his Hominy hall sack for a dress coat. Mr. Cleveland borrowed Daniel Lamont's democratic spectacles, and saw at once, by aid of this vision, the delegation of Missouri solid for some other candidate in the next democratic national convention. With a sigh of recollection of the good things said and done by his Massachusetts Mugwumpian supporters on his recent Harvard visit, Dr. Cleveland reluctantly determined, not that he loved mugwumps less, but democrats more, to cast aside his alleged civil service hobby and resume the role of a consistent democrat, and write in a "frank tone" to Benton that all was forgiven. In short, the federal officers can make speeches after office hours, and like the many office holders at the Granite State club supper in Manchester, "make a night of it" in their celebrations of victories, without being offensive to the administration! Thus it will be seen that Cleveland's professed civil service reform enthusiasm has been all along what the democrats have contended it was, a mere sop to the mugwumps, which the honest Buffalo politician has worked for all it was worth. Great is humbug.

A Lucky Man.

Mr. Arthur H. Barnaby, who held one-fifth of the ticket numbered 61,968, which drew the second capital prize of $25,000 in the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery company, held at New Orleans, Oct. 12th, is a travelling salesman of the Highland Foundry company of this city, and lives with his wife and children in a pleasant little cottage in Everett. When found by a Courier reporter, Mr. Barnaby said that he had been for six or seven years a regular patron of the Louisiana State Lottery, buying usually a ticket each month, and during this time he had now drawn no less than eight prizes. He was therefore not very much surprised when he took up an evening paper on the Saturday following the drawing, to find that his number had again been one of the lucky ones. He immediately telegraphed to New Orleans, to be sure no mistake had been made by editors or printers, and on Monday morning, after a day of doubt and anxious waiting, a reply came from Mr. M. A. Dauphin, saying the number was correct. A few days later the money was delivered to him by the Adams Express company. Mr. Barnaby is a young man possessed of much energy and perseverance, and notwithstanding this sudden windfall, intends to continue in his present business, and to work as hard and to practice the same prudence as heretofore. The $5,000 has already been wisely and securely invested, and will ultimately be expended in the purchase of a home for himself and family. He is a firm believer in the honesty and fairness of the lottery, in proof of which he says he intends to buy a ticket each month in the future the same as he has done in the past. "It is a very curious fact," said Mr. Barnaby, "that within the past four years four different men in the stove and furnace business in Boston have each drawn a part of a capital prize. First, there was Mr. H N. Hatch, who drew $15,000; then Joe Lyons of City Point, who got $10,000; then Mr. Holmes of East Boston, a young man in a stove store, drew only four months ago $15,000; and finally there's my $5,000, besides several other smaller amounts which I have drawn from time to time."—Boston (Mass.) Courier, Nov. 7th.

The funeral of Ex-President Arthur is to take place on Monday, Nov. 22d.

The Scientific American, advertised in another column under the head of "Patents," certainly needs no one to "sing its praises," but, notwithstanding this fact, we feel it an absolute duty to the general public, at least that portion of it which has never seen or heard of the paper, to tell them that such a "tone is published" at the low price of $3 a year, and that its true value cannot be overestimated. It stands at the head of all publications of its kind. A file of the paper may be seen at this office and subscriptions received.

We owe it to the children that we keep step with a share of new fashions and customs; home has more charms for them when this is the rule. It is also easier to keep them interested in helping about the house if there is now and then a change; the use of an extra room gives more pleasure than is offset by the extra care, and at any time more detail in table setting and the serving of meals tends to refinement of manners.—Mrs. A. E. Whitaker in New England Farmer.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire this receipt, in German, French, English, with the directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

The total amount of death claims paid during the week ending Nov. 12th by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, was $103,721.20, on twenty-eight policies. For every $1 paid in premiums on these policies the company returned $3.09.

"American Art Illustrated" for November opens with a description of an "article home" on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, where American art in pictures and like luxuries are plentiful, and good enough; "chats on art and artists in Japan" is continued, and also "round about sketches"; an article on American art glass as manufactured by W. L. Libbey & Son, of Cambridge, is interesting. The illustrations are fine, and the steel engraving, "bird design," is a gem.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 123 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Laudon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Ma s.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, as shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of a title to the registration of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall endorse their approval upon said Written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration of or the 13th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 8th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Holders of certificates of indebtedness are notified that the company will issue in exchange for certificates of indebtedness, par for par, $3,150,000 of preferred stock, entitling the holders to annually receive annual net earnings of the corporation to an amount equal to but not exceeding six dollars per share, payable in semi-annual instalments on the first days of March and September, in such sums as the directors may determine, in preference and priority to the common stock, provided however that certificates to the amount named are tendered in exchange and are deposited for that purpose with LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. or KIDDER, PEABODY & CO. of Boston, Mass., or the Company's Agents in London, by twelve o'clock of the twenty-third day of November current. As soon as practicable thereafter, the preferred stock will be delivered, or, if not taken to the full amount named, the certificates deposited will be returned. If bonds in excess of the amount named are tendered, exchange will be made pro rata.

Sterling bonds will be exchanged at par of exchange, fractional sums being adjusted by purchase and sale of fractions.

Each bond exchanged must have all unmatured coupons attached.

By order of the Board,

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The voting register of certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Eastern Railroad on Causeway street, Boston, Mass. Holders already registered are not required to register anew. Any holder not already registered can register personally at said office of said Eastern Railroad Company to Edward Leslie a written statement signed by himself of his name, address and the denomination and numbers of the certificate held by him. If the company shall at its option, the holder desiring to register shall also duly verify his title thereto by producing said certificates of indebtedness, or filing with the company the written order of the person last registered as the holder, or in such other mode as may be prescribed by the laws of Massachusetts and the regulations of the trustees.

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 8th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting, on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

Per order of the Directors.

THANKSGIVING SERMON.

All the pastors of the city were invited by Rev. Wm. A. McGinley to meet at the Congregational parsonage on Thursday morning of this week, to arrange for a Union Thanksgiving service. By unanimous vote Rev. Alfred Gooding was requested to preach the sermon, in the Unitarian church, on Thanksgiving day at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and Mr. Gooding consented to the request. A general attendance is earnestly desired at this ancient service of New England, at which, from time beyond memory, the themes discussed have been those in which all denominations have a common interest.

MARITIME NOTES.

The crew of the schooner Emma A. Cutting, reported in the Chronicle of the 18th inst. as having been brought into this port the previous day by salvors from the fishing schooner Morrill Boy, turned up all right. The Emma A. Cutting made the Isles of Shoals on the night of the 17th, and the weather being dirty and threatening, shaped her course for Portsmouth lower harbor, but was headed off by the veering of the wind, and jammed down on a lee shore. All practicable sail was carried in the endeavor to keep to windward, but a vessel with a high deckload of wood sails very much like a haystack—to leward best—and she gradually lost ground until about eight o'clock in the morning on the 18th, when she was found to be in six fathoms of water off Hampton beach, and both anchors were let go, and the chains paid out to the clinches. The position being one of much peril the schooner was then abandoned, the crew leaving in their own boat, and landing near Boar's Head under the guidance of a boat from the shore, which piloted them in. About 9:30 o'clock the schooner parted both anchor chains and drifted rapidly toward the beach, and when boarded by the men from the Morrill Boy she was among the decoys anchored off the headland by the sea-fowl shooters who were making a harvest there during the heavy weather, which drives the birds close in shore.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, of this port, bound from Windsor, Nova Scotia, to Georgetown, D. C., with lumber, put into the lower harbor Friday morning, having been disabled in the recent gale while off Cape Cod. She carried away her flying jibboom, foretopmast and main gaff, also splitting her foresail. She had a deck load of 280,000 laths, which caused such a strain on the vessel in the heavy seaway that she sprunk a leak about the water ways, and in an hour and a half had five feet of water in the hold. The deck load was jettisoned, when the seams in the deck closed up, and she was clear of water when she made this harbor. The captain noted his protest on Friday, and the vessel will probably be repaired here.

The schooner Darius Eddy, which went on the rocks off Concord point, Rye, last Thursday morning, has gone to pieces. Her crew were watching the beach on Friday to save anything of value which might come ashore.

The new schooner Lizzie J. Call commenced loading apples for Baltimore on Friday morning, and had a thousand barrels in her hold before work was knocked off in the evening.

The schooner John Lenthall, Clark master, sailed on Friday for Frankfort, Me., to load stone for New York, after discharging which she will take on a return cargo of coal at Hoboken for this port.

The schooner Clear the Track, bound from Damariscotta, Me., for Boston, with a cargo of bricks, went ashore on the rocks at Wood island, at the entrance to Saco river, during the storm on the afternoon of the 18th inst., and became a total loss; crew saved. The Clear the Track was an old vessel, having been built at Essex, Mass., in 1854; she registered forty-one tons, and was owned in Portland, Me.

A MAN WITH A GREAT FUTURE.

At Music hall next Wednesday night Mr. Louis James and Miss Marie Wainwright will be seen in "Virginius." Seats are now on sale at Goodrich's. The St. Louis Republican says:

Mr. Louis James and Miss Marie Wainwright had a very auspicious beginning of their season as stars in St. Louis at the Grand last evening. The play was "Virginius," a work which taxes the versatility of the star to an unusual extent, and Mr. James met the requirements admirably. He excelled as the loving father and the citizen. As the noble Roman, loving his child with intense devotion, he filled the realms of the highest art, his deep musical voice, which he used with effect, assisting him to the greatest success. The climax of the forum scene, at which, after the tenderest interview with his Virginia, he kills her to save her from dishonor, was superbly done, and the plaudits of the audience were unstinted. The character was most excellently enacted, and Mr. James cannot but be regarded as a man with a great future. Miss Wainwright was a most fair and simple Roman maiden, and between her love for her father and her affection for Icilius, she played the part with great beauty. Her bearing of fear, mingled with confidence in the powers of her father to save her from the hands of Appius, was exquisitely delicate.

Mercer Goodrich is in receipt of the "Old Farmer's Almanac" for 1887, being No. 95 of that interesting and readable periodical. The sun and tides have been regulated by this almanac for nearly a century, to the entire satisfaction of everybody.

Miss Mary Jenness and Miss Anne Frances Jenness of Middle street started last Thursday for New York, to embark Saturday on the steamship "La Champagne" for Havre; they are to pass the winter in the south of France. Mrs. John J. Pickering went to New York to see her sisters start on the voyage and they are accompanied across the Atlantic by their brother, Mr. J. Horace Jenness, who goes out to join his wife and family in the "American colony" at Paris.

The Boston & Maine railroad has recently received a new locomotive from the Manchester Locomotive works. It is named the Waushacum, and is designed for freight purposes.

The electrical works of Freyear & Razee at Exeter are closed for the present, owing to financial difficulties. John S. Fillmore, who has for some time been supplying the funds, has placed the business in the hands of receivers, E. G. Eastman and C. H. Knight. These gentlemen are to settle with the creditors. Mr. Fillmore will continue the business as soon as the financial matters are settled. It was the Freyear & Razee Co. that put in the experimental electric lighting apparatus in this city, some months ago.

We are authoritatively assured that Henry Austin, Esq., will not decline the office of register of deeds for Rockingham county, to which he was recently elected, the report that he would decline being without foundation.

Rev. C. D. Hainer was on Friday reported as having passed Thursday night more comfortably than several previous ones, and his relatives and friends were encouraged to hope for his ultimate recovery.

The pianist who accompanied with such skill and good judgment on the occasion of the Longfellow Dream Masque at Music hall on the evening of the 17th inst., was Miss Alice J. Hanscom.

The men who have claims against the government for pay for work on the navy yard, under the eight hour law, will be gratified to know that among the bills which will come up early in the coming session of Congress, and with good prospects of success, will be one to pay them the amounts so long wrongfully and in defiance of law withheld from them.

The Longfellow's Dream Masque at Music hall netted the Universalist society $130.

In the fur department, Lewis E. Staples is selling a good Black Hare Muff for 68 cts. All the different kinds of furs are shown at very low prices.

PENSIONS.

Rockingham county has 468 invalid pensioners, who are paid $3,886.25 annually; 136 widows, who receive $1,802; five minors, who have $72; ninety-seven dependent parents, who receive $1,160; eight veterans of the war of 1812, and seventy-night widows of 1812 war soldiers, whose pension is $924. Seven hundred and eighty-seven pensioners in the county receive $7,892.25. The pension agent at Concord paid during the year ending June 30th, 1886, in pensions, $2,263,269.11. There were filed for claimants in New Hampshire during the year above named 711 claims for pensions.

New Hampshire furnished 33,957 men for the war. The aggregate, reduced to a three years' standing, is 30,849. The total number of men furnished by all the states and the District of Columbia, including colored troops, but exclusive of the regular army, was 2,772,408.

Canada has within its borders 771 pensioners of the United States, who obtain $8,425.41. Germany has 310, Great Britain 380. Thirty-two other foreign countries have resident United States pensioners. The lowest rate of pension is one of five dollars a year, sent to an ex-soldier in Persia.

Chronic Catarrh

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My pastor advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. E. GINN, 1020 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Method of Preserving Bodies.

An account is given in The Revue Scientifique of an Italian method of preserving bodies in a soft and flexible state for several months, and by this means enabling them to be dissected without any danger to the preparator or anatomist. To this end they are placed in some sort of a receptacle or other, and covered with a layer of the thickest and purest honey that can be obtained. If it be desired to preserve an entire cadaver by this simple and inexpensive process, the plan pursued is to begin by carefully filling the encephalic, thoracic and abdominal cavities with a sufficient quantity of tannin.

The cadaver is then placed in a tub of honey, and covered with a layer of the thickest and purest honey that can be obtained. If it be desired to preserve an entire cadaver by this simple and inexpensive process, the plan pursued is to begin by carefully filling the encephalic, thoracic and abdominal cavities with a sufficient quantity of tannin.

This operation, which is very simple, is followed by a bath of the same substance, which, penetrating the tissues, ultimately replaces the fluids of the body. The cadaver is then placed in a tub of honey, and covered with a layer of the thickest and purest honey that can be obtained. It is stated to give remarkable results, a corpse thus prepared appearing for several months to be asleep. In a sense, the alcoholic fermentation that occurs under these circumstances serves it as food while preserving its softness and flexibility to a degree strongly resembling that of real life. When the fermentation ceases, a hardening of the parts occurs, and renders the artistic forms of the body still more marked.—New York Sun.

Too Many Orders

In a letter published in The London Times on the subject of foreign orders and decorations, "Medico" asks why the royal family is perpetually breaking the law in this matter. Nothing can be more strict than the application of the prohibition to distinguished servants of the British crown, who have honorably earned this slight acknowledgement on the part of foreign potentates. And yet the prince of Wales, who has never heard a gun fired in warfare, who has never saved a life, who has never done one single thing to qualify himself in any way for the distinction thrust upon him, is permitted to cover his manly bosom with eagles and lions and lambs, with crosses and stars, until an unknowing spectator would take him either for Marshal Moltke or the ringmaster at the Cirque d'Ete.

But a Small Portion.

On a first glimpse of the sea. "Astonishing! Who would have thought there could be as much water as that?" "True, and remember you only see what's on top."—Tid-Bits.

SULPHUR BITTERS

The Best and Purest Medicine EVER MADE.

It will drive the Humor from your system, and make your skin clean and smooth. Those Pimples and Blotches which mar your beauty are caused by impure blood, and can be removed in a short time, if you are wise and use the great blood purifier,

SULPHUR BITTERS.

Why suffer with Boils? Why have Carbuncles? Why have Scrofula in the blood? Why have Eruptions which your money will purchase a remedy for? Why have Pimples and Blotches on your face? Why have Rheumatism? Why have Neuralgia? Why have Kidney Complaints? Why have Dyspepsia? Why have Liver Complaint? Why have Dull, Heavy Headache? Why let your life be made miserable by these evils, when you can obtain a remedy at a cheap price? Ans. Because they know not of the existence of SULPHUR BITTERS. Why do they not know of it? Ans. Because they have not tried it. Why have they not tried it? Ans. Because some unprincipled dealer has persuaded them that some other article he has on hand is just as good, or else he has some other article that he can make more profit on, and they, being ignorant of the existence of SULPHUR BITTERS, and having no means of knowing, are induced to purchase the article he recommends. Now, we do not say that SULPHUR BITTERS will do all that is claimed for it, but we do say that we have sold it for years, and have never heard a word of complaint, but on the contrary have heard hundreds say it has done them more good than any other medicine they ever took. We do not say that it will cure everybody, for it will not, but we do say that it will cure more people than any other medicine, because it is a PURE, GENTLE, VEGETABLE PREPARATION, and can do no harm to the most delicate invalid. We do not say that it will cure Dyspepsia in all its stages, because there are many kinds of Dyspepsia, some of which are incurable by any medicine, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is composed of the purest and most powerful vegetable tonics and blood purifiers that are known to the medical profession. We do not say that it will cure Consumption in its last stage, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases of Consumption than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Consumption is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Fever and Ague, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Fever and Ague is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Cancer, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Cancer is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Piles, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Piles are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Rheumatism, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Rheumatism is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Neuralgia, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Neuralgia is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Kidney Complaint, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Kidney Complaint is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Liver Complaint, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Liver Complaint is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Female Weakness, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Female Weakness is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Nervous Debility, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Nervous Debility is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Sick Headache, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Sick Headache is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Costiveness, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Costiveness is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Boils, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Boils are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Scrofula, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Scrofula is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Carbuncles, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Carbuncles are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Eruptions, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Eruptions are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Pimples and Blotches, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Pimples and Blotches are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Ague in its worst form, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Ague is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Erysipelas, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Erysipelas is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Salt Rheum, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Salt Rheum is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Fever Sores, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Fever Sores are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Tetter, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Tetter is caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Tumors, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Tumors are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Ulcers, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Ulcers are caused by impure blood. We do not say that it will cure Humors, because it will not, but we do say that it will cure more cases than any other medicine, because it is a powerful tonic, and a wonderful blood purifier, and Humors are caused by impure blood. THE CENTURY

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN,

By his Confidential Secretaries, JOHN G. NICOLAY and Col. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the Life of Abraham Lincoln. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work, which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year.

THE WAR SERIES,

NOVELS AND STORIES.

The Hundredth Man, a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" etc. begins in November. Two novelettes by George W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorne, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors, will be printed during the year.

SPECIAL FEATURES,

(with illustrations), include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of Tent Life in Siberia, who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor Problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American Colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign, by Mrs. Oliphant; Chiroyoance, Spiritualism, Astology, etc. by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D. editor of the Christian Advocate; astrological papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. Dealers, postmasters and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24 page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc. including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. A specimen copy (back number) will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

Gov. Currier's Proclamation.

His Excellency Governor Currier issues the following proclamation appointing a day of public thanksgiving:

With the advice and consent of the Council, I hereby appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November instant, as a day of Thanksgiving, to be kept as such by the people of this state. I recommend that the day be observed with gratitude and thankfulness of heart, as a harvest festival and holiday, for the enjoyment of the many blessings that have rewarded our industry and obedience to the unchanging laws which a kind Providence has placed around us; that it be celebrated with such rational amusements and festivities as may fill the hearts of all with joy and gladness; that it be consecrated to the reunion of hearts and the rekindling of filial affections beneath the paternal roof, and around the hearths and family altars, where the days of childhood and innocence were spent, and where the sacred memories of a mother's love and a father's blessing still linger; and finally, that the day be employed in gathering up from the mementoes of the past fresh aspirations for what is highest and holiest in life, for as the fruits of the field are reaped from the sowings of spring and summer, so the harvest of life must be garnered from the good or evil sown along the pathway of existence.

Given at the Council chamber in Concord this eleventh day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eleventh.

MOODY CURRIER.

By his Excellency the Governor, with advice of the Council.

A Horrible Form

Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasma-born disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the liver, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

In but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are often most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass. June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

FUNERAL OF A FIRE-WORSHIPER.

At the Bedside of the Dying—The Tower of the Dead—Last Services.

When the medical attendant decides that a Parsee can not recover, a priest is sent for, who approaches the bed and repeats various texts from the Zend-Avesta calculated to afford consolation to the dying man. Prayers are also said for the forgiveness of his sins. When he dies, a funeral procession is preached, exhorting the friends of the deceased to live pure and holy lives that they may meet him in paradise. They are reminded that they must one day be called from this world to the presence of God to give a full account of their deeds here, and as they do not know how soon that may be, they are urged to be prepared for death, and to meet it with resignation and willingness. Riches, wealth, influence and friends will have no avail in the next world. Those who desire to reach the eternal paradise must spend their days here in holiness and prayer, and in doing good to their fellow-creatures.

The sermon lasts about an hour, and concludes with the words, "May God have mercy on the dead!"

The body is brought down to the ground floor (where it was born), washed, perfumed, wrapped in a white sheet, and placed upon an iron bier. A dog is brought to gaze at the dead face of his master to drive away evil spirits. Several priests attend, and repeat prayers for the repose of the soul of the departed, and that it may safely reach its destination, which it is supposed to do on the fourth day after death. The relatives and friends all bow low in token of respect, and the Nasasalar, clad in pure white garments (which are always furnished new for every funeral), raise the bier and bear the body from the house, while the mourners utter loud cries and lamentations. Priests in full dress lead the procession, in which are only the male relatives and friends of the deceased. They, too, are dressed in white, and walk two by two, each couple joined by holding a white handkerchief between them.

When the bearers reach the path leading to the door of the tower, they place the bier upon the ground and uncover the face of the dead, that the friends may take a last look, and all reverently bow, after which the mourners turn back, and enter one of the Sagri, and pray for the departed spirit. The bearers proceed to the tower and unlocking the door, carry their burden within, and quickly lay it uncovered in one of the stone receptacles. In two minutes they appear with the empty bier and white sheet, and the door is no sooner closed behind them than numerous vultures, that have been sitting almost motionless in a circle on the edge of the parapet, swoop down upon the body, and in a few minutes return and lazily settle themselves again, having left nothing behind but a skeleton. The bearers, on leaving the tower, proceed to a building shaped like a huge barrel, where they bathe and change their clothes, bringing out their polluted funeral garb and casting it aside upon a receptacle of stone prepared for the purpose. None of these garments can leave the garden, lest they carry contamination with them.

The skeleton is left to be bleached and washed by sun and rain, and when three or four weeks have passed, the same bearers return, and with gloved hands and instruments like tongs drop the bones into their last resting-place, the central well.

The peculiar duties of the Nasasalar are considered so inseparable from defilement that, forming a distinct class, they are compelled to live quite apart from the rest of the community, and as a partial compensation for their isolation they are liberally paid for their services.—Harper's Bazar.

Lead Poison in Canned Goods.

Canned fruits and meats are usually sealed with ordinary solder. Persons who habitually consume large quantities of such goods are in danger of lead poisoning. The glazing lining earthenware, especially that of the cheaper sort, and enameled kettles contain lead, as a rule, and the juices of fruits prepared or stored in such utensils are capable of dissolving appreciable quantities of the lead out of such glazes. The tin-foil in which many articles of food are wrapped, and in which chewing tobacco, cigars, etc., are preserved from becoming too dry, generally contain this metal in large proportion. The Chinese tea-chests are lined with sheet lead hardened with tin. It is easily seen how numerous are the sources of unsuspected poisoning by this material. Many of the powders and hair-dyes on the market are composed, to a large extent, of preparations of this metal.—Cor. Globe-Democrat.

Story of a French Bishop.

Mrs. Fremont, in her sketch of the life of her father—Senator Benton—tells the following of the French bishop at St. Louis at the time of the purchase of Louisiana. It was a point of honor among the older French not to learn English; but the bishop needed to acquire fluent English for all uses, and for use from the pulpit especially. To force himself into familiar practice, the bishop secluded himself for awhile with the family of an American farmer, where he would hear no French. Soon he had gained enough to announce a sermon in English. Senator Benton was present, and his feelings can be imagined when the polished, refined bishop said: "My friends, I am right-down glad to see such a smart chance of folks here today."—The Argonaut.

Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

OLD-TIME STORIES.

[We begin in this issue the publication of some interesting reminiscences of persons once prominent in this region, including Sir William Pepperrell of Kittery, and members of his family, Rev. Dr. Stephens, minister at Kittery, Judge Sewall of York, the Moodys, ministers at York, and others. These reminiscences were written previous to 1849, by a lady who at the time of writing was eighty-two years old, and who died at the age of ninety-one; they have never been printed, and from the fact that the lady was contemporaneous with many of the persons of whom she wrote, and on intimate social relations with them, the record is of historical value, aside from its sprightly and entertaining style.—Eds. Chronicle.]

It is so long since I have even thought of the persons and places you desire to be made acquainted with, my dear Mary, that I had almost forgotten their existence. It is true, I have an old, and rather a large volume, that contains a variety of recollections, but it is very much defaced by time, many sentences obliterated, and others in as cramped a hand as this I am now writing. But to gratify you, my dear Mary, I will try to render a page of it legible, and if it will give any pleasure, I shall be amply repaid, and will ransack my memory to say something about Sir William Pepperrell, too great a name to be forgotten by one unused to titles, and unacquainted with wealth and grandeur.

This gentleman was a son, and I think, the only son of very respectable parents, and from them inherited a very large estate. He was well educated, but early embarked in mercantile life, and obtained so thorough a knowledge of business that he accumulated a fortune which has never been exceeded in this part of the country. At an early age he married a lady of very respectable family and possessed of considerable fortune; she proved a most excellent wife, a very small woman, with small intellect.

Upon her marriage, her father wrote her a letter, which he had printed for the benefit of young married ladies, and she presented one to my dear mother. This letter would now be a curiosity. The writer descends to all the minutiæ of female employment, charges his daughter never to work one moment after sunset on Saturday evenings, and never to lay aside her knitting work without its being in the middle of the needle; always to rise with the sun; to pass an hour every day with her housekeeper; to visit every apartment from garret to cellar, to attend to the brewing of her beer, the baking of her bread, and to instruct every member of her household in their religious duties. How strange would a lady of the present day think of such instructions!

Sir William was uncommonly fortunate in business, and in all his undertakings. This spirit of enterprise was not only useful to his family, but to all around him; he was magnificent in his way of living, of a hospitable and social disposition, vain of his property, and oftentimes when the subject turned upon his wealth, he used to boast that he could walk from Kittery Point to Saco, (about thirty miles,) without stepping on an inch of land that did not belong to him.

Of a large family of children, only one son and one daughter attained the age of maturity; the others found an early grave. When the war between France and Great Britain occurred, Pepperrell was appointed commander of those forces that were raised in the New England Provinces, was present at the taking of Louisburg, and displayed great personal bravery as well as good judgment. Upon the conclusion of the contest he was knighted by George the Second, and the City of London presented him with a service of plate, and a table of solid silver. I have seen them; the table was sent to young Sir William, a grandson of the general, residing in London. It was considered so valuable, that Sheriff Moulton of Old York, with a guard of six men, well armed, accompanied it to Boston, where it was embarked for Liverpool in a ship then ready for sea.

I cannot omit to mention that Sir William, when he went to Louisburg, took with him as chaplain Reverend Wm. Moody of Old York. An entertainment was given directly after the surrender of Louisburg, to the officers, who had so bravely and honorably conducted the siege. Some of the young gentlemen expressed their apprehension that "dinner would be spoiled waiting for the chaplain's blessing." When all were ready, Mr. Moody lifted his hands and eyes to Heaven, and said:

"Lord! the mercies thou hast bestowed, and thy mercies and benefits, have been so wonderful, that time is too short to express our sense of thy goodness; we must leave it for the work of Eternity. Fill us with gratitude, and bless what is sett before us. Amen!"

So short and so comprehensive a blessing, was perhaps never expressed by a more pious man.

Sir William returned crowned with titles, honor and wealth; his business was in all respects successful, and his cup overflowed with happiness. His only daughter married Colonel Sparhawk, a gentleman of imposing appearance and elegant manners, a scholar, a man of fine sense, but by no means a man of business, and some have assured us that he was not the best of husbands. The son, Andrew Pepperrell, a fine, handsome young man, was engaged to be married to a young lady, Miss Waldron, the daughter of General Waldron, of Dover, New Hampshire. She became subsequently the wife of the Honorable Thomas Flucker, Secretary of the Province of Massachusetts Bay, and mother of the late Mrs. Knox. Two families so high in the world, so talented and so honorable, and with the consent and approbation of all concerned, about to form so important a connection, became the topic of fashionable life. Great preparations were made to celebrate the nuptials with a magnificence unknown in this country, but when all the preparations were completed, and the guests from a distance arrived, the bride that was to be declined giving her hand to young Pepperrell, assigning as a reason that she could not trust her happiness with him, because he was addicted to low company and low pleasures.

It is impossible to describe the disappointment, chagrin and regret of the unhappy family, the sorrow of the mother and sister, and the rage of the father. The end was more distressing; the disappointed lover returned to Kittery, in a state of mind little short of distraction, and two days after, when walking in the streets of Portsmouth, under the blazing sun, in the month of August, his career was suddenly arrested by a summons from the Conqueror of all men. He fell dead upon the spot, and his lifeless remains were carried to his afflicted family. Such was the heat of the weather, that it was found necessary to pay the last duties to him who had been the idol of his parents, the succeeding day. His body was placed in a splendid coffin, adorned with escutcheons, and all the paraphernalia of wealth and woe, and borne to the tomb that contained the ashes of his ancestors.

By the breaking of a crank pin of one of the engines at the Newmarket mills a week ago, the machine was quite badly damaged before it could be stopped, necessitating extensive repairs. On Saturday, the 13th inst., water was let on in the space between the old dam and the new stone dam, and before the water had reached anywhere near the top the masonry cracked in several places. The flow of water was shut off when it was found that one end of the dam had settled. It is said that the rain of Thursday, the 18th, has about ruined the dam. It has bulged out nearly three feet and the water pours through in many places. It will undoubtedly have to be entirely rebuilt.

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 123 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of his title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall indorse their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of use of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration of as the 25th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Holders of certificates of indebtedness are notified that the company will issue in exchange for certificates of indebtedness, par for par, $3,150,000 of preferred stock, entitling the holders to annually receive annual net earnings of the corporation to an amount equal to but not exceeding six dollars per share, payable in semi-annual instalments on the first days of March and September, in such sums as the directors may determine, in preference and priority to the common stock, provided however that certificates to the amount named are tendered in exchange and are deposited for that purpose with LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. or KIDDER, PEABODY & CO. of Boston, Mass., or the Company's Agents in London, by twelve o'clock of the twenty-third day of November current. As soon as practicable thereafter, the preferred stock will be delivered, or, if not taken to the full amount named, the certificates deposited will be returned. If bonds in excess of the amount named are tendered, exchange will be made pro rata.

Sterling bonds will be exchanged at par of exchange, fractional sums being adjusted by purchase and sale of fractions.

Each bond exchanged must have all unmatured coupons attached.

By order of the Board,

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The voting register of certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Eastern Railroad in Causeway street, Boston, Mass. Holders already registered are not required to register anew. Any holder not already registered can register on presenting at said office the said Eastern Railroad Company to Edward Leslie a written statement signed by himself of his name, address and the denomination and numbers of the certificates held by him. If the company shall so require, the holder desiring to register shall also duly verify his title thereto by producing said certificates of indebtedness, or filing with the company the written order of the person last registered as the holder, or in such other mode as may be prescribed by the laws of Massachusetts and the regulations of the trustees.

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting, on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

Per order of the Directors.

THE WEATHER.

For New England to-day:—

Fair weather, slightly warmer, variable winds.

The Thermometer at the CHRONICLE Office, at 4:00 o'clock this morning, indicated 30 degrees above zero.

CITY OF PORTSMOUTH.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Nov. 19th, 1886.

AS a token of respect to the memory of Ex-President CHESTER A. ARTHUR, on Monday, the 22nd instant, from nine o'clock until ten o'clock, a. m., during his funeral obsequies, the flags upon the city buildings will be displayed at half mast, and the bells will be tolled. The citizens are respectfully requested to close their places of business during that time. MARCELLUS ELDREDGE, Mayor.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Soldiers' & Sailors' Monument fund will be held at the common council room on Monday evening, Nov. 22d, at 7:30 o'clock, to hear the report of the committee on location of the monument.

MARCELLUS ELDREDGE, Chairman.

"WELL DONE, GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANT."

We are gratified that Rev. J. D. Waldron was last week able to announce to the committee of the First Freewill Baptist society in Portsmouth, whose church edifice is in Pearl street, that the last dollar had been fully paid on the mortgage of $2000 which was put upon the church in Elder Harmon's time. To achieve this result since Bro. Waldron's settlement as pastor of this deserving flock, his efforts have been exerted with a wonderful degree of success. He came to Portsmouth a stranger to us all, but he went about his work as a church debt-payer with most commendable zeal. He told the tale of the efforts of his people to maintain public worship and follow the scriptural injunction to owe no man anything. Since Mr. Waldron's work has begun, the principal sum of $1470, and accruing interest, has been paid. The following named are some of the principal donors, outside the parish, to whom the society desires to make a public acknowledgment of their sense of deep obligation:

Hon. Frank Jones	$300.00
Henry H. Ladd	100.00
Dr. E. S. Fay	50.00
Mayor Eldredge	50.00
Miss Charlotte Haven	40.00
H. F. Eldredge	30.00
James W. Goodwin	25.00
Mrs. Hannah Dixon	25.00
John P. Sweetser	20.00
Dr. F. E. Langdon	20.00
Wm. H. Hackett	100.00

Besides these there have been liberal contributions from many good givers in smaller sums,—men and women to whom the sum given was an amount by no means inconsiderable in proportion to their means. It is gratifying to see in our city this evidence on the part of people of all religious denominations of a desire that our stated places of public worship shall be maintained. It is in the interest of good order and sound morals that our places of worship should be kept open, and for those whose immediate interest is in thus providing an inviting place of Sabbath rest and enjoyment there is a peculiar satisfaction in visiting the house of God which is free from debt. The society and the pastor have deserved this recognition on the part of our townspeople, and we trust that their place of worship will long be enjoyed and largely attended. Rev. Mr. Waldron, during his pastorate, has proved a wise and energetic leader in Israel. He has been sorely afflicted, but has not been cast down. He early buckled on the armor when he came to Portsmouth, and has fought the good fight of faith. Verily he will have his reward.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Zach. Williams, started Friday on her last round trip between this port and Bangor for this season. Her regular routine, which has been carried out for years, is to run light to Portland, and there take a cargo of corn in bulk; proceed to Bangor and discharge, and load lumber for this port. Her previous trip was a very long one, owing to the long continuance of unfavorable and "catchy" weather. She made a quick run from here to Portland, took aboard her usual cargo of corn, and then laid there eleven days waiting for a slant to continue her voyage. After arriving at Bangor and getting her lumber on board, she was nearly a week on the passage up, having to dodge along from port to port all the way, instead of making a clean run of it the whole distance. Capt. Williams hopes for better luck this time.

The owners of the schooner Emma A. Cutting, which was picked up derelict off Boar's Head, Hampton, on the 18th inst., and brought into this port, settled with the salvors, (the crew of the fishing schooner Morrill Boy,) on Saturday, by the payment of about $265, as we are informed.

The gondola Sturgeon Creek, Capt. Nason, came down the raging Piscataqua from Rowe's brickyard at Eliot on Saturday with 6,000 bricks to A. Brackett Trefethen.

The barque Furness Abbey, Marcy master, from Cebu for New York, passed Anjier Oct. 13th.

The brick schooners Estella and Hattie Lewis arrived from Boston on Friday last, light, and proceeded up river to load. The Clara B. Kennard, Lillie, D. K. Ham and G. W. Raitt sailed for Boston on Saturday, on what will probably prove the last trip for some of them this season.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, at this port in distress on the passage from Windsor, Nova Scotia, to Georgetown, D. C., was towed up the river on Saturday afternoon, and berthed at Commercial wharf, where she will effect whatever repairs are necessary to enable her to complete her voyage.

Two sailors in a very hilarious condition drove down North street and across the north millbridge, Friday evening about 6:30 o'clock, at a high rate of speed, the horse being evidently encouraged to do his best by the melodious tones which, issuing from the throats of the drivers, made the evening air tremble. A heavy express wagon was standing at the side of the street near the Union cemetery, but the jovial seamen were oblivious to any such trifling obstruction as that, and the result was a collision which caused them to sail gracefully through the air to the ground, induced the song to suspend operations very suddenly, and broke one wheel and the whiffletree of the carriage. The well trained horse stopped in a moment when the crash occurred, and was led to the stable by a young man who was sober. The team belonged to H. R. Stoddard & Son. The sailors fortunately escaped any serious injury.

Sheriff Kent on Saturday received a letter from Chief of Police Tompkins of New Bedford, relative to William Hunter, arrested for mutiny on board a vessel in the lower harbor last week, and saying there is no truth in Hunter's story. He was arrested in Fairhaven, Mass., last July, for flourishing a revolver, and then told a cock-and-a-bull story about his brother being chief of police of Baltimore, Md. The New Bedford officials consider him a dangerous crank.

Mary A. Crowley died at the Cottage hospital about eight o'clock Saturday morning, from burns alleged to have been inflicted by her husband, Daniel Crowley, on the night of the recent election day. Crowley was sent to jail last week in default of sureties for his appearance to answer to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

The directors of the National Railway & Rolling Stock Co. of Concord held a meeting at the Rockingham house in this city on Saturday, and elected Hon. Eben F. Pillsbury of Boston treasurer.

In another column may be found a request by the mayor for the citizens to close their places of business from nine to ten o'clock this forenoon, during the obsequies of Ex-President Arthur. The bells of the city will be tolled, and the flags displayed at half-mast.

The second annual charity ball given by Storer Post, G. A. R., occurs Wednesday evening. The select concert by Chandler's band, in Franklin opera house, will be amply worth the price of admission. The object for which these annual balls are given, the relief of the charity fund, commends itself to all, and we trust there will be a large attendance.

A naval court martial was last week ordered to convene at the Norfolk navy yard on Nov. 22d for the trial of Captain John H. Higbee, of the marine corps, who is stationed there, on charges of drunkenness on duty. The following is the detail for the court: Captain F. V. McNair, Captain A. V. Reed, Captain N. H. Farquhar, Commander Nicoll Ludlow, Commander Francis W. Dickens, of the navy; Lieutenant Colonel John L. Broome, Lieutenant Colonel C. D. Hebb, Major Charles Heywood and Major G. P. Houston, of the marine corps; with Lieutenant S. C. Lemly, of the navy, as judge advocate.

The Boston Sunday Globe of Nov. 21st says: "We are requested to state that the engagement of Miss Ethel Whiton, daughter of Mrs. Whiton-Stone of South Boston, and Mr. Francis A. Wilson of Boston, is broken off."

Rev. James DeNormandie, of the First Church, Roxbury, Mass., and family, are settled in their new house, No. 45 Lambert avenue. Mr. and Mrs. DeNormandie are at home on Thursdays after three o'clock.

Services at St. John's church on Thursday forenoon (Thanksgiving day) at the usual hour, with communion.

An entertainment for the benefit of the Chase Home for Children will be given by the children of the home on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, at the home. A small admission fee will be charged.

The Gilman Poor, boss section hand on the Boston & Maine railroad, who was killed at Lynn, Mass., Wednesday of last week, by being run over by a train which cut him to pieces, was John Gilman Poor, formerly a section hand on the Eastern railroad between Great Falls and Salmon Falls, and a well known resident of Great Falls. Mr. Poor married a daughter of Andrew Whitehouse of Great Falls.

Mr. Willis T. Dodge, night editor of the Manchester Union, was in this city on Saturday, and as usual found his way into the Chronicle sanctum for a few minutes' chat; he is always a welcome visitor.

Emery Andrews of Kennebunkport has been granted a patent for the manufacture of parchmentized paper board.

Moses S. Milliken & Son, of Biddeford, retail meat dealers, failed last week, with liabilities of $25,000, and assets of less than $500.

—A rolling mill out in Detroit has had to suspend payment. It looks as if a rolling mill gathers no moss, too.

—A new western poet speaks of the "unwinking eagle." This is nonsense. The eagle is always a wing king.

—"A rolling stone gathers no moss," but when it is a grindstone it can just break the heart of the farmer's boy who wants to go a-fishing.

The U. S. S. Kearsarge, which arrived in the lower harbor on the night of Friday, Nov. 12th, from the European station, came up to the navy yard under her own steam at one o'clock Saturday afternoon, the 20th inst., and took a berth at the wharf near the Seavey's island bridge.

A Washington despatch says: "It is evident from the statements which have been made by the naval experts who were sent to examine the Boston navy yard that that yard is not to be abandoned, as was the original programme, but that it is to be made a depot for the bureau of equipment and recruiting. Under the new system it is proposed to make what may be called the minor yards depots for the separate bureaus of the navy department, so that the navy yards, taken together, will form one systematic whole, and supplement each other, instead of being rivals. This will be undoubtedly true of the navy yards on the Atlantic coast, between which easy communication is always possible by the transfer steamers."

The New York Tribune deplores the election of the Universalist minister McKinney to Congress from this district, for the reason that there is already too small a regard in Congress for the doctrine of a future reward or punishment.

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

☞ PERFECTLY TO THE TASTE, EFFERVESCING, INTERMEDIATE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, (6 FOR $5.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT BY MAIL, PREPAID, ON RECEIPT OF PRICE. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONTINENTAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY ASKING ANSWER AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

For Weak Women.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "About the first of September, 1881, my wife was taken with uterine hemorrhage. The best physicians the physician could prescribe did not check it and she got more and more enfeebled. She was troubled with Prolapsus Uteri, Leucorrhea, numbness of the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She told she could discover a salutary effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the Prolapsus, stomach's sickness, &c. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at every period. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are much improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefited and our hearts are drawn out in gratitude for the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sake we allow our names to be used." C. W. EATON, Thurston, N. Y.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1882. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequent in the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtues of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I am not a seeker after notoriety but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Drain Action in Children.

In The Archives de Pediatrics Dr. Warner remarks that in every attempt to control brain action in children, or to aid its action, two factors are needed—nutrition, and forces acting upon the brain directing that nutrition; a less coordinated, steady uniform kind of action may be desired—that is, the child may be healthy, but stupid, fat and very slow, strong, but inert—in which case town-life and more stimulating food may be needed. As to articles of diet, Dr. Warner says that meat, broth and beef tea appear to produce a stimulating effect upon the nerve-system of children, increasing the quantity and brain-stimulating quality of the blood; it may be specially useful in some cases of dull-brained children. But farinaceous foods, in contrast to meat, offer the choice of dietary of great importance, being less stimulating, more quieting, less suitable to excite brain evolution, more adapted for cases of nervous excitability, especially if combined with fats—in such cases hydrocarbonaceous rather than nitrogeneous diets being needed. Dr. Warner further states that arsenic, administered to children with their food, has often appeared to him to be a great aid to nerve growth.—Chicago Tribune.

How to Become Courageous.

Demand imperiously and persistently any quality of character in which you may be lacking, and you attract increase of such quality. Demand more patience or decision or judgment or courage or hopefulness or exactness, and you will increase in such qualities. These qualities are real elements. They belong to the subtler and as yet unrecognized chemistry of nature.

The man discouraged, hopeless and whining has unconsciously demanded discouragement and hopelessness. So he gets it. This is his unconscious mental training to evil. Mind is "magnetic," because it attracts to itself whatever thought it fixes itself upon, or whatever it opens itself to. Allow yourself to fear, and you open the door and invite fear in; you then demand fear. Set your mind on the thought of courage, see yourself in mind or imagination as courageous, and you become more courageous. You demand courage.—Prentice Mulford's "White Cross Library."

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

For young people is what the papers call ST. NICHOLAS. Do you know about it—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or buy it for a month, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of ST. NICHOLAS.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and no less faithful friend of Gen. Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and historic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding-House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama Was Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, H. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc. n20

The subscription price of ST. NICHOLAS is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautiful illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, &c., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New-York.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON.

I took pains to have customers report the effect of Athlophoros on rheumatism and neuralgia. The three first said it was marvelous, and through their kind words for it I have sold a number of bottles. C. D. Hunter, druggist, Marlboro, Mass.

At Grange City, Ky., Nov. 18th, Rev. Franklin Kessick, who preached a sermon on the previous Sunday denouncing drunkards and liquor sellers, was shot dead on the street by an intoxicated laborer named John Cundiff.

Bilious complaints, constipation, and nausea, are all relieved and cured by Ayer's Pills.

Mr. Fred Brown of this city will start next week for Minneapolis, Minn., where he will spend the winter.

Almost Killed.

I was almost killed by the doctors, who treated me for bleeding piles. It cost me over $100 without relief. I took Sulphur Bitters for two months, and now I am well.—Gus Hall, Troy, N. Y.

The store of W. S. Foster of Bartlett, Carroll county, was broken into Sunday night, the 14th, and a gold watch of the value of $150 taken, also a silver watch valued at $20, and a sum of money amounting to some $30. Suspicion rested on Joseph Berry, a Frenchman who had been at work for the water company, and he was arrested, and a portion of the money recovered. He was committed to the county jail at Ossipee in default of bonds.

Glass

Was invented in England by Benalt, a monk, 400 years A. C. A small glass of the renowned G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey will renew failing strength in the aged, and restore vitality and maintain failing powers. Its medicinal properties are established. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your druggist and grocer will indorse it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

The president has appointed Col. John Moore, who is now on duty at San Francisco, to be surgeon general of the army, vice Gen. Murray. Col. Moore jumps over the heads of a number of officers of longer and more eminent service, and higher rank, than himself; but they are all republicans, while he is an extreme partisan democrat. "Public office is a public trust," is President Cleveland's motto.

No woman can be contented and happy if her skin is covered with pimples and blotches. These disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is perfectly safe to take, and is a thoroughly reliable blood purifier.

Mrs. Reekie and her three children were asphyxiated on the night of Nov. 18th by escaping gas in Cuparfife, Scotland. The woman was about to leave for America with her children to join her husband.

The favorite washing compound of the day is unquestionably James Pyle's Pearline. It dispenses with the necessity for beating or rubbing the clothes, and does not injure the fabric.

Advices have been received in London to the effect that a ship crowded with native laborers, returning from Queensland plantations, Australia, to the Pacific islands, foundered in the Pacific ocean, and that 140 lives were lost.

The ladies all say nothing is perfect but the first baby and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The latter has no equal as a female remedy.

The Pinkerton detectives held for examination on account of the shooting of strikers a few weeks ago, at Chicago, Ill, have been discharged.

They cure pains and aches and strengthen the weak parts. Call for a Hop Plaster and get it. 25c.

Capt. Solomon Jacobs, one of the best-known fishing skippers out of Gloucester, Mass., has cleared out, it being charged that there is plain evidence against him for stuffing the ballot box at a democratic mayoralty caucus in that city last week.

The question of a proper food for infants interests all mothers; especially those unable to nurse their offspring. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisites as a substitute for mothers' milk, and is highly commended by the medical faculty of both Europe and America.

The eighty-sixth annual report of the Protestant Episcopal church in the diocese of this state will soon appear. The fund for the support of the episcopate has reached $39,358, an increase of $3,813. The statistical table shows confirmations, 213; communicants, 2,417; increase, 171; Sunday School officers and teachers, 179; decrease, 4; scholars, 1,231; decrease, 36.

Commissioner's Notice.

THE Subscriber, having been appointed by the Judge of Probate for the County of Rockingham, Commissioner to examine and allow the claims of the creditors to the estate of JOHN H. GRANT, formerly of Portsmouth, in said County, deceased, represented insolvent and six months from the ninth day of November, A. D. 1886, being allowed for that purpose, hereby gives notice that he will attend to the duties assigned him, at his office in Portsmouth, in said County, on Saturdays, December 18th, 1886, April 16th and May 7th, 1887, from three to five o'clock in the afternoon of each of said days.

THE CENTURY

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN.

By his Confidential Secretaries, JOHN G. NICOLAY and Col. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the Life of Abraham Lincoln. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES,

Which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year.

NOVELS AND STORIES.

The Hundredth Man, a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of The Lady, or the Tiger? etc. begins in November. Two novelettes by George W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorne, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors, will be printed during the year.

SPECIAL FEATURES,

(with illustrations), include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of Tent Life in Siberia, who has just returned from a more eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor Problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American Colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign, by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc. by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D. editor of the Christian Advocate; astronomical papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. Dealers, postmasters and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24 page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc. including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. A specimen copy (back number) will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

Muscular Rheumatism Cured.

Lyndhurst, Bergen Co., N. J., Feb. 19th, 1886.

I have been a martyr to rheumatism, which affects me in the back and over each lung. I was afraid that I had consumption, but upon examination my lungs were found to be sound. I then ascertained that I was suffering with muscular rheumatism, which was so bad at night that I could not sleep. I used an Allcock's Plaster on the small of my back and one under each shoulder blade. I renewed them every five days, and in a month I was entirely well.

If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Horrible Form

Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasma-born disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the liver, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass. June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

A BOY MUSICIAN'S BEGINNING.

Little Giuseppe Verdi and the Violinist —An Almost Fatal Mistake.

The little boy who was afterward to immortalize the name of Giuseppe Verdi one day heard a pedestrian violinist of the name of Bagasset, whose name you will kindly not confound with the name of Badinguet, the mason, whose name was given to the Emperor Napoleon III. Bagasset with his wretched old violin came to the village Roncole, and there scraping as best he could, unconsciously set fire to the powder mine in little Giuseppe's heart. Bad and common though the match was, the fire burned fiercely and rapidly and the child fell into such ecstasies that the "musician," who, though a very small one, had his vanity, was so pleased that not only did he return again and again to his inspired audience of "one," but he told the poor father that the best thing he could do was to make a musician of the child, that he would get glory and money out of him, and so earnestly did he preach that the father took the advice seriously into consideration.

I myself know an instance of a little boy who seemed to have a decidedly musical organization and was advised to learn music. Here comes a moment where I wish to give sincere and, I believe, desirable advice to parents. Just as I said that you will never make a pink out of a rose nor a flower out of an onion, so you will never make a musician out of a boy who has perhaps the stuff for a great painter in him or a sculptor out of a boy who might become a very respectable and prosperous tradesman. The boy I just mentioned had really some qualification for music, but what did they do with him? They took a piano teacher as cheap as possible, because "for a child anybody might do," and he bored the boy so with tedious studies that he began to cry every time the master entered the room. This is a very general and often fatal mistake. A bad master, who begins unintelligently, who gives the pupil bad habits, allows him to hold his fingers badly stretched so that they touch the keys with the flat part instead of the bent point of the finger, which alone gives a good touch, this first and paramount necessity neglected may spoil him forever.

So with the voice. I have seen numberless cases where a bad beginning, or a master encouraging shouting, or a bad way of holding the chin too high or too low, entirely spoiled the production of the voice. The boy in question, tolerably intelligent and gifted, was so bored by awkward tuition that the mother, seeing the child cry—a convincing argument, for a mother—gave up all idea, sent the master away, and sold the piano. But then came the warm rain—the opportunity. The child was taken to a concert where Vieuxtemps played, then himself very young. He so electrified the child in question that from that moment he made up his mind to study music. Next day he visited with his mother a lady amateur of great talent, who had a grand piano in her drawing-room, and the child went straight to the piano and, without tuition and preparation, sat down and from memory played, however, badly and irregularly, the greater part of the andante he had heard Vieuxtemps play the night before. The lady amateur listened without saying a word, but when the visitor took her little boy away, she whispered in her ear: "Mind you take him to a good master, not one who does not understand him; he will go very far." This was done, and the boy acquired some name in after days on the continent.—Temple Bar.

More Precious Than Gold.

Not a dozen people in this city could guess what was in a little cigar box that William A. Atkins, of Provincetown, Cape Cod, had under his arm when he was here. If you saw it on the sidewalk you would take particular pains to pass it by, but you would pass by a small fortune. The yellow and unpleasant-looking and unpleasant-smelling stuff is ambergris of the best quality, and it is worth more per ounce than gold. It is found only in the intestines of a deceased whale, and is used in the manufacture of fine colognes.

But one vessel this season has reported a find of this sort, and that is the schooner Antarctic, of Provincetown. A whale that she killed in Sanz bay, West Indies, last April, yielded thirty pounds of ambergris, and it has just arrived home. It is worth nearly $10,000, and is of more value than all the oil the vessel has on board. Mr. Atkins, who is the owner of the Antartic and is at the head of the whaling industry of Cape Cod, had a sample of it in his cigar box. As no other ambergris is likely to be brought home this year he has a corner on the market.—New York Market Journal.

The two satellites of Mars are pronounced by Newcomb by far the smallest heavenly bodies yet known. Their diameters cannot be stated with any degree of accuracy, but that of the outer satellite may be as small as five miles, while that of the inner satellite probably lies between ten and forty miles.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Breathe Through the Nose.

A physician at the Social Science convention recommended nasal respiration and the proper regard for perfect respiration and expansion for the lungs. The body often gains twenty-five pounds in flesh by the establishment of nose breathing.—Chicago Tribune.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

For young people is what the papers call ST. NICHOLAS. Do you know about it—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

ST. NICHOLAS for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great delight to the year 'round of ST. NICHOLAS.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of Gen. Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vived style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and historic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding-House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore H. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, H. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc. 250

The subscription price of ST. NICHOLAS is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc.

It is a strange fact that the strongest-minded women shrink from being caught in their own sight-caps, but they never hesitate to declare their exalted opinion of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup that has cured innumerable coughs and colds.

Rev. C. B. Crane, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Concord, last Sunday announced that he should not read Gov. Currier's Thanksgiving proclamation from the pulpit, as it contained no reference to the Supreme Being.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A notorious highwayman who escaped from a sheriff in Montana territory some months ago, while handcuffed, starved to death in the Big Horn mountains, his skeleton having just been found.

Glass

Was invented in England by Benalt, a monk, 400 years A. C. A small glass of the renowned G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey will renew failing strength in the aged, and restore vitality and maintain failing powers. Its medicinal properties are established. It is bottled by C. H. OLD-TIME STORIES.

Some author has said it is the fate of greatness to weep unpitied, but the aphorism did not hold here. In this sad case, the afflicted mother, mourning for a manly son,—a sister deprived of a fond, beautiful and brave brother, snatched from them in this sudden and melancholy manner, in all the pride of talent and riches, was a stroke that rendered every heart full of sympathy, and filled every eye with tears.

Sir William, I have been told, lost his gaiety and social qualities, seldom mixed with his fellow men except in business. Death had visited him; his house was the house of mourning, and for the first time, he began to prepare for an event that must in time arrive to all.

Judge Sewall, of York, then a young lawyer, was sent for to write the will that would convey his wordly possessions to his posterity, and the anxiety he displayed to secure the wealth to his grandchildren was expressed in every clause. It was entailed upon the third and fourth generation, and the name of Pepperrell was an appendage which every heir was obliged to assume.

Poor man, he thought it secure, but the best laid plans of mortals are often prostrated in the dust, which will eventually receive him, by the direction of the Most High, to whom the fall of a monarch is of no more importance than that of a beggar who asks alms at his gate.

Judge Sewall lived to see his prophetic fears fulfilled; two of Sir William's grandsons were to have been among our town's poor, but the good and worthy Humphreys arrested this degradation, and received them as members of his own family.

Andrew Pepperrell (H. C. 1743) only son of Sir William Pepperrell died 1751, aged twenty-six. William Sparhawk (H. C. 1766) took the name and title of his grandfather, Sir William. The house in which the baronet lived had no pretensions to elegance; a number of small, inconvenient rooms, but in every one of them was displayed the arms of the Sparhawk and Pepperrell families over the fire-places, and their crests blazoned on every door. The mansion of Lady Pepperrell was finished after the death of her husband, and combined both elegance and convenience, and the house of Colonel Sparhawk was really splendid, (built by Colonel Sparhawk's father.) It contained a number of apartments, spacious in size and height, while the furniture was handsome and costly. More than forty portraits, most of them full length, ornamented the walls and shone as you ascended the noble staircase.

Sir William also built a very handsome house for his unfortunate son; it was entirely finished, and ready to receive the bridal pair; and the afflicted parents never entered a dwelling that so forcibly reminded them of their bereavement. When soldiers were stationed at the Point, in the war of 1812, this house was occupied as a barracks, and such was the effect of party rage, that the windows were demolished, the paper torn from the walls, underpinning torn out and taken away, and a few years after the peace the house itself was blown down by a tempest, and when I visited Kittery Point I saw not a vestige of that noble building. The summer-house and garden, with the tomb, remained, as the melancholy memento of the frailty of human grandeur. I have said so much of Sir William that I must mention his death, and I am not chronologist enough to say what year that event took place, but I know the funeral was such as had never been before witnessed in this country. The body lay in state for a week; the house was hung with black; every picture in the house of Mrs. Sparhawk was covered with crape, and all of dark sable hue. A sermon was delivered at the meeting-house, the pews were covered with black, the procession was the largest ever known; two oxen were roasted (but not whole); bread, beer and spirits given to all the common people, while rich wines and richer viands covered the costly tables in the house that had once been the dwelling place of him who should know them no more, and to whom all earthly grandeur was as nothing.

Your questions respecting Handkerchief Moody will be but poorly answered; of him I knew but little; his talents, I have heard my grandfather say were of the first order, and in early childhood he was considered a wonder, but an unfortunate event gave a sad colour to his after life. When ten years old, while playing with a firelock, which he supposed not loaded, he shot his favorite playfellow—convulsions followed, and a fever for a long time threatened the life of young Moody, and though time and kind attentions restored him to health, perfect peace and serenity were forever strangers.

He no longer indulged in the sports of youth or the pleasures of friendship. His studies were never interrupted with a laugh, and although he excelled all his competitors as a scholar, he shunned all social intercourse, and confined himself to books, and the conversation of men of learning. At an early age he became a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in this Province, but I have been told that he never ascended the bench without trembling, and often declared, that if justice was attended to, he should stand at the bar and atone by a violent death the blood of the innocent he had shed. He married a lady by the name of Sewall, and although a good man, was by no means a desirable husband. After a few years he resigned his judgeship, and became minister of the Calvinistic church, and for many years before his death he wore his face covered with a handkerchief, for he declared, "no man should look upon the face of a murderer." This is all I can remember having heard of a man who died before I was born. The reverend chaplain of Sir William was brother of this unfortunate gentleman, and of him a variety of anecdotes were told which I have not time or skill to relate. He was indeed the chivalrous champion of Christianity and religion; he told everyone of their sins and vices, and endeavored to reclaim sinners by public exposure and ignominy. His sermons were very lengthy, and his prayers equally long, so that the whole of the Sabbath was spent at the meeting-house. He refused any salary, and chose to live upon the bounty of his people, and his family were frequently without the means or comforts of life. His lady was not always a willing partaker of the few and scanty blessings that rendered him perfectly happy.

Death of Charles Francis Adams.

Charles Francis Adams died at his home in Boston about two o'clock Sunday morning, the 21st inst., in the 80th year of his age.

He was the son of John Quincy Adams, and was noted for the coldness and reserve of his manners in intercourse with strangers; but his memory deserves well of his countrymen. With Stephen C. Phillips of Salem, Dr. John G. Palfrey of Boston, Charles Sumner and Henry Wilson, he started the Free Soil party, which subsequently led to the organization of the great Republican party. It was Charles Francis Adams who, in a speech in Congress in 1860, referred to the struggle between the slaveholders' party and their opponents as "an irrepressible conflict."

His greatest service was as minister to England from 1861 to 1868. In this position, one of the most trying in which a statesman was ever placed, his keen farsightedness, persistent courage and untiring devotion to the Union cause were of inestimable value to the nation. Subsequently, at the Geneva tribunal, he represented the United States; and unless he was more than human he must have felt a grim satisfaction at the award of that high court, which was not only a severe rebuke to England for her unfriendly and dishonorable conduct, but an international endorsement of the ground taken by Mr. Adams as minister, and sturdily maintained through all the years of the war in opposition to almost every member of the ruling classes of Great Britain.

For the past few years little has been seen or heard of Mr. Adams, the infirmities of age having occasioned his living in retirement.

Tribute to an Honest Man.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19th, 1886.

Ex-President Arthur outlived the petty abuse of political warfare which not many years ago was directed against him. Notwithstanding the signal services he rendered the government during the war, his detractors crossed the threshold of indecency to vilify him, because from his knowledge of men he was born a commander, and was influential in conventions. The purists in theoretic politics did not see anything in this kindly and unassuming gentleman worthy of their favor, and rejoiced at the unfust action of the Hayes administration in removing him from the collectorship of the port of New York. Yet that removal resulted in his elevation to the Presidency of the United States, the duties of which he performed with such rare discrimination and tact as to reunite a distracted party, and draw the homage of a nation, the admiration of political friends and foes alike. That the party which profited by his keen insight and modest dignity, refused him its endorsement as its candidate in 1884, was by no means a matter of censure or want of confidence. Such an endorsement was richly merited, and tens of thousands of his fellow citizens outside of party associates were ready to forsake their own organization, to testify their appreciation of his administration.

Gen. Arthur's besetting sin (vide the civil service reform demagogues) was his utter lack of their cold blooded characteristics, ingratitude and treachery. He knew of no reason for deserting a friend to reward an enemy, and had no sympathy with the idea that spoils should belong to the victims. He never believed a subordinate guilty of corruption because some dyspeptic hypocrite desired the subordinate's position. He believed with Gen. Grant that men not proved guilty should be regarded as innocent, a trait of a generous heart that none of his persecutors were possessed of. His friends remember with pride that a smaller percentage of employes was changed during his six years' incumbency of the collectorship, than during any one of previous administrations. His generous soul rebelled at the thought of disturbing faithful and efficient subordinates, skilled in their duties, at the demand of a few malcontents, who in those days were political strikers, in fact, steeped with malevolence of purpose, and mostly desirous of furthering their own designs of self-advancement by falsehood and abuse.

Gen. Arthur lived to see the day when these outlying guerillas of modern civilization were obliged to desist from their abuse, out of respect to the hearty sentiment of the nation expanded into an admiration for his generosity of disposition, modesty of deportment and admirable tact. No man who has retired to private life from the presidency ever did so with more sincere esteem on the part of his countrymen. In public as in private life, he was accessible to all who chose to confer with him, a whole-souled, generous-hearted citizen, never forgetting that he was a gentleman, forbearing and courteous, and possessed of a gentle dignity that naturally attracted and retained the friendship and support of those to whom he was best known. A grateful nation honors his memory. He had honest blood in his veins. G. W. M.

Choice Thanksgiving Stories.

BOSTON, November 23d. — Thursday will be Thanksgiving, and the Boston Daily Globe will do its part to make the day a pleasant one. Tomorrow, Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday morning, the Globe will publish Thanksgiving stories by Rev. E. P. Roe, J. T. Trowbridge and John Greenleaf Whittier. Everybody will want to read these stories by the most popular writers of the day.

A letter received from Capt. J. Albert Sanborn announces his arrival at Cayenne, French Guiana, Oct. 20th, in good health and spirits. Business prospects were entirely satisfactory; and personal observation, and information received from the intelligent foreign-born residents, had convinced him that the country is not the hopelessly unhealthy region which popular opinion regards it. The gold mines he went out to develope are 300 miles in the interior, and he was to start on the 6th inst. with a host of native canoe-men, on his trip up the rapids-obstructed river which reaches nearly to the mines.

The highly successful dancing school taught by Mr. Lamprey closed Monday evening with an exhibition ball in Franklin hall. The pupils and their friends filled the room, and the little dancers moved gracefully through the different changes, producing a brilliant and pleasing scene. Mr. Lamprey is justly proud of the success which has attended his long career as a teacher. We hope to greet him another year.

The bells on the Cabot street and Franklin schoolhouses were tolled from nine to ten o'clock, Monday forenoon, in obedience to the orders of Mayor Eldredge; but the schools were in session.

Mr. Charles E. Leach and wife have gone to Cambridgeport, Mass., to spend Thanksgiving with their daughter, Mrs. Frank Field.

Charles H. Hayes is storing large quantities of barrelled apples in the warehouse next to Boynton's bottling establishment on Bow street.

The wooden jackets of the drinking fountains in front of the postoffice and Franklin block were put in place for the winter on Monday.

Minute guns were fired on the navy yard, Monday, in honor of the memory of Ex-President Arthur. The flags about the city, and on the vessels in the harbor, were displayed at half-mast; and business was generally suspended during the hours set for the obsequies.

In some churches in our city quite a percentage of the congregation at the morning service enter after the conclusion of the invocation. As most of them have reserved seats they are not over-anxious to be present at the hour of beginning the service.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY,

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of his title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall indorse their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration after the 30th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Holders of certificates of indebtedness are notified that the company will issue in exchange for certificates of indebtedness, par for par, $3,150,000 of preferred stock, entitling the holders to annually receive annual net earnings of the corporation to an amount equal to but not exceeding six dollars per share, payable in semi-annual instalments on the first days of March and September, in such sums as the directors may determine, in preference and priority to the common stock, provided however that certificates to the amount named are tendered in exchange and are deposited for that purpose with LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. or KIDDER, PEABODY & CO. of Boston, Mass., or the Company's Agents in London, by twelve o'clock of the twenty-third day of November current. As soon as practicable thereafter, the preferred stock will be delivered, or, if not taken to the full amount named, the certificates deposited will be returned. If bonds in excess of the amount named are tendered, exchange will be made pro rata.

Sterling bonds will be exchanged at par of exchange, fractional sums being adjusted by purchase and sale of fractions.

Each bond exchanged must have all unmatured coupons attached.

By order of the Board,

EASTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The voting register of certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Eastern Railroad on Causeway street, Boston, Mass. Holders already registered are not required to register anew. Any holder not already registered can register on presenting at said office of said Eastern Railroad Company to Edward Leslie a written statement signed by himself of his name, address and the denomination and numbers of the certificates held by him. If the company shall so require, the holder desiring to register shall also duly verify his title thereto by producing said certificates of indebtedness, or filing with the company the written order of the person last registered as the holder, or in such other mode as may be prescribed by the laws of Massachusetts and the regulations of the Trustees.

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting, on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

The general committee on the erection of a Soldiers' & Sailors' Monument had a meeting in the city rooms on Monday evening, and the following report of the special committe appointed to consider available locations for the monument, and ascertain the cost of the same, was read:

The lot on Middle street opposite the house of Dr. May, and owned by the Rundlett heirs, can be purchased for this purpose for $10,000.

The Goodwin field on Islington street, opposite the residence of Mrs. Governor Goodwin, may be purchased for about $6,500, it being intimated that the owners would be willing to make a concession from this figure providing the lot was called "Goodwin Park."

The lot of land on the corner of Middle and Wibird streets, opposite the residence of Jos. P. Morse, Esq., can be bought for this use for $2,500.

A lot of land on State street, being the rear of the garden of the Barnes property on Mason's hill, may be purchased.

A lot of land on the left of Miller avenue is available for this purpose for $3,500 for the whole lot, of $2,500 for about two-thirds of it, including that part directly opposite Miss Morgan's seminary.

The Haven lot on Lafayette road, near the junction of Middle street, is not for sale.

It has been suggested that the monument be placed either in Langdon park or on Haymarket suqare. Both of these locations are in the control of the city, and it is presumed that they may be used for this purpose without cost.

Portsmouth, N. H., October 23d, 1886.

E. H. WINCHESTER,
D. J. VAUGHAN,
J. M. PARSONS.

Letters in relation to the Barnes property were read, stating that it would be sold at a less price for that purpose that for any other, but that an offer from the committee would be preferred.

Mayor Eldredge and Hon. John H. Broughton were added to the special committee, and the matter again referred to them. They were also instructed to consider the feasibility of erecting a Memorial Hall instead of a Monument.

Adjourned to the call of the chairman.

ANDREW PEPPERELL.

Editor of Chronicle: Your article in to-day's issue, under the head of "Old-Time Stories," has been read by me with great interest. Such reminiscences as these, of the early days of the settlements along the Piscataqua, form most appropriate historical material of much local value, for we cannot have too much light thrown upon the rapidly fading picture of Provincial New England. It is, of course, to be expected, that the attractive narrative style of the manuscript may be found slightly informal in some of its details, and I beg leave to call attention to several slips of this class, which should be noted in the interest of historical accuracy.

William Pepperell, Esq., created a baronet by King George the Second, in 1746, married (1723) Mary, daughter of Grove Hirst, Esquire, an opulent merchant of the Province of Massachusetts Bay, and likewise a niece of the wife of the Rev. Samuel Moody of York, whose maiden name was Sewall. This marriage was blest with the issue of four children: Elizabeth, Andrew, William, and Margery, of whom the two last died in infancy. Elizabeth Pepperell married (May 1, 1742) Nathaniel Sparhawk, of Kittery. Andrew Pepperell, her brother, who, as has been seen, was the only son who lived to maturity, resided for some years in Boston, and there met Miss Hannah Waldo, (not Waldron, as given in the narrative,) who was the daughter of the Hon. Samuel Waldo, one of His Majesty's Council for the Province of Massachusetts Bay. "They were betrothed," says Parsons, "in 1746;" who, referring to the erroneous stories spread by tradition, remarks as follows regarding its unhappy sequence:

"The lovers of romance are under no small obligation for the rich entertainment furnished them by several writers in their versions of this affair and of its sad catastrophe. But their materials were traditionary, and from the nature of the subject were liable to embellishment in their transmission. The narratives are so gracefully drawn that it seems hard and unkind to mar them with the weapons of sober truth. It is, however, due to the memory of the young lady to remove from her the imputation of fickleness and heartless coquetry which the authors of these stories have unknowingly fixed in the mind of every reader." Parsons then quotes voluminously from the Pepperell manuscripts and adduces abundant evidence to prove his case.

Andrew Pepperell, after his father, Sir William, returned as the conqueror of Louisburg, (1745) succeeded to the mercantile business on the Piscataqua. In 1751 the baronet wrote to General Waldo, in London, that he "now had every reason to hope that the long-talked-of alliance of their two families would soon be completed much to the joy of himself and family; that the nuptial day was appointed, and that his lady and family connections anticipated the pleasure of joining in the celebration."

"Miss Waldo," says Parsons, "was making preparation in a style becoming of the occasion and of the distinguished guests that were to attend; but a few days before the one appointed for the wedding arrived, Andrew wrote to her that circumstances had occurred which would make it necessary to cefer it to another day which he named as more convenient for himself. This was too much for her to bear; her mind was from that moment firmly fixed. She returned no answer; the guests from far and near, minister and all, assembled at the appointed hour and place, when she enjoyed the sweet revenge of telling Andrew that she would not marry one who had occasioned her so much mortification and who could not have that love and friendship for her that was necessary to her happiness."

It may easily be imagined that the families on both sides were filled with much chagrin and disappointment at this most unexpected outcome of an attachment which had been encouraged by them in every way. Less than six weeks later Hannah Waldo became the wife of the Honorable Secretary of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, at the West church in Boston. Parsons, speaking in palliation of Andrew's conduct, says that he would doubtless have been married to Miss Waldo in the autumn of 1748 immediately after the bans had been published, had it not been for a long protracted sickness which ensued and was followed by heavy losses at sea, which produced a settled state of despondency from which he probably never entirely recovered. * * * * * "On the 20th of February (1751) Andrew attended a gay party in Portsmouth, and in returning across the Piscataqua late in the night, was exposed to the cold air, which on the day following caused a fever that soon assumed a typhoid type." It resulted in his death (March 1, 1751) as appears by an elaborate obituary dated Portsmouth, March 14, and published in the Boston Evening Post.

Yours very respectfully,
JAMES RINDGE STANWOOD.

Portsmouth, Nov. 21, 1886.

FAITH HOME.

The report of the "Faith Home" for the year ending Sept. 30th, 1886, has been received. For ten years this beneficent charity has been quietly but effectively doing its good work, and it enters upon the new year under favorable conditions and entirely free from debt. This although there is no fund or endowment for its support, and no public appeals for aid, but all gifts the voluntary offerings of interested friends. Over $24,000 have been received and expended for the care of the inmates. Well done.

MUSIC HALL.

The sale of tickets for "Virginius" at Music hall to-morrow evening has been large, and a big audience is assured to greet Louis James in a character in which it is said he is the equal of the lamented McCullough, and in some points his superior.

MARITIME NOTES.

The dry dock at the navy yard was hauled out of the basin and sunk, Monday, in readiness to take up the U. S. S. Swatara to-day.

The Army and Navy Journal of last week announces that the boilers for the Swatara have been completed at the Washington navy yard, and shipped to this yard.

The new schooner Lizzie J. Call, Call master, finished taking on her cargo of apples for Baltimore, at Appledore wharf Monday afternoon.

The brickers Lillie, D. K. Ham, G. W. Raitt and Clara B. Kennard, arrived at Boston on Monday from this port.

The schooner Emma A. Cutting, Warren master, which was picked up abandoned off Hampton last week, and brought in here, sailed for Boston on Monday.

The steamer Mystic was temporarily taken off her route between Kittery and this city, Monday morning, to undergo her annual boiler inspection by the United States officials appointed to that duty. She was found all right.

The floating stage used as a landing for the steamer James Sampson at Brougton's wharf went adrift some time ago, and when last heard from was ashore on Gerrish's island.

The wreck of the schooner Darius Eddy, at Concord point, Rye, was on Sunday stripped of sails, rigging, light spars and all movables which could be get at, by the crew.

Kearsarge Engine Co., No. 3, had a meeting Monday evening, and contracted with E. S. Fay for a new uniform—blue coat, vest and trowsers—which will be worn for the first time at the company's ball on New Year's eve.

The Salvation Army officers recently stationed in this city are reported to have been ordered away by their superior officers, and it is considered doubtful if that special line of attack on the evil one's kingdom in this city is renewed. The army has not met with great success here.

The subject of Rev. Alfred Gooding's sermon at the Thanksgiving service will be "Our Confidence in Ideals."

In the fur department, Lewis E. Staples is selling a good Black Hare Muff for 68 cts. All the different kinds of furs are shown at very low prices.

Lydia E. Pinkham

CURES PROMPTLY THE MOST PAINFUL CURE FROM CONSTIPATION, OR BRUTALITY OF PERIOD. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONTAINS VALUABLE CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

For Weak Women.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "About the first of September, 1881, my wife was taken with uterine hemorrhage. The best physicians did everything they could prescribe did check it and she got more and more enfeebled. She was troubled with Prolapsus Uteri, Leucorrhœa, numbness of the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She said she could discover a memory effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the Prolapsus, Stomach's sickness, &c. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at the regular periods. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are much improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefited and our hearts are full to overflow with gratitude for the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sakes we allow our names to be used." C. W. BARTON, Thompson, N. Y.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8th, 1885. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequent in the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I am not a seeker after notoriety but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefited by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." A Case of Conjugal Fidelity.

A merchant of Athens was recently captured by Greek brigands who carried him off to the mountains, whence he wrote a letter to his wife recounting his misfortunes, and containing the following most important passage: "My ransom is fixed at 1,000 drachmas; if the brigands do not receive this sum by the 15th inst. they will cut off my nose; the 16th my ears; the 17th my upper lip; the 18th my lower lip, and the 19th, if the money is not forthcoming, they will kill me." The poor woman used her best efforts to procure the required amount, but it was not until the evening of the 18th that she had managed to scrape together the 1,000 drachmas for her husband's ransom. She then said to a neighbor: "My husband must look a perfect fright by this time. I think I will keep the 1,000 drachmas to make a better match.—Le Figaro.

To Save the Expense.

The Alleghenians are a frugal folk. A Pittsburg man advertised for a cook, and received this note from a citizen of Allegheny: "Dear Sir: I have seen your advertisement for a cook for three days in the papers. When you get what you want, please send the rest of the girls to me, as I don't care to advertise."—New York Sun.

New Hebrides Hair Dressing.

The inhabitants of Tanna have more of the negro cast of countenance than Papuan tribes usually have, but there are good-looking men and women among them. They paint their faces with red earth, which they get from the neighboring islands of Aneiteum and Erromango. They frizzle their hair, and the men especially carry hair dressing into a fine art. Dr. Turner says he counted no fewer than 700 separate curls on the head of one young exquisite! A small practice prevails on the other islands of Aneiteum, Nina and Futuna, and Dr. Livingstone has noted a somewhat similar practice of twisting the hair into innumerable small spiral curls among the Banyal of central Africa. The people of Tanna are fond of ornaments, but not of very much clothing. They do not tattoo, but they wear fearful and wonderful tortoise shell arrangements in their ears.—All the Year Round.

Mr. JOHN W. FURBUSH,

An Army Veteran,

who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken sick while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and a bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my back and around the lower portion of my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty at one time and free at others. Sometimes it pained me to void it, and again it was almost impossible to do so at all. Finally it began to pass many blood clots accompanied with the greatest strain and agony."

No less than 20 eminent physicians attended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am alive and well to-day, wholly through the wonderful power of Hunt's Remedy, which took me from the verge of the grave."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney, Liver and Urinary Diseases.

The funeral of Ex-President Arthur in New York on Monday was impressive in its simplicity; there being no elaborate display nor ceremonial. The attendance of prominent men was very large.

Mayor-elect Hewitt of New York, it is stated, will keep his seat in Congress during the month of December, to introduce a tariff bill. If Mr. Hewitt keeps his seat he will do far better than if he takes the floor. He himself is candid enough to admit that on the floor of Congress he is without influence.

A lot of postal cards sent to England from this country have been returned because they violated a provision of the international postal agreement, in that the addresses were printed on little slips and pasted on the cards, in the same manner that newspapers are addressed.

"I am selling your rheumatism and neuralgia cure—Athlophoros, and it is doing lots of good. The sales are increasing," Druggist George F. Smith writes in an encouraging strain from Searsport, Maine, concerning Athlophoros' good work in Maine.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Great Council of Red Men of New Hampshire was held at the Rockingham house in this city last Saturday afternoon to transact business of importance. Messrs. Littlefield, Coffin and Sillsbee of Portsmouth, and Messrs. Johnson, Rano, Harvey, Favor, Bond and Savoy of Manchester, were present; also Great Sachem Wentworth of Salmon Falls.

Bilious complaints, constipation, and nausea, are all relieved and cured by Ayer's Pills.

Mrs. Josephine McIlvaine McCauley, wife of Rear Adm. Edward Y. McCauley, died at St. Paul, Minn., on the 9th inst.

Almost Killed.

I was almost killed by the doctors, who treated me for bleeding piles. It cost me over $100 without relief. I took Sulphur Bitters for two months, and now I am well.—Gus Hall, Troy, N. Y.

Alfred Pierce of Limerick has obtained his papers for a pension, on account of his son, who was in the army. He receives $2,136 back pay, and $12 a month.

No woman can be contented and happy if her skin is covered with pimples and blotches. These disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is perfectly safe to take, and is a thoroughly reliable blood purifier.

Among the candidates for the office of department commander of the G. A. R. in Maine this year, is D. Horace Holman, formerly of this city. Mr. Holman has filled the office of assistant adjutant general of the department.

The favorite washing compound of the day is unquestionably James Pyle's Pearline. It dispenses with the necessity for beating or rubbing the clothes, and does not injure the fabric.

Two cottages at Old Orchard, one owned by Ferguson Haines and valued at $1,000, and the other owned by Mrs. Moses Blanchard of Manchester, N. H., and with its furniture valued at over $3,000, were burned early last Friday morning, probably by an incendiary fire.

The ladies all say nothing is perfect but the first baby and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The latter has no equal as a female remedy.

The schooner Long Island, a small vessel owned in Oyster Bay, L. I., drifted ashore at Sea Cliff, L. I., Nov. 21st, with all sail set and no person aboard. There was evidence of a desperate and murderous struggle on her deck and near the wheel; and the schooner's boat was missing; also the captain's money and clothes. She carried but two men, Thomas D. Carpenter, who was the master, and a seaman named Henry Frank.

They cure pains and aches and strengthen the weak parts. Call for a Hop Plaster and get it. 25c.

The Detroit base ball club is to leave the national league because of dissatisfaction with the new rules.

The question of a proper food for infants interests all mothers; especially those unable to nurse their offspring. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisites as a substitute for mothers' milk, and is highly commended by the medical faculty of both Europe and America.

THE CENTURY

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN.

By his Confidential Secretaries, JOHN G. NICOLAY and Col. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration—important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES,

Which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year.

NOVELS AND STORIES.

The Hundredth Man, a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of The Lady, or the Tiger? etc. begins in November. Two novelettes by George W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorne, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors, will be printed during the year.

SPECIAL FEATURES,

(with illustrations), include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of Tent Life in Siberia, who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor Problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American Colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign, by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc. by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D. editor of the Christian Advocate; astrological papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. Dealers, postmasters and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24 page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc. Including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. A specimen copy (back number) will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

For many years the December issues of Harper's Magazine have been distinguished by an unusual wealth of choice reading and pictures, with a special emphasis upon Christmas subjects. Rich as have been the previous numbers, the one about to be published stands easily at the head of all the goodly company that for nearly forty years have entertained and enlightened innumerable readers. It is a royal banquet of refreshing variety, with sturdy staples, rare novelties, and delicious dainties worthy of the generous holiday saint. Everything is complete in itself, the serials being omitted from this number. Beside the strongest attraction of "The Boyhood of Christ," by the author of "Ben-Hur," the Howell's farce, "The Mouse-Trap," Gibson's delightful "Wood Notes," and the bounteous departments of confidential discourse, of literary judgment, and of overflowing humor, presided over by the geniuses of G. W. Curtis, W. D. Howells, and C. D. Warner, we are regaled with six short stories (four of them beautifully illustrated,) and five illustrated poems. Of the abundant cuts, twenty-five occupy full pages, and four are printed separately on plate paper. Notwithstanding the unparalleled richness of this number, we are assured by the publishers that it is only a Christmas form of the exalted standard which will be uniformerly maintained throughout the year; and the magnificent prospectus detailing the coming treasures gives a splendid promise to the volume begun by this number.

Exertion Necessary With Coming of Winter.

On Tuesday, Oct. 12, 1886, the 197th Grand Monthly Distribution of The Louisiana State Lottery came off with its accustomed regularity. The sum of $255,5 0 went far and near, and this was the result: No. 36,412 drew the First Capital Prize of $75,000; it was sold in fifs at $1 each; one to Charles J. Herrmann, a young shingle maker with the Lewis L. Arms Shingle and Lumber Co. of Muskegon, Mich., paid to him in person; one to Wm. H. Turner, No. 298 Randolph st., Chicago, Ill., through Southern Express Co. at New Orleans; one to J. N. Low, with the N. Dak Elevator Co., Jamestown, Dak., through Lloyds, banker of Jamestown; one to the London, Paris, and American Bank, Limited, of San Francisco, Cal.; one paid through Adams Express Co. to a party in New York city. No. 61,983 drew Second Capital of $25,000, also sold in fifths at $1; one to Mrs. Mary Louue, through Bank of Ridgeout, Smith & Co. of Oroville, Cal.; one to Collin Kitchen, No. 318 S Cherry street, a watchman with the Richmond & Danville R. R., Richmond, Va.; one to R. M. Whiteside, Cisco, Texas, paid Wells, Fargo & Co's Express; one to Jno. M. Manning, No. 11 69th st., N. W., Washington city, D. C. (a young law student here); one to Arthur H. Barnaby, No. 37 North st., Boston, Mass. No. 1759 drew Third Capital of $10,000, also sold in fifths at $1 each; one to E. T. Babbitt, Dennison, Tex. as through Merchants & Planters Nat'l Bank of Sherman, Texas; one to G. W. Jackson of Brownsville, Tenn., through Southern Express Co.; one to Dow & Boyle, Mojave, Cal., through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express; one to Farmers & Drovers Bank of Louisville, Ky. Tickets Nos. 26,144 and 73,293 drew Fourth Capital Prize of $6,000, sold in New York city, Chicago, San Francisco, Carthage, N. C., and Mascoutah, Ill. So the wheel of fortune turns. The next Drawing (the 198th Grand Monthly and an Extraordinary Quarterly one) will take place Dec. 14th, when the Grand Capital Prize of $150,000 will be given to some one. M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give all information on application. Remember the approach of cold weather encourages exertion, and try it on.

A Horrible Form

Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasma-born disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the bloud, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.

Carlton House, Boston, Mass. June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

Heat Holidays for Schools.

The Basle government has just issued a new regulation for the Hitzferien in the Basle schools. When the temperature rises to 20 degrees (Reamur) in the shade at 10 o'clock in the morning, holiday is to be proclaimed to the scholars until the afternoon. Two such holidays were proclaimed during the heat of the summer, to the no small delight of the boys and girls, whose jubilant greeting of the announcement could be heard from the open windows of the Gymnasium.—Foreign Letter.

New Idea in Railroading.

A car called the "spotter" now goes over the Central road at given periods. It is provided with a tank of colored fluid, and when the wheels roll over a rough place in the track the fluid is spilled on the spot. It is so arranged that the track superintendent can, while seated on the inside of the car, view the track and thus detect any flaws that may exist.—Mohawk Valley Democrat.

ALL ABOUT GLASS CUTTING.

Its Hard Work—Very Expensive for Poor People—Strong and Careful Workmen.

"There are six processes for cutting glass," said the manager. "The first is termed roughing. An iron wheel, on which sand mixed with water drips continually, digs out the pattern. As there are only a few lines traced on the glass whereby to go, this is a very difficult task. All glass cutting is done by crossing certain straight lines at certain points. If, in glass cutting, the wheel moves slightly from the line the whole piece of glass is ruined. The workmen are therefore compelled to keep their eyes on their work all the time. The glass itself is made in Baccarat, Germany. It is the finest glass made. It is termed metallic because a large part of it is silver. It is bought by the pound and is very expensive in the bulk. It is, therefore, no easy task to hold it free, as these workmen do for hours at a time.

"The second process is called smoothing. The wheel used for this is made of Scotch Craigeth stone. Water runs freely on it as it revolves. It smooths out all the rough edges on the lines which have been dug out in the first process.

"After this comes the different modes of polishing. A wooden wheel and powdered pumice stone are used first. These take out the wrinkles on the surface of the glass. Then follows a brush and putty powder. Lastly, a buff wheel, made of nearly fifty pieces of canton flanel and rouge. The pieces of flannel are loose, but the machinery causes them to revolve so rapidly, about 3,000 revolutions to the minute, that the wheel seems as hard as a board. This last process not only polishes, but imparts a beautiful gloss to the surface of the glass. Then it is finished and ready for our counters down stairs.

"There have been very few changes in the art of glass cutting for centuries. Except that we now use steam instead of foot-power, we have no advantage over the cutters of 200 years ago. There are only two manufacturers of the rough metal in this country, and their glass is of inferior quality. Workmen have to serve a long apprenticeship before they master the trade. An expert workman receives high pay. It is very close, confining work and makes them all look pale. A great many Swiss and Bohemians are employed. The cutting of lapidary stoppers is the most difficult work. It requires the greatest exactness because there are so many diamond shaped figures in a small space. Very few can do this work well. There is one old man in this country who is looked up to by all the other workmen. They say he carries a charm. He is the most expert cutter of lapidary stoppers in the country. Not only does he cut them all perfectly, but he gives them a finer polish than anybody else can. He is closely watched by his fellow workmen, who say they have observed him take something from his pocket and rub the stopper with it. He has been offered large sums for his secret, but has always refused to sell it.

"Colored cut glass is very expensive. The color is put on in the same way as silver plate, and then part of it is cut away. It leaves the blended effect of color and no color. Many customers bring us original designs which they wish made. Many of them are very odd, and some are impossible to make."—New York Mail and Express.

Grace Darling's Only Sister.

Grace Darling's only sister died recently in her little home under the shadow of Bamborough castle, within sound of the wild waves that beat against Holy island and the rock that wrecked the Forfarshire. The simple and pious old lady to the last, like the heroine herself could not understand why so much had been said about the plain act of duty which made the family name immortal. She has been laid in the seaside churchyard, close to the sistet who died so young forty years ago, and whose marble effigy lies in the sea wind and sun, with her oar upon the folded arm. A gray stone wall divides the thin grass of the holy ground from the bleached and pallid growth of the sand dunes. For the dark and strong basalt of this Northumbrian coast, into which is built the tremendous pile of the castle, is everywhere heaped with the sands of many storms. If ever there was a "wide-watered shore," straight out of Milton's visionary mind, it is this.—New York Home Journal.

OLD-TIME STORIES.

Mr. Moody was the uncle of your excellent grandmother; he had the honor of educating her, and taught her lessons of self-denial, which she has told me were of great service to her in after life. She continued under his care until she became the happy wife of your good grandfather, who for half a century was a settled minister in Old York. His preaching and practice were in conformity with the doctrines of his religion, which for so many years he continued to adorn.

Of the parsonage at Kittery Point—I am only fearful of becoming tiresome in answer to your question: Where is the habitation? The house, as I have always thought, resembled the description of one in the "Deserted Village." A small, neat and fanciful yard, or to speak in more modern terms, the court in front entered upon a garden, where flowers, fruit, vegetables and box, were arranged in such a charming and regular manner, that it rather had the appearance of an ornamented, than a useful spot. From it, we had a view of Newcastle, a part of Kittery, Rye and Portsmouth; the noble Piscataqua river sparkled in the sun, as it passed this sacred domain, and within appeared

"The whitewashed wall, the nicely sanded floor,
The varnished clock that clicked behind the door."

A few pots of flowers were arranged in the old-fashioned window-seats; in one corner books lay upon the table, while a tea-sett of China occupied the centre of another, placed under a mirror between the windows. Several pictures hung over the fireplace and on the walls, one of which was, I think, a portrait of Mrs. Stephens. The hearth was as bright as paint could make it; the fire-irons black, except the steel tops, which were polished to the brightness of a diamond; the small bellows, brush and tassal attached to a bell, are before me as vividly as when I first entered that sanctuary of virtue and wisdom, at ten years old, when I thought it the most delightful I had ever seen.

Doctor Stevens was, I think, the first clergyman in Maine that was honored by that title; learned, wise and honorable, his manners polished, his language pure and refined, he united, in the fullest sense of the words, the pious Christian, the scholar and the finished gentleman. He was all but worshipped by the poor, sought by the rich, and respected by all. Possessed of a respectable property from his father, the salary was a minor object in his settlement. His wife was, I think, the sister of Judge Trowbridge, with a small fortune at her own disposal, from one of the first families of Massachusetts, a small but handsome person, with pleasing manners. Her health always delicate, she seldom knew a well day after she became a mother, and the doctor was left a widower in the meridian of life, with one daughter. His sentiments accorded with his conduct, for he never sought a second connection, though several ladies were pointed out as well fitted to supply the place of the one he had lost. He once told my mother, when the subject was forced upon him, that a minister should be blameless, the husband of one wife, that the tie that bound him to his wife was not dissolved by death; that she had only gone before him, and had left a precious pledge of her affection; a flower to be cultivated with tenderness and care, and not exposed to one rude blast from which he could shield her. These, as far as I can recollect, were his words, repeated to me by my mother, who always held up Miss Stephens as a pattern of every female virtue. We often heard her compared to Harriet Byron, the favorite heroine of Richardson; without vanity, she was admired for her talents, which had been cultivated by her father; beloved for her sweetness of temper; her absence from selfishness, her candor and sincerity, a dutiful daughter, as well as an affectionate friend. The doctor came to the Grove one morning, and my mother, observing a shade of sorrow upon his venerable countenance, with her usual frankness inquired the cause. "I have this dry encountered a severe trial; I have refused to give my daughter to a man I think truly deserving of her, and what has added to my pain, a gentleman whom I know she prefers to any one she has ever known. My only objection is, that he is an Englishman, and she must, if she married him, reside in England, and I cannot consent to a separation, and I have desired her never more to admit his visits. She is now at Judge Cutt's for the day, but will, if you will permit it, be with you early this evening, and pass to-morrow, as I have to attend an ordination." Miss Stephens was received in the evening with that pleasure her visits always gave. She frankly told my mother that she had left home fearful that she might be tempted to disobey her father. She afterwards married Dr. Buckminster, and was one of the happiest of women. He was an excellent man, and one of the handsomest I ever saw. But short, though brilliant, was her career. In a few years she fell a victim to that insidious disease so fatal in this country:

"The pale consumption gave the dreadful blow;
The event was fatal, though the effect was slow."

She left a son, with whom you were well acquainted, and who was indeed, worthy of being the son of such parents. You are not now to be told that Doctor Buckminster married your very lovely Aunt Mary; I knew and loved her, but it was not that reverential kind of love I felt for Sally Stephens.

Another Big Thief.

William Reed, treasurer of the South Boston horse railroad, is under arrest for stealing $100,000 of the road's funds, and over-issuing stock to the amount of another $100,000.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

Burglars entered the Boston & Maine railroad station at Rochester on the night of Nov. 21st, blew open the safe, and got $200. The job was evidently done by professionals.

The Eastern railroad bondholders met in Boston on Tuesday, and elected Charles R. Codman to the vacancy in the board of trustees.

The quarterly report of the receiver of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad was filed in the office of the United States Circuit court in this city on Tuesday.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Nov. 23d.

We notice in the Kittery correspondence of the Biddeford Journal, last week, comments on the entertainment recently given for the benefit of the Free High school. Seldom has an attack been made, not only upon one but several of our good citizens, which has created a more general stir. The audience at that entertainment was composed of many of our best people; ladies and gentlemen such as are capable of judging for themselves, and who would not be likely to be pleased with "cheap and vulgar attempts at wit." The young ladies who took part in the affair are as refined and modest as any to be found on the coast of New England, which is as high as the standard need be raised. If the author of that double-barrelled article, written with the attempted ease of a ready and practiced writer, has never in his life set a worse example to his own or his neighbors' children, than did the able principal of the Kittery High school in rehearsing and taking a part at this entertainment with some of the most praiseworthy young men of the place, then will the coming generation have due cause to "rise up and call him blessed;" on the whole we opine that a minstrel show in a public hall, to say the least of it, is no more objectionable and much more pleasant to the participants than a free fight in a church vestry, an occurrence of the recent past.

Mr. Herbert Davis of Rochester, N. H., a student at Bates college, Maine, is teaching the winter term of school in district No. 3, North Kittery, which commenced Monday, the 22d inst.

Hon. N. A. Luce of Augusta, state superintendent of public instruction, is expected to lecture here in the interest of education early in December.

Carroll C. Bartlett is to teach the winter term of school in district No. 12.

A Mr. Tarbox, of Kennebunk, will teach the winter term of school in district No. 2, North Kittery.

Horace Mitchell, Jr., will teach the grammer school, and Miss Edith Amee the primary school, in district No. 5, Kittery Point, for the winter term.

The following scholars of the Austin grammar school, dist. No. 9, were not absent a half day during the term ending Nov. 19th: Flora Ferrald, Gertrude Pinkham, Jennie S. Lydston, Lillie Williams, Albert N. Gilson, Bertram F. Moore, Clarence Prince, Lawrence E. Remick. This school is taught by Mr. William L. Fernald, and the primary department by Miss Florence E. Sanderson; both are now enjoying a week of vacation, which according to a new arrangement they now have Thanksgiving and Christmas weeks. SUB ROSA.

Hon. J. B. Neally of South Berwick lies dangerously ill at his residence from a complication of heart and kidney troubles, and but slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Biddeford Journal says: "A second movement is being made in the town of Old Orchard to locate a permanent business there in the form of a shoe shop. The first attempt came so near being a success that the lot was obtained, most of the money subscribed for buildings and machinery, and proposals for building called. The evil genius of labor trouble, which has so persistently followed the shoe shop in New England, has been felt in Maine with most discouraging effect. The extension has, for the time being, been stopped, and the business already established greatly curtailed."

Edward C. Stickney of this city, champion dumb-bell lifter of New England, has an engagement for the winter at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in Boston.

The democrats of Boston "view with alarm" the nomination of George E. McNeil as a candidate for mayor on the part of the labor element of Boston. The republicans are calculating their chances of throwing a plurality of votes for their candidate. The result of the election will depend upon how many labor votes will be taken from the democratic party. The amount of blarney now used in behalf of O'Brien is almost unlimited.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of a title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall indorse their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration after the 15th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

"VIRGINIUS" AT MUSIC HALL.

This evening, at Music hall, Louis James appears as Virginius, and Miss Marie Wainwright as Virginia. Both the artistes named are known to our playgoers as experienced and pleasing performers, but we are not aware that either has appeared here in tragedy,—certainly not as tragic stars; but the press comments from other cities are so universally commendatory that we cannot doubt their entire success. Mr. James is by many called the best Virginius on the American stage since Gustavus V. Brook, and Miss Wainwright is credited with being an ideal Virginia. The Albany, (N. Y.) Argus says:

They were called before the curtain once or twice after every act, and both had to come to life after their sad deaths to bow in acknowledgment of tumultuous applause. With so many second rate actors continually striving to shine as stars, only to meet with well deserved eclipse, it is a pleasure to record the merits of these two talented artistes and to express a hearty wish for their success. They bring genuine gifts and well trained energies to the parts they interpret, and make no claims that they cannot substantiate. * * Miss Wainwright was charming from the first, winning her auditors by her rare beauty before she was given a chance to reveal her thoroughly artistic methods. It was a sweet, dignified and womanly portrayal.

Tickets at Goodrich's; see advertisement.

AN OLD STAND'S IMPROVEMENT.

The building on the corner of Market and Ladd streets, occupied by Pryor & Matthews as a hardware and paint store, has just had a new and handsome front of iron and glass, put in. The building was erected in 1800, and for eighty-six consecutive years has been occupied by dealers in hardware and paints, the list of occupants being as follows.

John K. Pickering, Dr. Goddard, Richard Jenness, Bennett & Treadwell, George L. Treadwell, John H. Bailey & Co., John H. Bailey, and Pryor & Matthews.

The building is now owned by Mrs. John A. Bailey and Miss Fannie A. Bailey. Yeaton & Hodgdon were awarded the entire contract for making the recent improvements; A. B. Trefethen did the mason work, and Colley & Moore the painting. The columns are painted and sanded to resemble sandstone, the bevelled edges being gilded; the sashes are painted bronze green, and the glass is French plate. In the corner column was placed a sealed tin box containing local papers, silver coin and other articles of interest, of date 1886.

The improvement in the appearance of the store is very great, and the enlarged show-space in the windows will enable the enterprising young men who occupy it to make a more attractive display of their large and carefully selected stock of goods than ever before.

ANOTHER RAILROAD LAWSUIT.

Mr. M. M. Cunniff of Boston, and other holders of stock of the Eastern railroad, have begun a suit in equity in the supreme court of Massachusetts against the Eastern railroad corporation, the prayer of the bill being for an injunction to restrain the officers of the road from carrying out the announced plan of exchanging certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $3,150,000 for preferred stock. The plaintiffs claim that the proposed issue is unlawful and void, and in violation of the rights of stockholders, for the reason that the indebtedness cannot be decreased in that way. The plaintiffs also pray that the net earnings up to Sept. 30th, 1886, amounting to $436,000, shall be required to be paid into the sinking fund, as provided for in the act creating the certificates of indebtedness, until said debt is reduced to $10,000,000.

END OF THE WORLD.

Rev. C. R. Crossett, formerly pastor of the Advent church in this city, now pastor of the Arlington street church in Manchester, last Sunday in the pulpit referred to Gov. Currier's Thanksgiving proclamation, but said he would not read it because God was not recognized in it. His sermon, which occupied nearly two hours in the delivery, was on "Tarrying Time," and was an attempt to demonstrate that the second advent of Christ is an event near at hand, and that the mistakes of 1843 and '44 were in the light of prophecy. The central thought of the sermon was that the present is the tarrying time, which will end, according to Mr. Crossett's calculations, in two or three years, probably in 1889.

LYNN MILK CAR.

The Lynn Milk Co., whose notice to farmers can be found in another column, is a corporation established for the purpose of buying milk in the rural districts on the line of the Boston & Maine railroad, and retailing it in the larger cities in eastern Massachusetts, primarily in Lynn. This company has for the past twelve years run milk cars between Lynn and Hampton, at which latter place a new ice-house is now in course of erection for its needs; and it is proposed to extend the operations of the concern to this city, at this end of the Eastern road, and to Boston at the other end, provided milk enough is offered to make it an object to compete for a share of the Boston business. The milk car from this city is intended to be a permanent institution in any event, the company having nearly the exclusive control of the milk business in Lynn, which demands year by year a larger supply than is now obtainable without extending operations eastward of Hampton.

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

The schooner Loring C. Ballard, Bearse master, with the boilers for the Swatara, arrived at this navy yard on Tuesday from Washington, D. C., and hauled under the shears to discharge.

The Times of the 23d inst. says: "It was expected that the Galena would be docked to-day, but just as the arrangements were nearly completed, it was found that there was some defect in one of the boilers on the dock, of such a nature as would not allow one of the pumps to work, and the docking had to be given up." It is expected the Galena will sail about the 15th of next month.

THE CHARITY BALL.

This evening, at Franklin hall, the grand ball in aid of the charity fund of Storer Post, G. A. R., will be given, with music by Chandler's band of Portland, one of the finest musical organization in New England. Preceding the grand march, an hour's concert will be given by the band in Franklin theatre, one ticket ($1 each, for a gentleman and two ladies) admitting to both concert and ball.

Aside from the superior attractions offered, the Post deserves a large encouragement on this occasion. It would surprise most of our citizens to know how very much is done by this organization in the way of charity, silently and unostentatiously,—the comrades, most of whom are poor men, and all whom served their country bravely in its hour of dire need, often having to put their hands more deeply into their own pockets than public gratitude should allow them to do, in aid of distressed ex-veterans or their families.

If you do not care to hear a tune or trip the light fantastic toe this evening, buy a ticket anyway; you are not likely to find any method of applying a dollar where it will do more real good, or be more judiciously expended.

MYRA GOODWIN'S RETURN.

Miss Myra Goodwin, who as "Sis" gave unlimited satisfaction to a Music hall audience some weeks ago, will appear there again on Friday evening of this week, and no doubt will be greeted by a full house. She is a charming singer and exquisite dancer, is strongly supported, and her play is chock full of innocent, unobjectionable fun. This is what the Worcester (Mass.) Times of the 19th inst. said of her:

She came upon a stage where Lotta, Maggie Mitchell and Annie Pixley had been before her: Yet so natural, so piquant and artistic were the specialties and acting of this little lady, that she at once became a favorite. Lotta in her palmiest days never equalled this lady's versatility. Maggie Mitchell in her wonderful shadow dance, looks decrepid beside the nimble Myra Goodwin. Annie Pixley, though a favorite, cannot play the banjo with her.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Daniel M. French, Childs master, which put into the lower harbor on the 17th inst., leaking badly, was towed from Curtis' wharf, Newcastle, on the 23d, to Kittery, to discharge her cargo and go on the railway for repairs.

The gondola Hard Chance was on Monday loaded with coal for Newmarket from the schooner Jonathan Sawyer, at Sise's lower wharf, and started up river late in the afternoon. The gondola Alice hauled alongside the schooner to load for the same destination, as soon as the Hard Chance got away.

Thomas Symonds, of Leominster, Mass., has been awarded the government contract for widening and deepening the Cocheco river, and the work will be commenced in April, 1887.

Mr. C. M. Gignoux received on Saturday, the 20th, a subscription of fifty dollars for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument fund, and on Monday, the 22d, another of twenty-five dollars for the same object.

The general delivery of the post-office will be open on Thanksgiving day from eight o'clock to half-past ten in the forenoon, and from six to half-past six in the evening. The box-office will be open all day.

The bond holders of the Eastern railroad who went to Boston on Tuesday found the city in a moist condition.

The hearing in case Fairbanks, assignee, vs. the Amoskeag national bank, before Judge Colt in the United States Circuit court on Tuesday, was postponed to December, by reason of the illness of Mr. Wood of New York, one of the plaintiff's counsel.

A journal devoted to mechanics gives an interesting description of the manner in which steam whistles on railway locomotives are keyed. The difference in the sound is made by the height of the bell. All are regulated by certain mechanical rules. The prolonged whistle sometimes given by the shareholders when they find themselves frozen out is not described; that note needs to be heard to be appreciated.

Rare bargains in jewelry, watches, etc., can be secured at the Collateral Loan Co.'s sale in Boston next week. Don't miss it.

MILK CAR.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 22d, 1886.

To the Farmers of Portsmouth and Vicinity:

THE LYNN MILK COMPANY will commence on Wednesday, Dec. 1st, 1886, to run their Milk Car from Lynn through to Portsmouth, N. H., for four months, and have made arrangements with the Boston & Maine Railroad for a permanent milk car from Portsmouth to Lynn after April 1st, 1887, to run in connection with their other milk business. This affords to the Farmers of Portsmouth and Vicinity an opportunity to dispose of their milk to a cash customer. Further information in regard to this matter will be furnished by John Mooney or Nathaniel E. Winn of Portsmouth, Charles O. Cook of Hampton, or Geo. W. Southworth, Manager Lynn Milk Co., 39 Summer St., Lynn, Mass. n24,2w,62t

Chronic Catarrh

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1020 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure

For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

PLEASANT to THE TASTE, EFFICACIOUS, INTENSIFIED AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. In Liquid, Pill or Lozenge Form, ($1 for $5.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT BY MAIL. Lydia E. Pinkham

For Weak Women.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "About the first of September, 1881, my wife was taken with uterine hemorrhage. The best styptics the physician could prescribe did not check it and she got more and more exhausted. She was troubled with Prolapsus Uteri, Leucorrhœa, numbness of the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She said she could discover a memary effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the Prolapsus, Stomach's sickness, &c. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at the regular periods. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are much improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefitted and our hearts are drawn out in gratitude for the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sake we allow our names to be used." C. W. EATON, Thurdon, N. Y.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I am not a seeker after notoriety but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to p rsuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." FREBA C. ROOP.

Living on the Sea

The kind of food used at sea at the present day is much improved on what it was formerly. Not so much reliance is placed on salt provisions. Canned meats and vegetables are more largely used. The quantity is abundant, and the cooking, while perhaps not always calculated to agree with a seasick person, is usually quite good, except the bread, which, for some reason or other, is rarely good at sea. The coffee is not improved by being carried the long distance from the galley to the after-house. Still, there are some things that are always excellent. If you want to know what really good pea or bean soup is, you will have to go to sea for it. Though seafaring men, as a rule, are pretty large eaters, but little time is spent at the table. About fifteen minutes for each meal would be about the average.

The captain, mate, and the captain's wife and family, if they are on board, and the passengers, if any, eat at the first table, and are waited on by the steward and cabin boy. The second mate and carpenter, and on most ships the third mate and boatswain, eat at the second. The sailors take their food from the galley into the forecastle and eat it there. The water on these long voyages is usually allowanced—a necessary precaution—the quantity being about a gallon a day per man, although this is not always strictly adhered to, for washing purposes, and also for cooking and drinking. If the water in the tanks should run short, they depend almost entirely upon rainwater, which at times, especially on the equator, is caught in immense quantities, the tops of all the deck-houses being arranged with ledges and spouts to run the water into casks. The rainfalls are at times something wonderful, and when they occur in a calm and the vessel is standing up straight the quantity of water that can be collected is very large.—Cor. Baltimore American.

Pain is chiefly mental, and the severity of it would be comparatively slight, did we not give ourselves up to it. Animals suffer less than men. A horse will feed after breaking a leg, while a man would lie and moan.—Scientific American.

The international yacht races cost the projectors $140,000 this year.

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE

While THE NEW-YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE is the most expensive publication of its class in the United States, nevertheless its price is now fixed at $1 a year, the Semi-Weekly at $2; to both cases an extra copy with a club of 10.

The campaign just closed found the country in the trough of the political waves. The Republican managers have made the best struggle they could against a state of general apathy. In a few States they have been aided by the inspiring presence of a great leader, whose speeches have awakened almost the old enthusiasm anywhere shown. The result of the campaign is gratifying; its gains are an inspiration; the Democratic losses are a plain guide to the popular drift. From this time forward the country will feel the lift of the advancing wave of 1888, which, if we all do our duty, will sweep out from Washington the misgovernors now in possession, the foes of protection, equality and patriotic government. It is now the duty of all earnest and experienced workers to bend their energies toward united and hearty work for 1888. The party is to be consolidated, cheered and rallied. To this work THE TRIBUNE pledges its zealous efforts.

THE TRIBUNE offers for 1887 several excellent premiums, including

"The Tribune Book of Open Air Sports."

A work compiled by THE TRIBUNE, e pecially for the young men of the United States. It is a thorough statement of the present status of Open Air athletic amusements in America, with suggestions to beginners, the rules of every important game, the records of noted contests and the achievements of American Champions. The book will contain about 150 illustrations. Chapters are provided on Archery; Base-ball with the record of wonderful playing and the League and Association cranks, and instructions how to curve a ball; Court Tennis, Lawn Tennis, Football, Cricket, Lacrosse, Racket, Horsemanship, Cross Country Hunting; Yachting, with a discussion of Iron and Cotter and Instructions How to Design, Build and Sail a Boat; Rowing, Canoeing, Fishing, Trapping, swimming, Hunting with Shot-gun and Rifle, Camping-out, Winter Sports, Bicycling, Amateur Photography and a few minor sports. Among the writers who have contributed are William Blaikie, Maurice Thompson, Captain Jacob A. Auger, Cavalry Instructor at West Point, David Kirby, Thomas Chapham, General George W. Wingate, Professor George Goldie, Director of Athletics of the New York Athletic Club; and a large number of private gentlemen throughout the country have furnished facts concerning the wild game and hunting sports of their several localities. No book of this character has ever been put into print in America. It is sufficiently elemental to be a "B b's Own Bo-k," and answers all the purposes of our manly youth, and yet will also meet the demands of adults. Will be ready for delivery December 1st. Octavo, 500 pages. Retail price, $2.50. Terms, postage paid: with Weekly, 1 year, $2.50; with Semi-weekly, 1 year, $2.50; with Daily, $10.00. Only to be had in connection with yearly subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE.

Also "BLUNT'S RIFLE PRACTICE," a book for every hunter and National Guardsman; a fine WALTHAM WATCH; the low-price WATERBURY WATCH; the two popular DICTIONARIES; WOOD'S MEDICINE HYGIENE AND SURGERY, illustrated; RIDPATH'S HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, illustrated; and YOUNG'S CONCORDANCE OF THE BIBLE.

Sample copy, giving terms in full, sent free. Order by postal card.

It is a strange fact that the strongest-minded women shrink from being caught in their own night-caps, but they never hesitate to declare their exalted opinion of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup that has cured innumerable coughs and colds.

An old clergyman in Menifee county, Kentucky, was recently murdered for voting the republican ticket.

Billous complaints, constipation, and nausea, are all relieved and cured by Ayer's Pills.

Bishop Alfred A. Curtis was installed at St. Peter's Catholic cathedral in Wilmington, Del., Nov. 21st; sermon by Cardinal Gibbons.

Almost Killed.

I was almost killed by the doctors, who treated me for bleeding piles. It cost me over $100 without relief. I took Sulphur Bitters for two months, and now I am well.—Gus Hall, Troy, N. Y.

Willie Lyons, in jail at Dedham, Mass., on the charge of murdering Mrs. Arrington at Foxboro, is to be discharged on account of lack of evidence.

No woman can be contented and happy if her skin is covered with pimples and blotches. These disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is perfectly safe to take, and is a thoroughly reliable blood purifier.

Hotel Bellevue, ten cottages, four stores and a lumber yard at Cape May point, N. J., were destroyed by fire, Nov. 20th.

The favorite washing compound of the day is unquestionably James Pyle's Pearline. It dispenses with the necessity for beating or rubbing the clothes, and does not injure the fabric.

The belief is growing that the strike of the Chicago packers was a political move on the part of Master Workman Butler.

The ladies all say nothing is perfect but the first baby and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The latter has no equal as a female remedy.

At the trial of New York's indicted ex-aldermen, Friday, a full confession of the infamous jobbery was made by Fullgraff and Duff.

They cure pains and aches and strengthen the weak parts. Call for a Hop Plaster and get it. 25c.

The question of a proper food for infants interests all mothers; especially those unable to nurse their offspring. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisites as a substitute for mothers' milk, and is highly commended by the medical faculty of both Europe and America.

Mrs. Mary Sturgess was last week arrested in Albany, N. Y., and taken to Boston. She belongs in Lynn, and is wanted to answer an indictment in Lynn for selling mortgaged property. The detectives claim that her true name is Mary A. Davidson. It is said that she procured pianos and organs from Ditson & Co., of Boston, to sell on commission; then mortgaged them, and afterward sold them off at less than cost, pocketing the proceeds, which amounted to several thousands of dollars. The prisoner is a handsome woman of fifty years of age, and since her residence in Albany has taken an active part in church and revival work.

THE CENTURY

For 1886-87.

THE CENTURY is an illustrated monthly magazine, having a regular circulation of about two hundred thousand copies, often reaching and sometimes exceeding two hundred and twenty five thousand. Chief among its many attractions for the coming year is a serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own country in its most critical time, as set forth in

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN.

By his Confidential Secretaries, JOHN G. NICOLAY and Col. JOHN HAY.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the Life of Abraham Lincoln. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration — important details of which have hitherto remained unrevealed, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES,

Which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year.

NOVELS AND STORIES.

The Hundredth Man, a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of The Lady, or the Tiger? etc. begins in November. Two novelettes by George W. Cable, stories by Mary Hallock Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorne, Edward Eggleston, and other prominent American authors, will be printed during the year.

SPECIAL FEATURES,

(with illustrations), include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of Tent Life in Siberia, who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor Problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American Colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign, by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc. by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D. editor of the Christian Advocate; astrological papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY.

Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cents a number. Dealers, postmasters and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24 page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc. including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. A specimen copy (back number) will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

Says the Biddeford Journal: "Now that a broad gauge track has been settled upon by the York Harbor & Beach railroad officials, and the speedy construction of the road is assured, the Journal predicts that in a short time the line will be extended from York to Wells, and a junction made there with the Western division of the Boston & Maine. If this should be done, the line between Portland and Boston would be shortened five miles, quite a consideration in these days of fast travel. The route from Portland would be by the Western division of the Boston & Maine to Wells, thence to Portsmouth by the York Harbor & Beach road, and on to Boston by the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine."

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Horrible Form

Of malarial disease is dumb ague. Constant drowsiness, sleep interrupted by a chill, succeeded by a consuming heat, and that by an exhausting sweat. A sensation as of numbness from cold, but not shaking attends it. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably eradicates it, though it is the most obstinate form of miasmatic disease. To conquer it with quinine is as impossible as to batter down Gibraltar with a howitzer. Malarial disorders of every kind are attended with derangement of the liver, a fact evinced by the saffron tint which the skin assumes in such diseases. For this symptom, as well as for its cause, the bitters is a certain remedy. Constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also relieved by this fine alterative.

The anniversary of the execution of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien at Manchester, Eng., in 1867, was observed at Dublin, Ire., Nov. 21st.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

DANIEL S. WARD.
Carlton House, Boston, Mass.
June 21, 1886.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 3

NIGHT ON THE BIG BRIDGE.

What May Be Seen and Heard—Experience of the Night Police.

The sights and sounds on the New York and Brooklyn bridge at night differ from those of the day as much as the great arc of electric lights on that aerial highway differ from the glare of high noon. Countrymen by the hundreds drift idly across the structure between sunrise and sunset every day. People visiting New York for the first time linger long on the bridge.

The last to leave the bridge are the lovers. The "young fellow" and his "best girl" will let blissful companionship trench on sleepiness every time. They form a pleasant feature of evening life on the bridge, these lovers. Solitary among moving crowds, his muscular arm encircles her waist and she trustfully submits to the caress. Nobody notices them. They are too common, and in that belief is their great solace and assurance. But, though they love to linger, by 11 o'clock they are following in the wake of the vanishing domestic circles. The benches under the towers become vacant. Perhaps some lone youth lingers upon them to read again in the white glare of the electricity a missive, well-thumbed, dirty and misspelled. The policeman looks at him pityingly and passes on to his little cabin where his can of coffee simmers gently on the oil stove. "Poor idgit," says the policeman softly to himself, "he's eatin' his white bread now." The policeman gets $3 a day and has to support a wife, mother-in-law and eight children out of that. He pities the young fellow out on the bench. But the young fellow doesn't care for the policeman. He cons the letter with the faulty orthography, and his ardent affection for the writer grows with increased fervor.

Midnight sees the lone lover gone from the bridge. At that hour the policemen are changed. The members of the night squad that then comes on wear different expressions from those of the day men. The stony stare and curt reply of the day policemen, who delight to freeze the marrow in the bones of countrymen seeking information, find no imitators among the night patrol. The night man talks with any passing foot traveler so long as the latter will be beguiled. When the foot travelers cease to amuse, there is usually an animated dialogue going on between the policeman on the promenade and his neighbor down on the driveway. These intellectual exchanges of views have a wide scope, and embrace religion, politics, philosophy, and the price and quality of the various brands of chewing tobacco. There are no jumping cranks to worry the soul and tax the vision of a night policeman. But there are no lack of incidents to interest the night watchman. A reporter crossing the bridge at 3 o'clock one morning noticed a policeman leaning over the parapet in a listening attitude. The reporter stopped walking and listened. Faintly on the night air he could hear cries that seemed to come from far up the East river, about opposite Havemeyers' sugar refinery. A woman was screaming "Murder! Murder!" Presently the cries ceased.

"What is it?" asked the reporter.

"Some devilishness going on down on the river," muttered the policeman. "We often hear cries of people in distress out on the river. We are helpless to do anything up here. By and by the cries stop, and that is the last of it. Sometimes we see a man go down to the dock. We can see him plainly by the light jump into the river. If he ever comes out we never see him."—New York Tribune.

The Tallest Chimney in the World.

A paragraph was recently published describing the Mechernich lead works in Germany as having the tallest chimney in the world. This is an error. A taller chimney is that of Joseph Townsend at Port Dundas, Glasgow, Scotland, built in 1857-8-9. The foundation consists of thirty courses of brick work, the lowermost course forty-seven feet in diameter, the uppermost thirty-two feet six inches in diameter. The hight above the foundation is 454 feet. The diameter at the base is thirty-two feet and thirteen feet six inches at the top. A nine-inch lining built inside, distinct from the chimney, with a space between the walls, is carried up to a height of sixty feet. Mr. Corbet was the builder. Brick foundations are used in building tall chimneys.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

The Distribution of Life.

In his presidential address to the British association, on the geology of the Atlantic, Sir J. W. Dawson mentioned two curious paradoxes concerning the difficult problem of the distribution of life over the earth: First, the chances of the wide distribution of marine species are not exceptionally great, as might be inferred, for the reason that the great depths of the sea have been found to be as impassable to most marine animals as the land itself. Second, the deep sea, which is so great a barrier to the passage of shallow water animals, seems actually, under certain conditions, to afford facilities for the migrations of land animals and plants, greater than those of unbroken continents.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Said the Satrical Dramatist.

This is the latest witticism with which W. S. Gilbert is credited. "It is easy enough for bishops to be good on a salary of 5,000 pounds sterling a year," said the satirical dramatist, looking round on a select circle of literary friends, but we have to be good for nothing"—a pause—"and some of us are."—The Argonaut.

Sharp Pains!

ARE CURED BY THE

HOP PLASTER

Hosts of people use and recommend this porous plaster because it is the strongest and best ever known. When applied to any sort of soreness, or weakness, it acts instantly, removing pain and strengthening the parts. Prepared from Burgundy Pitch, Canada Balsam, and the entire medicinal virtues of fresh Hops. They never burn or irritate—always soothe, stimulate and strengthen weak and tired muscles. Quick relief for sudden pains. All ready to apply. Hop Plasters are sold by all dealers, 25c., 5 for $1.00. Mailed on receipt of price.

My Back Aches!

DR. HAM'S

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

H. E. WOODMAN.

Mr. Chas. Rai h, Watchmaker & Jeweler, Baltimore and Mount streets, Baltimore, Md., said: "I have been suffering excruciating pain caused by spraining my left ankle, and have been unable to obtain any decided relief or to walk right. I was advised by a friend to try Salvation Oil which I did, and to my astonishment and delight after trying it I am able to use my left foot and leg as well as my right. It didn't take half of a bottle to accomplish this. It also cured my rheumatic troubles.

Public meetings have been prohibited in Ishpeming, Mich., on account of a diphtheria epidemic.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

I. J. Boasso, serving a fourteen years' sentence for forgery, and John Soniat, under a life sentence, escaped from the penitentiary at Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 21st.

Glass

Was invented in England by Benalt, a monk, 400 years A. C. A small glass of the renowned G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey will renew failing strength in the aged, and restore vitality and maintain failing powers. Its medicinal properties are established. It is bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and your druggist and grocer will indorse it.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Leighton.

OLD-TIME STORIES.

Kittery Point has always been to me a delightful spot; there some of the happiest days of my life have been passed, but those I loved and revered, are gone, and few memorials of their wealth or worth remain. The old house is, as I am told, in ruins, the gardens a waste, the summer house sunk into that beautiful river, from which fish were often taken from its widow. The parsonage is trodden by the feet of strangers, the pictures removed from the walls that once glowed with the portraits of Pepperrells, the Sparhawks and other names. Thus, my dear Mary, I have at last, as far as lies in my power, complied with your request; had the wish been expressed a few years ago, I would have made out a tolerable narrative of my reminiscences; I could have taken Portsmouth, Kittery Point, Cape Neddick, Old York, etc., as the scenes of my early associations, and I could have found enough of Dramatis Personæ for my drama. Your beloved grandfather and two of our own family—a Mrs. Plaisted would have served for a Mary Richardson, in her adventures with the Indians. Mary Bean would have been as good a heroine as Janie Deane, and old Jim Hill would have shone as the father of all Evil. Meg Merrilles and many a Madge Wildfire could have been found for New Hampshire actresses, but when I think of many so loved and gone, and lost to me, and of the places that once knew them and can know them no more, I am tempted to exclaim with Job's informant: "I only am left alone to tell thee."

If you are not tired, dear friend, I am tempted to intrude upon you a scene, and a kind of tale, which is of early date:

I was about twelve years of age, when my mother, as a reward for something she approved, proposed to take me to see an old lady to whom she was distantly related, and who resided in a part of Kittery called "Long Lane." The roads leading to it were execrable, and the horse none of the fleetest, but in an hour or two we arrived at the place, which was a low kind of building having the appearance of a number of small tenements put together. It well suited the taste of the owner. The approach was at the back of the house, and we rode entirely round, before we came to the front. A large, old gate admitted us to the garden, upon which the front lay. A servant girl came to the door, at which we had knocked for a long time with an old iron knocker, and conducted us through a semi-circular entry, very dark and narrow, to a small low parlor; the walls were hung with a dark velvet paper, and the wainscot was entirely black. At the farthest end, Madam Whipple was seated in a large, old-fashioned easy-chair; she appeared the very picture of old age in the extreme, and yet I do not believe she had counted so many years as I now have; she had lost the use of her limbs, and was entirely confined to her chair. Her dress was a brown brocade, with a nice lawn kerchief and apron; short sleeves, with a ruffle just below the elbow, silk mitts, a lace cap with a rich border, and a black velvet hood upon the back of her head, tied with black ribbon under her chin, which completed her dress. She must have been handsome in her day, and was then a fine old lady. She received us with a most affectionate welcome, embraced my mother, and kissed me, and then, stifling her emotions, she exclaimed, "I see the daughter of Jonathan Sayward and Sarah Mitchell, two that I have loved from my birth; I am thankful that you, my dear child, have come to see me, an old woman, the inhabitant of an older house. This has been built for more than a hundred and fifty years; the kitchen is one of such you will never see again; that table," she added, "is as old as the house, and has never been removed from its place since it was built." It reached the whole length of the apartment, and the farther end was raised two steps higher than the other. "At that table, and in that chair," continued Madam Whipple, "the Lady Ursula was wont to dine, while the servants sat below; I presume they had the salt-cellar between them. When you have seen the kitchen, look at the picture in the entry; it was the work of her hands, and though defaced by time, you will see that it was intended to represent the offering up of Isaac. You may then walk in the garden, and see the summer house; the Lady Ursula built it, and remember that the currant bushes, the roses and the tulips are the descendants of those she brought from Old England, and the first planted in this Province. Although thousands of seeds and roots have been taken from them, there is still a multitude remaining, and while you are enjoying yourself in roaming where you please, your mother and I will talk over old times, for I have many questions to ask."

YORK, ME., 23d.

It is conceded that we are to have a railroad—upon certain terms. We learn that if the corporators of the York Harbor & Beach R. R. Co. will furnish by subscription, from reliable sources, fifty thousand dollars, and also a right of way, free, the Boston & Maine will take further stock to make a sufficient sum to build the road, and will furnish the rolling stock at cost. It cannot be denied that the B. & M. are magnanimous in this offer, but we think they are in error in running their line as mapped out. If Engineer Bessil will closely examine, he will see that the plan of the present is a broad mistake of the future.

Take the county map and draw lines through business sections from Butler's siding to the B. & M. depot at Wells, and see if it is proper and prudent to run through the alder swamps of Kittery, to reach and accommodate a certain few at York harbor—regardless of future prospective advantages.

Again, it is said, and the writer hereof believes, that the parties who agreed to give in their land damages, are now feeling disposed to retract their kind offer. It is also further said that some of those who bonded their land for a right of way, have a perfect right to, and will, declare such bond void, for the reason that "a contract broken by either party is void," and they claim that the Y. B. & H. corporators have violated all rights by not building the road within the specified term of their charter, and also by changing from narrow to standard guage. And further, that the notice of their intention to apply to the legislature for an extension of the time of their charter, as well as for dispensing with trains during the winter, is another breach of the bond or contract. They gave lands, and bonds for lands, upon a predicate that trains were to run during the winter, the time of high prices in Boston for fresh fish, etc.

We learn that Capt. Edward Baker has received his commission as postmaster, and will establish a new office in W. M. Walker's store, to be called York Village office.

"Viator" is in error about Postmaster Varrell resigning. He will continue the York office at its present location, unless he puts it on wheels and goes to the houses.

Capt. Joseph Weare, for many years postmaster at Cape Neddick, and a successful merchant and highly respected citizen, passed quietly to his rest about nine o'clock Monday evening, 22d inst., after a brief illness. He had been very smart and active this fall, despite his seventy-five years, but was stricken with paralysis last Friday afternoon, and never rallied from the shock. The captain will be much missed in that vicinity, both by church society and the people at large.

The harvest of the religious meetings is not large. The meetings will close on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24th. P.

A Shameful Position.

It is a rather tardy acknowledgement, but the London Daily News, speaking of the late Charles Francis Adams, admits that save for the faithfulness of the bulk of working people of Great Britain to the cause of liberty, the British government would have openly sided with the south during the rebellion. That position, as the News declares, was a shameful one for England. The cynical and heartless remark of Carlisle that this country was a smoky chimney, "let it burn itself out," was in consonance with the sentiment of the government, the nobility, the gentry and the commercial classes of England. And the south will no sooner forget this than will the north. Had not England held to the south the quasi-promise of material aid, had she not inspired expectation only to disappoint it, the south would have early seen the desperation of her course. The south owes England nothing, and knows it well. The north owes a debt which circumstances forbid the payment of. It is sometimes easier to forgive than to forget, and there is this for the consolation of this country, it has not to confess that it is ashamed of itself.

Cause for Thanksgiving.

The official canvass of the vote of Virginia at the late election, lacking Buchanan county, gives the democrats 102,221; republicans and independent democrats, 123,080; democratic minority, 20,859. In 1885 the democrats had a majority of 16,034.

Luck of a Portuguese from Fayal.

New Bedford, Nov. 15 (Special).—A Portuguese from Fayal bought a ticket of the Louisiana Lottery, and after carrying it in his pocket for fourteen months, gave it to a fellow countryman who had been in America only a few weeks. The latter investigated, and found that the ticket had drawn $15,000. The money arrived in this city to-day, and the Portuguese will sail in a few days for Fayal.—New York Tribune's Special, Nov. 16th.

A young man from Fayal, who has been in San Francisco five weeks, has drawn $15,000 in a lottery, and will go home in the barkentine "Moses B. Tower," to sail this week. The ticket had been purchased for $1.10, and held fifteen months by a Portuguese in California, who got tired of it and presented it to the fortunate man. The money has arrived in this city, and Messrs. Loum Snow & Son, agents of the barkentine, have deposited it in a bank of safety. The owner of it takes it very coolly, and does not wish to have his name printed. —New Bedford (Mass.) Standard, Nov. 16th.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. James McGlinchy of Portland, Me., was on the 24th inst. united in marriage with Miss Mamie Dixon, daughter of the late John Dixon of this city, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. E. M. O'Callaghan, pastor of the church, officiating. Mr. McGlinchy is well known to many of the younger residents of the city as the former pitcher of the Granite State base ball club, and a young man of very numerous good qualities.

House No. 71 Pleasant street was sold at auction at noon on Wednesday, Nov. 24th, by Mr. Henry F. Wendell, to Mr. John J. Laskey.

There was a runaway accident about half-past five o'clock Wednesday evening, a horse and buggy going up State street at a tremendous rate until near the residence of Mr. James C. Brown, where there was a collision with a post; and the top of the buggy, and two young men, alighted with marked celerity, the rest of the establishment keeping on up street. When near Mr. Wingate's boarding house the horse turned in on the sidewalk, slipped, and fell, the wreck of the buggy turning a complete somersault over the prostrate animal, and the horse was there caught, apparently little harmed. The buggy was badly stove up, and it was reported that one of the young men was somewhat hurt.

Chief Engineer David B. Macomb, U. S. N., a comrade of Storer Post, G. A. R., of this city was one of the speakers at the 17th annual reunion of E. W. Kinsley Post, of Boston, Monday evening.

The number of country teams in town on Wednesday, the 24th inst., would have been considered large for an ordinary day, but was rather small for the day before Thanksgiving. The supply of extra poultry was by no means sufficient to glut the market, first-class turkeys being firmly held at twenty-three cents a pound late in the afternoon.

Twenty-five or thirty sheep were killed in Dover by dogs on the morning of Nov. 22d, George W. Page losing fourteen, James Y. McDuffee six, Moses Beede two, and other parties one or two each.

Hon. Frank Jones has bought of Henry E. Evans of York a quantity of real estate at "Evanston" in that town, for $2,000.

At the annual prize speaking of pupils of the Newmarket high school, in Newmarket town hall on the evening of Nov. 19th, Messrs. E. R. Goodwin of Manchester, E. N. Pearson of Concord and J. H. Willoughby of Dover officiated as judges, and the hall was packed. T. Jewett Chesley and Lizzie A. Barber took the first prizes, $5 each, and Herbert E. Haley and Etta Palmer the second prizes, $3 each. Music by Clement's orchestra enlivened the occasion.

The county commissioners of Strafford county issued the county bonds to be called after Dec. 1st, 1886, at the pleasure of the county. The county is now ready to take up all their bonds, the interest on which will cease Dec. 1st.

Liberty enlightened the world once more from Bedloe's island on the night of Nov. 24th, after having been in the dark herself for two weeks.

Hon. John B. Neally, of South Berwick, died Nov. 23d, after a long and painful illness, in his 77th year. He was born in Nottingham, N. H., and at an early age went to Dover and entered the employ of the Cocheco Manufacturing company. From there he went to South Berwick, and after a course of study was admitted to the bar. He was a staunch republican, and was twice elected to the state senate. He was a prominent worker in the temperance cause, and stood high in Odd Fellowship. He leaves a widow and one son.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 123 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mr. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Saved My Life,

and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

For young people is what the papers call ST. NICHOLAS. Do you know about it—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of

ST. NICHOLAS for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several by each author.

A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of ST. NICHOLAS.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, military biographer, and confidential friend of Gen. Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and historic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides"; also, "Jenny's Boarding-House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-wells," with a number of striking pictures; "Children's Stories from Foreign Lands," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, H. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc. n30

The subscription price of ST. NICHOLAS is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, e c., etc. THE CENTURY CO., New-York.

THANKSGIVING.

We have at this season the official recommendation of our rulers, national and state, to keep Thursday, Nov. 25th, as a day of Thanksgiving.

The people of this state and of this country have much for which to be thankful. The occasion is one which should be marked, not by a mere gratification of our appetite, which the bountiful products of the soil at this season makes possible. We mean we should not say,—"Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we shall die,' but we should rather enjoy the contemplation of our numerous blessings, appreciate our growth, progress and prosperity as a people, and recognize the many advantages which a kind Providence year after year permits us to enjoy.

The crops, as far as the speculators and those who concoct the reports as to cereals permit us knowledge, are plentifully bestowed upon that time-honored personage yclped "husbandman;" in fact, it needs no market report to convince us that the crop of western farm mortgages is even in excess of the product of any preceding year. The fishermen, between hard luck at sea and rough usage on the Canadian coast, have not much of which they can boast; but the honest tillers of the soil, who labor in the Corn Exchange, have some cause for thankfulness. Indeed, this part of the world, at least once a year, can pause from delighting itself in fatness and give thanks for what it is permitted so constantly to enjoy.

The feature of our New England Thanksgiving is its pleasant reunion of the family circle, which in these days of increased railroad facilities is made far more capable of being accomplished than in the olden days. These annual occasions are of inestimable advantage in maintaining our social and family relations, and cementing our affections one with another. The danger is that such days may be suffered to become, instead of occasions for devout and grateful recognition of the goodness of our Divine Creator as the fathers intended they should be, degenerated into mere idle holidays—only occasions of cessation from toil, to enjoy good cheer, without the true ennobling features of the festival.

But the departure from the time-honored custom of days long vanished are gone, ought not to be the rule with those of New England stock, and to the manner-born. The Thanksgiving of the olden time had in its memories peculiar charms for those who have been capable of appreciating all its excellencies, its delights, its associations and its pleasant recollections. Let us then maintain with untarnished lustre and undiminished regard the true character of the ancient festival, that in coming ages there may be rendered to the Giver of all Good

"The thanks of millions yet to be."

THANKSGIVING DAY.

In accordance with the proclamations of the President of the Nation and the Governor of the State, we shall abstain from labor to-day, and in such manner as seems to us best, indicate our thankfulness for the blessings of the past year. Therefore no paper will be issued from this office to-morrow.

The post-office general delivery will be open from 8:00 to 10:30 A. M. and from 6:00 to 6:30 P. M. The box-office will be open all day.

Thanksgiving service, with communion, will be held at St. John's church this forenoon at the usual hour.

A union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Unitarian church at eleven o'clock this forenoon; address by Rev. Alfred Gooding; subject, "Our Confidence in Ideals." All are invited.

GO AND DO LIKEWISE.

Mayor Eldredge has given the Thanksgiving dinner to the out-door poor of the city,—a chicken here and a turkey or goose there, according to the number of persons in a family, accompanied by the other articles required to give the beneficiaries a generous feast, and have something left over for supper, and for breakfast next morning. The consciousness of having contributed to the comfort and happiness of a hundred or so of the less fortunate of his fellow creatures, will not detract from our worthy chief magistrate's enjoyment of his own dinner on New England's special festival.

RAPID TRANSIT.

The New Haven Register of a recent date said: "A business man in this city received a letter Thursday night which was mailed in Grand Rapids, Mich., July 1st. It had on one of the special-delivery ten-cent stamps." This leads the Hartford Post to remark that if the postal service "retrogresses in efficiency as rapidly in the next two years as it has since the advent of Postmaster General Vilas, it will be almost as valuable as an ox-team for the transmission of the correspondence of the country."

Commenting on these statements the Concord Monitor observes: "There is altogether too much ground for the criticism of the postal service all over the country. A letter sent from this city to Sandwich, last September, reached its destination in exactly one month from the day it left Concord, after making a grand tour of the mountain regions, it is supposed, as it was forwarded to Sandwich finally from Lancaster. There was no special-delivery stamp on the letter, which perhaps accounts for the letter reaching its destination in one month, instead of four months, as in the case of the Grand Rapids letter. Ability to read writing, and knowledge of geography, are very desirable qualifications for railway postal clerks especially."

A gentleman of Lowell, Mass., recently posted a letter on a Friday morning, informing a resident of this city that he should be here on the following Saturday evening. The time arrived, and so did the visitor; but the letter did not get here until Tuesday forenoon, by which time the information it contained was of little value. It was not to be expected that the new postal clerks and post-route officials would for a time be as efficient as the experienced men they displaced; but it would seem that they should by this time have learned at least something in the line of expediting their duties.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

The treasurer of the Chase Home for Children gratefully acknowledges the sum of $10 received from Mr. Daniel McIntire, being a donation from the official board of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city.

AN OLD-TIME LAUNCH.

Eds. Chronicle: Mrs. Partington, otherwise Mr. B. P. Shillabor, recently gave to a local paper an account of an incident of his boyhood days—the launch of a schooner built at the Raynes shipyard, which was rigged on the stocks, and rolled on her beam ends when launched, tumbling a lot of the persons on board into the water. His memory must be at fault to a certain extent—not to be wondered at either, when it is considered how many vessels, great and small, were built along the shores of the Piscataqua and its tributaries. The oldest shipbuilder of Portsmouth, Mr. Stephen Tobey, who is now living in retirement at his nice place at the west end, and who worked as a boy and afterward as foreman in the Raynes yard, besides building many fine ships himself, has no recollection of any such inauspicious event.

George Raynes commenced shipbuilding when very young, and died in middle life, and it was boasted that he never met with any serious accident in putting his vessels overboard, although he built many crafts of all models and sizes, from a "full" cotton drogher, or Dover packet, to big New York and Liverpool liners, (one of which of his build brought across the Atlantic 1100 souls at one time,) and some splendid California and China clippers, which made themselves famous. There were many ships launched here, rigged wholly or partially, without accident and without ballast. The magnificent clipper ship "Witch of the Waves," which drew more water than any other ship which ever sailed out of Portsmouth harbor, was launched with her topmasts aloft.

Mr. Raynes when not much more than a boy went to the British provinces, where he built several vessels. After his return he built at the Rindge place, and later bought the Boyd place, where shipbuilding had been carried on for two centuries previously. Before his return Mr. Jacob Remick built vessels at the Rindge yard; and Mr. David Junkins, whose memory is wonderfully vivid and correct, says that the brig Emily, built by Mr. Remick in 1823 for Wm. Sheafe and Joshua W. Peirce, had her lower masts stepped before she was launched, and on taking the water heeled over on her beam ends, to the consternation of all beholders. This was probably the incident referred to by "Uncle Ben." VIATOR.

DOVER ELECTION.

At the election in Dover on Tuesday, Nov. 23d, George G. Lowell, republican, received 979 votes for mayor, against 817 for Clinton B. Robinson, democratic and Knights of Labor candidate. Eleven republicans and four democrats were elected to the common council, and eight republicans and two democrats to the board of aldermen.

The very large and refined audience at Music hall on Thanksgiving eve expected much of Louis James and Miss Marie Wainwright, and were agreeably surprised with excellence much beyond their highest anticipations. Mr. James was not far from perfection in the exacting part of Virginius, and Miss Wainwright was a winning and most lovable Virginia. The support was generally all that was required.

The G. A. R. charity ball on Wednesday evening was a brilliant affair. The concert in Franklin opera hall, previous to the grand march, by the famous Chandler's band of Portland, was listened to by a large audience, who highly enjoyed the beautiful music. Franklin hall was elegantly draped for the occasion, and everything was well and properly done, as it always is when the Grand Army post of Portsmouth undertakes to cater for the public amusement. We trust the "boys" have secured a generous addition to their charity fund.

The U. S. S. Galena was successfully docked at the navy yard on Wednesday.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

Chronic Catarrh
Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with Impure Blood.
When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.
"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GINN, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.
Hood's Sarsaparilla,
"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham

For Weak Women.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "About the first of September, 1881, my wife was taken with uterine hemorrhage. The best stypics the physician could prescribe did not check it and she got more and more enfeebled. She was troubled with Prolapsus Uteri, Leucorrhœa, pantnesse of the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She said she could discover a salutary effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the Prolapsus, stomach's sickness, &c. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at the regular periods. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are much improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefitted and our hearts are drawn out in gratitude for the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sakes we allow our names to be used." C. W. EATON, Thurston, N. Y.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequently the case with mothers who have reared large families, I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experiment I concluded to try yours. I am not a seeker after notoriety but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." New Use for Electricity.

Electricity has been put to a new use in France. Gen. Boulanger has recently ordered the trial of a method of inducing vicious and restless horses to stand quietly while being shod. The method is due to the knowledge and ingenuity of M. le Capitaine Place, and is said to have proved eminently successful. The arrangement merely consists of an induction coil, a dry battery and an arrangement for giving "a shock of graduated intensity" to the animal under treatment. The most vicious horses which could be found in the cavalry school at Saumur subsided into quietness upon application of this device.—New York Evening Post.

Painting Bridges Red.

I can see no reason in the world why people should persist in the very common practice of painting bridges red—the redder the better, they seem to think. Variety in colors is as essential on a bridge as on a bonnet.—Pioneer Press "Listener."

Expected in a New Play.

Human doing and suffering, hot men's and women's notions of deeds and endurance, are what we look for and like when the curtain goes up on new play. —New York Mail and Express.

Consecrated to Wagner's Memory.

A "Crown-room" exists in the Festival theatre at Bayreuth, consecrated to the memory of Richard Wagner. Dimly lighted and arranged as a species of chapel, the room is filled with wreaths, crowns and garlands of every kind, commemorating the composer, while Wagnerian relics are being carefully gathered together for a museum. Among these, the most precious is a small black tablet, bearing a few words scribbled in white chalk, "To-morrow, general rehearsal—Wagner," said to be the last words written by Wagner in his theatre. —Frank Leslie's.

Material for Writing Tablets.

The well-known oculist, Dr. Herman Cohn, of Breslau, objects strongly to the slate ordinarily used by school children, and proposes the use of white stone slabs. Dr. Steffan in a recent number of The Monatsschrift fur Augenheikunde, shares Dr. Cohn's objections to the slate, but recommends white enameled tinned iron as the best material for writing tablets.—Exchange.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Foolish and Stubborn Belief

in the efficacy of certain remedies of violent action, is the besetting foible of the ignorant and prejudiced. The indiscriminate use of purgatives is a very common phase of the fatuity of such people. Aloes, podyphilin, disguised in sugar coating, castor oil, mercury, and other old fashioned drugs, still hold their own among this class, and although the success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters sufficiently disproves the necessity for violence in medication, the adherents of an exploded fallacy still persist in giving and taking inordinate purgative doses. Dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint are as certainly and thoroughly subdued by the Bitters, as they are invariably aggravated by an indiscriminate use of medicines, official or proprietary, belonging to the class which we have condemned. Fever and ague, nervousness, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys, yield to the Bitters.

FROM LIFE TO DEATH

is but a moment if rheumatism or neuralgia strikes the heart. These diseases are the most painful and the most dangerous of any to which human kind is liable. They fly from one part to another without a moment's warning, and liniments and other outward applications are in themselves dangerous because they are liable to drive the disease to some vital organ and cause instant death. Rheumatism and neuralgia are diseases of the blood, and can only be reached by a remedy which will drive from the blood the dangerous acids. Such a remedy is Athlophoros. It has been thoroughly tested and is a safe, sure cure.

Dover, N. H., March 23, 1886.

For the benefit of people suffering with rheumatism I write to make the following statement. For a series of years my wife has been subject to severe attacks of rheumatism, often lasting for several months at a time, suffering intense pains, and only found relief by injecting powerful remedies in the arm, receiving thereby only temporary relief. The last of December, 1885, it appeared in the right arm and had with it excruciating pains. I procured a bottle of Athlophoros and by the time she had taken the third or fourth dose the pain ceased, and now after having begun on the second bottle is much improved, and I think on the road to a complete cure.

Last winter I was troubled with a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which stuck to me with such obstinacy as to cause me much worriment, pain and misery. All of these troubles were speedily removed by two bottles of Athlophoros. That medicine cured me entirely. P. JOSEPH MONAHAN.

SANITARY SCIENCE AND LIFE-SAVING

How the Death Rate in Europe Has Been Reduced—English Statistics.

At the annual dinner of the public sanitary inspectors in London Mr. Elwin Chadwick presented some striking comparisons showing how much more the European governments expend for the destruction than the preservation of human life. Citing the fact that an appropriation intended to guard Naples against a visitation of cholera remained unpaid because the expenditures for war ships had created a deficit in the treasury, Mr. Chadwick proceeded to show what the amount expended for one vessel would effect if employed with a view to save rather than destroy human. He said:

"The expenditure of $1,000,000 at 5 per cent., the cost of a big ship, would at this rate be equal to the sanitation of 66,000 houses, or at five inhabitants per house (the suburban average with us), it would serve for 333,333 inhabitants. Suppose the expenditure effected a reduction of the death rate by only five per 1,000 (and on the average of the towns under the separate system is in its use nine per 1,000), the saving of life would be 1,667 per annum. But to each case of death there are at the least twenty cases of bed-lying sickness for each big ship. For the decade the saving would be of 16,667 lives and 333,333 cases of sickness."

Mr. Chadwick's estimates are well supported by the results obtained by sanitary science both in Europe and the United States. Previous to Dr. Farr's barrack-reform in the British army the death rate was fifteen per 1,000. But it has since been reduced below six, while the use of sanitary precautions in the German army has cut the rate down to five per 1,000, which is about half the ratio in the civil population of the same ages. In the Indian army the old rate of sixty-nine has been changed to twelve in 1,000, and it is calculated that in the last decade this represents a gain of 40,000 in force and the saving of 6,000,000 pounds in money. Russia is sadly behind in the observance of sanitary precautions, and her army death rate is three times that of Germany. Until quite recently the average loss at each visitation of cholera in St. Petersburg was 20,000, but sanitation finally reduced it one-fourth, although in Russian towns and villages which still remain cesspools of filth the old death rate is unchanged.

Army reports are held to afford the best tests of sanitary precautions, since in the military service regulations can be rigidly enforced. Equally striking results are reached in asylums and in prisons, once the breeding-places of pestilence, but now, owning to sanitary regulations, seats of the higher health. In the half-time pauper schools of England, recruited from the lowest classes of the community, the death rate is claimed to be one-third that among children of the general population. Statistics gathered in this country tend in the same direction and go to show that Mr. Chadwick's estimates of the results easily reached by sanitary science are within the mark. Commenting on the appropriation recently proposed in pestilence-smitten Spain for the building of war-vessels, Mr. Chadwick contends that if the sum were expended for sanitation it would in a decade save 183,335 lives and 3,666,667 cases of sickness; but such an expenditure would be hooted at, although in the last visitation of cholera Spain lost more of her population than in the great Peninsular war. Militarianism is a ruling principle with the European governments and they are willing to expend vastly greater sums to destroy their enemies than to preserve the lives of their own people. This disposition may be changed when it is understood that sanitation not only prolongs the lives of invalids and non-combatants, but increases the actual fighting force of a nation. Only in that event will the militant nations expend anything like as much for life-saving as for life-destroying.—Chicago Tribune.

Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

Sleepy Hollow cemetery, the burial-place of Washington Irving, directly across the Hudson from Nyack, is so crowded that it has been found necessary to enlarge the grounds by the purchase of some adjacent property. The addition to the cemetery will be made on the north side of the beautiful grounds, and will consist of forty-one and one-half acres, purchased at a cost of $30,000. Sleepy Hollow cemetery is visited by thousands of strangers every year, who are drawn thither by the historic interest which centers there, and the burial-place of Washington Irving claims the attention of all.—New York Cor. OLD-TIME STORIES.

I have never seen anything so beautiful as that garden appeared to me; such a profusion of currants, gooseberries, roses and tulips, were never before collected in so small a space. The summer-house was literally worm out, and covered with moss, the rains propped up with posts, appearing so old that I felt as if it must have been the work of an antediluvian and could not tire of wandering over it. The river washed its walls, and the boats passing and repassing rendered the scene so lovely and delightful that although time has obliterated many other things, this had too tenanted a hold to be effaced from the recollection.

After tea we set off on our return, and no sooner did I resume my seat in the chaise than I began my inquiries of mother who the Lady Ursula was, of whom Madam Whipple talked about. "The Lady Ursula, whose name and doings have so much excited your curiosity, was the sister of my great grandfather, and the daughter of Lord Thomas Cutt, of Grandale Abbey, in England. She was betrothed at an early age to a young gentleman of the name of Fowler. Her father disapproved of the connection and was glad when a war broke out which would for a time prevent the nuptials, as the lover had chosen the military profession, and was obliged immediately to join his regiment. The parting was painful on both sides, but for a year the letters which she frequently received, rendered his absence less distressing. At length they ceased to arrive, and a report that he had died in battle put an end to her hopes, and her father's fears, whose ambition pointed out a more wealthy alliance. From all solicitude she was released by the death of her mother, followed by that of her father. The family estate and honors descended by entail upon the eldest son, but the large fortune of the mother became the portion of the younger children.

By a grant from Sir Ferdinando Gorges, Cutt's several islands with Long Lane became the property of my great-grandfather, his brother and this sister. When the young gentlemen decided to come to this country Lady Ursula determined to accompany them; of their mother I know nothing. Major Cutt took possession of both islands, one of which remains to his descendants; and his sister became mistress of the place you have just seen. She built the house, and planted the fruit and flowers, rendering a wilderness quite a garden of beauty and delight. She brought from England twenty men servants and several female domestics, who delighted to follow their young lady to a new country, finding her a kind friend and protectress. Wealth gave her ample means of displaying her taste; the house was richly furnished; the ground beautifully cultivated, and the situation became the admiration of the few who visited her. Piety, and love for one lost to her forever, were the prominent traits in her character; she instructed her family in their religious duties, read prayers every morning and evening, and as there was at that time no settled minister nor place of public worship, the Sabbath was devoted to religious exercises, and no labor or amusement permitted. One of the girls who came with her had received a good education, and her mind had been more cultivated than usual. She became a great favorite with her lady, and was her chosen companion in all her walks. The early disappointment and fate of her lover were often the subject of conversation, and finding her mistress more depending one evening than usual, she exclaimed: 'Cheer up, my lady, 'tis a long lane that has no turning!' She replied, smiling: 'I have been thinking what name to call my domain for some time, and you have given it one; I will call it "Long Lane,"' and by that name it has always been known.

It Makes a Difference Whose Ox is Gored.

A few weeks ago Mr. Cleveland, civil service reformer and president of the United States, received credible information that M. E. Benton, United States attorney of Missouri, and William A. Stone, United States attorney for the western district of Pennsylvania, had been making political speeches on the stump. This roused the president's civil service indignation, and the two office-holders who had exhibited such "pernicious activity" as politicians were promptly relegated to a state of "innocuous desuetude" as law officers of the government. Senator Vest and several Missouri congressmen squarely demanded Benton's reinstatement, under penalty of war on the administration in case of refusal; and Benton demanded reinstatement, on the ground that he had not in any way neglected his official duties in order to make partisan speeches. President Cleveland promptly restored Benton to duty.

Stone thereupon forwarded to Attorney General Pan-Electric a statement showing that he (Stone) had not in any way neglected his official duties in order to make partisan speeches, and requesting reinstatement. Mr. Pan-Electric submitted this letter to the president, who on Nov. 23d returned answer that the cases of the two district attorneys were very different, Stone having opposed the administration in his speeches, while Benton as strongly supported it in his; consequently it was proper to restore the latter to duty, while such action in Stone's case would manifestly be opposed to civil service reform.

This makes the president's order of July 10th very plain. "Offensive partisanship" and "pernicious activity" in an office-holder consist in the making of speeches in behalf of the republican party; the making of speeches in behalf of the democratic party by an office-holder is simply the exercise of a political right by the citizen, with which the administration and civil service reform have no business to interfere.

Great is humbug.

United States Senator Appointed.

Ex-Gov. Person C. Cheney, of Manchester, has been appointed by Gov. Currier to the United State senate, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. Austin F. Pike.

The bids for the new cruisers were opened in the office of the secretary of the navy Nov. 24th. Mr. Whitney professes to be well satisfied with the bidding on all the vessels except the 4,000-ton cruiser.

A Washington despatch of Nov. 26th says: The greatest disappointment connected with the bids for the naval cruisers is that the number of bidders was not larger. Bids were expected from New York and Boston. Those who did bid from other cities say that they do not understand why the shipbuilders of Boston and New York did not compete.

Benajah Hall, a respected citizen of North Berwick, aged seventy-nine years, was missed from his home Nov. 18th, and was found two days latter in the river at Lebanon. He had been very despondent for some time, and is supposed to have committed suicide.

Daily Meetings.

There will be a meeting of the citizens of Portsmouth every day and evening at the drug store of David Kimball & Co., until further notice, for the purpose of determining whether an equal for Littlefield's Constitutional Cough Syrup can be found or not. The proprietor claims for it wonderful things. He says it will certainly cure all cases of coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and other affections of the throat and lungs. He has made arrangements with D. Kimball & Co. for its sale in our city, and is so confident of its curative powers that he makes the following offer:

"Any person who will buy and use a bottle, is given the privilege of returning it and receiving his or her money back, if, after using two-thirds of its contents, no benefit has been derived from it."

Such a generous offer shows that he surely does not wish to swindle the public, and the trial of a twenty-five or fifty cent bottle would be no risk to any one.

great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of his title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall forward their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration after the 15th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

SPECIAL "NO SCHOOL" SIGNAL.

The fire-alarm signal of "no school," as originally provided for, was four double-strokes, at eight o'clock in the morning for "no forenoon session," and at 11:30 for "no afternoon session." But sometimes the weather which may not be especially bad at 11:30 A. M., becomes decidedly bad before two o'clock P. M., the time for commencing the afternoon session; and hereafter on such occasions, when the signal has not been given at 11:30 and the school board decide to omit the afternoon session, the signal will be sounded at 1:30 P. M. The teachers, pupils, and members of the fire department are officially notified to govern themselves in accordance with this information, should they hear two strokes given by the fire alarm, and three times repeated, at 1:30 P. M. on any day in the future.

PROPOSED SOCIAL ORGANIZATION.

It was announced from the pulpit of the Unitarian church last Sunday that it is proposed to organize an association of the young people of the parish, for literary and social purposes, the preliminary meeting to be held in the chapel on Court street Monday afternoon, Nov. 29th, all members of the parish who are interested in such a movement, and all children over twelve years of age who attend the church or Sunday school, being cordially invited to attend, the exercises including a supper at six o'clock, and a musical entertainment in the vestry at eight.

Thanksgiving Service.

Nearly all the churches in town joined in a union service at the Unitarian church on Thanksgiving day. The clergymen present were Rev. Messrs. Gooding, Unitarian; McGinley, Congregational; Alden, Baptist; Jasper, Methodist; Wood, F. W. Baptist; Fisher, Universalist.

Most of these took some part in the services. The weather was not favorable for a large attendance, as rain began falling early in the forenoon, and continued; there was however quite a large audience, being largely made up of representative men and women of churches whose members seldom meet for worship around a common altar. The fact that they could and did thus unite and enjoy a religious service in common was a pleasing spectacle—and it marks one of the great changes that have come about since the days of our fathers, who instituted the Thanksgiving festival.

The discourse was by Rev. Mr. Gooding, pastor of the Unitarian church. Text: "Thy kingdom come * * * on earth," and its purpose was to strengthen "Our confidence in ideals."

In commencing the speaker remarked that Thanksgiving was a day on which the preacher, by common consent and established custom, was allowed to depart from the strictly religious pulpit themes, and to present his thoughts upon the affairs of the commonwealth, the country, and those social questions in which all, without distinction of creed, have a common interest. It may be that laymen think the preacher's thoughts and advice upon these subjects are of very little importance; that they will say that he is altogether impractical, that he does not take the world as it is, but rather as he thinks it should be; that he is holding up a standard of perfection utterly beyond the attainment of men; that they would listen with more satisfaction to him if he would discuss that which is practicable, and not demand of men that which only gods can attain.

After this introduction, he went on to show, and did show in an able and eloquent manner, that there was reason, both in experience and in religious faith, for the presentation of and confidence in the ideals of perfection. Men have never altogether confined their thoughts or actions to the conventional and the low. From the dawn of civilization till now the struggle among men has been towards the ideal—and no age has been wanting for some who have been lifelong servants, even martyrs to the ideal. References to history were made, to show that great upward moral progress has been made and that a higher level is constantly being attained in the moral sentiments and practical life of the people. There is hope, from the progress already made, and in the belief and promise that God's will shall be done, that the time will come when the conventional standard of honesty, of truth, of Christian union, will give place to the high and perfect standard taught by Jesus, whose life was in perfect accord with the high ideal of his teaching. No, it is not in vain—it is not without hope—that the perfect standard in morals, religion and life is presented. Then, let preachers be permitted to do, as they have done in the past, hold up for the example and encouragement of their hearers the high standard which has in every age been the ideal towards which have aimed those who have done most to elevate mankind.

The discourse was listened to with close attention, and evidently with great satisfaction, by the audience. It was delivered in a clear and distinct tone, and the truths so clearly enunciated will doubtless be long remembered.—Times.

MARITIME NOTES.

The ship South American, of Boston, commanded by Capt. George Wallace Tucker, formerly of this city, was in port at Calcutta Oct. 19th, for New York; also the ship Eclipse, Capt. Shillaber, and barque Harvard, Capt. Pray, destination uncertain. Ship Grandee, of this port, Capt. Evans, uncertain, and barque Antioch, Capt. Hemingway, for New York, were in port at Hong Kong Oct. 20th.

We are informed that a telegram was received in this city Nov. 26th, from Bangor, announcing the arrival there of the schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Williams, from this port via Portland, with her mainmast gone. No particulars were given.

The schooners G. W. Raitt, D. K. Ham and Chilion, of the brick fleet, arrived from Boston on Thanksgiving day, and have hauled up for the winter.

The new schooner Lizzie J. Call, Calf master, sailed for Baltimore about noon on Friday, on her first voyage. She was started down the river by the tug Clara Batemen. The schooner's cargo consists of 2100 barrels of apples, shipped by Charles H. Hayes & Son.

Capt. Henry Cook, a noted shipmaster and owner of Newburyport, Mass., died Nov. 23d, aged seventy years. He was master of the ship Inez at the age of twenty-three, and since then had commanded a number of large vessels, retiring in 1869. He had been an aldermen and held other officers at Newburyport, and was president of the Marine society of that city. He leaves a family. Capt. Cook was quite well known to many of the older persons in this city formerly interested in shipping affairs, he having overseen the construction of several large ships built on this river for owners in Newburyport and other places.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Rev. John Hainer, of Millbridge, Me., will preach in the Court street Christain church on Sunday, morning and evening.

The First Universalist church, Pleasant street; L. H. Fisher, pastor. Morning service at 10:30.—"The Place for Anxiety in Religion." At 7:30, evening,—"The Judgment Day in Modern Thought."

Elder J. Hemenway of Boston will lecture on "Evolution," with illustrated chart, in the Advent chapel on Sunday afternoon and evening. The public are cordially invited.

Mr. Harry P. Junkins, for a number of years clerk in the periodical store of Moses Bros. in this city, but now with S. H. McDowell, dealer in gentlemen's furnishing goods at Chelsea, Mass., was in Portsmouth on Thanksgiving day for a brief visit.

Charles A. Morse has been appointed postmaster at Newmarket, vice Samuel H. Green, removed.

The Myra Goodwin company, in "Sis," had a large audience at Music hall Friday evening, and the innumerable comicalities of the piece caused almost continuous laughter and applause. During the play Miss Goodwin, who plays the banjo beautifully, was presented with a very beautiful banjo made of flowers.

Hon. Frank Jones has arrived home from Florida.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York during the week ending Nov. 19th, was $101,981.47; total amount of endowments paid, $17,308.52.

Commodore Harmony, chief of the naval bureau of yards and docks, in his report to the secretary of the navy deplores the condition of the wharves and buildings at the eastern navy yards, and calls especial attention to the lack of adequate docking facilites for vessels of such size as are likely to be the cruising ships of the near future. For the Portsmouth navy yard an appropriation of $20,000 is asked to put the floating balance dock in proper condition—about one-tenth part as much as is required to do the work. The water service in this yard, the report states, has been improved by the erection of a windmill, which obviates the expensive methods previously employed of using the fire engines for the purpose of distribution. The amount of water is, however, still insufficient, and $9500 is again asked for to increase the storage capacity by cleaning out the ponds from which the water is supplied, and for the erection of a new reservoir.

Twelve carpenters and two hole-borers were discharged from the navy yard Friday evening.

Two men were injured by the cars in Portland, Me., Nov. 24th. In the Maine Central yard, in the forenoon, Paschal B. Bailey slipped on stepping from a freight car, and was struck by a wheel, which broke the small bone in one of his legs. In the afternoon, in the Portland & Ogdensburg yard, James F. Manning caught his foot in a frog, and was struck by a shifting engine, receiving severe and probably fatal injuries.

Grand raffle at M. Garrity's, No. 23 Daniel street, this evening. Free oyster chowder will be served.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

THE HANDBILL NUISANCE.

Messrs. Editors: Ought not a stop to be put to the annoyance caused by the indiscrimate circulation of handbills by small boys, who go through the streets with hands full of bills for some travelling doctor or some patent medicine? No one objects to this distribution if it could be done quietly, but when one's door bell is jerked violently, perhaps several times in a day, where persons in delicate health are inmates of the house, becomes in time a serious annoyance to the housekeepers, as it is to them who may be called from domestic work of importance. It is far better that if the persons who seek our patronage cannot afford to advertise in the newspapers, that they should distribute their sheets quietly, and not compel householders to come to the door at times when it may be far from convenient to attend to such unsatisfactory calls.

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. H. GINN, 1229 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

For Weak Women.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "About the first of September, 1881, my wife was taken with uterine hemorrhage. The best physicians in the physiciana could prescribe did not check it and she got more and more enfeebled. She was prescribed uterine tonics, Leucorrhea, numbness of the limbs, sickness of the stomach and loss of appetite. I purchased a trial bottle of your Vegetable Compound. She said she could discover a memory effect from the first dose. Now she is comparatively free from the Prolapsus, Stomach's sickness, &c. The hemorrhage is very much better and is less at the regular periods. Her appetite is restored, and her general health and strength are improved. We feel that we have been wonderfully benefitted and our hearts are overflowing in gratitude for the same and in sympathy for other sufferers, for whose sake we allow our names to be used." C. W. EATON, Thurston, N. Y.

Marriage and Health.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 5th, 1883. Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: "As is frequent by the case who mothers who have reared large families, I have tried the skill of a number of physicians, and the virtue of many medicines without relief, and as an experienced I concluded to try yours. I am not a seeker after notoriety but I want to tell you that I have been wonderfully benefitted by your medicine. I am now using my fourth bottle and it would take but little argument to persuade me that my health is fully restored. I should like to widely circulate the fact of its wonderful curative powers." Vacations for Clergymen.

There comes a time when the roads are piled with snow, when the wind whistles around the church, and the few who brave the storm shiver in their pews, and try to think of the words of the preacher rather than the long, cold way home. There comes a time when the sexton's efforts fail to secure warmth and comfort in the country church. At this time it becomes a hardship to leave the fireside and struggle with the storm in order to attend church; and the minister gives his carefully-prepared sermon to a dozen listeners. Why is not this time most fit vacation? Why not give the minister an opportunity to attend the lectures and concerts, to avail himself of the culture and advantages of the city? Many country homes are closed, while their inmates enjoy the winter helps of the city. Then why not close the country churches in January, or some other winter month, when the vacation would be truly appreciated, and let the dwellers in the city continue to enjoy their August vacation?—Church Register.

What Chinese Paper Is Made of.

It was towards the end of the first century of our era that a great mandarin of the palace, a distinguished physician, discovered the secret of making a very fine paste with the bark of several trees and old silk stuffs, by boiling them in water. He made with this paste different kinds of papers. To-day the chi—which is the name given to paper in China—is manufactured with divers materials. They make it of hemp, of mulberry bark, with that of the cotton-tree and several other trees, particularly the bamboo; of rice and wheat straw, and, lastly, of the little skin which is found in the cocoon of silk-worms.—Art Age.

Natural Gas and Silk Dresses.

It is said that the introduction of natural gas as fuel in Pittsburg has enabled the ladies of that city to wear delicate silks that were out of the question when soft coal was employed for this purpose and soot and grime reigned supreme.—New York Graphic.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many persons are afflicted with skin eruptions, boils or ulcers. Brandreth's Pills taken freely will in a short time effect a complete cure of such troubles. Ulcers of long standing have been cured by them. Carbuncles have been checked in their incipiency by them. The worst fever sores, bed sores, and the like have been driven from the skin by them. Only begin in time and a few of Brandreth's Pills will prevent many a sickness. Taken freely they will cure any disease.

Michael Davitt's friends believe there is a conspiracy to murder him because of his opposition to the measures of the Rossa faction.

Chronic Pleurisy Cured.

Garfield, Pawnee Co., Kansas, Jan. 30th, 1886.

I have been for some years troubled with pleuretic pains in my left side, which come on in the beginning of winter, and are so severe that I am confined to the house. During the past winter I used two Allcock Plasters on my left side, and after the first week all pain left me and I was perfectly able to attend my business. After wearing them two weeks, I would wash them off with a little alcohol and then go two or three weeks perfectly well. I have only had to put them on three times during the past winter, and must say Allcock's Plasters are all that they are represented to be. L. E. CALLEN.

The work of tearing down the new stone dam of the Newmarket Manufacturing Co., which was ruined by the freshet of Nov. 18th, began last week, preparatory to rebuilding.

During the early stages of the Knights of Labor agitation, a Lynn man undertook to establish shoe manufacturing in Skowhegan, Me., the town building for him a brick factory at a cost of $36,000. The factory for a time employed 400 hands, and the pay roll was more than $12,000 a month. The trade unions then took hold to manage things, and now nobody is employed regularly in the mill, which is expected to permanently close its doors in a short time.

Two 1886 Gold Medals.

Messrs. Mason & Hamlin again have the distinguished honor of having been awarded the highest gold medal over all exhibitors, American and European, both at Liverpool and Edinburgh, the two most important exhibitions of the year 1886. Since the first great Paris exhibition of 1867, the Mason & Hamlin organs have invariably received the highest honors at all great world's exhibitions. The new mode of piano construction, invented and introduced by Mason & Hamlin in 1882, is no longer an experiment but an assured success, tested and proved, many of the best judges having pronounced it "the greatest improvement in pianos of the century." By it musical tones of remarkable brightness and purity are obtained, and tuning is required less than one-quarter as often as in the old system. An illustrated catalogue, fully explaining the improvements, will be sent free to any address.

A Foolish and Stubborn Belief

in the efficacy of certain remedies of violent action, is the besetting foible of the ignorant and prejudiced. The indiscriminate use of purgatives is a very common phase of the infirmity of such people. Aloes, podyphillin, disguised in sugar coating, castor oil, mercury, and other old fashioned drugs, still hold their own among this class, and although the success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters sufficiently disproves the necessity for violence in medication, the adherents of an exploded fallacy still persist in giving and taking inordinate purgative doses. Dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint are as certainly and thoroughly subdued by the Bitters, as they are invariably aggravated by an indiscriminate use of medicines, official or proprietary, belonging to the class which we have condemned. Fever and ague, nervousness, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys, yield to the Bitters.

A collision on the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad, last Thursday, killed one employe and severely injured several others.

The question of a proper food for infants interests all mothers; especially those unable to nurse their offspring. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisites as a substitute for mothers' milk, and is highly commended by the medical faculty of both Europe and America.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease lies in the seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

ROSES AND RUE.

Dear, it is twilight time, the time of rest;
Ah! cease that weary racing to and fro;
Sit down beside me in this cushioned nest,
Warm with the brightness of our fireside glow.
Dear, thou art troubled. Let me share thy lot
Of shadow, as I share thy sunshine now.
I am no child, though childhood, lost not yet,
Lies close behind me, with its toys and flowers;
I am a woman, waked by happy love
To keep home's sacred altar-fire alight!
Thou hast elected me to stand above
All others in thine heart. I claim my right.
Not wife alone, but mate, and comrade true;
I shared thy roses, let me share thy rue.

Bitter? I know it. God hath made it so,
But from His hand shall we take good alone,
And evil never? Let the world's wealth go,
Life hath no loss which love can not atone.
Show me the new hard path that we must tread;
I shall not faint, nor falter by the way;
And, be there cloud or sunshine overhead,
I shall not fail thee to my dying day.
But love me, love me, let our hearts and lips
Cling closer in our sorrow than in joy;
Let faith outshine our fortunes in eclipse,
And love deem wealth a broken toy.
Joy made us glad, let sorrow find us true;
God blessed our roses, He will bless our rue.

—All the Year Round.

A STORY OF STONEWALL JACKSON.

A Time When He Prevaricated—His Strict Observance of the Sabbath.

Talking with him once about some subject of casuistry or prevarication, I put the question direct to him, "Did you never tell a lie?" Pausing, as was his invariable manner before giving a categorical answer, as if for an introspective review of his consciousness, he said: "Yes; but only once, so far as I can remember. I was leading my men through a rank chaparral, infested by Mexican guerrillas. The balls were flying incessantly, and the broad leaves of the tropical plants were being riddled through and through. They became panic-stricken, and notwithstanding my repeated order for advance, they hung back. Stepping some distance in front of them into a narrow pass, where the bullets were whizzing round my head, and the foliage was being cut to ribbons, I called out: 'Follow me, men! Don't you see there is no danger?'"

He never posted a letter without calculating whether it would have to travel on Sunday to reach its place of destination, and if so he would not mail it till Monday morning. Still further did he carry his Puritanical observance. Unnumbered times have I known him to receive important letters so late on Saturday night that he would not break his fixed resolution never to use his eyes, which were very delicate, by artificial light; he would carry the letters in his pocket till Monday morning, then rise with the sun to read them. * * * In the winter of 1861-2, while Jackson's forces were at Winchester, he sent a brigade to destroy the canal leading to Washington. The expedition proved a failure, and he attributed it in some measure to the fact that Sunday had been needlessly trespassed upon.

So when a second expedition was planned he determined there should be no Sabbath-breaking connected with it that he could prevent. The advance was to be made early on Monday morning. On Saturday he ordered my husband (Col. Preston, at that time on his staff,) to see that the necessary powder was in readiness. The quartermaster could not find a sufficient quantity in Winchester on Saturday, but during Sunday it was procured. On Sunday evening the fact in some way got to Jackson's ears. At a very early hour on Monday he dispatched an officer to Shepherdstown for other powder, which was brought. Then summoning Col. Preston he said very decisively: "Colonel, I desire that you will see that the powder which is used for this expedition is not the powder that was procured on Sunday."—The Century.

Disposition of the Dead.

A novel plan of disposing of the dead is projected by a Chicago architect, who lacks only a charter and $500,000 to carry out his scheme. He proposes to erect a monster edifice resembling the ancient tower of Babel, which might be carried to any hight desirable—from twenty-five to fifty stories high. The structure should be architecturally beautiful and classic in design, and built of solid masonry. Thousands of vaults could be arranged in this building, which could be sold or rented for single interments or for the accommodation of families. The walls of each department should be of stone, with ornamental entrances, and the entire building hollow to the sky. At all times a huge fire would be kept in the basement of the central court, which would effectually destroy all the poisonous vapors and gases which might arise from the process of human decomposition.—Boston Transcript.

A clerk in a men's furnishing store says that the man who buttons the left side of his collar first makes a mistake, for he uses his right hand for that and then uses his left for the more difficult task of buttoning the other side. He should reverse the process.—New York Sun.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

OLD-TIME STORIES.

A few days after this conversation, letters were received from England, and the Lady Ursula had the unspeakable happiness to receive a packet from her long lost lover. He had been for years a prisoner of war, removed from one place of confinement to another, and denied privilege of correspondence with his friends. But the war ended, the prisoners were exchanged, and he returned home to his country in the joyful expectation of meeting his mistress. Although disappointed in that expectation, he had determined to embark in a few days for the New World, thinking he should arrive by the last of October, claim her as his bride, and to her devote the remainder of his life. You may judge of her surprise and delight at this unlooked for and welcome letter; all was bustle and preparation. 'We shall have a most joyful Thanksgiving,' she exclaimed; 'and the harvest shall be gotten in speedily, while afterwards, no labor shall be exacted for a month.'

It was proposed that Thanksgiving be passed at Long Lane, and Christmas at Cutt's island; joy reigned in the household, and visions of bliss filled the hopes and heart of the Lady Ursula, giving brilliancy to her cheek, and elasticity to her step. But who can tell what to-morrow may bring forth! A few days after the delightful intelligence, she went, as was frequent, with an attendant, in a low carriage, to take refreshments to her work-people, who were employed upon a distant part of the estate. The food was placed upon the grass, the men had all assembled. She blessed the repast she had brought, but while the words were upon her lips she fell, struck down by the tomahawk of an Indian, to rise no more. All that were about shared the same fate—butchered on the spot, except one, whose speed outstripped his pursuers; the drawbridge was not down; he swam the river and gave the alarm to the major's family, who in haste rushed to the dreadful scene, to behold the bleeding body of his sister, and those of all her attendants. The savages in the meantime had plundered her house, and set fire to the out-buildings, but fled before their pursuers could come up with them. Who can describe the mournful scene! The murdered Lady Ursula and her attendants slain beside her, were interred upon the spot where the massacre took place, and a stone was raised to her memory, which I believe yet remains. In a few days Colonel Fowler arrived, but disappointed and heart-broken, he remembarked for his native country, lamenting the sad conclusion of all hopes, and the tragical fate of a lovely woman who had proved sincere and faithful in her attachment to him, and an honor to her sex."

"This was my mother's story, and I have only to add, that at the commencement of the war that rendered America a free and independent nation, a descendant of Colonel Fowler came to this country and visited my grandfather, who was Judge of Probate, and applied to him to search the records for a will made by this unfortunate lady, as soon as she had ascertained the existence of her lover, bequeathing him all her property. Time had passed without any demand, and the estate had been purchased by Colonel Whipple, to whose widow it now belongs. The will could not be found, and the gentleman returned no richer than he came."

Naval Intelligence.

Lieut. G. M. Stoney is detached from command of the northern Alaska expedition, and ordered to special duty in the bureau of navigation.

Surgeon Homer L. Law, Passed Assistant Surgeon G. C. Lippincott, and Paymaster W. N. Walmough are ordered to appear before the retiring board.

Assistant Surgeon E. T. Warburton is ordered to special duty under the examining board of engineers at the League island navy yard.

Passed Assistant Surgeon E. H. Marsteller is detached from the Iroquois and ordered to the Hartford, Pacific squadron. Assistant Surgeon F. W. F. Wieber is detached from the Hartford and ordered to the Iroquois. Lieutenant J. R. Selfridge is detached from the Hartford and ordered to the Iroquois. Lieutenant E. P. Wood is detached from the Iroquois and ordered to the Hartford. Lieutenant W. I. Moore is detached from the Hartford and ordered to the Adams.

Lieutenant Commander Jacob E. Noel is detached from the Adams, Pacific squadron, and ordered to return home. Captain W. Rawle Brown, U. S. M. C., is detached from the Hartford and ordered home.

Commodore Harmony, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, denies a story to the effect that men were employed on the Norfolk navy yard for political purposes, by the Whitney-Cleveland-Harmony reform administration. He says the men's work was needed, and they were employed in strict accordance with the statutes. Of course; that is all well understood.

A Washington letter-writer says in regard to the navy, that "Secretary Whitney is laboring with another of his reorganization ideas. The law expressly prohibits him from merging one bureau into another, but Mr. Whitney proposes to violate its spirit but not its letter by making the bureau of steam engineering subordinate to that of construction and repair, and yet retain its present organization. Engineer-in-Chief Loring will continue in office, but will be subjected to the orders of the chief naval constructor. Until the new law is made both officers will have all the honor and pay of bureau chiefs. It is stated that it is not certain that the constructor-in-chief will be the naval constructor. It is, perhaps, possible, so rumor has it, that he will be a line officer. Here again the law steps in and will prevent the secretary from following out what he thinks best. Ever since he entered the cabinet he has been on the side of the line officer."

Numerous discharges have occurred among the civil employes at the Washington navy yard, owing to the changing of the establishment from a navy yard to an ordnance manufactory.

Secretary Manning's health is again reported poor, and his friends fear that his official duties will prove too much for him.

It is said the embezzlement of Reed, the South Boston horse railroad treasurer, will amount to over $250,000.

MILK CAR.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 22d, 1886.

To the Farmers of Portsmouth and Vicinity:

THE LYNN MILK COMPANY will commence on Wednesday, Dec. 1st, 1886, to run their Milk Car from Lynn through to Portsmouth, N. H., for four months, and have made arrangements with the Boston & Maine Railroad for a permanent milk car from Portsmouth to Lynn after April 1st, 1887, to run in connection with their other milk business. This affords to the Farmers of Portsmouth and Vicinity an opportunity to dispose of their milk to a cash customer. Further information in regard to this matter will be furnished by John Mooney or Nathaniel E. Wise of Portsmouth, Charles O. Cook of Hampton, or Geo. W. Southworth, Manager Lynn Milk Co., 39 Summer St., Lynn, Mass. n24,2w,n29

In the superior criminal court in Boston last week, complaints against several violators of the lobster law were reached, and counsel for the defendants moved to quash the complaints on the ground that the statute is absurd, and cannot be sustained. He cited cases in support. Judge Hammond said that he was of the opinion that the act is nonsensical, and if the government had the right of appeal he would sustain the motion to quash; but as the government had not that right he would overrule the motion, and let the cases go to the supreme court, which alone could settle the matter. This opinion of the Boston judge will be of much interest to the lobster fishermen of this region; but it will be advisable for them to await the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court before shipping "short" lobsters to the Boston market, as the supreme bench may not coincide in opinion with Judge Hammond.

great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

SATURDAY, Nov. 27th.

James Hart was before the court for drunkenness. Mr. Hart has long been accustomed to appear before the court as a drunkard about this time every year, and go to Brentwood for the winter. On this occasion a diversion was introduced, he being sent to jail to board out an assessment of $11.90, fine and costs.

Patrick Sheehan and Hattie McDonald were fined $5 each, and Charles Osgood and Patrick Carter $3 each, for drunkenness; costs in each case, $6.90. This quartette goes to Brentwood.

Nellie A. Mathes (continued case, charged with being idle and disorderly) was dismissed on her promise to leave this region. An officer was sent with her to the state line, to see that she did not forget her promise before arriving there.

HOWARD BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth Howard Benevolent society was held Saturday evening, and officers for the ensuing year elected as follows:

President, E. P. Kimball;
Secretary, Lewis W. Brewster;
Treasurer, George Annable;
Directors, Benjamin Cheever, Samuel S. Green, John H. Broughton, Lyman D. Spalding, J. Chaplin Carr, Wm. D. Fernald, John S. Rand, T. E. O. Marvin, Charles H. Mendum, John T. French, Joseph H. Thacher.

This most excellent charitable organization disbursed last year, with the care and judicious discrimination for which its operations have always been noted, about $1100. Every case of need brought to the society's notice is carefully but promptly investigated, and relief is rendered in such form that the amount disbursed shall do the most good to the beneficiaries. The funds of the society are derived from the annual contribution of $1 by each member, and by private donations from persons who are willing to aid the worthy poor, but have not time or opportunity to make personal enquiry into their circumstances. Persons contributing $1 yearly to the fund become members of the society.

THE EASTERN RAILROAD.

The following figures are from the annual returns to the Massachusetts railroad commissioners of the Eastern railroad for the year ending Sept. 30th, 1886. As is well known, the road is leased to the Boston & Maine, and its traffic statistics are included in the returns of the latter-named road: Total increase of receipts, 1886, $1,292,412; do. 1885, $1,016,755. Total expenses, 1886, $9,860; do. 1885, $6,293. Rental, 1886, $1,050,522; do. 1885, $1,284,552. Interest accrued, 1886, $850,431; do. 1885, $872,602. Surplus for the year 1886, $424,150; do. 1885, $137,919. Balance Sept. 30th, 1886, $702,067; do. 1885, $351,668. Funded debt, 1886, $13,224,204; do. 1885, $13,657,821. Unfunded debt, 1886, $830,835; do. 1885, $819,187 Number of shareholders, 1886, 1,522; do. 1885, 1,677. Stockholders in Massachusetts, 1886, 945; do. 1885, 1,110. Stock held in Massachusetts, 1886, $9,381,200; do. 1885, $4,383,500.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Emily A. Staples, Goodwin master, has sailed from York river with a load of bricks from Norton's brickyard, bound for Providence, R. I., where after discharging her bricks she will take on board a general cargo for Jacksonville, Florida. From Jacksonville she will proceed to the sawmills on the St. John river, and load with hard pine dimension lumber for New York; thence returning eastward for the spring operations in the line of brick transportation.

The brick schooner Estella, Capt. Burns, has hauled up for the winter at Dover point, where she will undergo repairs before resuming her work next spring.

The British schooner Daisy Queen, wrecked on Folly island at the entrance to Cape Porpoise harbor, Me., on the night of Nov. 12th, was sold by auction at Kennebunkport on Nov. 23d. The hull brought $41, and the sails, boats, blocks, rigging, etc., saved from the wreck, brought $81. The lumber saved was sold in rafts, at $8.20 per thousand for plank, $8.75 for boards, and $1.25 for laths, duties to be paid by the purchaser.

The schooner L. D. Wentworth, Pendleton master, coal laden, went ashore on Folly island, Cape Porpoise, on the afternoon of Nov. 26th, and vessel and cargo became a total loss; crew saved with the assistance of the lighthouse keepers. The L. D. Wentworth was an old craft of little value, registering but 104 tons, and having been built in 1853; she was owned in Bangor, Me.

The United States fish commission schooner Grampus, which fouled the Direct United States Cable Co.'s telegraph cable a short time ago on Brown's bank, losing her cable and anchor in order to save the telegraph cable from damage, presented a claim for loss to the telegraph cable company, and was immediately reimbursed.

The subject of the sermon yesterday in the Universalist church was "The place for anxiety in religion." The text, Amos VI, 1: "Woe to them that are at ease in Zion." There need be no anxiety for the existence of the religion of One God. There need be no anxiety as to his nature, or as to his power. Therefore there need be no anxiety about our future life as being less in his power than this life. To God there is but one world. Its laws are constant. Religion is for this above-named world. Our anxiety is not for any world but the one which is in our present and immediate care, as vice-gerents of God. A finished opinion of the next should not give ease.

Trouble is reported in the "Creek Nation." On the afternoon of Thanksgiving day a brewery workman was pitched by one of his fellows into a tank of water hot enough to scald him considerably, but not quite hot enough to boil him. On Saturday evening there was a rumshop fight in that district, and the pitcher of Thanksgiving day was batted hard about the nose and eyes by one of the enemy. When the Creek Indians get their warpaint on they make things lively.

An owl measuring five feet from tip to tip of the extended wings was caught by the legs last week in a trap set by Mr. J. S. Hoyt of Newington. The capture of his owlship was in revenge for his making a Thanksgiving dinner of a fine turkey; the captive has to content himself with such plebeian viands as rats and sheeps' heads now, and may be thankful to get even such a bill of fare as that.

Mr. Charles H. Wyatt, formerly for many years passenger train conductor on the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, from which position he retired on account of disease of the brain, died in Concord Nov. 27th. He was a member of St. John's lodge, and of Washington chapter of Royal Arch Masons, of this city.

Smelts were brought into the Portsmouth market last week in considerable numbers from York river, and were sold at fair prices.

The electric street-lights discontinued business without warning, shortly after nine o'clock Saturday evening, giving the people then abroad a pretty good opportunity to judge of their value. The trouble was caused by a pully getting loose at the electric-light station, and was remedied in about twenty minutes, when the lights again blazed forth.

On Thanksgiving day Mr. George Shute of Newmarket, a noted gunner, went out to get a bird, and shot a fine plump partridge, which he put in his coat pocket with intent to convert into a pot-pie. Half an hour later, while Mr. Shute was stooping over, the dead bird fell from his pocket, and when he essayed to pick it up the pot-pie suddenly flew away with a resounding whirr-r-r, the sportsman being too much surprised at the eccentric proceeding to think of his gun until the breakfast was beyond range.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Manchester Union says "There has been a lively disturbance kicked up in Greenland over the working of the new school district law, and a costly law proceeding has been commenced. It seems the taxes in one of the districts, where the value of the school house is about $200, are treble what they are in the other districts having school houses worth in the aggregate $5200. The town voted to return to the tax payers in the heavily taxed district the excess paid over the ordinary rate, and directed this to be paid from the money received from the sale of the town farm. Several of the residents in the lightly taxed districts filed a bill in equity, and procured an injunction against the person having custody of the money, enjoining him not to pay any of it for any such purpose. A lively time is anticipated."

THE FROZEN-HERRING TRADE.

The Canadian commissioner of customs has written to a Gloucester skipper, in reply to a query, stating that there is nothing in the Canadian customs or fisheries regulations to prevent American vessels buying frozen fish in New Brunswick, "provided they comply with the customs laws and regulations with regard to reporting and clearing and making entries in the same manner as it is required in the case of Canadian vessels. It must be borne in mind, however, that regular fishing vessels adapted and fitted out for deep sea fisheries stand on a different basis to that which applies to the vessels before mentioned." This is a plain notification that any American fishing vessel which visits the British provincial ports to purchase frozen herring must be careful not to have a fish hook or fish-scale on board, or she will be seized and have her flag hauled down by some petty Canadian official, necessitating the payment of a heavy fine by the unfortunate vessel, and the hasty forwarding of another letter of regrets from Secretary Bayard at the Yankee skipper's insolence in daring to hoist the American flag in a Candian port.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

Three of the portraits referred to in the Old-Time Stories as once being in the Sparhawk mansion, now hang in the reading room of the Portsmouth Athenæum. There were originally four, but the portrait of Sir William Pepperrell was given away a number of years ago by an officer of that institution. Parsons quotes as follows from letters of Admiral Sir Peter Warren, the commandant of the British squadron which conveyed Pepperrell and his army to Louisburg, written from Europe to the baronet in 1751, in allusion to these paintings: "Our portraits should have been with you ere now, could we have got the painter to finish them. Mine is pretty forward, and I hope you will have it this fall, and the other as soon as possible. * * Smybert has not sent your and Captain Spry's portraits, which I admire (wonder at.) Sir Harry Frankland had commissions from me to get them sent to me." There is every reason for the inference that a portrait of Lady Warren accompanied that of Sir Peter, both being full lengths, executed by Smibert.

Chronic Catarrh

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Intelligence of Driver Ants.

There are certain ants that show wonderful intelligence, and the "driver ants" not only build boats, but launch them, too; only, these boats are formed of their own bodies. They are called "drivers" because of their ferocity. Nothing can stand before the attack of these little creatures. Large pythons have been killed by them in a single night, while chickens, lizards, and other animals in western Africa flee from them in terror. To protect themselves from the heat, they erect arches, under which numerous armies of them pass in safety. Sometimes the arch is made of grass and earth gummed together by some secretion, and again it is formed by the bodies of the larger ants, which hold themselves together by their strong nippers, while the workers pass under them.

At certain times of the year freshets overflow the country inhabited by the "drivers," and it is then that these ants go to sea. The rain comes suddenly, and the walls of their houses are broken in by the flood, but instead of coming to the surface in scattered hundreds and being swept off to destruction, out of the ruins raises a black ball, that rides safely on the water and drifts away. At the first warning of danger the little creatures rush together and form a solid ball of ants, the weaker in the center: often this ball is larger than a common base ball, and in this way they float about until they lodge against some tree, upon the branches of which they are soon safe and sound.—St. Nicholas.

Against "High" Meat.

A London physician, Dr. T. Lander Brunton, comes out against "high" meat, the taste for which is, in his judgment an acquired and a morbid one, and also dangerous, since eating "high" meat overtaxes the bile and gastric juice.—Medical Journal.

A Capital Way.

Capt. Jawkins—No, I'm not exactly engaged, but I have the refusal of two or three girls.

Miss Ethel—What a capital way of putting it! I suppose you mean you have asked them, and they have said "no."—Harper's Bazar.

CAPTAIN S GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he tried Hunt's Remedy for health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

Down on the North Carolina coast two lighthouse keepers quarrelled about the color of the sea, and neither spoke a word to the other for three months, when they were both discharged by the government.

"I have sold and am selling Athlophoros. In several cases I have recommended it for rheumatism and have found it to be a good thing," says C. W. Wells, a druggist of Maynard, Mass. No remedy can be recommended more conscientiously.

Dennis Haggerty and John F. Ayers, two striking tanners of Salem, Mass., are held in $1,000 each for further examination on a charge of being concerned in a cowardly and brutal assault on two non-union men in a horse car.

There is no doubt about the honest worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Thousands who have been benefited by its use, will attest its virtues. This remedy removes liver and kidney complaint, and eradicates every trace of disease from the system.

Lady Colin Campbell, wife of Lord Colin Campbell, fifth son of the duke of Argyll, has sued for a divorce, and the case came up for trial in London Nov. 26th. A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakeded by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

A despatch of Nov. 26th from Halifax, N. S., says: "The Canadian government and the Gloucester owners of the seized schooner Moro Castle have ratified a compromise agreed to by Consul General Phelan and Inspector Hill, for the release of that vessel upon the payment of $1000 fine, to include expenses. This is to be a final settlement, and the charges of alleged violation of the fishery treaty will not be pressed."

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

An east-bound train on the Boston & Maine railroad struck a team containing three men at the Main street crossing in Biddeford on the night of Nov. 26th, instantly killing William R. Benjamin, and inflicting probably fatal injuries upon Daniel O. S. Hooper one of the leading farmers in that section of the state, and president of the York County Agricultural society. They failed to hear the engineer's signal, if any was given. There is no flagman at the crossing after nine o'clock at night. Benjamin leaves a widow and five children; Hooper has a family.

The Japanese still believe the first man was not Adam, but Hu-Sing. It may be so. The first legitimate household remedy ever offered to a suffering public was Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a sure cure for coughs and colds.

William C. Flagg, a native of Dover and formerly a resident of this city, but for twenty-five years past freight agent in New York for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, dropped dead in the cabin of a ferryboat on the East river last Friday night. of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, says: Sulphur Bitters saved my life. For ten years I have suffered from catarrh and liver complaint; I lost forty-five pounds and was growing worse rapidly. I had lost all faith in medicine, but hearing your Bitters so well recommended, I gave them a trial. Six bottles cured me. —Smith P. Hunt, Waverly, Iowa.

George W. Tash, shoe manufacturer, of Dover, was stricken with apoplexy Monday afternoon.

It is wise to provide against emergencies which are liable to arise in family. In sudden attacks of cold, croup, asthma, etc., a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will prove a never failing remedy.

A Farmington writer says it seems as though the Cloutman & Bingham shoe manufactory in that town is going to wind up its business, as the employes are leaving as fast as they finish their part of the work, and as near as can be learned the shop will be shut down for an indefinite time. This is a severe blow to the business interests of Farmington, as the firm did a large business and paid weekly, thus putting a large sum of money in circulation.

Several fresh, bright books for Christmas and gift-use are going through the press at D. Lothrop & Co.'s. Among them are "My Land and Water Friends," by Mary E. Bamford, sensible and chatty natural history for children; "Nelly Marlow in Washington," by Laura D. Nichols, a delightful volume of strolls among the curiosities in the National museum in Washington; "All Among the Lighthouses," by Mary Bradford Crowninshield, the wife of Commander Crowninshield; "Sights Worth Seeing," by visitors to Paris, Venice and other great cities and places; "Children's Ballads," romantic events in history; "The Midnight Sun: the Tsar and the Nihilist," an important contribution upon Russia and her affairs, and her future.

The best testimony in favor of Pyle's Pearline Washing Compound is the millions of Packages sold every year, and sales steadily increasing in spite of the numerous poor imitations.

The depositors made a run on the German Savings bank, of Davenport, Iowa, last week, but the merchants supported the bank.

The household remedy. Hop Plasters for aches, strains, bruises, or soreness. Magic in action. 25 cents.

The British parliament will meet on Jan. 13th, 1887. The government will ask for the whole time of the house to deal with the procedure rules.

It is officially stated that Carlisle's seat in the next Congress will be contested.

Testimony of a Painter.

No. 105 Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.——Allcock's Porous Plasters are undoubtedly the best external remedy manufactured. I make this assertion to the public from my own personal experience of their wonderful virtues. Suffering from severe pains in my side and chest, contracted through a severe cold, I applied a couple of Allcock's Porous Plasters upon going to bed at night. The result was, that in eight hours after applying them I could get up and walk about with very little pain or ache, when the night previous I could neither get up nor down without help, nor stoop to remove my shoes. I have since used them in my family for various ailments, and have never known them to fail to give almost immediate relief. T. H. BACUS.

A Foolish and Stubborn Belief

in the efficacy of certain nemesis of violent action, is the besetting foible of the ignorant and prejudiced. The indiscriminate use of purgatives is a very common phase of the futility of such people. Aloes, podyphillin, disguised in sugar coating, castor oil, mercury, and other old fashioned drugs, still hold their own among this class, and although the success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters sufficiently disproves the necessity for violence in medication, the adherents of an exploded fallacy still persist in giving and taking inordinate purgative doses. Dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint are as certainly and thoroughly subdued by the Bitters, as they are invariably aggravated by an indiscriminate use of medicines, official or proprietary, belonging to the class which we have condemned. Fever and ague, nervousness, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys, yield to the Bitters.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease has its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

"John Phœnix" and Jeff Davis.

When Jeff Davis was secretary of war under President Pierce, he sent a circular letter to many army officers, inviting them to furnish suggestions for a change of uniform and equipment. One of these invitations was sent to Lieut. Derby, a good draughtsman and a merry wag, who sent in response a proposition for having a two-inch iron ring appended by a piece of strong leather to the seat of each enlisted man's trousers. Long and formal specifications demonstrated the utility of this ring. Each officer was to carry, instead of a sword, a long white-ash pole, with a hook on one end. By hooking into the ring of a private, he could be kept in line of battle if he was disposed to hang back, or caught if he attempted to run away. The ring would also be useful in the artillery service for draught purposes, and in the cavalry men could be locked to other rings in their saddles and so keep from falling off.

The illustrations which accompanied the specifications represented officers catching infantry stragglers and forcing them into the ranks, dragoons padlocked to their saddles and artillerymen with cannon prolongs hitched to their rings, hauling huge pieces of artillery up steep heights. It was very funny, and the clerks in the war department enjoyed some hearty laughs over it, but when it reached the secretary he became indignant, and regarded it as an insult. He ordered charges and specifications to be drawn up, and a court-martial (organized to convict, of course) was actually ordered, when it came to the ears of Governor Marcy, then secretary of state, who was level-headed, and who advised Davis to let the matter drop. He might have convicted Derby and dismissed him from the service, but he would have been laughed at from one end of the country to the other. Davis, who possessed a deal of common sense, took the advice, and Derby's "suggestions" are still to be found on the files of the war department. Derby, whose nom de plume was "John Phœnix," after a merry life, died just before the war. His son graduated at West Point, and is now in the army, and his daughter is a Washington belle.—Ben: Perley Poore in Boston Budget.

The First Lion Tamer.

"I remember the first time a man ever went into the lion's cage," said Eaton Stone, the veteran circus rider. "It was back in '28—before Van Amburgh's time. It was down in New Orleans. His name was Lane, and he had charge of a lion and lioness named Ajax and Nance. One day Ajax took sick and Lane determined to go into the cage and physic and nurse him, satisfied that the lion was too sick to do him much injury should he seek to attack him. Ajax showed such an appreciation of his kindness that he insisted on licking Lane's hand with his tongue and rubbing his head against his knees. I forgot to say that before going into the cage Lane had Nance partitioned off in one end of the cage. While she seemed to understand what Lane was doing for her mate and appreciated the kindness as highly as he did, Nance would try to get Lane to let her lick his hand and paw him, and one day he decided to go into the cage without shutting her off to herself. As he expected, she was as affectionate as she could be, and joined Ajax in his demonstrations of kindness and affection. When Ajax recovered Lane announced that he would go into the lions' den, but the public was afraid to come to the show. The announcement of Daniel in the lion's den, a religious exemplification, did not take, and there was no such lithographing and pictorial work done in those days.

The Paralyzed and Epileptic.

At the meeting of the British Medical association, of Brighton, England, Victor Horsley, F. R. S., surgeon to the national hospital for the paralyzed and epileptic, exhibited three patients treated in that hospital, whose recovery may be said to mark the commencement of a new era in surgery. They are men who have been suffering from severe epileptic fits, and in whom Mr. Horsley has opened the skull and has removed diseased structure or new growth from the brain itself. They had been operated on not less than a month previously and were sufficiently recovered to appear before the association. After a study of these cases it is claimed that what is actually proved at present is that it has become possible, by the observation of symptoms, not only to determine the fact of the existence of some morbid growth within the skull, but also to determine its precise position with such accuracy that it can be cut down upon and removed. It is also proved that considerable portions of brain may be removed without injury, the functions to which these portions are subservient being performed after awhile, very possibly, by corresponding parts of the opposite hemisphere.—Chicago Herald.

Judge—Have you anything to say before the court passes sentence upon you? Prisoner—Well, all I got to say is, I hope yer honor'll consider the extreme youth of my lawyer, an' let me off easy.—Puck.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHES, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, Boston, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Two grain elevators and nine frame buildings in Duluth, Minn., were burned Nov. 27th. Loss $865,000, with $702,000 insurance. Three men were killed.

OLD-TIME STORIES.

[With this issue we commence the second part of this interesting manuscript. This is, as will readily be seen, written by the author of the preceding reminiscences, but it is addressed to a descendant in a direct line of the Cutts family. It will be noted by those who have followed the course of these attractive recollections, that the name of Cutt has been given, instead of the orthography of Cutts, which latter form of spelling is now the legally authorized form.—Ed.] It should be recollected, however, that the author of these writings deals with the first bearers of the name on this side of the Atlantic. The name was Cutt, as borne by the representatives of the earliest generation in America. It was later changed to Cutts, the change being authorized by act of Parliament.—Eds.]

When you favored us with a visit, I felt that it would be impossible for me to give any information that could interest you, concerning your ancestors; and grieved that so natural and laudable a desire could not be gratified. I have since, however, searched the records of memory, and in one of her long-closed cells, have found some details that I received at an early age, from an excellent grandmother, who was a cousin to your great-grandfather. She was an orphan grandchild to the Mr. Cutt, who, with his sister, the Lady Ursula, emigrated from England to the shores of the Piscataqua. I only know that the family was of high standing and that several titles were added to that of Grondale Abbey.

I often heard Lord Thomas and Lord William Cutt named by my grandmother and her kinsman, the Major, who sometimes visited us; and these high-sounding titles exciting my curiosity, the inquiries I made drew from that kind and revered lady an account of their manner of living, with many details and anecdotes which I have now forgotten; I think one of the sons visited England, and resided for some time in his uncle's family in London.

Cutts Island, and a large tract of land in Kittery, formed a domain almost lordly. The drawbridge was raised every evening for the safety of the inhabitants and lowered in the morning to permit the retainers of the family and the labourers to attend to their several duties. Thirty cows, several hundred sheep, and a number of horses were kept on the estate.

The house was large and old-fashioned; one apartment was sufficiently spacious to entertain fifty or sixty guests. The arms of the Cutt family, with devices innumerable, covered the panels over the immense fire-places, the mantels of which were adorned with coloured glass and two silver branches for candles. The floors were daily rubbed with wax till they shone like a nice mahogany table; the walls were ornamented with paintings and with needlework of Mrs. Cutt and the young ladies. The daughters were sent to the best schools, and taught not only drawing, music and embroidery, but one day in every week was devoted to the making of cake and pastry, and I have been assured that the latter was half a quarter high, as light as a feather, and as white as snow.

One of the young ladies returning from school, with a daughter of Governour Vaughan, was detained at Portsmouth a few days by a storm She saw at the Governour's, tea, for the first time. "I did not know," said she, "how to act, but seeing Mrs. Vaughan add sugar and cream and raise the cup to her lip, I followed her example." She purchased a pound of tea, for which she gave a guinea, and sent to Boston for a sett of cups and saucers. This was the first tea used in the Province of Maine.

The young ladies assisted in spinning, attended to the dairy, and even saw to the culinary preparations. Madam Cutt herself always skimmed the milk, and instructed her maids in the quantity of rennet for the cheeses. They made two every day, and churned butter every morning. A pleasure-boat was kept, and each young lady had a horse and side-saddle of her own.

There was a domestic chaplain, who performed prayers morning and evening in a small apartment, which was called the chapel; also a steward and butler. The family attended the Episcopal church in Portsmouth on Christmas, Easter Sunday and Good Friday. Once every year they gave a grand entertainment, to which none but persons of quality were invited; the last of this kind was just previous to the marriage of my grandmother, and she has so frequently described it that it is still fresh in my memory.

The company were invited a week previous to the day appointed—it was the middle of June, and the anniversary of Madam Cutt's birth; Billy Ball, with his violin, was engaged for the whole day. The grass was rendered as smooth as velvet, and the walks that led from the river to the house nicely gravelled, on each side of which box reared its humble but wholesome head; in several places appeared a sun-flower or rose-bush, or a bed of tulips. These last were taken from the garden at Long Lane; the Lady Ursula had brought them from the Abbey in England. The fiddler and drummer, stationed at the landing, bade welcome with "God save the King."

An Unconditional Surrender.

The most extensive and disastrous strike ever known in the history of the leather business of Salem and Peabody, Mass., has come to an end, after having continued nearly five months. It began July 12th, with a demand that fifty-nine hours should constitute a week's work, and that a new splitter's price list should be adopted. These demands, and all which subsequently arose, have now been abandoned by the strikers, who ask to be taken back at the employers' terms. A mass meeting of the tanners' and curriers' assemblies of the Knights of Labor was held Sunday, the strike formally declared off, and the men counselled to get back to work as best they can. The surrender is absolute.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Nov. 29th, 1886.

Mr. David Lamprey, for the Lynn Milk Co., has built a temporary dam across the "Small gains" brook, and will overflow several acres of salt marsh for an ice-pond.

D. W. Dow, Esq., one of our most respected merchants, has retired from business, and Mr. John Willcott, son of Dea. Willcott, has taken his store. He has had considerable experience in the business at North Hampton, and has the general good wishes of the community for success here.

Thanksgiving day was quiet and rainy. Union services in the Methodist church. The pastor being absent from town, Rev. Dr. DeLancey preached for him; subject, Ps. 60:16, "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what He has done for my soul;" Ps. 144:15, "Happy is that people that is in such a case; yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

Mrs. Wright, mother of Mr. Wright, our popular railroad station agent, has moved into town, and taken the residence lately occupied by Mr. Laird, opposite the "Ballard Place." Mrs. Wright is a very successful instructor, having taught some fifty consecutive seasons in one school, we are informed.

Mr. Curtis DeLancey has so far recovered from the injuries received at the Portsmouth railroad bridge as to be able to superintend the building of the new road through "twelve shares in Ireland," so-called.

The High school closed a very successful term last Wednesday; Mr. Sanborn, principal, and Miss Maria Perkins, assistant.

Mrs. Bogart has opened a millinery store, and being a lady of taste and energy, will carry on a successful dress making and fitting business.

The New York Evening Post admonishes the democrats that there is not a particle of doubt that on a straight fight between the two parties Washington territory is republican by from 3,000 to 5,000 majority, and that if the democrats should make it a state with the expectation of capturing its senators and its electoral votes they would fare badly. The Post is not an organ; that is, not the organ of anything American. Its pet hobby is the advancement of the interests of the British manufacturers, by means of free trade.

On Wednesday, Nov. 24th, Ernest Winslow, the eleven year old son of Nelson Winslow, of Falmouth, Me., was playing with a gun which was loaded with shot. He playfully pointed the gun at his mother, supposing it was not loaded, when the gun went off and some of the shot struck Mrs. Winslow in the stomach, inflicting a serious injury, and some penetrated the bowels, rendering the case one of still greater danger. Mrs. Winslow is about thirty years of age.

great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Holders of Certificates of Indebtedness.

The Voting Register of Certificate holders is now making up at the office of the Company in Boston, Mass.

Persons desiring to have their names placed upon said Register in order to vote at the coming election must comply with the following regulation of the Trustees:—

"Every holder of Certificates of Indebtedness who desires to have them registered in his name shall present to the Trustees at their office, No. 10 Tremont street, Boston, a written statement signed by him, and giving his address and the denomination and number of every certificate of indebtedness claimed to be held by him, and shall, if required by said Trustees, verify his title by exhibiting such certificates and the written order of the last registered holder of the same, or other evidence of his title to the reasonable satisfaction of the Trustees; and said Trustees, if satisfied with his title, shall indorse their approval upon said written statement, and said certificate holder may thereupon be registered in conformity thereto. The approval of one of said Trustees shall be sufficient authority for such registration, and no registration after the 15th day of August, 1886, shall be valid without such approval, and no approval shall be granted after the time for closing the register."

The voting register will close at the close of business on the 30th day of November, between which time and the annual meeting on the 8th day of December, 1886, no registration will be allowed.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ASSOCIATION.

There was quite a large gathering of the young people of the South Parish, and others interested, at the chapel on Court street, Monday afternoon, and a permanent literary association was formed with fifty-eight members, the pastor being chosen president. Supper was served in the banquet room at six o'clock, and at eight there was a musicale in the vestry, in which eleven of the young people took part, and which was greatly enjoyed. Adjournment was taken shortly after nine o'clock, to Monday afternoon, Dec. 13th, when literary exercises will be held in the upper room after supper. Those who had been active in promoting the affair were more than pleased at the success of this first meeting, and at the spirit of cordiality which prevailed.

RESULT OF THE CHARITY BALL.

At a meeting of the ball committee of Storer post, held Monday evening, the treasurer's report showed a balance of $240.44 cash on hand, as the net proceeds of the recent charity ball, which amount will be transferred to the relief fund of the post. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that the committee, in behalf of the post, and of the needy veterans and their families who will eventually receive the benefit of the $240.44 which we have added to the relief fund of the post, it being the net proceeds of the second annual charity ball, return sincere thanks to a generous public whose liberal patronage has enabled us to accomplish this result.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Mary Willey, Capt. Williams, before reported as having arrived at Bangor last week in distress, arrived at Boothbay Nov. 24th with her mainmast gone, and was towed to Bangor on the 25th by a steamer.

The new jibboom, fore topmast and main gaff for the schooner Clara E. Simpson arrived on Monday, and were put in position.

The brickers J. Chester Wood and D. K. Ham have taken a snug berth for the winter at the head of the dock on the northerly side of Dixon's wharf; the Chilion and G. W. Raitt have hauled up at Call's wharf, inside the Noble's island bridge. The brick-carrying season is over for this year.

A person walking along the southend wharves on Monday afternoon could not fail to notice that summer fishing out of this port is at an end, and that winter fishing has commenced. Most of the shore-fishing boats are out of water, several of them on Tattle island, others at the old Marcy shipyard; and those still afloat are lying at their moorings with masts and ballast out, ready for hauling up. One fishing boat and a seine boat are on the old foundry wharf, and the schooner yacht Wm. H. Russell is on a cradle alongside it. The old schooner E. A. Creed is at the Liberty bridge wharf, where she has been several years, with the tide flowing through her. The "pinky" Lucy is moored at Dixon's wharf, and the Flying Eagle and Fleur de Lis at Randall & Caswell's, all stripped for a long stay. On the other hand, the schooners Anna H. Mason, Eliza, Flora Temple, Clyde and several other of the larger fishing vessels arrived during the day from the bay, with fares of from 2,000 to 5,000 lbs. each; and it was reported that the Grace Choate and others would be ready to start out by the last of this week.

The U. S. S. Galena came out of the dry dock at this navy yard last Friday, and the dock was replaced in its basin on Saturday. Orders were received at the yard on Friday evening for the Kearsarge to go out of commission, and the work of stripping her was commenced on Saturday.

The schooner Ocean Eagle, Littlefield master, has finished her trips between this port and Boston with bricks, for this year; after discharging her last cargo at Boston she took on board a general cargo for Ogunquit, Wells, Me., where she belongs, and on arriving there went into winter quarters. Another of the Piscataqua river brick fleet, the schooner Lillie, Perkins master, arrived at Ogunquit on Thanksgiving day morning from Boston, and also hauled up for the winter. Capt. Perkins and his crew belong in that immediate region, and are reported as claiming that the Lillie has this year made more trips between this port and Boston with bricks "than were ever made before by any vessel in the business, in any one season." This is a very loud "call" on the rest of the brickers. The schooner J. M. Eaton is at Ogunquit, being repaired and having a new bowsprit put in; she has not done much if any brick carrying from the Piscataqua this season, having been running mostly between Rockport and Boston; as soon as ready for sea she will load with firewood for Boston, not intending to haul up this winter, if she can find work.

Congress hall was occupied last evening by a brilliant and fashionable private party.

Charles H. Wyatt, whose death has been announced, began railroading as a train boy on the Concord & Portsmouth railroad. He soon became brakeman on a passenger train, and was afterward head brakeman and then conductor on a freight train. In 1871 he began running as conductor of a passenger train, and continued until a little over a year ago, when mental disorder occasioned his retirement. He leaves a wife but no children.

The Portsmouth Machine Co. are putting a large number of steam-heat radiators into the Rockingham house.

The Penny Post announces that John S. Mosby, the guerilla chief, will deliver a lecture on "Stuart's Cavalry" in Music hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 7th. We have a vivid remembrance of being made a prisoner of war by "Stuart's Cavalry" one pleasant evening in the summer of 1862, and shall enjoy hearing Col. Mosby tell of those famous riders.

The Ventilated Common Sense Chest Protector is having a boom in the west. The manufacturers have received telegraphic orders from Chicago for one hundred and forty dozen since Saturday morning, and are working day and night to supply the demand.

Reeves' band, of Providence, R. I., is one of the best bands in New England. Its reputation extends all over the country. The Augusta (Ga.) News says: "Thomas' orchestra last winter gave us no finer programme than Reeves' band furnished last night, and the entire list of performers won the heartiest applause and favor of our musical people." This famous orchestra will play for the Kearsarge Steam Fire Engine Co., at their ball New Year's eve, and previous to the ball will give a grand concert of their choicest music.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Chronic Catarrh

Catarrh is inflammation of the mucous membrane, attended with increased secretion. Thus catarrh may affect the head, throat, stomach, bowels, or any part of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, coming on so gradually that often its presence is not suspected till it has obtained a firm hold on its victim. It is caused by a cold, or a succession of colds, combined with

Impure Blood.

When firmly established the disease is exceedingly disagreeable, causing flow from the nose, dryness of the throat, headache, loss of appetite, roaring and buzzing noises in the ears, etc. In Hood's Sarsaparilla may be found a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, soothes and rebuilds the diseased membrane, and thus soon cures the disease. At the same time it refreshes and tones the whole system. The remarkable success of this peculiar medicine entitles it to your confidence. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

"I am happy to state that I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with which I have been troubled many years, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. My grocer advised me to try and it gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house, as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GRIM, 1029 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Dr. Dibble's Eye Water.

Going back to the first subject of our conversation, the doctor said: "Patients are largely influenced to recovery or death by the operations of the mind. I can give you a simple instance which will show you what I mean. When I was in England I was called upon to prescribe for a country gentleman. The man had accumulated considerable property by his own shrewdness and thought a great deal of himself. One of this class of Englishmen is the hardest type of man to deal with. You can not tell him anything that he does not know. If you are going to prescribe for him you must be as mysterious as possible. In this case my patient had a little touch of sore eye for which salt and water was a simple and sure remedy. Of course he had the salt in his pantry and the water in his well, but I would no more have dared to tell him that these were the remedies than I would to denounce the queen of England to his face. In either event he would have turned me out doors. So I gave him a prescription which called for chloride of sodium and aqua pura. He sent his valet six miles to the nearest town to get the prescription made up, and when it had cured his eyes, he told all his neighbors and pronounced it wonderful and furnished them all a copy of Dr. Dibble's remarkable prescription, so that they could also have the benefit of it."—New York Tribune Interview.

How to Read.

Nobody can be sure that he has got clear ideas on a subject unless he has tried to put them down on a piece of paper in independent words of his own. It is an excellant plan, too, when you have read a good book, to sit down and write a short abstract of what you can remember of it. It is a still better plan, if you can make up your mind to a slight extra labor, to do what Lord Stafford and Gibbon and Daniel Webster did. After glancing over the title, subject, or design of a book, these eminent men would take a pen and write roughly what questions they expected to find answered in it, what difficulties solved, what kind of information imparted. Such practices keep us from reading with the eye only, gliding vaguely over the page, and they help us to place our new acquisitions in relation with what we knew before.—John Morley.

WINCHESTER'S HYPOPHOSPHITE OF LIME AND SODA, is a scientific Remedy for Consumption in every Stage of the disease. For Coughs, Weak Lungs, Throat Diseases, Loss of Flesh and Appetite, and all forms of General Debility it is an unequaled Specific. ☞ BE SURE AND GET WINCHESTER'S PREPARATION. $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by Druggists. WINCHESTER & CO., No. 16 Dey Street, New York.

I suffered 15 years with rheumatism in my feet and could get no relief. I have taken a bottle and a half of your Athlophoros, and to my satisfaction I am entirely cured of that terrible complaint. Mrs. Mary Lawton, Fall River, Mass.

George Hazlett and Miss Sadie Allen of Buffalo, N. Y., went through the Niagara rapids and whirlpool in a barrel and came out all right. The girl is described as a rather pretty brunette, eighteen years old, and of good character. The trip was made last Sunday.

There is no doubt about the honest worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Thousands who have been benefited by its use, will attest its virtues. This remedy cures liver and kidney complaint, and eradicates every trace of disease from the system.

Frederick Leonard, aged nineteen years, son of Bradford Leonard of Easton, Mass., was out gunning on Thanksgiving day when he carelessly drew his gun from a wagon by the muzzle. The hammer caught on the bottom of the vehicle and the gun was discharged, the load entering Leonard's body at the fifth rib. He lived only an hour.

Health of woman is the hope of the race. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is to be had at the nearest drug store for a dollar.

The German government has decided to dissolve the Reichstag if the military estimates are rejected by that body.

They are clean, sweet and thorough in action, cure pain. Call for a Hop Plaster, and get it. 25 cents.

Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont is often said to be the "best talker," the most delightful raconteur in American society. It certainly has proved a fortunate thing for the "Wide Awake" magazine that its editors secured her as a contributor and ally. Mrs. Fremont is now absorbingly occupied with Gen. Fremont upon his memoirs, but she has written four papers for Wide Awake for 1887; three of them are "Taffy and Buster" stories—stories of her Shetland ponies, and all "mixed up" with our civil war. The fourth is "My Day in Copenhagen with Hans Anderson."

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakeded by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

Editor Prohl of Berlin has been sentenced by the German court to nine years' imprisonment for treason. It was proved that he supplied France, through Capt. Sarauros, with German military and naval secrects.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can afflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

Reports from Zanzibar indicate that a fresh rupture between the French and the Hovas is imminent. The queen of Madagascar has instructed Gen. Willoughby to resist any further aggression on the part of the French residents at Tamatave, and it is rumored that Gen. Willoughby has forwarded a strong protest to M. de Freycinet against the action of the French representative.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, For lung troubles and wasting diseases. Possesses in the fullest degree the tonic and stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites combined with the healing, strengthening and fattening qualities of the Cod Liver Oil in a perfectly agreeable form, of wonderful value in consumption, debility and wasting diseases.

A CITY OF BEGGARS.

Neapolitans Unexampled for Beauty, Cruelty, Immorality and Laziness.

The Neapolitans are nearly all beggars. No city in the kingdom is more populous or more poor. The mixture of the Moorish blood with the Italian has produced a race among Europeans, at all events, unexampled for beauty, cruelty, easy immorality, and intolerable laziness. As you wander along the streets you hear snatches of Moorish music mixed with the true Neapolitan refrains, and you see faces, especially among the children of 8 or 9, of quite incredible beauty. There are the familar characteristics of the beautifully set brow, the facile smile, and the eyes, sometimes brown, sometimes blue, always expressive, and everything set off by a rich varnish of dirt.

But, with all this, there is a cowardly skulking and a brutality that is not Italian but Oriental. No sight is more common along that hilly road leading from the famous Santa Lucia to the height of Posillipo than to see miserable little horses, all bleeding and lame, tottering under the shafts of a cart weighed down with eight or ten corpulent Neapolitans, who flog it and kick it till it swerves and falls. At the corner of one well-known street there is a bird-shop where you may buy nightingales, goldfinches, and robins. Sometimes a crowd of gamins is collected to witness a little surgical operation. Some charcoal burns in a brasiero, and the operator thrusts into it a needle with a wooden handle. He then takes from a cage a recently-caught blackbird, and with the red-hot needle puts out his eye. It needs much skill—skill that only comes from practice—to do this successfully. An unsteady hand would prematurely kill the bird. In most instances, where the operation is successful, the birds do die, but that is only after a couple of days of agony. You will see the patients in cages hanging round the shop, with the sightless eyes swollen to the size of a pea, but in the rare cases of recovery the bird sings briskly through the twenty-four hours, day and night being the same to it. If a stranger approaches the children leave the bird torturer to beg for soldi. The fat, round cherub faces are thrust into your own, the little hands point to the mouth, and you hear the familiar cry that is translated: "I am dying, I am dying of hunger; give me a halfpenny." The truth is the children live on the strangers.

Sturdy, well-to-do women, with bold, laughing faces, beg pence, and are impertinent and shameless if they do not get them. In Italy no families are so large as the Neapolitan, and no people marry so freely and so young. A family of seven is usual; a family of ten is not unusual.

The Neapolitan housewife of this poorer class has no care. She make no attempt to "faire le menage." She gives the little ragmuffin a soldo or two to get his dinner, and, like young Norval, his only care is to increase his store, which he does by begging; thus the parents directly encourage their children, and the police authorities—a most respectable body in cocked hats—look on and do not interfere. The result is just what might be expected. Naples is one of the most populous cities in Europe and one of the loveliest. Its harbor gives it direct trade with all quarters of the world. Frenchmen and Germans and Lombards and English take the opportunities which the Neapolitans are too lazy to accept. The place has a bad name, and deserves it. In all countries there are thieves; but in few capitals north of Naples need the stranger be in such constant fear of being robbed. It is said that things are improving. But so long as shameless, audacious, and insolent begging is permitted, so long as the children are allowed to swarm about the streets without the slightest attempt at their reclamation or their education, the degradation of the beautiful city must remain a constant blot on the Italian government.—Naples Letter.

James Parton's Family.

James Parton has two children, one of them a boy, but they have come late. His first wife was Mrs. Sara Willis Eldredge; Fanny Fern, with whom he led a rather inharmonious life, as any one might imagine who knew that wayward, whimsical woman, eleven years his senior. His second wife was her daughter, and as they were married in Newburyport, he was distressed to learn afterward that the marriage was illegal by the laws of Massachusetts. No one had any idea of its existence; but some discovered the unpleasant fact. Parton had lived most of his life here, and no New York enactment hinders any man from wedding his deceased wife's daughter if he be so inclined. Indeed, it is a thing not likely to happen, and would not have happened in this case save for a rare combination of circumstances. He had adopted a little girl, daughter of Mortimer Thompson (Doesticks), and the sister of his present wife, who had kept house for Parton and taken care of the child. Parton, who is entirely domestic by nature, is happy in his second union, and enjoys his family exceedingly. He also enjoys the tranquillity of the old town on the Merrimac, which is the antipodes of the modern Babylon on the Hudson. Whether Hugo Parton, a bright little fellow, will take to literature when he has grown up can not be told.—Cor. Chicago Times.

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

The Proprietor of the Academy Hotel, Baltimore, Md., Wm. Delphy, writes: "My wife suffered most acutely from rheumatism, the terrible pain would seemingly yield to nothing. She was induced to try Salvation Oil and after using only half a bottle, it not only relieved her, but effected an entire cure."

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

George T. Comins, the state prison contractor, consumes 13,000 feet of lumber daily at the prison in the manufacture of bedsteads.

has 92 per cent water; carrots, 86; potatoes, 75; milk, 86; eggs, 80; fish, 50; mutton, 44; bacon, 30, but the absolutely pure G. O. Taylor Bourbon Rye and Whiskey has 100 per cent of every medicinal virtue that renews strength, increases the life forces, and secures a pleasant and ripe old age. Your druggist and grocer will indorse it as the very best and purest. It is bottled and guaranteed by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston.

OLD-TIME STORIES.

[Concluded from last issue.]

The family were early astir, and all dress in their best attire, the old Major in a suit of brown velvet, laced with gold, and a wig that would have covered twenty empty heads of modern dandies. Madam Cutt wore a black damask, a laced cap and hood, white and silver stomacher, cuffs with double lace ruffles, velvet shoes and blue silk stockings. The daughters and granddaughters were attired in rich brocade and yellow satin,—the latter was converted into a frock for me when I was eight years old.

The company arrived at eleven, the parson in his silk cassock, his helpmate in a brown damask; old General Atkinson in a scarlet velvet, and his wife and daughters in white damask and tabby; the Governor in black velvet and his lady in crimson tabby trimmed with silver; the ladies wore bell hoops, high-heeled shoes, paste buckles, red silk stockings, with their heads dressed as high as a common house, from which descended flappets of Brussels lace to the bottom of the waist. "Oh!" said my grandmother, "it was a grand sight!"

Upon their entrance they were all welcomed with an abundance of ceremony, regaled with fruit, cake and sack, a beverage compounded with sherry wine, with which I am not acquainted. After the introduction and sitting a proper time, for everything was conducted with propriety and decorum, they walked round the Island, had a little excursion upon the water, and danced upon the green.

When summoned to the dining-room, a barbecue appeared at one end of the table, while boiled chickens, hams and tongues, ducks, and fish caught in the Piscataqua but an hour before, presided at the other, attended by custards, pastry, and an immense boiled plum pudding, with fruits, jellies, and preserves of every kind. All the delicacies served, with a very few exceptions, were compounded from materials raised upon the Island, exclusive, of course, of the wines, sugar and spirits, of which there was a great plenty and variety.

But the centre of the table shone with the greatest beauty of all,—a silver tub, that held four gallons, full of pancakes rising from its rich and polished sides, like an immense pyramid of snow, for it was entirely covered from the base to the attic, with powdered sugar. A floating island, representing a ship at sea, stood just below, and an immense bowl of punch was handed round.

Every lady did ample justice to the wine and cordials that were passed round in flowing goblets. I trust the heads of our ancesters were formed of stronger materials than those of their puny descendants. They sate two hours at table, when chocolate and tea were announced on the green before the door, with all the requisites of cake, cheese, and so forth, after which, the company, with many ceremonious bows and courtesies, took leave of their princely entertainers.

More than a century and a half has come and gone since that time; every one has long slept in the dust. The gay clothing, the rich brocade, the spacious head-dress, the vast hoop, the full-bottomed wig, the bag and sword, have not had the power to resist the universal conqueror. Cutt's Island, its spacious domain, with its extensive forest, has been divided and sub-divided by a numerous progeny. The hospitable dwelling has been destroyed by fire, the place transformed into a more modern appearance, and the silver tub, which was owned by your great, great-grandmother, was long since converted into spoons and creampots for her descendants.

THOUGHTS ON VISITING AN OLD MANSION, BUILT IN 1742

BY AN ANCESTOR OF THE AUTHOR.

Where are they all,
The former tenants of this ancient Hall?
Where is the master, who has proudly gazed
And viewed the stately pile his mandate raised?
Looked through this avenue of lofty trees,
And watched his canvas whitening the seas,
Then turned to hills, on which the sun still shone,
And felt that all he gazed on was his own.

The wintry sun still pours a cheerful blaze
On the old windows as I stand and gaze,
And busy fancy "fondly loves to trace"
The former splendors of this fine old place,
Where crimson curtains fell in sweeping folds,
And Turkey carpets kept out all the cold;
Where rows of pictures set in goodly frames,
Of squires and knights of knights and dainty dames,
Hung on these walls, now desolate and bare,
Or patched with paper fluttering in the air;
Where in the chimney ponderous logs burnt bright,
And mirth and song went round on Christmas night.

All have passed away!
And on the wall Time's finger writes decay,
And father, mother, all have disappeared,
And childhood's happy voice no more is heard;
These fields for them shall yield no garnered store,
For them no vessel seek a distant shore;
A hundred fleeting years have scarcely run,
They have no part or lot "beneath the sun."

Behold yon mound!
A gentle eminence, by snows now crowned,
Though when the vernal sun makes green the sod,
(By foot of curious traveller often trod,)
'Tis there a simple slab records the name,
A sad memorial of their wealth and fame.
Tis an old tale, often and often told,
Yet what a lesson does the tale unfold!
How wise we are in words and maxims true!
"What shades we are, what shadows we pursue!
How fleeting earthly grandeur!" still we cry,
Then build, and plant, and cling to Earth,—and die!

—CHARLES SPARHAWK.

KITTERY POINT, December 23, 1849.

A horse belonging to Mr. John Mooney ran away with the wagon to which he was harnessed, on Tuesday afternoon, from Richard's avenue to the academy, where the vehicle struck a tree or post, and the body and hind wheels stopped. The horse kept on with the rest of the gear as far as H. M. Clark's store, where another post divorced the shafts and fore wheels from the horse, which then took to the sidewalk, and ran a short distance, but was caught in front of Stitch Ban. No harm is reported to anything excepting the wagon.

Rev. Father Reilley, of Manchester, has been assigned by Bishop Bradley to St. Patrick's church at Newmarket.

The funeral of the late Charles H. Wyatt took place from the Middle street Baptist church at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, under conduct of DeWitt Clinton commandry of Knights Templar, nearly forty of whose members turned out to render the last token of respect to the deceased. A delegation from St. John's lodge of Masons also attended the obsequies.

The officials of the proposed York Harbor & Beach railroad held a meeting in York on Tuesday to open bids for building the road bed, and adjourned until Wednesday. Hon. Frank Jones of this city, and prominent railroad men of Boston, were in attendance.

HELPLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merits would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease lies in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 7

Mrs. Sarah Smith died in Dover on Sunday evening, Nov. 28th, in the 87th year of her age. She was born in this city in May, 1800, her father being Capt. Joseph Brown, who at the age of thirty-five years was lost at sea. She married Leonard Smith, Esq., by whom she had three sons, all of whom are dead, one of them, Capt. George J. Smith, being lost at sea with his wife at about the same age as his grandfather perished at. Mrs. Smith's husband died fifty-five years ago; five grandchildren survive her. She was the first matron of the Perkins Institute for the Blind at South Boston, and filled that responsible position most excellently for ten or twelve years, when she went to Dover to reside, and has lived there ever since.

There will be a social dance in the town hall at Newington on Friday evening next, under the management of Capt. Ellery O. Garland, whose schooner has been hauled up for the winter.

The officers of the Grand Commandry of Knights Templar of this state will make an official visit to DeWitt Clinton Commandry of this city on Thursday evening, Dec. 16th.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

At Home

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

MASONIC ELECTION.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's lodge, No. 56, F. & A. M., was held Tuesday evening, and the following were elected officers for the ensuing year:

W. M., John Pender;
S. W., Walter H. Page;
J. W., Richard I. Walden;
Treasurer, Wingate N. Ilsley;
Secretary, Samuel M. Joy;
Rep. to Grand Lodge, Lemuel T. Devis;
Standing Committee, John Pender, John Christie.

THE NEW LITERARY CLUB.

We have not yet learned the distinctive name (if any) adopted by the new club of young people connected with the South parish, but the full list of officers is as follows:

President, Rev. Alfred Gooding;
Vice President; James Sides;
Secretary, Mabel Cotton;
Treasurer, Bertha Davis.

The following was the programme of musical exercises at the first meeting:

Piano Solo,.....“March of the Tambours,” HELEN PEARSON.
Song,.....“Wandering Refugee,”
CORA BARNABEE.
Piano Solo,.....“Reminiscences,”
MARY HANSCOM.
Duet (piano and violin,).....“Lucredia Borgia,” MABEL COTTON and JAMES SIDES.
Piano Duet,.....From “Fra Diavola,” EMILY and GRACE HOYT.
Song,.....“I've Got a Letter,”
CORA BARNABEE.
Piano Solo,.....“Concert Waltz,” MABEL COTTON.
Piano Solo,.....“The Fairy Queen,”
EMILY I. HOYT.

At the close of the musical exercises cake was passed in liberal abundance to all the audience, and there still being a large quantity of food remaining it was voted to send it to the Home for Children and the Faith Home.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The annual report of the chief engineer of the war department contains but little regarding the military defences of the New England ports, but gives an interesting summary of the work done in the way of river and harbor improvement, and suggests further extensions of that work. The following is a synopsis of the statements in regard to Portsmouth harbor, Little harbor and the Cocheco river:

In Portsmouth harbor there were removed by blasting and submarine work during the last fiscal year 608 cubic yards of rock from the ledge known as Gangway rock. The total expenditures previous to June 30th, 1886, were $91,-891.28. The larger portion of Gangway rock has now been removed to a depth of twenty feet at mean low water. There remains of this ledge 632 cubic yards to complete the removal to the same depth. A part of the projecting ledge on the point of Badger's island has also been removed. The officer in charge recommends that the removal of rock on Badger's island point be to a depth of twenty feet. The amount expended during the past year was $15,202.28, and the amount required for completion of the existing project is $25,000.

The sum of $150,973.64 has been expended on the Cocheco, below Dover, to June 30th, 1886. During the last year 829 cubic yards of rock were removed from the channel. This completes the channel to a depth of five feet at mean low water, and a width of fifty to sixty feet, as far as the Steam-mill wharf. Numerous large vessels go up the river to Dover, though as the improvements are incomplete the vessels have to be lightered a short distance. The sum of $9702.29 has been expended during the past year, and it is estimated that $9000 will be required to complete the deepening of the channel to five feet.

For the creation of a harbor of refuge at Little harbor, below this city, an expenditure of $83,000 is recommended. The sum of $10,000 was appropriated in the last river and harbor bill. The necessity for a harbor of refuge of moderate size at this place, for the numerous small vessels engaged in the commerce and fisheries of this part of the coast, has been made apparent, says the department, by numerous representations of those interested.

THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

There is to be a series of sermons in the First Universalist church, Pleasant street, at half-past ten in the mornings of the Sundays of the coming season. The object of this series is not only to enlighten inquiring minds as to the distinguishing doctrines of Universalism as compared with other Christian faiths; but to show that the doctrine as held today is the logical outgrowth of the present systematized knowledge of the world. These sermons are not to be confined to technical theology; but as far as possible will trace the raison d'etre of Universalism in the sciences of Genesis, structural changes, life, growth, development, man as an animal and as a personal consciousness, of social relations, civilization, politics, ethics, ethnic and Christian religions, their opponents, together with the philosophy of cause in the universal human possessions—worship and aspiration.

SUBJECTS.

Dec. 5th. The meaning of the word “Universalist.”

Dec. 12th. Universalism and the origin of things.

Dec. 19th. Universalism and animal development.

Dec. 26th. Universalism and the birth of Jesus, The Christ.

Jan. 2d. Universalism and the ethnic religions.

Jan. 9th. Universalism and the other forms of Christianity.

Jan. 16th. Universalism and atheism.

Jan. 23d. Universalism and morals.

Jan. 30th. Universalism and reason.

Feb. 6th. Universalism and the human God-consciousness.

These sermons will not exceed thirty minutes—some will be less—in time of delivery. L. H. FISHER.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

HAMPTON, Nov. 30th.

Thanksgiving day was rather unpleasant, but all enjoyed their national dinner, and those most favored in this world's goods were careful that the unfortunate ones were provided for. In one locality a shooting match was indulged in by several gentlemen who seldom have an opportunity for such recreation.

Rev. W. W. Fay closed his labors with the Congregational society on Sunday evening, Nov. 28th. In the forenoon he preached a farewell sermon from the text “Finally, brethren, farewell;” Sec. Cor., 13:11; it was very eloquent and impressive. Mr. Fay was ordained and married in this church, and doubtless pleasant memories will connect him and his estimable partner with this place; they have won the love of all, have ever striven to create harmony and prevent discord, and have aided all by their kind sympathy. His labors have been crowned with success; as a pastor his equal cannot easily be found in one of his years. They depart with the best wishes that Heaven's richest blessing may rest upon them.

Two prominent citizens intended to christen their new dwellings with festivities on the national holiday, but owing to the deficiency of workmen were prevented.

The handsome dwelling of T. N. Chase, the popular dry goods dealer, has been excluded from sunshine and sight by a huge ice house of 38 x 90 feet, only nine feet space existing between the buildings. We think it a wrong act for any company to erect such a building, in such a place. —.

YORK, ME., Nov. 29th.

Almon H. Merrow and J. Howard Junkins were drawn as grand jurors, and Hiram H. Thompson and Henry Bragdon as traverse jurors, to the United States district court to be holden at Portland on the first Tuesday of December.

Rev. E. A. Whittier, the evangelist, closed his labors here on Thanksgiving evening, and departed on Friday morning, as did also LeRoy the illusionist. LeRoy gave a good show, but the house was small owing to the rainy evening.

The funeral of Capt. Jos. Weare took place on Friday afternoon. There was, as expected, a large attendance for such an unpleasant day.

The annual New England supper at the Sea Cottage will soon take place. Will advise you of date, or in other words “will see you later.”

Charles Donnell has removed his family from Cape Neddick to York Corner, and occupies the elegant residence lately vacated by Mr. Horace Goodwin, who has removed to the John Grover house at Scituate.

Among the most peaceable, industrious and upright men of our vicinity may be mentioned Mr. Reuben Doucette, the shoemaker who occupies the store so long occupied by the late Francis Plaisted. Mr. Doucette is as good a workman as ever drove a peg or pulled a cord; his prices are reasonable, and he certainly deserves success. Patronage in his line of business should not be carried out of town.

I have been told by one of the directors of the Y. H. & B. R. R., that in drawing a straight line from Butler's Siding to the terminus of said road at Union Bluff in York, there is not a divergence of over three hundred feet from said straight line. I do not wish to contradict my esteemed friend, but I may say that the best map ever shown of York county, published in 1872 by Sanford, Evarts & Co., from actual survey, tells a very different story. A line so drawn will run some distance north of the Congregational church, which must be two miles from the road near Boynton's bridge.

Madam Ramor says that Postmaster Varrell, who removed the York office at his own pleasure to the harbor vicinity, enjoys the same right to remove it back to the village, and contemplates doing so. Extensive alterations and repairs are now being made in W. G. Moulton's store, which rather indicates some truth in the rumor. That being the case, patrons of the two offices “pays your money and takes your choice.” We also learn that the south side of the river people contemplate petitioning for a post-office to be established near Sewall's bridge.

Mr. Manson says “Viator” is wrong or else it was a typographical error by leaving off a cypher, as 5,000 ducks, and not 500, is the number he intends to brood.

Willard Titcomb is fast improving.

Miss Sarah H. Grant, daughter of Mr. Joseph Grant, has recently had several hemorrhages from the region of the lungs, and has bled profusely. Drs. Hazen and Wentworth are in attendance.

Al. Thompson has recovered from his sickness, and is now driving a span of horses attaches to a new butcher's cart, and giving the people good bargains in provisions. P.

McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Refined Minstrels will give an entertainment in Music hall next Monday evening. Tickets at Goodrich's on and after Thursday.

The plank walk on Lincoln avenue is being relaid, in accordance with the vote of the board of aldermen.

Wentworth lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Newcastle, paid a return visit to Damon lodge of this city Tuesday evening, and were hospitably entertained.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. Having spacious and cod accommodations and long and large experience he solicits patronage in his line.

Napoleon's Meeting with Marie Louise.

Suddenly the noise of wheels was heard. A carriage preceded by a outrider and followed by several other vehicles, arrived. Napoleon quivered with joy. It was she! Marie Louise, archduchess of Austria, empress of the French, queen of Italy, the wife who would bear him a son and heir to his immense empire. Pride and intoxication mingled with joy in the heart of the conqueror.

The carriage stopped. The horses were being taken out. Napoleon rushed to the door. He would fain have remained unnoticed for a few moments longer, but the Equerry d'Ostenarde, who could scarcely believe his eyes, at this juncture called out: "The emperor." The happy husband threw himself into the arms of his young wife, who was overcome with emotion and surprise. He was enchanted with her at sight. This superb child, all radiant with freshness and youth, with strength and health, with her pretty fair hair, her blue eyes, her innocence and candor. She is the companion whom he needed. She is the empress of his dreams! And how the first words she spoke to him flattered him, and touched him, and went direct to his heart. After having looked at him for a long time she said, in a timid, sweet voice: "You are much better than your portrait."—Memoirs of Marie Louise.

Tupper's Precious Manuscripts.

Mr. Martin Farquhar Tupper's autobiography contains a store of interesting anecdotical matter. Indeed it is quite the most readable thing the author of "Proverbial Philosophy" ever wrote. In speaking of the dangers to which a writer's manuscripts are alway open, he tells us of a faithful maid arranging his study and always putting his papers in awful confusion. "Upon my cautioning her," he says, "not to detroy anything, I was horrified by the unconscious Audrey's instant reply: 'Oh, sir, I never burns no paper but what what is spoiled by being written on!'" And he goes on to say that in "prehistoric days when we sported with loose powder and shot and paper wadding, I was a guest for some days in September with James Maclaren at Ticehurt, and recollect his horror at finding that the luncheon sandwiches were wrapped in some of his most precious MMS.—for he was writing a treatise on finance, and those leaves were covered with calculations—and that his shooting-party were ramming down their charges with the recorded labor of his brains."—The Argonaut.

Coastitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that a treatment adapted to this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

A Foolish and Stubborn Belief in the efficacy of certain remedies of violent action, is the besetting foible of the ignorant and prejudiced. The indiscriminate use of purgatives is a very common phase of the fatuity of such people. Aloes, podyphillin, disguised in sugar coating, castor oil, mercury, and other old fashioned drugs, still hold their own among this class, and although the success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters sufficiently disproves the necessity for violence in medication, the adherents of an exploded fallacy still persist in giving and taking inordinate purgative doses. Dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint are as certainly and thoroughly subdued by the Bitters, as they are invariably aggravated by an indiscriminate use of medicines, officinal or proprietary, belonging to the class which we have condemned. Fever and ague, nervousness, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys, yield to the Bitters.

Secretary Whitney has awarded the contract for the construction of the proposed new naval cruiser No. 2, the "Charleston," to the Union iron works, of San Francisco; for cruiser No. 3, the "Baltimore," to Cramp & Son, of Philadelphia; the gunboat No. 2 to the Columbia iron works, of Baltimore. The bids for the construction of cruiser No. 1, the "Newark," are too high, and will be referred to Congress. As to gunboat No. 1, no decision has been reached.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can afflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

HOW SAILORS VIEW BIRDS.

Some of the Feathered Tribe Bring Good Luck—Others Mean Misfortune.

Sailors are credited with being the most superstitious persons living. They have whims, fancies and beliefs connected with every ordinary occurrence of ordinary life, and their actions are all influenced by some one or more of these occurrences. On land they watch for black cats, cross-eyed people, ladders and many other objects, and on sea their lives are made happy or unhappy by many of the lesser rather than the greater scenes of the voyage. They are believers in fate, and when at sea they say their fate is more or less influenced by the birds that come and perch on their masts or yards. An old and educated sea captain, who has weathered many storms, been shipwrecked a dozen times and who is yet hearty and hale, was met recently on one of the wharfs that surround this city by a reporter. The weather-beaten tar and the scribe adjourned to a neighboring hostelry, and over some steaming hot grog and cigars they chatted about the superstitions connected with birds at sea.

"Yes," said the captain, as he blew a long, thin column of smoke through his lip and watched it curling fantastically through the air. "Yes, we have a few little fancies when at sea about birds, and some are a little sacred when a gull or a swallow perches on our mast; but, as a rule, we are pleased to see these feathery beauties, especially after a long voyage, for then we know we are nearing land, and will soon be among our friends again. The belief of old sailors is that if an albatross be slaughtered it at once becomes necessary to keep one's weather eye lifting for squalls, but that no harm follows if the bird be caught with a piece of fat pork and is allowed to die a natural death on deck. The common house sparrow is much respected at sea. It is gravely asserted that should sparrows be blown away to sea and alight upon a ship they are not to be taken or even chased away, for in proportion as the birds are molested must sail be shortened to provide against the storm that will certainly come. The harmless and beautiful gull, whose lovely sweepings, and curvings through the air, whose exquisite self-balancing capacity in the teeth of a living gale, whose bright eyes, salt, shrewd voice and webbed foot folded in bosoms of ermine it is impossible to sufficiently admire, has a commercial value that sets it high in the longshoreman's catalogue of things to be approved. When this bird appears in great numbers then is its presence accepted as an infallible sign of the neighborhood of herring shoals.

"It is reckoned a bad sign for ravens to perch on the mast of a ship. There is an old superstition that the rotten timbers of foundered ships generate birds. Even a dead bird may prove a soothsayer, according to Jack, for, says he, if a kingfisher be suspended to the mast by its beak it will swing its breast in the direction of the coming wind. Years ago swallows were deemed unlucky at sea. If a kite perches on the mast the omen is a good one. A crow lighting on a ship is accepted as a sure sign of prosperous winds, and they feed the bird with crumbs of bread by the way of coaxing it to remain. It is said in the English channel fishermen attribute the east wind to the flight of the curlew on dark nights."—New York Mail and Express.

A Rice Plantation.

No fairer prospect exists in the whole realm of agriculture than the landscape of a well-appointed rice plantation, whether viewed in early spring before planting, with the tawny seams of its embankments intersecting the checkered squares, the yellow mold yet steaming from the plow, and the whole visible area apparently as cleanly swept and garnished as a parlor floor; or later, during the nursery reign of the fostering "stretch water," each square a lake, its wavelets rippling under the fresh sea breeze, with the tops of the young plants immersed for forcing, in long, waving lines of tendrils floating on the water, and the russet banks, separating lake from lake, now paths of emerald, their grassy carpet blowing in the April sun; or later still, during the "long water," the entire landscape one waving sea of green, broken only by the crystal ribbons of canals and quarter drains; or, finally, in the full noontide of harvest-time, the level fields, now lakes no more, but vast stretches of stubble dotted with stacks of golden grain, as if an army tented there.

The wheat lands of Dakota are impressive, but their unbroken, unrelieved monotony is almost painful. The vine-clad hills of the upper Ohio are novel and interesting; the velvety slopes of the valley of the Roanoke and Kentucky's blue grass meadows pretty and attractive; but a study of the rice fields of the Atlantic deltas is simply fascinating.—Southern Bivouac.

Race Perpetuity.

Dr. Schweinfurth has, in the interest of science, addressed to all Europeans, especially physicians, residing in Egypt an inquiry as to whether, so far as they are aware, families of northern origin settling in Egypt do or do not die out within three generations, or whether the race is capable of being perpetuated beyond that limit.—Chicago Times.

Lord Salisbury tries to speak without gestures and the result is that he "looks like a schoolboy repeating a lesson."

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

A girl in Manchester, named Carrie Martin, eighteen years of age, who has been ill for two or three years, is said to have gone seven weeks without taking a particle of nourishment, being unable to retain anything on her stomach. After considerable backing and filling Mr. McNeill finally decides to accept the candidacy of the labor party for the Boston mayoralty. The attempts which have been made to dissuade Mr. McNeill, or to split the labor party, show that the movement is "viewed with alarm" by some of the Boston politicians, and they are not republican politicians either. The republicans look upon the movement as likely to divert democratic votes enough to enable them to elect their candidate.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Why the Yankee Boatmen Laugh.

A pleasure boat presented to Hon. S. S. Cox by the sultan of Turkey has arrived at the National Museum in Washington in a badly damaged condition. If it were not desirable to preserve it as a curiosity there would be no possible excuse for repairing it. In the steamer coming over to New York, it was crushed into a shapeless mass by the shifting of the cargo. It will take $1,000 to restore the craft to anything like its original shape and beauty. There is a great deal of hand carving on it which can be replaced only with great skill. Yankee boatmen who have looked at the Turkish boat laugh a good deal at Oriental workmanship. The hull is made of tulip wood, battened together on the inside with small blocks of wood, and deluged with pitch. The length of the boat when whole was thirty-two feet, and its weight 340 pounds. Mr. Cox has given the boat to the National Museum, and Professor Baird expects in a few weeks to have it launched into his already large collection of boats of all nations.

The History of Labor.

"The Labor Movement: The Problem of To-day," published by A. M. Bridgman & Co., 13 Doane street, Boston.

Mr. George E. McNeill, long and favorably known throughout the country as a national leader of the Knights of Labor, and their representative before the committees of Congress last winter, is the general editor of the work. With him are associated in the various chapters of the book many of the leaders of the Knights of Labor, and the heads of the great trades unions of the country. The book is in the nature of a great history of the labor movement in Europe and America in both the broad and particular sense; and all of the prominent trades unions are covered in separate chapters. The volume opens with three chapters by Edmund J. James of the University of Pennsylvania, who has written of the European history, and the present aspect of the labor movement. Mr. McNeill contributes several chapters, and Chief Engineer Arthur, Senator Robert Howard of Fall River, Hon. John M. Farquhar, of New York, and many other of the prominent leaders in the labor movement, discuss the question in all its many phases. A chapter which will attract wide and general notice, both from the freshness of its topic and the eminence of its author, is entitled, "The Educational Aspect of the Labor Problem," written by Rev. R. Heber Newton of New York city.

A feature of the book which will receive much attention is the manner in which it has been illustrated. The frontispiece of the book is the benign countenance of Uriah S. Stevens, the founder of the Knights of Labor; the other two full-page pictures are the faces of Mr. Powderly and Mr. McNeill. Beside these there are seven groups; six of five pictures each, and one, that representing the national legislators, of seven faces. These groups represent the prominent leaders of the labor movement, both Knights of Labor and trades-unionists, and are selected from all parts of the country from Massachusetts to California. Besides the handsome engraved portraits of these forty leaders of the labor movement, included in the groups mentioned, there are other illustrations of a general nature.

All in all, this book is a great history, adequate, authentic and complete, of a movement which has agitated society as no movement except the abolition of slavery has done before. Certainly the subject has been handled in its broadest aspect; and neither time, effort nor expense have been spared to make the book a worthy monument of the great movement whose history it records, and whose hopes and aspirations it worthily sets forth. The book is sold wholly by subscription.

The Lincoln Club.

Nearly 300 prominent republican workers from all parts of the state assembled in Concord on the 30th ult., in response to an invitation of the republican state committee, and a club for social and political purposes was organized, the name "Lincoln club" being adopted. Col. Charles H. Sawyer of Dover was chosen president, with a vice president from each county; secretary, M. J. Pratt of Concord; treasurer, E. E. Woodman of Concord; and an executive committee of five. Speeches were made by Hon. J. H. Gallinger, Col. Sawyer, Hon. Wm. E. Chandler, Hon. Martin A. Haynes and others.

The "Mechanics' Fire Society" will hold its annual meeting and supper at the Rockingham house Friday evening. "Prompt when duty calls" is the motto of this veteran organization, especially when the dainty menu offered by the Rockingham is the reward.

A meeting for the election of officers will be held by the "Woman's Relief Corps" this (Thursday) evening, at G. A. R. hall. This association, which is auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, does a vast amount of good in a quiet and unostentatious manner.

The brickwork of the 5th story of the new shoe factory building will be finished this week. With favorable weather the 6th story and roof will be completed by the 20th inst., or before; this will enable work to be pushed on the interior during the winter months, so that the building can be utilized for manufacturing purposes next spring.

The ladies of the Congregational church choir are to hold a fair next week, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dec. 7th and 8th. A fine assortment of useful and fancy articles will be for sale, with ice cream, cake and other refreshments.

Miss Fannie P. Hoyt, of Newington, the talented young violinist, received a deserved and cordial welcome at the annual celebration, in Boston, of the Scotts' Charitable society on Tuesday, Nov. 30th. Her violin solos were cordially encored.

Hon. Frank Jones of this city and Col. Charles H. Sawyer of Dover went to York on Wednesday, the 1st inst., to attend the adjourned meeting of the officers of the York Harbor & Beach railroad for the opening of bids for the construction of the roadbed.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease has its root in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & Co., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Silas G. Clifford, a young republican of Derry Depot, has been appointed a deputy sheriff for Rockingham county. He is the son of Benjamin Clifford of Epping, formerly a well known republican sheriff, and son-in-law of Alden B. Smith, formerly a popular democratic deputy. He was strongly recommended to Sheriff Kent for appointment.

McNish, Slavin & Johnson's minstrels are to appear in Music hall next Monday evening. They call themselves "the Bon-Tons of the world," and their motto is "music and mirth, without vulgarity."

John S. Mosby, the famous guerilla chief of the confederacy, is to lecture in Music hall next Tuesday evening. He was most active and daring during the war, but was among the first to return to allegiance to the government, receiving from President Hayes the appointment of consul to Hong Kong, whence he has recently returned.

Mrs. Sarah Hooper and daughter, Miss Kate H. Hooper, have arrived at their home in this city, much benefitted by their summer's sojourn in Prince Edward island.

The schooner J. H. Eells in attempting to sail down river on the 1st inst. from Concord railroad wharf, where she had discharged a cargo of coal, went on Badger's island point, but was soon pulled off without damage by the tug Clara Bateman, and towed to the lower harbor.

The total amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York during the week ending Nov. 26th was $62,100.88. Total endowments paid, $13,192.85.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of

Found

At Home

AYER'S

and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 1st.

Michael Kelley and Dennis Kelley, maliciously destroying property in a saloon at the Creek, (case continued from Monday,) were held in $200 each for the grand jury.

John Reagan and Cornelius Reagan, charged with assaulting the two Kelleys, had their case continued to three o'clock P. M., before which time the complaint was withdrawn.

OUT OF DEBT.

From an article in the Zion's Herald, the denominational organ in New England of the Methodist Episcopal church, we learn the following particulars relative to the freeing from debt of the Methodist society in this city:

The debt just lifted amounted to $3,413.89. It was first reduced $500 by a bequest from the Barker estate. Aunty Pollard raised among the people $330; then God took her to heaven. The Sabbath school realized $145 from an Easter egg-breaking. A church fair conducted without any objectionable features, netted the society $600 which was applied to the debt. The Church Extension Society helped to the amount of $250. Dr. O. H. Jasper, the pastor, secured an appropriation from the Conference of some $80. Some two years ago Miss M. E. Parry was appointed by the official board to solicit outside help. She devoted nearly a year to the work for the church, and has at length secured the balance—$1,483.89—so that the last dollar of church indebtedness is now paid. The society sold its chapel a few months since. The chapel money was a trust fund that could not be appropriated to church debt. This has been sacredly kept and used in putting comfortable vestries under the church, in place of the old cellar vestry of former years.

IMPROVEMENT.

The widening and straightening of Creek road, from Woodbury street to a point opposite the residence of Mr. John W. Huntress, about twenty-five hundred feet, is being rapidly pushed forward during the favorable weather. The width has been increased to sixty feet, and a handsome and substantial stone wall built on the abutting property of Mr. Jones and the city. When completed this will be one of the finest suburban roads in this section of the country.

MASONIC ELECTION.

At a meeting of St. John's lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M., Wednesday evening, Dec. 1st, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

W. M., Edward W. Riley;
S. W., Albert R. Junkins;
J. W., Howard S. Frisbee;
Treasurer, Oliver G. Fernald;
Secretary, John H. Cheever;
Rep. to Grand Lodge, William G. Billings;
Standing Committee, Washington Freeman, Benjamin F. Webster.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Nov. 30th.

There is considerable improvement going on at the Foreside, such as repairing old and building new sidewalks, cutting down and trimming up trees, and remodelling and painting houses. The stores, too, seem to vie with the times, and in some of the windows we notice tempting displays of smoked herring and chocolate drops, mixed candy and corned beef, bacon and apples. The cluttered-up condition of the old Tabernacle lot spoils the symmetry of all the rest, and is a disgrace to the village; its latest departure is riding gear, and almost every conceivable vehicle is represented, both ancient and modern.

Lorenzo D. Witham and son are building a fine large keel boat, twenty-five feet long, nine feet wide, and three feet ten inches deep; the sails are completed, and contain 120 yards of canvas, exclusive of a large topsail. The work is being done in the boat-shop at the son's residence, which was once the old Trefethen place.

Capt. Samuel H. Pilsbury is building an English cutter, eighteen feet long, six feet wide, and four feet deep; it is expected that she will be a fast one, as the captain has previously built two that have been hard to beat in their day.

The work of cutting down Blaney's hill is about finished; all that remains now to do is the levelling down of the bank on either side of the cut, and digging out the gutters. The work has advanced rapidly since the commencement. The grade of the hill has been lowered between seven and eight feet, and is now quite a contrast to the former steep and rocky rise. It is the best job of road work that has been done in town for years, and considering the amount of money expended is a very great credit to the men who did it.

A brilliant meteor was seen in the southwest sky early Saturday evening last.

Miss Addie Remick left town Saturday for North Yarmouth, Me., where she will engage in teaching in one of the large schools there.

School in district No. 2 commenced Monday, the 29th inst.; the teacher, Mr. Tarbox, will board at the house of the agent, O. C. Haley, Esq.

Miss Hattie Duncan of Rochester, N. H., returned home last week after a pleasant visit among friends in this town, of which she was formerly a resident.

We understand that Mr. Clarence Prince, formerly with Charles E. Langton, will open a meat market soon in the vacant store of Henry W. Trefethen on Government street at the Foreside. Mr. Prince has had considerable experience in the business, and we hope he will meet with success.

"Old Pomp," for many years the faithful equine servant of Franklin W. Blaney, being past his usefulness and in poor condition to winter, was killed last week. Pomp was over thirty years old, and for twenty-five successive summers, up to the one last past, had not failed to make his annual trip to campmeeting. In his younger days, starting away long before light on a clear July morning with his master and mistress in the wagon, together with a good supply of provisions for several weeks stay, he would soon be on the grounds at Kennebunk, apparently as fresh as when he started. About twelve years ago the camp ground was changed to Old Orchard, and for the past five years Pomp and his master have made the trips alone, the grim destroyer of everything finite having broken into the original circle.

Fred Moore and wife, of Kennebunk, formerly of Kittery, are visiting friends here for a few days. Mr. Moore is an employee of the Kennebunk Felt Boot Co., in which he has an excellent position.

Frank C. Eaton and wife, of Kennebunk, formerly of Kittery, were in town on Saturday last. Frank is looking well, and is doing better than if he had remained "on the yard"; he is employed by the Kennebunk Felt Boot Co., and is foreman of his room. He is getting good pay, as several other of our townsmen are who have gone away for employment; in fact, we do not know of any who have been obliged to "eat fish-skins" as yet.

OUT OF COMMISSION.

The crew of the U. S. S. Kearsarge were paid off Wednesday morning, the 1st inst., about $48,000 being required to settle Uncle Sam's indebtedness with the men. Many of the sailors took the forenoon trains for their homes, while some remained in this city, and others left for the larger cities to expend the accumulations of their three years cruise.

On the previous day the Children's Home received a timely and welcome donation from the ward room officers of the ship, who on dissolving their mess sent to the home all that was left of their table ware — plated, China, glass and crockery—and a lot of most acceptable stores, including flour, tea, coffee, tapioca, and canned soups, fruits and vegetables.

MUSTERED OUT.

John Appleton Tucker of Greenland died suddenly on Tuesday night, the 30th ult., of neuralgia of the heart. He was the mail carrier between the Concord & Portsmouth railroad station and the Greenland post-office. Mr. Tucker enlisted in Co. D, 3d N. H. Vols., Aug. 7th, 1861, and was wounded in the ankle by a grape shot July 16th, 1862, at Charleston, S. C. He re-enlisted Feb. 14th, 1864, and was discharged from the service July 20th, 1865, by reason of the end of the war. He was a member of Storer Post, G. A. R., of this city.

In the list of newly-elected officers of St. Andrew's lodge of masons, as published Wednesday morning, the name of Bro. John Fender is given as that of the new worshipful master. This was an error, Bro. John Tanton having been chosen to that position.

William Quinn and Edward Smith of this city, and a man named Burnham, of Kittery, have been appointed watchmen on the U. S. S. Kearsarge at the navy yard, now out of commission.

Rockingham county was represented at the republican reunion and banquet in Concord, on the 30th ult., by fifteen persons, all of whom enrolled themselves as members of the republican Lincoln club. Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., of this city, was chosen first vice president of the club, and Col. E. H. Gilman of Exeter one of the executive committee. Sheriff Kent was one of those in attendance from this city.

The appointment of Judge Batchelder and Col. Gilman to represent the republicans of Rockingham county was just right. They are sterling men.

"The Labor Movement," the new and interesting subscription book, reviewed in another part of this paper, is having a wonderful sale, fully equal to the Blaine and Grant books, which were historical successes. Agents are reaping a harvest from it. A. M. Bridgman & Co., 13 Doane St., Boston, are the publishers and the New England agents.

The regular monthly test of the fire-alarm apparatus was made on Wednesday, the 1st inst. It worked satisfactorily.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

The post office department decides that there is no provision in the postal laws for withholding payment of a postal note.

"He saw before him the Gladiator die." Yes, and wouldn't perhaps, if there had only been a sensible man to rub him well with Salvation Oil.

Balzac as an Associate.

Dreaded by his enemies, adored by his friends, feared and detested by his creditors, Balzac must have been a formidable associate to all those who were bound to him—formidable because of that intense egotism which he had in even larger measures than have most men of genius. He had no sense of the suffering nor of the rights of others. The picture given of how, six or eight times in the night, he would rouse up his infertile and somnolent collaborateur, Lassailly, and, with a pistol at his head, force him to work at the drama which was to carry Paris, and did not, is a measure of the rest, even when docked of its patent exaggeration. No wonder the poor fellow left Les Jarins as one fleeing from the wrath to come and never after spoke of Balzac without a visible shudder and unconquerable terror.—Temple Bar.

A Perfect "Pueblo."

Not far from Mexico City there is a perfect "Pueblo." It is a community of pure Indians ruled by six wise old men and six wise old women. They are chosen by vote of the tribe, and must have led honorable lives and raised a family of good children in order to be chosen to the patriarchial office.—New York Tribune.

Populous Cities.

London has a population of 15,000 to the square mile. Canton, China, has 85,000 inhabitants within the same area. New York, leaving out the uninhabited portion, has a population of 85,000 to the square mile. In the Sixth ward there is a population of 149,000 to the square mile; in the Tenth ward, 276,000.—Chicago Times.

Ben: Perley Poore's Methods.

In writing his reminiscences Ben: Perley Poore does not use a scrap-book. In fact, he never made one. He simply sends over to the congressional library for the file of a Washington and some other papers, and goes through it with an eagle eye and sharp pencil.—Detroit Free Press.

A Time of It.

Speaking of longevity: "I knew at Marseilles," said Guibollard, "a young man who was given up by the doctors in his early youth. He died six months ago, after a death struggle extending over 97 years."—Paris News.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

Dr. Ham, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may do in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE

While THE NEW-YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE is the most expensive publication of its class in the United States nevertheless its price is now fixed at $1 a year, the Semi-Weekly at $2; in both cases extra copy with a club of 10.

The campaign just closed found the country in the trough of the political waves. The Republican managers have made the best struggle they could against a state of general apathy. In a few States they have been aided by the inspiring presence of a great leader, whose speeches have awakened almost the only enthusiasm anywhere shown. The result of the campaign is gratifying; its gains are an inspiration; the inevitable losses are a plain guide to the popular drift. From this time forward the country will feel the lift of the advancing wave of 1888, which, if we all do our duty, will sweep out from Washington the masquerraders now in possession, the foes of protection and public government. It is now the duty of all earnest and experienced workers to lend their energies toward united and hearty work for 1888. The party is to be consolidated, cheered and rallied. To this work THE TRIBUNE pledges its zealous efforts.

THE TRIBUNE offers for 1887 several excellent premiums, viz:

"The Tribune Book of Open Air Sports."

A work compiled by THE TRIBUNE, e pecially for the young men of the United States. It is a thorough statement of the present status of Open Air athletic amusements in America, with suggestions to beginners, the rules of every important game, the records of noted contests and the achievements of American Champions. The book will contain about 150 illustrations. Chapters are provided on Archery; Base-ball with the record of wonderful playing and the League and Association contests, and instructions how to curve a ball; Court Tennis, Lawn Tennis, Football, Cricket, Lacrosse, Rackets, Horsemanship, Cross Country Hunting, Yachting, with a discussion of Sloop and Cutter and instructions How to Design, Build and Sail a Boat; Rowing, Canoeing, Fishing, Trapping, swimming, Hunting with Shot-gun and Rifle, Camping-out, Winter Sports, Bicycling, Amateur Photography and a few minor sports. Among the writers who have contributed are William Blaikie, Maurice Thompson, Captain Jacob A. Auger, Cavalry Instructor at West Point, David Kirby, Thomas Chapham, General George W. Wingate, Professor George Goldie, Director of Athletics of New York Athletic Club, and a large number of private gentlemen throughout the country have furnished facts concerning the wild against a state of general apathy. The Above Picture Represents

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kazawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

For sale by all Dealers.

It is announced that the Eastern railroad directors have decided, when they issue the company's preferred stock in exchange for the bonds deposited, to put it out in this wise: For each $1,000 bond will be given seven shares of preferred stock, $21 in preferred-stock scrip, and $229 in bond scrip. The directors have voted not to issue additional stock; also that small depositors may receive par for par, and the basis will be pro rata. The scrip will be ready about December 9th, and the directors would like to deliver the preferred stock at the same date.

The gondola Hard Chance, Capt. Cheney, hasn't hauled up for the winter yet, and won't, so long as the rivers flowing into the Piscataqua are not closed by ice. She went up river from Sise's lower wharf with a cargo of ninety tons of coal for the Newmarket Manufacturing Co., on Wednesday.

The Concord & Portsmouth railroad station in Raymond was broken into on Tuesday night of this week, and about three dollars in money stolen. The work was done in a very bungling way, and evidently by tramps.

The Free Baptist society will celebrate the extinction of their church indebtedness by a jubilee festival and banquet on Thursday evening, Dec. 9th, in the Pearl street church. Five hundred invitations have been issued.

"I have sold and am selling Athlophoros. In several cases I have recommended it for rheumatism and have found it to be a good thing," says C. W. Wells, a druggist of Maynard, Mass. No remedy can be recommended more conscientiously.

Possesses in the fullest degree the tonic and stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites combined with the healing, strengthening and fattening qualities of the Cod Liver Oil in a perfectly agreeable form, of wonderful value in consumption, debility and wasting diseases.

William Kantz, a New York boy eighteen years old, attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the Brooklyn bridge. He made the jump and struck squarely on his back. The shock, however, did not kill him, and he will recover.

The President of the Bank of Waverly, Iowa, says: Sulphur Bitters saved my life. For ten years I have suffered from catarrh and liver complaint; I lost forty-five pounds and was growing worse rapidly. I had lost all faith in medicine, but hearing your Bitters so well recommended, I gave them a trial. Six bottles cured me. —Smith P. Hunt, Waverly, Iowa.

Miss Cleveland has sent word to the president that she will accept his invitation to spend the holidays at the White House. Since leaving the capital Miss Cleveland has been far from strong.

It is wise to provide against emergencies which are liable to arise in family. In sudden attacks of cold, croup, asthma, etc., a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will prove a never failing remedy.

Noble Reformers.

Howard T. Blackstone, the thieving discount clerk of the Canal national bank of Portland, Me., who according to his own confession has stolen $25,000 of the bank's money, was so exceedingly good and lofty-minded that he could not countenance the election of such a man as Blaine, and was made secretary of the Deering Civil Service Reform Association, of which the now notorious William E. Gould, defaulting cashier of the First national bank of Portland, was president. These two men were too good to remain in the republican party, and wished to live in an entirely different and more elevated moral atmosphere. President Cleveland will have to address answers to the Deering Civil Service Reform Association's circulars either to its president at the state prison, Thomaston, Me., or its secretary at Blackstone, Canada.

It is a well respected maxim: "Accept the advice of competent instructors and be guided thereby." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the only safe remedy for coughs and colds. It costs only 25 cents.

Two hundred girls attacked and pelted with mud a bailiff and his assistant, who were serving writes of ejectment on tenants on Lord Dillon's estate at Ballyhannis, Ireland. The men beat a hasty retreat, leaving horse, car and papers.

There is no doubt about the honest worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Thousands who have been benefited by its use, will attest its virtues. This remedy cures liver and kidney complaint, and eradicates every trace of disease from the system.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can afflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

John Bright, writing in reference to the proposed removal of the lace industry of Nottingham, Eng., from that place to districts where wages are lower, says he hopes that workingmen will soon make the discovery that it is not to their interest to demand from their employers higher wages than trade can pay.

The most eminent physicians of the age recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for all bronchial troubles.

The heaviest business ever done on any stock exchange in the world was done in New York on the 30th ult., the sales aggregating 881,412 shares, representing nearly $100,000,000.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

There is a general complaint throughout the cities and towns of New England, of a scarcity of small coin, particularly cents, they being very difficult to procure in quantities sufficient to meet the demands of trade. We find it much more difficult to get ten-dollar bills.

For rheumatism and neuralgia St. Jacobs Oil is a sure cure.

A GHOST'S QUESTION.

When with your fair, new love you laughing go
Through the loud streets we two have known so well
Will not old memories your fest cumbed
To wait, sometimes, for one whose step is slow,
Whose presence only you may feel or know—
The shadow of a shadow you dispel
With wave of hand, as the old tale you tell
To new ears listening as I used, you know?

Or when you press your hand against your breast,
Will you for one swift instant think it mine,
And thrill to the dead joy you once possessed
And quaffed and savored, as men quaff their wine
Then turn and meet her smile, jest back her jest,
And swear afresh she doth all charms combine?

—Louise Chandler Moulton in Lippincott's.

MUST FIGHT WITHOUT COLORS.

The Order Issued to British Soldiers—The Perils of the Color Guard.

Perhaps I may as well state here a fact, which I think is not generally known outside of military circles. On our landing in Egypt for the Soudan expedition all colors of regiments were left on board the fleet, so that British soldiers for the first time in history went into action unaccompanied by "Old Glory," whose silken folds had been wont for centuries to flap among the bayonets and sabers of its defenders—in some cases jaunty and gay in the bravery of new material and bullion-wrought device, in others, simply a grim, war-battered old emblem, but in either case dear as life's pulse to each and every one in the regiment to which each color respectively belonged. It may be recellected that after the battle of Maiwand, in Afghanistan, in which a certain infantry regiment was ambushed, but could have escaped were it not that the enemy devoted all his energies to the capture of the colors, the men stood by them in defense, and so were completely annihilated—wiped off the army list, as it were. Of course, the colors were lost. This decided the war office, and the order was issued that henceforth British soldiers must fight without colors.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that in the British service the colors (two to each regiment) were always carried by commissioned officers—generally the juniors as to service. These colors were escorted by a color guard consisting of the first or color-sergeants of each company, who were also the pay sergeants. Now, in action, in case the color-bearers were shot down, there was always great emulation on the part of other officers to seize and bear them aloft, thus offering themselves as needless targets for enterprising sharpshooters. This sort of thing might be repeated till all the officers were placed hors du combat, when of course, the real backbone of the regiment (the non-commissioned staff) would be expected to take command; but if the color-bearers were swept off it would be quite likely that the color-guard shared their fate, when the regiment would quickly become like a ship without either a rudder or a pilot. Reasoning thus the magnates of the war office decided that the carrying of colors entailed a needless mortality among the most efficient members of a regiment, therefore the practice must cease, as the army could fight well enough without them. The strongest part of it all is, the rank and file now cheerfully coincide with the views of their superiors. Pardon the digression, but I think it was necessary.

The day preceding the battle of Tel-el-Kebir general orders commanded that in the coming advance no bugles were to be sounded, no drums beaten and no loud words of command given; whistles were to be used instead.—British Soldier in Boston Commercial Bulletin.

New York Beefsteak Club.

Once a month the members of the New York beefsteak club, with loosened waistbands and collars, gather around a long table and cast lots for the prize beefsteak—a double porterhouse, weighing never less than two and a half nor more than three pounds. Then, with interested and often with envious eyes, they watch the lucky winner as he tackles it. If he eats it to the bone they rejoice, because he is an honor to the club; but if he fails they rejoice also, for he must then order a basket of wine for their benefit.—Chicago Herald.

Sweet Uses of Literary Adversity.

A rejected manuscript is a spur to genius and the waste basket is the true cradle of literary art. No genuine good work is lost. One by one the old statues are dug up. Why do you find fault with the editor who refuses to buy what he doesn't want. Do you buy an editor's paper if you don't want it? If you make your bait really tempting, irresistible, indeed there's no danger that your labor will be lost. The editor knows a good thing and he will bite at it when he sees it. The trouble is that you underrate the editorial judgment; you send the poor fellow stuff that you would toss aside yourself if you were an editor. This is neither sensible nor honest.

Pause a moment and reflect. What is it that can give commercial value to a manuscript? It is its power to attract readers. If an editor feels that what you write will call attention to the journal and thus make money for him, he will be quite ready to pay you for it; otherwise he will decline to purchase.—Maurice Thompson.

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy cure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

H. E. WOODMAN.

"The tree of the deepest root, is found least willing to quit the ground." So friends and citizens, don't let neuralgia and rheumatism get rooted in the system, but kill them with Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain. For sale by all druggists at twenty-five cents a bottle.

Robert M. Winslow of Fall River, Mass., pension agent, has been detected in fraudulent practices, and has skipped out.

Cabbage

has 92 per cent water; carrots, 86; potatoes, 75; milk, 86; eggs, 80; fish, 50; mutton, 44; bacon, 30, but the absolutely pure G. O. Taylor Bourbon Rye and Whiskey has 100 per cent of every medicinal virtue that renews strength, increases the life forces, and secures a pleasant and ripe old age. Your druggist and grocer will insure it as the very best and purest. It is bottled and guaranteed by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

A dastardly attempt to blow up the furnace company's office at Fair Chance, Pa., with dynamite, is reported. The attempt failed.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A BIG RAILROAD PROJECT.

The Maine Central Railroad Co. have made an offer to the city of Portland to take "a perpetual lease of the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad, assume all liabilities and interest charges, and pay a yearly rental of one per cent on its capital stock for the first three years from the execution of the lease, and afterward two per cent per annum on its capital stock, forever, rental payable semi-annually." This proposition in effect offers the city of Portland $22,000 a year for three years, and $44,000 thereafter. The original amount of bonds held by the city was $1,350,000. The proposition gives the city about one and two-thirds per cent the first three years, and three and one-third per cent thereafter on its original investment.

No secret is made of the probability of an early consolidation of the Eastern with the Boston & Maine. Already the Eastern has taken steps by which the last legal obstacle to a union of the two companies will be removed at an early day. But a prominent official of the Boston & Maine is authority for the statement that a consolidation with the Eastern will mean also a consolidation with the Maine Central, and that the one will not occur without the other. As is well known a majority of the shares of the stock of the Maine Central is held in the treasury of the Eastern railroad company. An absorption of the Maine Central into the system, when once a union of the Boston & Maine and Eastern is consummated, would therefore be an easy matter. But, beyond this, the line of the European & North American company, which forms a junction with the Maine Central at Bangor and stretches far away to the British Provinces, is controlled by the last-named corporation under a lease. The proposition of the Maine Cedtral to lease the line of the Portland & Ogdensburg is especially significant from the fact that the Portland & Ogdensburg makes a connection with the tracks of the Eastern at North Conway, and thence with the roads comprising the Boston & Lowell system. Besides this the Maine Central controls, by lease or otherwise, many of the lesser railroads which bring the people of the state of Maine in connection with the rest of the world.

It will be seen readily that a union of the Boston & Maine and the Boston & Lowell, therefore, means the formation of an immense railroad system, approaching in its dimensions some of the great systems of the west. Its branches will extend from the provinces on the east to lake Champlain and the Connecticut river on the west; and from Boston northward to the line of the queen's dominions. Its ramifications will include the great state of Maine, with its important seaports, its immense summer travel and its valuable freights, the state of New Hampshire and the White mountains, and the lion's share of eastern and northeastern Massachusetts. Its western connections will be unsurpassed. This, then, is the scheme which many are confident will be realized at no distant day.

The Wilson-Moen "Secret."

"Levi Wilson, alias "Doc" Wilson, who has won notoriety by his connection with the law suits against Philip L. Moen, the Worcester, Mass., millionaire, has at last made what he claims to be a full disclosure of the "secret" which induced Moen to give him several hundred thousand dollars. He claims to be the legitimate son of Moen, and that he was placed with Jonas Wilson to be brought up in ignorance of his parentage, of which he was apprised by Wilson on his deathbed in 1870. The reason for his being put away was that he was born only two months after the marriage of his parents, and his appearance would thus cause much talk. Moen flatly denies the story, says there is not a word of truth in it, and he never heard of Jonas Wilson.

Terrible Marine Disaster.

A despatch of Dec. 2d from Algiers reports the foundering of the French troop ship Chandernagor, with the loss of 1200 lives.

"The Fatal Name."

This new and thrilling French story will be in the Boston Daily Globe tomorrow. Be sure and get a copy.

An order from Secretary Whitney commands the use of the marine guard in place of civilian watchmen and shipkeepers at the several navy yards, as far as practicable. The civilian employees affected by this order number 125, and the effect of the secretary's action will be to reduce the force about two-thirds in number. Economical considerations it is said led to the issue of the order, as it is believed that the government property in the yards will be as securely guarded by the marines as it is at present by civilian employes.

A new dynamo has arrived at the electric-light station, and has been put in position.

An electric-light pole has been set up in the yard of the Eldredge Brewing Co., at the Creek. It is forty feet high, from the ground, about double the height of those on the streets.

The temporary wooden buildings on the southerly end of the Jones brewery have all been removed, and set up in the field to the eastward of the permanent brewery buildings. This leaves the ground clear for digging the cellar and putting in the foundations for the new brewery, which will probably be erected next spring. The temporary buildings will in their new location be used one for a paint shop and the other for the storage of staves.

Kearsarge steam fire engine is at the Portsmouth Machine shop, to have a new steam drum put on.

The repairs on the north millbridge are completed, so far as the driveway is concerned, and a very good job has been made of it. The foot-way, which was most in need of an overhaul, has been neglected, it is alleged because the lumber gave out! There ought to be lumber enough procurable in the city to fix it.

Married on Wednesday evening, November 17th, by Rev. P. R. Stratton, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. Charles A. Hammond of Dover and Miss Agnes Neal, the accomplished daughter of Alfred Neal, Esq., of South Royalston, Mass. Friday morning Mr. Hammond and wife left Royalston for Portsmouth, N. H., where a reception in their honor was given by the groom's sister, Mrs. Wm. N. Hodgdon. Here they received several valuable presents. Saturday morning, amid the good wishes of their friends, they left for their future home in Dover, where they were pleasantly welcomed by a small party of friends, with whom a very pleasant evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond received many valuable presents.—Cor. Dover Democrat.

Charles K. Wakefield, dealer in fruit and confectionery at North Berwick, has been attached.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease lies its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

It is stated on very good authority that two wealthy gentlemen residing in Kennebunk have offered to furnish one-half the money necessary to build and equip the new railroad from Kennebunkport to Sanford.

Banjo and guitar music at Montgomery's.

One of the handsomest monuments we have seen is at Hon. John S. Treat's marble yard, and is a recent importation from Glasgow. It is a shaft of Scotch granite, standing about eight feet high, feet including the base, which is two and nine inches square. The pattern is chaste and beautiful, and the workmanship perfect. Yet we understand it is not an unreasonably expensive piece.

Finest banjos in the city at Montgomery's.

Wild geese have been seen in large numbers for a week past, flying south as though something was the matter. These birds are rather late in their southward flight this year.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

THEY MADE GOOD TIME.

The superintendent of the fire-alarm telegraph commenced his monthly testing of the apparatus early Wednesday morning, the 1st inst. When the first box was pulled in, two of the city teams, engaged in their semi-weekly rounds of rubbish-collecting, were near the Portsmouth Machine Works, and both loaded, one with ashes principally, and the other with a mixture of waste paper, tin cans, twigs, dead leaves, and the other sorts of stuff usually set out in barrels by the citizens on Wednesdays and Saturdays. On hearing the alarm the drivers at once struck out for the city yard at an unwonted rate, under the impression that there was a fire, and their teams were needed to haul the engines. A particularly energetic "jounce" on Hanover street, near Bridge, threw out the tailboards, and from that point there was an impromptu grading-up of the roadbed with ashes and litter until half-way through Fleet street, where some person who took in the situation hailed the Jehus with the information that "There haint no fire—only tryin' the alarm!" when the race was given up, and the carts mournfully retraced their way to where the tailboards were lost, gathering up the fragments of cargo as they went.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Dec. 2d, Mayor Eldredge in the chair:

Absent, Aldermen Sinclair, Conlon and Littlefield.

Records of two previous meetings were read and approved.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union were granted the use of the South wardroom one night in each week until January, 1887.

Petition of Daniel Marcy and others, to have the steps removed from the front of No. 71 Pleasant street, was referred to the committee on streets with mayor added, with power.

Petition of S. S. Frye and others, to have an electric light removed from in front of the shoe factory to the corner of Cass and Islington streets, was referred to the committee on street lights.

Petition of the assistant marshals and police officers for increase of pay was laid on the table.

Special committee was instructed to ascertain the most favorable terms on which Mr. Willey will settle his claim against the city for damages in regard to a right of way.

A proposition from the Electric Light Co. to furnish a light in front of the city building, to burn all night, free of expense to the city, if the city would furnish the fixture, was accepted with thanks.

The Wheeler Light Co. offered to attend to the kerosene street lights in the suburbs at 5 1-2 cents per light each night when lighted. Referred to committee on streets, with mayor added, with power.

The following in regard to the death of Ex-President Arthur was unanimously adopted:

When one, who, with credit to himself and the nation, has filled the exalted position of Chief Magistrate of a great republic like ours, is called from our midst by death, it is fitting that every citizen should render a just tribute to his worth and give expression to that sense of loss which no one can fail to experience in the death of such a man.

We desire, therefore, in behalf of the city of Portsmouth to bestow our tribute of admiration to the memory of Ex-President Chester A. Arthur, who died on the eighteenth day of November last. He rose from the humblest walks in life to be the foremost citizen of our country; and when he reached that position, though called to it almost without notice or time for preparation, though surrounded by dangers almost insurmountable, though at first tempted and betrayed by friends, harassed and vilified by enemies and distrusted by the many, he filled that position with such dignity and ability, such rare good judgment and fidelity to what he believed to be right, that he was soon idolized by his friends, beloved by his enemies and trusted by all. Few could have done as well as he.

Bowing submissively to that decree which has taken him away in the prime and vigor of manhood, when after years of untiring labor and anxiety, he was expecting that rest and quiet enjoyment of private life to which he was so justly entitled; we deplore his untimely death, and sympathize with his children and friends in their deep affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing be spread upon our records.

Bills amounting to $2048.34 were ordered to be paid.

A bill of the city solicitor, amounting to $183.58, was submitted by the committee on accounts without recommendation. After some discussion it was ordered to be paid.

Aldermen Urch, Hodgdon and Billings were appointed a committee to consider whether any change is desirable in Chap. 6 of the city ordinances, to report by bill or otherwise.

Petition of residents on Wibird street, for a light on that street between the dwelling of D. W. Barnabee and Hawthorn street, was referred to the committee on street lights, with power.

Considerable discussion was had in regard to the large number of untaxed, ownerless and worthless dogs in the city, and it was the unanimous opinion of the board that some effective means should be devised to remedy the nuisance. The mayor, and Aldermen Hodgdon and Magraw, were appointed a committee to consider an amendment to city ordnance relating to dogs.

Adjourned for one week.

MUSIC HALL.

A large number of seats have already been taken for the entertainment to be given in Music hall on Monday evening by McNish, Johnson & Slavin's minstrels, advertised in another column. "Europe's funny wonders, Ramza and Arno, kings of grotesques on the horizontal bar," are said to give such an exhibition as was never seen here before, and worth more than has to be paid to see the whole show.

Col. John S. Mosby, the noted guerilla chief, who is to lecture in Music hall on Tuesday evening next, delivered his lecture on "Stuart's Cavalry" in the G. A. R. course at Boston on Wednesday evening, to a very large and highly-pleased audience.

FELL AMONG THIEVES.

John McIntire, one of the seamen discharged on the 1st inst. from the United States sloop-of-war Kearsarge at this navy yard, arrived in Boston on the evening of that day, with $733.40 in his pockets, which he had just received. As he was walking along Richmond street he was attacked by Joseph Ray, Frank Davis and Joseph Brown, all colored. They knocked him down, and were in the act of relieving him of his money when Officers Burns, Reagan and Carr appeared on the scene, rescued the overmatched naval warrior and his money, and arrested the would-be robbers.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, Hontvet master, having completed her repairs sailed on the 1st inst. for Georgetown, D. C., in completion of her voyage, interrupted by disaster off Cape Cod. The brickers Satellite and Clara B. Kennard sailed for Boston the same day—probably the last of the brick fleet to make trips this season. The Triton arrived from Boston on the 2d, and has hauled up.

The steam tug L. A. Belknap, of Portland, arrived at this port about ten o'clock in the forenoon on Thursday, the 2d inst., having left Portland at four o'clock. She came here to tow around the barque Payson Tucker, just cleared of a cargo of coal at the Concord railroad wharf. She left for Portland in the afternoon with the barque in tow.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

We congratulate Comrade Charles W. Prince, of Kittery, on his restoration to the pension rolls. Comrade Prince, who is a worthy member of Storer Post, G. A. R., was badly disabled in the service, and the generous sum allowed him will greatly contribute to the comfort of his old age.

Montgomery's music and art store will be open evenings from now through the holidays.

"Lady Franklin," a once noted trotting mare in this region, and for many years owned by Hon. M. Eldredge, died a few days ago at the age of thirty-two years. She had a record of 2:28 3-4, was a dark bay in color, and weighed about 900 lbs. For nearly two years she had done no work, passing her time quite comfortably in the mayor's stable or pasture.

We have spoken before of Lewis E. Staples having blankets very cheap. This will remind you that he is selling them as low as 75 cents per pair.

Adventures of a Valuable Painting.

A Claude Lorraine recently met with a series of adventures in Paris which, if the narrative be true, go to show that appreciation of a choice work of art is not widespread in the French capital with all its institutes, fine art-schools, prizes of Rome and salons. The picture in question was stolen from a private residence by a bold fellow who is credited (or charged) on the police books with 144 successful burglaries, accomplished by him without any accomplices. After a long search the "fence" was discovered in the person of a dealer in second-hand furniture. At first he denied all knowledge of the affair, but being pressed hard, admitted that he had bought it for 5 francs! Not suspecting that he had in hand a work valued at 18,000 francs, he sold it to a neighbor in the same business, and equally ignorant in art matters, for 6 francs.

The second buyer set it out in front of his shop, surrounded by the usual broken, faded and dilapidated bits of cabinet work and upholstery that drift into such places, and scratched over it, in chalk, "Ten francs." After a fortnight's exposure there to the sun and the rain, it attracted the attention of a passer-by, who bought it and carried it home. His family, having as little knowledge of its worth as the thief or the second-hand dealers—or as he, either, as the sequel proved—so pestered him with their jests that he stowed it away in an out-house, where it was at last found by the detective officer who had been ordered to trace its journey since it was taken from its rightful owner.—Boston Transcript.

Hogs Fond of Skunks.

The fence law of Georgia, which has the effect of keeping hogs from roaming unrestrained through the woods, has also had the effect of greatly increasing the number of skunks in the state. Hogs are particularly fond of young skunks and devoured many of them when the woods were open to stock.—New York Sun.

A Lake of Soapsuds.

The water of the so-called medical lake near Spokane is so charged with certain salts that it is like lye, and is used in making soap. When the wind blows the waves soon make soapsuds of the water, the froth, or lather, piling in masses along the shore.—New York Sun.

A Wonderful STRENGTHENER

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE

While THE NEW-YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE is the most expensive publication of its class in the United States nevertheless its price is now fixed at $1 a year, the Semi-Weekly at $2; in both cases an extra copy with a club of 10.

The campaign just closed found the country in the trough of the political waves. The Republican managers have made the best struggle they could against a state of general apathy. In a few States they have been aided by the inspiring presence of a great leader, whose speeches have awakened almost the old enthusiasm anywhere shown. The result of the campaign is gratifying; its gains are an inspiration; the Democratic losses are a plain guide to the popular drift. From this time forward the country will feel the lift of the advancing wave of 1888, which, if we all do our duty, will sweep out from Washington the masquerade now in possession, the foes of protection, equality and patriotic government. It is now the duty of all earnest and experienced workers to bend their energies toward united and hearty work for 1888. The party is to be consolidated, cheered and rallied. To this work THE TRIBUNE pledges its zealous efforts.

THE TRIBUNE offers for 1887 several excellent premiums, including

"The Tribune Book of Open Air Sports."

A work compiled by THE TRIBUNE, especially for the young men of the United States. It is a thorough statement of the present status of Open Air athletic amusements in America, with suggestions to beginners, the rules of every important game, the records of noted contests and the achievements of American Champions. The book will contain about 150 illustrations. Chapters are provided on Archery; Base-ball, with the record of wonderful playing and the League and Association records; and instructions how to curve a ball; Court Tennis, Lawn Tennis, Football, Cricket, Lacrosse, Bicycle Horsemanship, Cross Country Hunting; Yachting, with a discussion of Sloop and Cutter and instructions How to Design, Build and Sail a Boat; Rowing, Canoeing, Fishing; Trapping, swimming, Hunting with Shot-gun and Rifle, Camping-out, Winter Sports, Bicycling, Amateur Photography and a few minor sports. Among the writers who have contributed are William Blaikie, Maurice Thompson, Captain Jacob A. Auger, Cavalry instructor at West Point, David Kirby, Thomas Chapham, General George W. Wingate, Professor George Goldie, Director of Athletics of the New York Athletic Club; and a large number of private gentlemen throughout the country have furnished facts concerning the wild game and hunting sports of their several localities. No book of this character has ever been put into print in America. It is sufficiently elemental to be a "Boy's Own Book," and answers all the purposes of our manly youth, and yet will also meet the demands of adults. Will be ready for delivery December 1st. Octavo, 300 pages. Retail price, $2.50. Terms, postage paid: with Weekly, 1 year, $2.50; with Semi-weekly, 1 year, $3.50; with Daily, $10.50. Only to be had in connection with yearly subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE.

Also "BLUNT'S RIFLE PRACTICE," a book for every hunter and National Guardsman; a fine WALTHAM WATCH, the low-price WATERBURY WATCH; the two UNABRIDGED DICTIONARIES; WOOD'S MEDICAL HYGIENE AND SURGERY, illustrated; MURDAFF'S HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, illustrated; and YOUNG'S CONCORDANCE OF THE BIBLE.

Sample copy, giving terms in full, sent free. Order by postal card.

CAPTAIN S. GREENWOOD,

Master of the Steamship Kanawha.

About a year ago he observed a strange change in his feelings. He felt tired instead of vigorous; nervous instead of strong. His appetite became poor and his sleep broken. He tried to overcome these feelings, but they would not go. He then noticed pains and irritation in the water channels, and that the fluids passed were often thick and with a scum on top or a brick-dust sediment at the bottom. All these were the sure symptoms of that fearful disease, Catarrh of the Bladder, which has always been considered incurable, and they continued until the Captain was in a terrible condition. But he is the picture of health and vigor to-day, and he owes it entirely to that wonderful medicine, Hunt's Remedy. Capt. Greenwood says: "I am so certain of the great value of Hunt's Remedy, that I always carry a supply on shipboard for the use of my men, and I prescribe it whenever they are ailing. After curing me as it did, and restoring my wife, (whom the best physicians of New York said was dying of tumor,) to perfect health, I swear by it."

This Great Remedy absolutely cures all Kidney Liver and Urinary Diseases.

The report of Capt. Francis M. Bunce on the behavior of the new cruiser Atlanta during the recent trial trip has been submitted to Secretary Whitney. The machinery was found to work smoothly, the only difficulty now to be overcome being the lack of sensitiveness of the water valve. The valve is too heavy, and ships water into the cylinder, making the piston hammer. This can be remedied at a slight expense. The machinery developed the required number of horse power. Engineer-in-Chief Loring says that he is more confident than ever that the performance of the vessel will satisfy the most exacting.

The Fountain of Vitality,

The source of physical energy and mental activity, is the blood. Let this become vitiated with bile, or thin and watery in consequence of indigestion and non-assimilation of the food, and an interruption of the functions of the body, and a loss of stamina, flesh and appetite ensues. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a tonic specially adapted to restore all three, because it assists digestion and assimilation, and removes bile and other impurities from the circulation. Protected and strengthened with this admirable defensive invigorant, the system defies influences inimical to health, to which, if unregulated and feeble, it would undoubtedly succumb. Constipation, often an obstinate and chronic ailment, is entirely removed by it, the liver, kidneys and bladder roused from inaction, and a tendency to rheumatism effectually counteracted. It also eradicates malarial disease.

It has been discovered that the probable reason the sun goes south in the winter is, to escape the rigors of our northern climate.

The question of a proper food for infants interests all mothers; especially those unable to nurse their offspring. Mellin's Food possesses all the requisites as a substitute for mothers' milk, and is highly commended by the medical faculty of both Europe and America.

It was twenty-eight degrees below zero in parts of Minnesota on the morning of the 1st inst.

There is no doubt about the honest worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Thousands who have been benefited by its use, will attest its virtues. This remedy cures liver and kidney complaint, and eradicates every trace of disease from the system.

A poplar tree was recently cut down near New Middletown, Ind., that measured twenty-seven feet in circumference. The tree made 12,000 shingles, 1,000 rails, 600 feet of lumber, and twenty-five cords of stove wood.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. The medical profession has been slow to learn this. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders, syringes, astringents, or any similar application, because they are all irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can afflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm.

The Richmond Whig says that no rich rascal has been convicted in Virginia since the war, and that the penitentiary is full of poverty-stricken wretches whom the law had no mercy for. The same proposition would be substantially true if made in regard to the other southern states, and it probably would not have to be shaded very much to apply to the northern states as well. It cannot be said that the law anywhere treats the poor man quite as it does the rich, but the unanimity with which its weight falls upon the colored and poor white trash offenders of the south is notable.

The most eminent physicians of the age recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for all bronchial troubles.

Joseph T. S. Libby, one of the two owners of the Dover Republican and Enquirer, has sold out his interest to Fred A. Quimby, foreman of the office. The other owner, John Scales, and Quimby, will carry on the papers for the present.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

Two coal scows were capsized in the Merrimac river, near the Newburyport bridge, Wednesday, Dec. 1st, dumping 250 tons of coal to the bottom of the river.

PECULIARITIES OF COSTA RICA.

A Trip to Puerto Limon for Bananas—A Glimpse of Cuba.

We were to spend five days together on board the good ship Foxhall, fruiter, bound to Puerto Limon for bananas, so it was but natural that, as home and old associations gradually faded into the blue distance, we should take a mental inventory of each other and become quite sociable and friendly in the absence of society and friends. There were only about a dozen of us cabin passengers all told and rather, it must be confessed, a commonplace collection.

South America was represented by three Columbians from Bogota who gave up very early in the struggle and retired below with many a murmur and cry of despair—echoed unfortunately by several others bound for Colon. There was an amateur photographer who entertained us for an hour with his views of Honduras and Guatemala—a tall, thin man who stretched himself out on one of the sofas in the saloon immediately after dinner and there remained in mental and bodily anguish until we sighted Limon.

Of course we related our traveling experiences, seated in a cheerful group on the bridge with the sunlight around and above us, a sea of glass around us, and on either side to the horizon's edge the deep green of sugar cane and waving trees. At times we passed charming homes whose white walls showed up fresh against deep embowering folliage; again the spire of a village church rose above the upheaved mounds of some quiet wave-swept God's acre. The sunlight gleamed on each dancing wave and flashed back the drowned splendor into our dazzled eyes. We went into raptures over the easy motion of the vessel, unmindful of the humorous curse of the captain's lips as he told us that to an old salt the gulf is always smooth.

The conversation at once turned upon the climate of Colon and Costa Rica. There were only eight persons engaged in the discussion, not one had visited either place less than three times and yet not a soul agreed with another in the smallest particular.

For instance: According to a lady, Colon is a charming town, not unhealthy, beautifully situated, supplied with every imaginable luxury, and altogether a place to live in—not to die. Her husband immediately added that Colon is a good gold mine, to those who can stand the vile climate, but a horrible hole in which to bury a Christian alive. The almighty dollar was the sole attraction to any of our fellow travelers in their southern journeyings, and many were the schemes discussed and the plans prepared for the capture of that elusive coin.

Then came Costa Rica. "Limon?" said a third, "Limon? Picture to yourself some ragged hills, some dirty houses, a broiling sun, dirty water, hundreds of jabbering Jamaica niggers, you will have Limon well photographed in your mind's eye. San Jose? A cluster of flat-roofed houses, long, narrow streets, horrible looking people, poverty, hunger and dirt—there is San Jose. Cartago? A town dead this fifty years. There is no society. The aristocracy has no connection with the foreign circle; you will meet no one; you wish yourself dead. Costa Rica is the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel, the Prophet."

"A perfect libel on Costa Rica," said a fourth—a lady who had spent some years in Central America. "Of course Limon is small, but the scenery is superb. In the interior the climate is divine. Both San Sose and Cartago are pretty towns. The people are exclusive, but when you do know them they are the most courteous gentlefolk in the world. Away up in the mountains of the Central Andes one finds the veritable Garden of Eden."

And so it went. "The country is detestable"—"It is a paradise"—"The people are savages"—"They are courteous in the extreme"—"The republic is absolutely bankrupt"—"You will scarcely find an industrious person who is not independent."

Slightly bewildered, but, yet quite ready to trust to our own observations, we obeyed the summons to dinner and partook of the last repast we dared approach during the entire voyage.

Just as the waiters were placing the dessert on the table, the vessel rose and fell with a mighty bound; our photographer turned green and rose with a groan—"The jetties! we are in the gulf! Lord, have mercy upon me!"

It might be better and less harrowing to the feelings of all concerned to draw a veil over the next day and lift it only on Sunday morning, when the captain called us to come on deck and look at Cuba.

Still I was the only one to follow our genial captain upon the bridge, the only one to look through the glass toward where a long dark line to the left against a gray sky showed "La joya mas brillante en la corona de Espana." It was raining softly, and Cuba was nothing more than a gray line against a gray horizon under a soft gray sky—but it was still something to have looked upon the beautiful isle even through the misty distances.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

Hogs Food of Skunks.

The fence law of Georgia, which has had the effect of keeping hogs from roaming unrestrained through the woods, has also had the effect of greatly increasing the number of skunks in the state. Hogs are particularly fond of young skunks and devoured many of them when the woods were open to stock.—New York Sun.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. The Knights of Labor.

The Philadelphia Press publishes an important secret circular, issued by General Master Workman Powderly and the executive board, to the general officers of the Knights of Labor, levying an assessment of twenty-five cents a member upon all local assemblies of the order. The assessment is known as "special defence assessment," and the money will be used to help members locked out for their connection with the order. The circular says the order has reached the most critical point in its history.

A despatch of Dec. 1st from Providence, R. I., says "the district assembly of the Knights of Labor has issued a secret circular calling for help from members of the order for the operatives in the mills of the Moss Manufacturing company at Westerly, now on a strike, stating that this is a crisis in which a stand must be made or the organization will be disrupted."

The Knights of Labor on the morning of the 1st inst. yielded the last point in the struggle with the leather manufacturers of Salem and Peabody, Mass., withdrawing the "sandwich boy" from in front of Harrington & Co.'s place in Salem, where he had been on duty since December last. It was against Harrington & Co. that the boycott was declared, a year ago, and the "sandwich boy" daily paraded in front of their place between two boards inscribed "Strike. Keep Away. Per order K. of L." The boy was kept at his post after the general strike was declared off by the Knights of Labor assemblies, but the manufacturers announced that none of the strikers would be taken back until he and the boycott were removed.

A False Position.

The Chicago Knights of Labor are all astray in assuming that the anarchist trial was conducted in the interest of wealth. The policemen who were so shockingly mangled by the bombs were not capitalists; they were men who worked for daily wages, and earned every cent they got. The assemblies expressed sympathy for the foreign-born, alien murderers, and none for their native American victims. It is a false position for American workingmen to take, and must work serious injury to the cause of organized labor.

Aid for British Shipowners.

It is announced that "Congressman Dunn will make every effort to secure the passage by the house of the free-ship bill before Christmas."

As the free-ship bill might properly be called "a bill to hand over the coasting trade of the United States to the British owners of ships cheaply built in England by pauper labor, and cheaply sailed by underpaid and underfed British seamen," it is to be hoped that Congressman Dunn will fail to secure its passage.

Congressman Dunn is an Arkansas democrat, and of course willing to do anything in his power to ruin the great coasting-trade interest of New England and the middle Atlantic states.

How to Name the Baby.

BOSTON, December 4th.—The average circulation of the Boston Daily Globe in November was 103,797. This leads in New England. "How to name the baby," what names mean, the best way to name boys and girls and other interesting facts will be given in the Boston Sunday Globe to-morrow. The same paper will have the best and easiest way of making coffee, tea, etc. Order it to-day.

The coroner's jury in the case of the deaths of Daniel O. S. Hooper and William B. Berjamin, who were killed at the Main street crossing in Biddeford, Me., by the night Pullman train recently, on the 2d inst. rendered a verdict, after a long and exciting session. After reviewing the circumstances of the accident, and calling attention to the high rate of speed at which the train was moving, the verdict declares that the Boston & Maine railroad was criminally negligent in the premises, and that it should provide better protection for human life. The verdict was signed by all the jurors except Elwin Stone, who agrees to the verdict, but does not concur in the reasons and conclusions which declare criminal negligence against the railroad.

A few days hence the stockholders of the Boston & Maine will be asked to sanction a proposition to unite with the Eastern or some other road in the erection of a union passenger station in Boston. Architects will doubtless find a way by which the stations of the Eastern and Boston & Lowell, now side by side, may be united in one grand structure, the expense of which work would be met, partially at least, by the sale of the property of the Boston & Maine on Haymarket square. The prospect of a perpetual doing away with the dangerous grade crossings will doubtless have great weight with the Massachusetts legislators when legislative sanction to a consummation of the scheme shall become necessary.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY

it is to delude a poor sufferer into the belief that some worthless liniment will cure Rheumatism and neuralgia. Honesty is the best policy in the manufacture of proprietary articles as in all other matters, and the fact that the proprietors of Athlophoros have never claimed for it even all its merit would warrant has not a little to do with its wonderful popularity, and the thousands of grateful testimonials received by them show that their policy has been wise as well as right.

Experience has amply demonstrated that mere outward applications are worthless. The disease has its seat in the blood, and any remedy to be successful must deal with the obstructive acid which poisons and inflames it.

Athlophoros acts on the blood, muscles and joints directly. It takes the poison out of the blood and carries it out of the system; it invigorates the action of the muscles and limbers the stiffness of the joints. It reaches the liver and kidneys, cleansing them from irritating substances, and, if followed up after the rheumatic conditions cease, it will restore these organs to regularity and health.

Hinsdale, N. H., May 18, 1886.

The sale of Athlophoros is rapidly increasing with us and has nearly doubled in the last month; every one who has tried it seems very much pleased with its effects and recommends it highly.

WARDEN, JONES & CO., Druggists.

Manchester, N. H., March 15, 1886.

Having suffered for some time from rheumatic difficulty I was induced to try a bottle of Athlophoros, and am happy to recommend the same as a sure relief for rheumatism. ARTHUR B. SMITH.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

OUR VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The annual meeting of the Mechanics' Fire Society was held at the Rockingham house Friday evening. These veteran firemen, among the other arduous duties imposed on them by membership in the organization, are compelled to meet at the Rockingham four times a year to discuss such a supper as only that celebrated hostelry can afford; and on Friday evening this duty was faithfully attended to, with a degree of success only to be attained by long and faithful practice. Previous to this part of the exercises, the annual election of officers was held, and resulted in the choice of Dr. S. C. Whittier as president, John E. Colcord as clerk, and George W. Pendexter, William R. Martin and John H. Broughton as wardens.

ODD FELLOWSHIP.

A canton of Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F., was organized in Odd Fellows' hall on Tuesday evening, Nov. 30th, the following officers being elected:

Comdr. and Capt., David Urch;
Lieutenant, Albert R. Junkins;
Ensign, Albert E. Rand;
Clerk, Charles H. Clough;
Accountant, William W. Cotton.

This organization is a comparatively new branch of Odd Fellowship, but extends through the United States, Canada and great Britain. Up to Sept. 1st of this year 356 cantons had been formed, with a membership of 12,073. The canton just formed here is the twelfth in New Hampshire, and starts out with about forty members, which is not much below the full number desired.

At the regular meeting of Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., last Thursday evening, it was voted not to increase the dues. The lodge is in a flourishing condition, the funds being well invested and gradually accumulating, and the membership being steadily on the increase. The lodge will give a series of entertainments the coming winter, similar to those of seasons past.

It is announced that the efforts and negotiations that have been in progress for nearly two years past, looking to the consolidation of Strawberry Bank and Mt. Sinai encampments of Odd Fellows, have resulted satisfactorily, and the two bodies will be merged into one, under the name of Strawberry Bank encampment. After the consolidation is effected, the officers elected by the new organization will be publicly installed, a dispensation for such ceremony having been granted; and the installation will be followed by a banquet, and literary and musical exercises. A committee of ten members from each encampment has been appointed to take charge of the arrangements. The officers of the Grand encampment will have charge of the installation ceremonies, and many prominent members of the order are expected to be present from other cities.

MUSIC HALL.

The advance sale of tickets for McNish, Johnson & Slavin's minstrel entertainment in Music hall Monday evening has been very large. The exhibition will probably be the best of the kind which has been here for years, the managers priding themselves on pleasing their audiences with music, mirth, and the absence of all vulgarity.

Col. John S. Mosby, the ex-confederate leader, was entertained at Parker's hotel in Boston on the evening of the 2d inst. by Hon. John M. Forbes, among the guests being Col. Wm. H. Forbes, who when major in the Second Massachusetts cavalry during the war was taken prisoner by Mosby. Oliver Wendell Holmes and James Russell Lowell were also of the party.

Col. Mosby's lecture on "Stuart's Cavalry," which he will deliver in Music hall next Tuesday evening, is spoken of as being intensely interesting.

A DIVIDEND POSTPONED.

Whatever the Eastern railroad stockholders may get in the way of dividends on their common stock must come from earnings in the future. The treasurer of the Boston & Maine railroad company has paid the $420,000 (the Eastern's net earnings for last year) over to the treasurer of the Eastern railroad company, and he has paid it over this week to the surviving trustees for the bondholders, and they have turned it into the sinking fund. This means "good-by" to Eastern dividends out of the earnings of 1885-86. It also means the end of the equity suit brought by several holders of Eastern common stock, to compel the applying of the entire $420,000 to the reduction of the road's bonded debt, instead of only $100,000 of it, as was proposed by some of the managers.

LIFE-SAVING STATISTICS.

From the annual report of the superintendent of the Life-Saving Service we take the following statement of the casualties which occurred during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1886, in this (the first) life-saving district, which comprises the coasts of Maine and New Hampshire:

Number of disasters, forty-six; value of vessels imperilled, $163,360; value of cargoes, $37,955; total value of property, $201,315; number of persons on board vessels, 271; number of persons saved, 270; number of persons lost, one; number of shipwrecked persons succored at stations, fifty-nine; number of days' succor afforded, 114; value of property saved, $173,650; value of property lost, $27,655; number of disasters involving total loss of vessels, eight.

MARITIME NOTES.

The steamer James Sampson, during the two months since she was taken off the Kittery Point line, is said to have towed over 9000 tons of coal to Exeter, South Newmarket, and Newmarket. Friday morning she found herself frozen in at South Newmarket, and was obliged to cut her way through ice an inch and a half thick, nearly down to Great bay.

Mr. Charles Grant of Kittery is chief officer of the steamship Westernland, which had her forward whaleback crushed in by a tremendous sea which boarded the vessel Nov. 27th, killing six men and seriously injuring thirteen others, and damaging the steamer to the amount of $5,000.

The schooner Hattie Lewis, Lowe master, sailed for Boston on the 3d inst. with a load of bricks.

Twenty-seven Gloucester vessels and 136 lives were lost in the fisheries during the past year. The season was an unusually disastrous one.

The schooner Highland Light, of Wellfleet, Mass., was on the 2d inst. declared forfeited to the queen of England, with her cargo, fishing gear, etc., in the admiralty court at Charlottetown, Prince Edward island. The captain of the Highland Light acknowledged that he was preparing to fish for mackerel inside the three-mile limit when his vessel was seized, and that he had previously fished inside the limit for cod.

The tribute to the memory of Ex-President Arthur, unanimously adopted Thursday evening by the city government, is the best expression passed by any deliberative body, in this connection, we have seen. Departing from the stereotyped form used on such occasions, eloquent words recite the universal respect and admiration felt in this community for the memory of one who filled so worthily the exalted position of Chief Magistrate of this great country. It is dignified and manly throughout, worthy the enduring space it will receive upon the records of the city.

The Ladies' Universalist Social Circle will give a turkey and oyster supper, with sale of aprons and fancy work for Christmas gifts, on Wednesday, Dec. 15th.

A confidential clerk in Chicago has stolen $100,000 from his employer within the past ten years, and the employer has only just found it out. We should like to see the fellow smart enough to steal fifty thousand dollars from us, without our detecting him.

Prof. A. T. Van Lear of Akron, Ohio, who some five or six years ago taught a class in painting in this city was on the 24th ult. united in marriage at Great Falls with Miss Stella Stickney of that town. The bride was one of the professor's pupils at the time he was instructing a class in Great Falls.

The Portsmouth cricket club propose to give a grand fair at some time not far distant, at which a large number of valuable prices will be offered. The proceeds of the fair will be devoted to finishing the grading and turfing of the cricket field, and to making what other improvements the funds will admit of.

The funeral of the late John A. Tucker of Greenland took place in that town on Friday forenoon, and was attended by a large delegation from Storer post, G. A. R., of this city, of which Mr. Tucker was a member.

A Portsmouth paper states that "it is rumored that Sheriff Kent will be a candidate for warden of the state prison." Mr. Kent was in this city Tuesday, in attendance at the republican state committee and the organization of the new state club, and in answer to a question as to this rumor, he said that the article was entirely unauthorized; that Warden Dodge had but recently been reappointed for another term, and until that expired he knew of no cause for his retirement. He further said that there were matters of importance to be considered by the incoming state administration before minor questions should be thought of. The sheriff says he would like to buy a ten thousand dollar farm for about five.—Concord Monitor.

A very creditable and pretty Advent church is in course of construction on the site of the old house of that denomination at Eliot Neck. The outside is nearly finished, and when ready for occupancy it will reflect credit not only on that part of the town but on the indefatigable and persistent few who have raised the funds and have given of their labor and means to defray the cost.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

For a bargain in handkerchiefs none were ever shown equal to those all linen hemstitched goods, at five for fifty cents; Lewis E. Staples is the only one selling them at that rate.

The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals are going to take a long summer's holiday. Since the introduction of Salvation Oil, they've almost nothing to do now but to rub occasionally.

Montgomery's music and art store will be open evenings from now through the holidays.

New Hampshire will be handsomely represented in Washington this winter by Senator P. C. Cheney. His hospitality is unbounded, and he entertains royally.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PERLE, Salem, Mass.

Treatment of Stuttering Children.

An excellent and humane arrangement has been introduced into the elementary schools of Brunswick. All the children who are found to stammer or stutter are examined by a specialist physician, Dr. Berkhan, who reports upon the cause and degree of their infirmity. They are then arranged in distinct classes, apart from the other scholars, where the lessons are given by teachers from the deaf and dumb school. Four such classes were formed last year, with an average of ten scholars in each class. After a patient had useful training, most of the children were declared to be completely cured of the malady, while an improvement was reported in all of them. Dr. Berkhan says that the malady occurs far more frequently among poor families than among the well-to-do, and that unless it is dealt with in public schools there is small likelihood of the sufferers being healed in later years.—Boston Transcript.

The Volunteer Light Batteries.

The volunteer light batteries were a most useful arm of the Union army. At the commencement of the war there were but few volunteer light batteries; prominent among them the Providence Marine artillery, the Boston light artillery, the Cleveland light artillery, and the Chicago Board of Trade battery, at the north, with the New Orleans Washington battalion of light artillery, the Chatham light battery of Savannah and the Citadel light battery of Charleston at the south. The Union forces included, when the last returns were made, 211 light batteries, with nearly 20,000 officers and men and an annual pay-roll of $4,449,155.12. These batteries had 1,188 brass, iron, steel and bronze guns, the wrought-iron, rifled Parrotts being regarded as the best for accuracy, strength and range. Twenty-one were eight-gun batteries, the rest six-gun and howitzer batteries.—Ben: Perley Poore.

A Lake of Soapsuds.

The water of the so-called medical lake near Spokane is so charged with certain salts that it is like lye, and is used in making soap. When the wind blows the waves soon make soapsuds of the water, the froth, or lather, piling in masses along the shore.—New York Sun.

"The Message of the Blue Bird," by Miss Irene E. Jerome, of Chicago, the author of the charming "Sketch Book," and of "Nature's Hallelujah," published by Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Boston, in its new binding is one of the dantiest combinations of song and illustration ever published, exhibiting in a marked degree the fine poetic taste and wonderfully artistic touch which render this author's works so popular. The pictures are exquisite, and the verses exceedingly graceful, appealing to the highest sensibilities. The little volume ranks among the choicest of holiday souvenirs, and is beautiful and pleasing.

—"Have you any dog biscuits?" asked the owner of a new dog, entering a fancy grocery. "No," said the grocer, "but we have some fine sausage meat."

PSORIASIS, OR SCALY SKIN.

I, John J. Case, D. D. S., have practiced dentistry in this country for thirty-five years and being well known to thousands hereabouts, wish it view to help any one afflicted as I have been for the past twelve years, testify that the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me of Psoriasis, or Scaly skin, in eight days, after the doctors with whom I had consulted gave me no help or encouragement.
NEWTON, N. J. JOHN J. CASE, D. D. S.

DISTRESSING ERUPTION.

Your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed a wonderful cure last summer on one of our customers, an old gentleman of seventy years of age, who suffered with a fearfully distressing eruption on his head and face, and who had tried all remedies and doctors to no purpose. J. F. SMITH & CO.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has enabled more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influences. The foul air it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have it the hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. One such is hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands of the most intelligent minds relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most offensive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

The latest news from Africa is decidedly encouraging; the natives have ceased to fry their grandparents, and have advanced so far that they use habitually Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, which is a sure cure for all lung troubles.

Senator Sherman is in favor of reducing the tax on national banks to half of one per cent. He is in favor of letting the banks do business on the 4 1-2 per cent bonds now outstanding, and allow their circulation upon the face value of the bonds.

Tone up the system and improve the appetite by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

Lieut. John W. Stewart is detached from the Pinta, and placed on waiting orders.

For forty years, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been demonstrated to be most reliable remedy in use, for colds, coughs, and lung diseases. Slight colds should not be neglected. The Pectoral will prevent their becoming chronic.

Great success attends the sale of James Pyle's new washing compound, Pearline. This is not surprising, as it has been demonstrated from actual experience that it is absolutely harmless to the most delicate fabric, while it is a great economizer of labor, time and soap.

—A Philadelphia soap manufacturer declares that he advertises only in newspapers for the reason "that a man who doesn't read the newspapers has no use for soap."

Every lady who knows its worth (and who does not?) feels that the kindly face of Lydia E. Pinkham is that of an honored friend.

A Most Valuable Agent.

No. 95 Jackson St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Being familiar with the stimulating, healing and anodyne properties of Allcock's Porous Plasters, I commend them as a most valuable agent in the class of diseases for which they are intended. The stimulating action when worn over the gastric region materially aids in restoring strength and energy to digestion, and the consequent building up of tissue and restoring tone to the general system.

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakened by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

FALLACIES OF POPULAR EDUCATION.

One Man's Objections to Mind-Puzzling Questions—Asks for Better Results.

The following is, in substance, a conversation between two men while going home on the train. The older and apparently more experienced said to his neighbor: "Last night my boy came home with this problem: 'A workman engaged to labor for fifty days. Every day he worked he received $2.50, and every day he was idle he forfeited $2. At the end of the time he received $110. How many days was he idle?' I call such examples puzzles. My children are required to spend altogether too much time over such useless work. Of what practical service can it be? No such occur in business. The money can not be paid to find the number of days he was idle. As there stated it is a '13 14 15' puzzle, and of no better help to prepare the young mind for life's duties. No man can afford to send his children to school to spend their time upon puzzles—so called examples that have no relation to practical life."

"But, my friend," said the younger, "these puzzles have their value as a means for discipline of mind."

"Ah," returned the other; "are there not to be found many problems that afford better mental exercise, and, at the same time, convey to the child's mind some idea of business matters? Suppose a promising young man wished to learn the blacksmith's trade, and you would give him a sledge and ask him to pound the bowlder rocks several hours a day in order that he might develope his muscles. If the youth had any ambition at all he never would make a blacksmith. While exercising his muscle he could learn something useful. Life is too short to pound stone merely for the sake of developing muscle.

"The time which scholars have spent in this way is, in my opinion, an irretrievable loss. This is not all; such demands have a tendency to discourage children, and many, especially boys, leave school early for no other reason."

"What would you suggest as a remedy for this state of affairs?" queried the second.

"In the first place, by using text-books that contain only practical, straightforward problems. The various active employments furnish an endless number of examples that, in analysis, are sufficiently difficult to exercise the keenest intellect, and at the same time impart some idea of transacting business. It is not necessary to put them into unnatural forms and obscure language. Puzzles may do for a pastime, but as a thing regularly required of scholars they are worse than useless; I think they are positively harmful. Our children study arithmetic from the age of 8 years to 14, and many of them are not able to solve ordinary business problems that come up every day in mercantile life. A few days ago I asked my boys, who receive more than average marks of scholarship in their school work and examinations, to give me the result of an investment. The example was a simple one in percentage. They did not know definitely what to do; they tried this way and then another, as they would if it were an enigma, and they were as certain of the result. I was disappointed, and they were disappointed; yes, more, they were discouraged.

"It is not strange that people are looking for better results from our schools. Some call for industrial schools; others would turn out languages and bring in the sciences; all these will fail to give the child a better preparation for life unless the matter is brought to them in a way to induce pupils to think and to observe what is going on about them. It is true, as Garfield has said, Mark Hopkins as a teacher and a log to sit upon is a better university for a young man than fine buildings with libraries and laboratories, and with mechanical professors to guide them. Only to-day a lady showed me a set of examination questions. A single example out of the ten in arithmetic had any reference to practical matters, and that was stated impractically. In the same set was the following: 'How high does the sun appear above the horizon to a man at Chicago? At Quito? Cui bono? What has that to do with health, wealth, or happiness? There was not a hint in the whole set as to the cause of typhoid fever, of catarrh, or of consumption. What would you do to prevent any of these? What constitutes wholesome food? What cleanliness? How is proper ventilation best secured? What care should be taken of the eyes? What position of the body at the desk? Not one word about these practical things which every one ought to know and to put into practice almost daily."—Chicago Herald.

The Chicago Girl's Ancestors.

If one hasn't ancestors, it is just as well to have the courage to own one's lack of them. A girl who came to Boston from Chicago lately was shown by a Yankee girl of excellent family some ancestrial china. "These dishes," said the New England girl, "have been in our family during seven generations." "Seven generations!" exclaimed the Chicago girl. "Well," and she shrugged her shoulders, 'I don't know whether I had a great-grandfather or not; but I do know that, if I did have one, he didn't use dishes."—Boston Record.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to let your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

The President's Ill Health.

The president has at last reached one stage in his official career where he can be said to resemble the illustrious Jackson. The returned congressmen, many of whom wear their gloves for a day, and now seek to have something done for their political adherents and a great deal more for themselves, are astonished at the volume of profanity which greets their ears when they call upon the new Doctor of Laws with their requests for patronage. In fact, the president is reported "to swear like a trooper." The real cause of this is ascertained to be, not the dissatisfaction at the result of the recent elections,—not the prospect of the disregard of his views by Congress at the new session,—but the president is suffering from rheumatism, which has kept him above stairs for several days. The president takes no exercise, and eats heartily. Some of his food (which he takes hurriedly, and without proper rest after meals) is said to be of a most indigestible nature. Of this kind is the humble pie which the Missouri democrats dealt out to him when they threatened disaster to his ambition if Benton was not restored to his office as district attorney. They applied the massage treatment, and its effects were wonderful. How the new treatment by the massage expert who has so successfully groomed Secretary Manning will work on the president, an anxious nation is waiting to witness. The president in his alleged desire for reform, must reform himself. He must reduce his quantity of food, eat slower, take more exercise, and withal be careful not to become involved in such uncomfortable positions as he has been found in of late in regard to the democratic district attorney in Missouri and the republican dist. attorney in Pennsylvania. Above all things, if he takes exercise on horseback, let him be sure at the start that both horses which he may attempt to ride shall face the same way. A different rule from this will be likely to result in bringing him to the ground.

IS IT TRUE ECONOMY?

It is an open question whether the order of the navy department which contemplates the use of the marines to care for public property at the navy yards, and thereby save the expense of civilian watchmen and ship-keepers, is in the interest of true economy. The public property is not insured. The civilian watchmen have many duties to perform, some of which may not be known to a new secretary, unless, like Ex-Secretary Chandler, he spends time at a navy yard, and looks about for himself.

It is the temptation to abstract public property of every kind, from a billet of wood to a copper bolt, which sooner or later assails many employes who come to regard the public property as belonging to no one in particular, and in point of morals that it is no sin to plunder the government, which the watchman has always to be on the alert to discover. A watchman properly selected and decently paid, will of necessity be more reliable than an enlisted man, who enlists as a soldier and to whom such detective duty may be distasteful, and who, as the expiration of his term of service draws near, may perhaps be induced to yield to temptations which would not assail the resident citizen of good repute.

This change was essayed several years ago, and found, after careful investigation, not to work beneficially. Changes in the mode of caring for the public property on navy yards have frequently been suggested. It sounds well to announce that "in the interest of economy" civilians are to be discharged, and marines detailed to perform their duties. But it is the same old cry which has been heard in years past, and we have no faith that the experiment, if attempted to any considerable degree, will prove successful, or satisfactory to the department.

Books, Magazines, &c.

"Nature's Hallelujah," from original designs by Irene E. Jerome, author and artist of "One Year's Sketch Book," "The Message of the Bluebird, etc. Presented in a series of nearly fifty full-page illustrations (9 1-2 by 14 inches,) engraved on wood by George T. Andrew. Elegantly bound in gold cloth, full gilt, gilt edges, $6.00; turkey morocco, $12.00; tree calf, $12.00; Spanish calf, $12.00. Uniform in size, style, and price with One Year's Sketch Book. "Nothing more choice in the gift-book line, it would seem, could be produced than Miss Irene C. Jerome's 'Nature's Hallelujah.' Two years ago, when Miss Jerome's 'One Year's Sketch Book' appeared, it was thought she could never improve upon it. Her artistic soul has been touched with a truly pathetic and prophetic fire. She has kindled the flames of her genius at the altar of Chicago's Academy of Arts; and if the young city by the lakes produces nothing else of a striking type in art for a whole century, the product of her gift is enough. Here is an enravishing touch of nature. Amid the wildest solitudes of Colorado, and the mountains and meadows of rugged New England, she has drunk in her inspirations, which flow from her pencil into sketch with genuine fancy and graceful facility. Under her touch of power, birds and flowers and children seem as one common family. The devout spiritual vein of 'Nature's Hallelujah' is its charm. Out of her soul, birds, flowers, and children join in an anthem of the loftiest praise. Her introduction is a sweet idyl of home."

"His One Fault," is the title of Mr. J. T. Trowbridge's fifth volume of the Tide-Mill Stories, published by Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Boston. "His One Fault" will be found one of this gifted author's most fascinating stories, having a wholesome moral so plainly set forth in every chapter that the dullest boy will be impressed with the importance of correcting "his one fault," should he be afflicted with the weakness which caused the chief subject in this entertaining book so much real trouble. The volume is worthy of a place beside Mr. Trowbridge's other readable books.

"Little Miss Weezy" is the suggestive title of a children's volume written by Penn Shirley, (who is a sister of Sophie May, the author of "Prudy Books," etc.,) and just published by Messrs. Lee & Shepard. The stories are brightly and wittily written, and are narratives of the merry exploits of a rollicking little girl who was full of health, and just as full of fun and mischief. The little folks will be apt to wish that there were more chapters to captivate their attention. Indeed even older people will find their risibilities stirred by a perusal of the volume, which is neatly bound in cloth, and has a very clever representation of little Miss Weezy on its title cover. For a holiday gift for children it will be a tempting little book.

The December number of the "Eclectic," which closes the volume, is worthy of notice, the articles printed being of an interesting sort. Goldwin Smith gives his notions of England after a prolonged absence from it. "Our Craftsmen," is a strong paper on the English working classes, and the article on the "Statesmen of Eastern Europe" is highly relevant to the events of to-day. An article on the Bulgarian question, from a highly competent authority, will also attract attention. Mrs. Lynn Linton's discussion of the "Higher Education of Woman" is a vigorous presentation of the negative side of the subject. Other papers of interest discuss the poet Coleridge, "The Women of Indian History," "Music and Medicine," etc. Special attention may be called to Grant Allen's discussion of the Marriage and Love Question, suggested by Sir George Campbell's disquisition recently delivered before the British association on this subject. The minor articles, story, poems, etc., which complete the number, are suggestive and agreeable. Published by E. R. Pelton, No. 25 Bond street, New York.

Among the forthcoming volumes none will please young people more than the series of six books, called "Young Folks' Pictures and Stories of Animals, for Home and School," by Mrs. Sanborn Tenny, and published by Messrs. Lee & Shepard. Each volume is complete in itself, the whole series containing more than five hundred attractive wood engravings. Mrs. Tenny has so arranged these delightful little books that together they make a juvenile library of the natural history of animals. The first number contains pictures of mammals or quadrupeds; the second book, pictures and stories of birds; the third, of reptiles and fishes; the fourth, of bees, butterflies and other insects, and of crustaceans and worms; the fifth, of shells and the animals which live in them, and the sixth, of sea-cucumbers, sea-urchins, star-fishes, jelly-fishes, sea-anemones and corals. While the series is especially for young people, the vast amount of information they contain will readily commend them to more advanced readers.

"Five-Minute Readings for Young Ladies," is the title of a volume issued from the press of Messrs. Lee & Shepard, selected and adapted by Walker K. Fobes, a well-known Boston elocutionist, and the author of several other volumes. This book is a well-chosen collection in prose and in poetry, especially adapted to the tastes and requirements of young ladies, each selection intended, as the title implies, to occupy five minutes or less in its delivery.

Messrs. Lee & Shepard have issued a very interesting and instructive little volume, entitled "Mistakes in Writing English, and How to Avoid Them," by Marshall T. Bigelow, author of "Punctuation and other Typographical Matters." The writer, who has had an extensive experience in proof-reading at the celebrated University Press, in Cambridge, Mass., aims to point out the errors to which accomplished writers of English are liable; and while admitting that a mere slavish following of the rules of grammar does not necessarily constitute elegant English, he insists that no writer, however brilliant his or her attainments may be, should be excused from grammatical errors.

For holiday gifts, especially for Sunday school purposes, Messrs. Lee & Shepard have issued some of their illustrated hymns and poems, reduced to a size for the "vest pocket," entitled "Golden Miniatures," with all the original illustrations of these beautiful poems. Included in the series are, "Curfew Must Not Ring To-night," "Rock of Ages," "Home, Sweet Home," "Abide with Me," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

The publishing house of Messrs. Lee & Shepard have issued part three of Parlor Varieties, by Olivia Lovell Wilson, which includes some of the best home theatricals published in recent years. It contains an introductory story by the author, entitled "A Happy Star and How it Shone," being a very entertaining narrative of the rise and fall of the Star theatre, which was erected in a private house; giving the names of the plays performed, how the performers were costumed, and their successes, and telling how to gain a great amount of pleasure from home theatricals. The compositions are very bright and witty, interwoven with a pleasing variety of musical pieces, fairy plays and laughable farces.

Lee & Shepard have issued "The Reading Club," edited by George M. Baker, being serious, humorous, pathetic, patriotic and dramatic selections in prose and poetry. The author's experience is a sufficient guarantee that these selections are well adapted for readings and recitations.

All the above publications are for sale at the popular book store of Mercer Goodrich.

—The men who manufacture opium in India wear a costume peculiar to themselves—an opium habit, as it were.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. STURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye

FOR THE

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

OLD MARINE PAINTINGS.

The schooner Eva B. Douglass, recently in this port, is 216 feet long, and carries 1800 tons of coal. What such a craft would have been thought of a hundred and fifty years ago may be faintly imagined on looking at an oil painting in the reading room of the Athenæum, representing the "Ship Elizabeth, built at Lamprerel [Lamprey] river for Capt. Nath'l G. Adams; launched Aug. 21, 1756." This picture represents the ship on blocks, probably as she appeared before the launch; she is an odd-looking craft, having a lofty after-house, and an immense fiddle-head; from a scale given, the "ship" was not over ninety feet long, and there are but three sets of blocking under her in the picture, one at the middle and one at each end. The ship was probably named in honor of Capt. Adams' wife, Elizabeth (Parker) Adams, who in the same year the ship was launched, 1756, gave birth to a son, Nathaniel Adams, who more than half a century later was the first president of the Athenæum, and later still the author of the Annals of Portsmouth.

There are in the same reading room two other old pictures, in water colors, and companion pieces. One shows the "Ship Eudora, of Portsmouth, N. H., dismasted at 7:00 A. M., Dec. 21, 1810, off Cornwall, England." The ship is shown close in to a bold and rocky shore, in a tempest, and carrying a press of canvas in the endeavor to claw off; and the three masts are represented as just breaking off near the deck, all going over the side together. The other picture shows the dismasted Eudora "on the rocks at Stratton, Eng., 221 miles west of London," with her people escaping to the shore by means of a hawser, men on the land aiding. An inscription recites that the Eudora was commanded by Capt. Robert Blunt, and was on the voyage from Norfolk to London; the first mate was William Vaughan, and she carried a crew of ten seamen, with three passengers; all hands were saved. Considerable research has failed to disclose anything further about this vessel, as to where or when she was built, who owned her, or any other particulars.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Agnes E. Downs carried into Boston from Jeffrey's, one day last week, 25,000 lbs. of fish—19 000 lbs. of nice cod and haddock, and 6,000 lbs. of "crawm." Capt. Downs reports the fishing as good as he ever knew; all that is needed is a good market.

The Whale's-back foghorn was sounding through Saturday night and Sunday, and was distinctly heard all over this city. Judging from the sound we should say some kind of a "chime whistle" attachment had recently been affixed to the horn, which gives out tones more musical and far less gruesome than formerly.

The schooner Adeline Adams, belonging to Boston parties and used to gather lobsters along the Maine coast for their trade, arrived at this port Friday evening with 4000 of the crustaceans; and on Saturday, after shipping to Boston by rail fourteen barrels of her fare, she proceeded to that port herself with the remainder.

The schooner Franklin S. Schenck came in on Sunday with 10,000 lbs. of fish. One other schooner came in light. Three dollars a hundred pounds was the price paid for market fish on Sunday. The south end wharves were lined with fishing vessels which came in on Friday and Saturday, and remained on account of the weather.

The secretary of the treasury has awarded to Teague & Bennett of Portland, Me., for $418, the contract for furnishing spruce and cedar spars for buoys for use in the first lighthouse district, which extends from Eastport, Me., to Hampton river, this state.

THE OLD FASHIONED FIRE-ALARM.

Our forefathers did not have an electric fire alarm a century ago, but they did have public provision for an alarm, as the following extract from the official record of the town meeting held March 26th, 1748, shows:

Voted—That when any Fire is cryed for the Sexton to ring the Bell as fast as he can, and after ringing a short time then tole about fifteen strokes, and then ring as before mentioned, and so tole and ring till the Fire is out—or till further orders from the Selectmen.

This is the first notice, so far as is known, of any provision being made by the town for giving a distinctive alarm of fire.

Col. Joseph Hayden Potter of the United States army was in town on Saturday, and in company with Hon. John M. Hill of Concord called upon Ex-Congressman Keding. Col. Reding's residence is the next building to the schoolhouse where Col. Potter, who spent three years of his boyhood in Portsmouth, was a pupil of his uncle, the late Chandler E. Potter, in the High school. Col. Potter was appointed a cadet in 1839, and was brevetted first lieutenant for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battles of Monterey in the Mexican war in September, 1846, in which battles he was wounded. His fine appearance hardly justifies the belief that he was a fighting man forty years ago. The colonel had not before visited Portsmouth for many years, and he took great interest in looking up some of the spots which were familiar in the years of his childhood.

Mrs. Alice Wellington Rollins was among the ladies who assisted Mrs. A. B. Stone at the reception given to Henry M. Stanley in New York last week.

The subject and text in the Universalist church yesterday were "The meaning of the word Universalist." "God hath highly exalted him and hath given him a name above every name;" Phil. 2:9. Universalism prophesies a certain destiny of the human race. But this does not comprehend the meaning of the word. The Universalist believes in the testimony of the Universe as to what it is tending. He believes, as the word also indicates, in the oneness, the unity of these universal witnesses. He believes that methods of thought and conduct which agree with these universal testimonies are most salutary to the race, and to the individual. He believes that the Universe is the visible expression of God. God is one. There is, then, no final division.

There was a lively runaway through Market street about noon on Saturday, by a team belonging to J. O. Downs & Co. The horse cleared himself from the wagon, and went across the bridge with only his harness on.

G. Harrison Jenness, Esq., of Rye, will lecture in the town hall at Newington, on Thursday evening, Dec. 9th; subject, "What shall we read?"

There was another row on Thursday evening last in the Reagan saloon at the Creek, where the grand row took place the previous Saturday evening which resulted in several trials for assault, and in two persons being bound over to the supreme court for destroying property. It would appear that that saloon would be a good place to suppress.

First Asst. Engr. Frank B. Randall, U. S. R. M., of this city, has been ordered to duty on the steamer Colfax, at Wilmington, N. C.

A despatch of Nov. 28th to the Army and Navy Journal from Norfolk, Va., says: "The court-martial for the trial of Capt. John H. Higbee, U. S. M. C., for drunkenness while on duty, dissolved last evening, and all the members left for home. It is alleged that the prosecution totally broke down, and that Capt. Higbee has been honorably acquitted. Lieut. Robert M. G. Brown of the navy was counsel for Capt. Higbee."

There was a heavy discharge of men from the departments of steam engineering and construction at the navy yard on Saturday evening, owing to lack of funds, there being plenty of work for them to do if there was money available to pay them. The number of men laid off was about seventy-five.

Sunday was a cold day. The temperature in several of the churches was so low that comfort was out of the question, and the congregations were glad when "finally, brethren," was reached.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

John DeMeritt, republican representative-elect from Madbury, who received the largest majority ever given any candidate for any office in that town, is a great-great-great-great-grandson of the famous Major John DeMeritt, who hid the gunpowder captured from Fort William and Mary in December, 1774, under the pulpit in the old Durham meeting-house.

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

Whether the mantle of John P. Hale descends directly to descendants or only indirectly to connexions, does not much matter, but New Hampshire could do no better than to send Ex-Secretary Wm. E. Chandler to the United States senate. Mr. Chandler lays no claim to the eloquence of a Webster or a Hale, but he does possess that which there is much need of at present in the senate, and that is brain. He has convictions, and has the force to imbue others with them; and we, in common with many others, would like to see him first appointed and then elected to represent his native state in the highest office within her gift, a seat in the United State's senate.—Journal.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Yours for Health

20 Years Record. LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Is a Positive Cure For ALL of those Painful Delicate Complaints and Complicated troubles and Weaknesses so common among our Wives, Mothers, and Daughters.

IT PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, EFFICACIOUS, IMMEDIATE AND LASTING IN ITS EFFECT. IN LIQUID, PILL OR LOZENGE FORM, (1 FOR $1.) EITHER OF THE LATTER SENT BY MAIL. CURE FROM OBSERVATION, OF SECRECY OF PERS. MRS. PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to get her a bottle and he from does gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. She is free entirely from all her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a message of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

How Skobeleff Wanted to Die.

Mme. Adam, in her monograph of Gen. Skobeleff, says that the general had a presentiment that he would be treacherously murdered; and she speaks of strong evidence which has been furnished her to show that it was fulfilled. He was garroted. One day he said to her, as they were bantering about death and danger, "But do you know that I often think of death?" "And I, too," replied the lady.

"But I do not jest," returned Skobeleff, "I wish for a glorious death. It is far easier to live grandly than to die nobly. Most deaths are wretched. What I fear is a stupid, vulgar death. The idea follows me like a shadow. I should not like to be killed among a lot on a battle-field. Ny dream is to die like the Horatii. If I could only get Bismarck to single me out, and for both of us to perish in a duel, how satisfied I should be!"—London Standard.

Mapped Out His Trip.

A sea captain recently served a cabby in this fashion in New York: The suspicious tar, upon starting, took a small compass and a note-book from his pocket and carefully made a chart of the road traveled, which, upon being landed very near the starting point, be tendered in full payment of his fare.—The Argonaut.

Abraham Lincoln's Stepmother.

Mrs. Sarah Bush Lincoln, the stepmother of Abraham Lincoln and whose portrait is given in The Century, once said: "I had a son John who was raised with Abe. Both were good boys, but I must say, both now being dead, that Abe was the best boy I ever saw or expect to see."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Gladstone's "Temple."

Mr. Gladstone calls his study the "Temple of Peace." There are three writing desks there. At one Mr. Gladstone does his political writing, at another his literary work, and the third belongs to Mrs. Gladstone.—Cleveland Leader.

An incendiary fire in Nashua on the night of the 3d inst. destoyed the storehouse at McLaren & Clark's woodyard on Railroad square. The building contained sixty-two tons of hay, wagons, sleds, wood and machinery. Loss, $4,000; insured in state companies for $800.

Purify your blood, tone up the system, and regulate the digestive organs by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

Cora Hodgdon, twenty-six years of age, of Epping, who has lived with Mrs. R. M. Roberts at Rochester some time past, died on Friday night last under peculiar circumstances. The previous evening the family partook of molasses candy made in the house, all being made sick, but all recovered, except the deceased. It is thought the molasses was impure.

Scrofula, that most dreaded taint in the human system, finds a perfect cure in Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The husband of Mrs. George A. Warren of Dover has been missing for two years. When he left he gave no explanation for his going away, and has not been heard from since. Mrs. Warren has two children. A few days ago a man named George A. Warren committed suicide at Salem, Mass., and it is suspected he is the missing man. Mrs. Warren has written to Salem's city marshal for particulars.

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakened by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

IN A DUTCH PRISON.

The Penitentiary Rather an Embellishment Than a Disfigurement.

A prison in Holland is rather an embellishment than a disfigurement to a town, at lest such is the fine new penitentiary at Leeuwarden, one of the most famous prisons in Holland, and a model of its kind. It is completely built of stone, bricks, and iron, consequently fire-proof; staircases, halls, and workshops are built with mathematical precision and in such manner as to permit of constant surveillance. The yards are large and spacious, all the rooms white-washed from top to bottom and well ventilated, the inner and outer walls even bearing witness to the proverbial Dutch cleanliness. The steps and passages are equally clean, and you would look in vain for a soiled spot or grain of dust. Not a cracked or tarnished pane of glass can be found in the whole building. Everything is washed, brushed, and waxed with a care we might well envy in many of our American homes.

The dormitories are regularly scrubbed every day and well ventilated. Their aspect is, however, curious. Each consists of a large white-washed, asphalt-floored room, in the center of which is an immense iron-trellised cage, armed on the inside with spikes. This cage is divided into over 100 cells, each separated by sheet-iron walls; each has its bed, consisting of a thin mattress, a pillow, a pair of sheets of course texture, and two coverlets. Each night the prisoners are locked in these narrow cells, and thus repose perfectly isolated from each other. All around the dormitory run iron water-pipes, with taps fixed at intervals, at which the convicts are supposed to perform their ablutions. Water is general throughout the whole prison, and is to be met with on each story. Baths, which the prisoners are compelled to make use of at stated times, are on the ground floor.

The prisoner has three meals per day. In the morning, lukewarm milk and water and a piece of dry bread; at midday, a soup composed of vegetables; in the evening, coffee and brown bread. Sometimes they are allowed a small quantity of meat, but more often bacon. The prisoners, however, can improve upon this food by the money they earn. They have, in fact, a small interest in their work, four-sixths of which is at their disposal, the balance being very properly capitalized and handed to them on their dismissal. Everything is conducted with military discipline in a Dutch prison, which allows neither of ill-will nor question. The dungeons, a kind of subterranean cells, are for the unruly, and irons for the mutinous. No conversation is allowed between the prisoners during hours of work. Perfect order prevails, as a rule, and attempts at escape are events unknown.—Brooklyn Magazine.

Royalty on the Road.

When Queen Victoria travels the train is made up of twelve cars, including two royal saloon carriages, which are placed exactly in the middle. There is electrical communication throughout, and a special telegraph operator goes along. Then a lookout man is placed on the engine tender, with his face toward the rear of the train, so as to be ready to receive and communicate with the driver any signal that might be given, and the guard in the front van has to keep his face constantly toward the rear of the train on the lookout for any signal from the guard in the rear, or from any of the attendants accompanying the train. Beyond this, surfacemen are stationed at all the level crossings, and no vehicle of any kind is allowed to pass for half any hour before the royal train is due.

The goods traffic also on both lines is suspended during the progress of her majesty, and the speed of the passenger trains proceeding in an opposite direction is reduced to ten miles an hour while the royal train is passing them on the other line. The queen's suite consists of ladies of honor, male and female servants, dressers, physicians, her personal friends, officials of the road, and a number of other persons. At every block signal box the safe passage of the train is telegraphed before and behind.

Where to Dig the Well.

Let us remember that a well will drain an area, with a diameter equal to twice its depth. Therefore, a well twelve feet deep will drain an area, the diameter of which is twenty-four feet, that is to say that it will drain the surrounding soil for twelve feet in every direction. Obviously then the privy should be more than the depth of the well away from it, and more than this again, if it is proposed to place it on a higher level, which, however, should never be done. The well should be lined inside thoroughly with mortar, so that percolation can not occur between the crevices of the bricks, and it should be well covered, so that surface drainage can not get into it, for you want to drink water that has come into the well from the bottom, after it has been purified by filtration through the earth. Thus then these are the precautions to be observed in locating and building your well in the country. How about the city? Well water in the city should never be used; the sources of contamination are too numerous and too hidden to be avoided.—Annals of Hygiene.

Evaporated Water.

According to recent experiments water of maximum density evaporated with steam at atmospheric pressure (14.7 pounds per square inch) occupies 1,644 times its former bulk.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease Dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

PROF. CHS. LUDWIG VON SEEGER,

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG COS COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy sure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

HER MAJESTY'S FAVORITE COSMETIC GLYCERINE. Used by Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and the nobility. For the Skin, Complexion, Irritations, Chapping, Roughness. $1.00. Of druggists.

LIEBIG CO'S Genuine Syrup of Sarsaparilla, is guaranteed as the best Sarsaparilla in the market.

N. Y. Depot 38 MURRAY STREET.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

The mothers that always disagree about the beauty of their respective babies, always agree on the fact that for the croup, and colds of their babies nothing can equal that delightful and pleasant remedy, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

A letter from Copenhagen says that Minister Anderson of Wisconsin, who represents this country at the Danish court, lives alone in poor lodgings of two rooms; his meals are cooked by one old woman, who also mends his clothes, and his economy approaches the verge of meanness.

capacity had the Colosseum at Rome; St. Peter's 58,000; Milan Cathedral, 40,000; St. Paul's, London, 31,000; Cathedral, Antwerp, 25,000; but were these wondrous halls filled and crowded they would contain only a small fraction of the number of people who gladly testify that for every medical quality and social purpose the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and sold by grocers and druggists, has never been equalled.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after the exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

Failure of Gen. Martin.

A. P. Martin & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers, Boston, assigned on Saturday. This failure was an astonisher to the business circles of Boston, the house being an old and highly-respected one, and supposed to be strong. In an interview, General Martin stated that for three years past he had been doing business at a loss. The present year it had been expected that the balance could be placed on the right side of the ledger, but the hope had proved delusive. General Martin stated that the bad showing of the past three years was largely due to labor troubles; that the firm has been obliged to pay the bills, while the labor organizations had practically run the business and absorbed the profits; and the result was only the natural consequence of a man being deprived of the privilege of managing his own business. He had therefore at last become tired of sinking money yearly, and had closed down, and taken account of stock; and finding the firm's liabilities to be about $300,000, had made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors.

A Sensible Ruling.

Some time since the wharf at Fort Wayne, Detroit, took fire, and was saved from destruction by a fire-tug which steamed up and put out the flames. General Orlando M. Poe, United States engineer, who has charge of the construction of Fort Wayne, paid the bill of $48 for salvage which the tug captain presented; but the treasury officials refuse to allow it, on the ground that the disbursement was illegal, the service performed not being duly advertised for proposals! If government property hereafter takes fire, those having it in charge must advertise for proposals to extinguish it, if they expect to have their accounts allowed. This sapient decision must have emanated from the massive brain of Comptroller Durham; it is impossible that two such asses could be in the treasury department at once.

A Plain-Spoken Rebuke.

During the session of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Missouri, at St. Louis on the afternoon of the 3d inst., the following was brought up:

Whereas, The newspapers report that Mrs. Whitney, wife of the secretary of the navy, not long since gave a dinner at which were present eighteen ladies, including President Cleveland's young wife, but no gentlemen; and

Whereas, The papers report that courses of different alcoholic drinks were served, therefore, be it

Resolved, The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Missouri express their deep mortification and profound regret that ladies in this high social position should themselves set this bad example to the people of this drink-diseased country; and be it further

Resolved, That the secretary of this convention transmit a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Cleveland.

After a discussion that was brief but pointed the resolutions were adopted.

Congress met on Monday, and the president's message was submitted. It is a very long document, making over seven columns of fine type in the Boston Journal.

RAILROAD REPORTS.

The directors of the Eastern railroad have submitted their annual report, in which they say the past year has been a prosperous one, the result of the operations of the road having confirmed the anticipations of the most sanguine, and they append the following:

The net earnings under the terms of the lease for the year ending Sept. 30, 1886, (which amount was paid to this company by the Boston & Maine railroad, Nov. 27, 1886,) were	$421,340.44
The excess of amount received for fixed charges over the amount paid was	11,615.34
Sundry amounts received for interest and organization expenses	11,024.34
Making total net receipts for year	$443,980.12
Deducting expenses	9,356.63
Leaves a net income for the year from all sources	$434,130.49

The annual report of the directors of the Maine Central railroad gives the following as the result of the operations for the year ending Sept. 30, 1886:

Gross receipts for the year	$4,067,976.09
Expenses and taxes	1,820,740.13
	$1,180,333.96
Interest and rentals (less $7,469.41 rents received)	868,799.35
Net earnings	$291,606.71

From the net earnings two dividends of three per cent each were paid, amounting to $215,558, leaving a surplus of $76,008.71. The increase in gross earnings over 1885 was $161,296.70; increase in net income, $71,031.07.

The secretary of the navy last week issued an order directing that on Jan. 1st all stores and supplies, and the records of all property at navy yards and stations, belonging to the navy department, with the exception of vessels, and stores and supplies coming under the cognizance of the bureau of medicine and surgery and of the marine corps, be transferred to the bureau of provisions and clothing. An officer of the pay corps is to be designated as general storekeeper at each yard and station, to take charge of the stores. The civil employes and laborers connected with the accounts and care of stores and supplies will be transferred to the office of the general storekeeper, and their names will be continued on the rolls of the bureau of provisions and clothing. On board vessels all equipment outfits and supplies are to be transferred to the pay officers. All conflicting orders are repealed. The order is intended to carry out Secretary Whitney's ideas concerning the concentration in one bureau of the responsibility for stores and supplies, as far as possible under existing law.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

NOVEMBER SCHOOL REPORT.

The following is a summary of the reports of attendance, etc., at all the public schools (excepting the High school) during the month of November, as per the returns made by the several teachers to Supt. Morss:

Whole number of pupils enrolled, 1261,—males 689, females 572; average number of pupils, 1184; average daily attendance, 1093; average daily absence, 91; percentage of daily attendance, 92; number of tardinesses, 520; number of dismissals, 198; number of pupils not absent, tardy or dismissed, 413.

GREAT CHANGE OF HEART.

The Manchester Union, in its correspondence of the 3d inst. from this city, says:

In mayor and aldermen last evening the petition of the assistant marshal and police officers was laid on the table. There is no doubt but they are underpaid now at $1.75 per night, and ought to receive more. An all-night patrol from December to April is a far from pleasant task, and when the chances of disabling attack or accident are considered it seems clear that these important officers ought to be paid more. In arresting any dangerous or stubborn criminal there is chance of the officer being possibly disabled for life, deprived of gaining a livelihood afterwards, and nearly if not all of the Portsmouth officers have families dependent upon them for support. Two dollars per night is little enough, but that little would never be grudged the members of our present faithful and efficient force by the tax-payers of the city.

The change of heart in the Union correspondent in regard to police matters, induced by the change in the political complexion of the city government, is marvellous and admirable. Formerly for years one of his most frequently mentioned illustrations of republican extravagance was found in the excessive number and unreasonably high pay of the police officers; and one of the most loudly-promised—by him—advantages which were to accrue to the overburdened tax-payers through the election of a democratic reform city government, was the reduction of the police force to a proper number, and of their pay to a reasonable figure. Yet the nights were as long and as cold, the rain as wet and the ice as slippery, and the chance of an officer being disabled for life while arresting a dangerous or stubborn criminal as great, during the republican rule, as now. Then, $1.75 per night for a policeman was gross extravagance; now, $2 per night is merely "that little"—and there is one more officer on the force than the democrats found on it when they came into power.

It is rumored that the Union correspondent's ideas as to what is proper compensation for other city officials besides the police, have undergone a radical change since his political friends secured full control of municipal affairs.

MUSIC HALL.

McNish, Johnson & Slavin's minstrels gave a good entertainment to a very large audience on Monday evening.

This evening the noted confederate guerilla leader, Col. John S. Mosby, will lecture in Music hall, explaining how it was that "Jeb" Stuart's cavalry managed to inflict so much damage on the Union forces in the early part of the war.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Dec. 6th.

Nellie E. Matthias, the young girl who was let off on some charge a week or two ago, on her promise to leave the city, was brought into court this morning, having returned, and was sentenced on the old complaint to ninety days at Brentwood, and to pay costs, $21.46.

Thomas Philbrook, for assault on an officer, was held in $200 for the grand jury on the second Tuesday of April next. In default of bonds he has gone to jail.

TEAM STOLEN.

While a gentleman was in Mr. George E. Hodgdon's office, Monday evening about 8:30 o'clock, his team was unhitched from in front of the building, and driven away, by some person unknown.

The horse is a black one, twelve years old, has a small wart on his nose, and weighs about 1050 lbs.; and was harnessed in a democrat wagon, the harness being a very heavy one, and brass mounted. Any information concerning the team or the thief, or both, will be welcomed by the city marshal.

CAPT. JOSEPH GRACE.

Capt. Joseph Grace, who died at his home on Gates street Saturday night at about 9:30 o'clock, at the age of eighty-seven years and ten months, was the youngest member and last survivor of a family of thirteen children. He went to sea at the age of fifteen years, and rapidly rose to be master, continuing a seafaring life until about twenty-five years ago, when he retired from active business, and has since lived a quiet life with his family in the house where he was born. He was appointed a pilot commissioner by Gov. Prescott, and has held that office since then. He was a constant frequenter of the Mechanics' reading room for the last twenty years of his life, and attended divine service at the Unitarian church. He was twice married, and leaves a widow and one daughter, the wife of Mr. Francis W. Ham. His only son, Joseph A. Grace, died about seven years ago.

During Capt. Grace's long experience as a shipmaster he sailed in many seas, as commander of the brigs Elvira and Mary & Susan, barques Mary Anna and Martha, and ships Montgomery, Apollo, James, Sarah Sands, Milo and Levi Woodbury. The barque Martha, when under his command, was the first vessel to go around the Horn to California with gold-seekers in '49. Three years earlier, in 1846, he was wrecked on Sable island in the ship Milo, and with his crew remained there several months before being rescued. Another of his adventures was being captured in Cuban waters by pirates in September, 1824, while on the passage from Boston to New Orleans; the crew were brutally treated, and everything the pirates could make use of was stolen, but the vessel was afterward given up by the freebooters. Capt. Grace was noted as a strict disciplinarian at sea, but on shore was as agreeable a companion as could be desired.

MARITIME NOTES.

The fishing schooner Nellie Florence, of Rockport, Mass., a little craft of about seven tons register, was blown to sea from Rockport on Friday, the 3d inst., and on the 6th was reported as on the beach at Old Orchard, Me., a wreck, with her crew safe.

The schooner Leading Star, of Bath, Me., bound from Westport to Boston with a cargo of slab wood, went on the rocks off Hampton beach last Saturday night, and became a total wreck. The crew were rescued in a perishing condition on Sunday morning, by Capt. Frank Nudd of Hampton. The schooner was an old craft of about forty tons register, and was built in 1851.

The steamer Harrisburg, Albertson master, arrived at Philadelphia from this port on the 6th inst. On the previous day she rescued the crew of the schooner Emily Shepard, bound from Portland, Conn., for Philadelphia with building stone, knocked down in a gale Saturday night off the Jersey coast.

The signal station observer at Cape Henlopen, Del., reports that the three-masted schooner Cocheco, laden with stone, ran ashore and filled just outside of the cape at six o'clock Sunday morning during the gale and snowstorm. The crew and the captain's wife and daughter, were rescued by the life-saving crew. This is probably the schooner Cocheco which was built at this port in 1878 by Wm. F. Fernald; she registered about 210 tons, and was owned in New York.

L. R. Hersom & Sons' tannery in Berwick took fire in the packing room early Monday morning, the flames soon spreading to the wool-pulling and sheepskin department. Aid was sent from Dover and Great Falls, but the building, which was of brick, was destroyed, with leather ready for market, etc., to the amount of $100,000; insurance $25,000. Supposed incendiary.

At Manchester, last week, Lieut. Col. George M. L. Lane was unanimously elected colonel of the 1st Reg't N. H. N. G., in place of Col. Hall, resigned. Capt. R. M. Scammon of Exeter was elected lieutenant colonel, vice Lane, promoted.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

The Granite State Fire Insurance Co. of this city had $1,500, and the People's Co. of Manchester $1,300 insurance on the glue factory burnt at Ayer, Mass., last Thursday.

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

The boys were doing some skating on the millponds, Saturday afternoon, but the snow of Sunday afternoon and night spoiled the fun, and without making any sleighing in the streets, either, the snow being too "mealy" to tread down, so that wheels go better than runners.

The election for representative to the legislature from the classed towns of East Kingston and North Hampton was held Nov. 24th, and resulted in the choice of Herbert Tilton, democrat, by a majority of forty-seven.

"Kings may be blest," but Sam was glorious. O'er the ills o' life victorious. He rode to town, his silver spent, for Salvation Oil, the liniment.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and wish what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A., Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Master and Servant in Japan.

The relations of masters and servants are as admirable as possible. They are mutual and confidential. While the servant studies the interest of the master, the latter makes the welfare of the servant and his family his duty. The servant is made to feel that he is a factor of some importance in his employer's business by being consulted upon many matters of importance. The master is polite and kind and the servant deferential and respectful on all occasions. The relation of parents and children show the same refining influences. There is no assumption of the drillmaster, no exaction of blind obedience, no ruling by fear on the part of the parent.

Obedience is induced by patient teaching day after day. The child is lovingly taught why he should do certain things, and why he should not do certain other things. The bond between parents and children is one of reason and regard, and the result is that the child makes his duty to the parent the foremost object of his life, and his own interests are made entirely secondary. A foreigner might live in that country for years and see less parental tyranny and violence than he would see in most families in some other countries in a month, and he can see more filial devotion there in a month than is observable elsewhere in years.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Black Letter Treasures.

It is said that the large number of hitherto unknown black letter volumes, which were lately found rotting away in a cellar at Seville, formed part of a library brought together by Ferdinando Columbus, son of the great Christopher. M. Harrisse, the French bibliophile, is compiling a bibliography of these treasures.—Chicago Herald.

A Peculiar Custom.

A peculiar custom of the California Indians is the annual "burning." The Indians surround the graves of the dead with clothing and then set fire to it, thinking that in this way it goes to the departed spirits.—Chicago Times.

Naturalists at Berlin.

The United States and Canada sent forty-two representatives to the recent congress of naturalists in Berlin, out of a total of 429 foreign delegates. England sent seventeen, Japan sixteen, Italy fifteen, and South America twelve.

Nothing is ever lost by being pleasant and agreeable, which accounts for the remarkable sale of the great national remedy. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a safe, pleasant, and successful cure for coughs and colds. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

Of 250 workmen in Francis W. Breed's shoe factory in Lynn, Mass., "ordered out" on Monday by the executive board of the Knights of Labor, only seventeen obeyed the order. The others could not see the propriety of throwing away their jobs at the beginning of winter.

Tone up the system and improve the appetite by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

A ten-years-old lad at Seneca, Wisconsin, had an exciting time with a big coon one day recently. The coon attacked him while he was going through the woods, and made the hair and flesh fly in a lively manner, until the ten-years-old pulled out a revolver and shot it.

For forty years, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been demonstrated to be most reliable remedy in use, for colds, coughs, and lung diseases. Slight colds should not be neglected. The Pectoral will prevent their becoming chronic.

A railway passenger from St. John for Boston last week wished to open the window to get a little air, so he touched the Judkins electric signal, thinking it to be the window fastening; the result was, the train was stopped in the wilderness.

Great success attends the sale of James Pyle's new washing compound, Pearline. This is not surprising, as it has been demonstrated from actual experience that it is absolutely harmless to the most delicate fabric, while it is a great economizer of labor, time and soap.

In Campbell county, Dakota, some of the voters did not like either of the candidates for district attorney, and as a prominent citizen possessed a very intelligent pointer dog, they voted for the dog. That popular animal only lacked three votes of being elected.

Every lady who knows its worth (and who does not?) feels that the kindly face of Lydia E. Pinkham is that of an honored friend.

It is said that a company has been organized in New Zealand, with a capital of ten millions, to construct a Pacific cable from some point in New South Wales to Vancouver City, the terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway.

For sudden pains, weaknesses and soreness, nothing approaches in value the Hop Plaster. 25 cents.

All Chief Justice Waite's children and grandchildren were present at his recent 70th birthday dinner.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

It is announced that the Galatea will come to America next season, and make another effort to carry off the America's cup.

Scrofula, that most dreaded taint in the human system, finds a perfect cure in Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The government will take the case against the Bell Telephone company to the supreme court of the United States, in the interests of the Pan-Electric scheme.

There is no excuse for weak backs when St. Jacobs Oil can be had.

The court at Barnstable, Mass., has given Chester Snow $102,000 in his suit against John B. Alley, on account of a telephone stock deal. He asked only $100,000.

Croup, coughs, colds, promptly cured by Red Star Cough Cure. 25 cents.

In a fight between officers and burglars at Waverly, Ohio, three of the former and two of the latter were shot.

Over $10,000 has been collected by subscription at Yale to make up the deficiency in athletic expenses for 1885-86.

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakened by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

Four glassblowers have been arrested on a charge of firing a factory at Bridgton, N. J., in July, 1885.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites. For lung troubles and wasting diseases. Possesses in the fullest degree the tonic and stimulating properties of the Hypophosphites combined with the healing, strengthening and fattening qualities of the Cod Liver Oil in a perfectly agreeable form, of wonderful value in consumption, debility and wasting diseases.

LOVE AT LAST.

Although my heart, in early youth,
Might kindle with more wild desire,
Believe me it has gained in truth
Much more than it has lost in fire;
The flame now warms my inmost core,
That then but sparkled on thy brow;
And though I seemed to love thee more,
Yet oh! I love thee better now.

THE VALUE OF FOODS.

The Simplest Articles of Diet Are the Safest—Eating Long-Kept Game.

It has come to this, that the simplest articles of diet are the safest, and that is, in my opinion another argument in favor of plain living. Yes, the simplest are the safest, and, let me add, the best are the cheapest. The butcher, for example, or the egg merchant can not adulterate his wares, but he may have several qualities; and there is a stage at which all animal foods arrive, when kept in shops, which renders them to a large extent poisonous, and this is as bad if not worse than adulteration.

We often hear it said that shop eggs, as they are called, are good enough for frying, with bacon for example. This is a positive mistake; an egg that has even a suspicion of staleness about it is deleterious to health, not to say dangerous, no matter whether it be fried or boiled. And the same may be said of flesh meats of all kinds and I will not except a hare or venison. I am quite prepared to have this little sentence pooh-poohed by the robust and healthy. I only add that I adhere to it; that I have the courage of my convictions and furthermore, that I have invalids and dyspeptics, and those with delicate digestions, in my thoughts as I write.

I grant you, my healthful athlete, who can tramp over the moors with gun and bag from morning dawn till dewey eve and never feel tired, that the eating of long-kept game may not seem to injure you, but the bare fact that piquant sauces and stimulants are needed to aid its digestion is exceedingly suspicious. There are two animals in particular that like their food high and tender; one is the crocodile, the other our friend the dog. Both have wonderfully strong digestive powers; little inferior in point of fact, to that of the ostrich, about which bird so many fanciful stories have been written and told.

It may be said, without much fear of contradiction, that any kind of food or any mixed diet or meal which requires the aid of stimulant, either of the nature of condiment or wines, is not salutary. Such diet as this is a tax upon the whole system, and causes heat and discomfort, and a feverish state of the blood, which can only end in debility of the nervous system and more or less of prostration.

But those who would obtain the greatest amount of health and comfort from the food they eat must be most careful in its selection. Leaving idiosyncrasy out of count for the present, although everyone ought to know what agrees with him and what does not, there are many things connected with the value and digestibility of food obtained from various sources that I do well to remind the reader of.—Cassell's Magazine.

Lincoln's Cheerless Childhood.

Of all these years of Abraham Lincoln's early childhood we know almost nothing. He lived a solitary life in the woods, returning from his lonesome little games to his cheerless home. He never talked of these days to his intimate friends. Once, when asked what he remembered about the war with Great Britian, he replied: "Nothing but this. I had been fishing one day and caught a little fish which I was taking home. I met a soldier in the road, and having always been told at home that we must be good to soldiers, I gave him my fish." This is only a faint glimpse, but what it shows is rather pleasant—the generous child and patriotic household.

But there is no question that these first years of his life had their lasting effect upon the temperament of this great mirthful and melancholy man. He had little schooling. He accompanied his sister Sarah to the only schools that existed in their neighborhood, one kept by Zachariah Riney, and another by Caleb Hazel, where he learned the alphabet and a little more. But of all those advantages for the cultivation of a young mind and spirit which every home now offers to its children, the books, toys, ingenious games and daily devotion of parental love, he knew absolutely nothing.—The Century.

A Grim Bit of Wit.

A couple of London garroters were sentenced to the gallows. One was a Frenchman, the other a Prussian. The fatal platform was erected a few meters above the level of the Thames. The Frenchman's turn came first. He presented his neck, the noose was placed around it, and two seconds later he was launched into space. But, unexpected luck! the rope snapped. The bandit dropped into the water and swam for his life. The crowd applauded. The Prussian had looked on meanwhile with perfect composure; then, turning to the executioner, he said: "I say, find me a better quality of rope—I can't swim."—Les Quatre Vente de l'Esprit.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the intellect—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into disuse at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief; in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

OUR NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

EVENING COSTUMES—LOW NECKS IN HIGH FAVOR—HAIR DRESSING—GLOVES—SHOES.

For evening wear, low neck dresses are in high favor, and from a look at opera boxes one might say, the lower, the higher. It's English you know, and that is enough. These low corsages are laced at the back, with a sharp point both back and front and trimmed about the shoulders by lace, beads, gauze or tulle. V-shaped necks show indisputably a capital V, but this also you should know, is English. Skirts display redundant fullness. Far more so than day dresses, and for the evident reason that light materials such as tulle or gauze which are largely used this season, can bear a degree of multiplication which would be insupportable when applied to thicker goods. Bouffany is the rule, but not a chipping up, and gossamer like costumes are marked by half festooned or sweeping lines where flowers catch at convenient angles and serve as headings to long falling ribbon bows. Since flowers will be considerably more used than hitherto; their prosperity being in inverse ratio to brocades, and now that the latter are seldom seen, the former come to the front. Tulle and gauze, however, are hardly the innocent things they once were; at present, so befanged both by small beads set in brocade patterns and large, sparkling and many colored pendants, that the average girl when decked out, presents a tinkling and shining spectacle.

FLOWERS

Are in bunches, cross the corsage from shoulder to waist, or help to form the side panel now so popular. At times this is composed entirely of ribbon and flowers, or there are beadings more or less elaborate and suitable to a plump figure. Slenderness is a girlish characteristic and the styles just named suit the majority, but for a plump young lady there is satin or faille with a plain or almost plain addition of embroidered tulle done in beads. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of dressing to suit individual peculiarities, and stylish women now recognize the Patti skeleton skirt band as a positive blessing for those inclined to stoutness. By means of it all fullness can be worn below the hips, while moreover, it is the only skirt band ever devised for hanging two or more skirts at once. In its special line, the Langtry bustle leads. It is light, cool, prettily shaped, and being made with springs, enables the wearer to lean back or assume any position. Dressmakers are delighted with it. These articles can probably be obtained in your city, but if not, they will be forwarded from No. 52 Howard street, this city, by the Canfield Rubber Co.

BROCADES.

Very rich brocades are among new importations, and will of course be worn as well as the novel metal brocades, but both styles for the most part, by young matrons or rather elderly people, who in New York sometimes dress more extravagantly than their juniors. To both classes, black costumes illumined by silver will be eminently suitable, and for the younger, some beautiful combinations of velvet corsage and black tulle skirt are in preparation. Silver passementerie glitters on the irrepressible side panel, heads flounces, outlines the corsage, or in tinselled ribbon combines with velvet ribbon or the occasional flowers which give brightness to these extremely tasteful costumes.

THE HAIR

Is dressed high, and not much of it; front frizzes not long; and as ornament, a bow or some fancy metal or shell device. As a relief when the neck is low, there is a wide band of black velvet with jewelled ornament in front, and necklaces of course are also much worn. White kid gloves are again in favor, but pale shades or very light tan continue to be seen, all quite long. Skirts are short, demi-trains, or with long, full trains; the first-named only, suitable for dancing. White kid or satin boots or slippers, or sometimes matching dress.

LUCY CARTER.

KITTERY, ME., Dec. 7th.

It is rumored that a volunteer addition of six or eight persons has been made to the Board of Education of Kittery, by reason of over anxiety on the part of certain officious ones who think the present standard of the High school not high enough. They forget that the laws governing high schools are made at Augusta, and not in the corner grocery.

We are informed that an apprentice in the steam engineering machine shop at the navy yard has been transferred to the blacksmith shop, to take the place of a striker who has been given a better job in the machine shop; a nice place for an apprentice to finish a first-class machinist trade.

A business is soon to be established at the Foreside for building of first-class boats of all descriptions.

The annual yarn of a wild animal being at large in the northern part of the town and in the neighboring towns, is in circulation, and according to descriptions he is a beast of very uncertain dimensions, ranging all the way from an elephant down to a good-sized cat. He evidently is a good feeder, as it is reported that he has already eaten several young cattle and a colt. When last seen—or reported—he was in the vicinity of Marsh hill in Eliot. There are all kinds of stories afloat regarding it. One old lady says this wild animal scheme is got up to keep the girls in the house nights. Another lady had a dream a few nights ago in which she saw the animal, and it had a human face; that being the case, it is in our opinion a mugwump.

Mr. Dennis Manson of North Kittery has raised the boss pig, as far as we can judge by what returns are already in. The pig was six months and eighteen days old, and when slaughtered last week tipped the scales at 288 lbs. If any one has a pig that can beat that, why, trot him out.

The 1st Methodist society, of North Kittery, are preparing for a Christmas entertainment.

Hon. N. A. Luce will not lecture in Kittery for the present, in consequence of a ten days' illness, which has obliged him to defer much official work, which must be done before the assembling of the legislature the first Tuesday in January; and besides, he has to fill an engagement made in September last, to meet with the teachers of Aroostook county. Thus he wrote the chairman of the school committee in a letter of the 3d inst., with the assurance that it will give him much pleasure to accept the invitation as early in January as his business will allow, of which due notice will be given.

SUB ROSA.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so often has its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

—Somebody stole two hens in Peoria, Ill., and a paper there closes a vigorous article on the subject with the words: "The guilty wretches have not been caught, but startling developments are on the eve of exploding."

Banjo and guitar music at Montgomery's.

—A six-year-old girl in Florida dropped her kitten down a well over fifty feet deep, and at her earnest entreaty her father lowered her down by the well rope. She got the kitten out all right, and was pulled up again damp, but happy.

Montgomery's music and art store will be open evenings from now through the holidays.

The Boston & Savannah Steamship Line having recently passed under the management of Messrs. Richardson & Barnard, the name of Nickerson's wharf, from which the steamers leave Boston, has been changed to Savannah pier. The line will remain as heretofore, the favorite route to Florida and all points south and southwest.

"I think I sold about two gross of your Athlophoros the last year. For rheumatism it has no equal," writes O. P. Atwood, a Pittsburg (Mass.) druggist, in commendation of the great rheumatism and neuralgia cure and its healing merits.

Mr. Will B. Moore of Limerick, Me., a student at Dartmouth college, will teach the winter term of school in district one.

USE HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

HOME AGAIN.

The team stolen from in front of the office of George E. Hodgdon, Esq., at 8:30 o'clock on Monday evening, as reported in the Chronicle of Tuesday, arrived at the home of the owner, Mr. George A. Mudge, on Marston's island, little harbor channel, at about two o'clock Tuesday morning, [it is not always that so quick return from an advertisement is received; moral: advertise in the Chronicle] alone, with nothing broken, and nothing gone excepting a fur robe with which the horse had been covered when hitched. The horse on arriving home, not appreciating the inclement weather, and desiring to get into his stable, made such a rumpus that a young man in the house was aroused, and went out and took care of him. In the bottom of the wagon were found blood and feathers, from which it is surmised that the team was stolen by poultry thieves, and turned loose by them when they were through with it. It will be interesting now to hear from the farmer whose hen roost was probably robbed that night.

Y. B. & H. R. R.

The meeting of the stockholders of the York Beach & Harbor Railroad Co., on Wednesday, Dec. 1st, was held in S. S. S. hall at York village at twelve o'clock, noon. Five hundred and twenty shares of stock were voted on. There are $50,000 on the stock book. [The result of the election of directors, and the subsequent organization of the board, have been previously published.]

It was voted to petition the legislature to extend the time of the charter; also, to give the company permission to discontinue the running of trains during the winter months.

Bids for the construction of Section three—the York river section—were opened, and the contracts awarded as follows:

The grading was let to George Hitchings of Westboro', Mass.,—for earth work, eighteen cents per cubic yard; loose rock, $1.00 per yard; solid rock, $1.25 per yard; split stone masonry, $8.00 per yard; rubble stone masonry, $3.00 per yard; rip-rap, 75 cts. per yard. Bond, $5,000.

The building of the bridge was awarded to C. L. Grant & Co. The estimation is for 716 piles, from twenty to fifty feet in length; 260,000 feet hard pine lumber, 8,000 feet white pine, and six tons iron. The prices are—for piling, twenty cents per linear foot; for hard pine, $29.50 per thousand; for white pine, $26.00 per thousand; for iron, four cents per pound. Bond, $6,000.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Mary Willey started from Bangor on Thursday morning last, on her return to this port with a load of lumber for John H. Broughton. Her mainsail was not bent when she started in tow, but Capt. Williams was anxious to get down the river, ice having made to the thickness of an inch the previous night, and he being afraid of getting frozen in. The loss of the schooner's mainmast on the passage from this port, previously reported, was not due to a squall, but to a very heavy sea. The vessel was off Halfway rock, about half way between Portland and Boothbay, when a short roll snapped the mainmast twenty feet from the deck; the mainsail was split, the main-gafftopsail lost, the main gaff broken, and the crosstrees damaged. The schooner put into Boothbay, and a tug arrived next day from Bangor in response to a telegram, to tow her to Bangor.

An Old Orchard correspondent says the fishing schooner Nellie Florence, before reported ashore at that place, was beached near Googins' rocks Sunday afternoon, 5th inst., about three o'clock, her crew, consisting of Joseph Martin, master, Joseph Martin, Jr., George W. Sawyer and James Burke, being half starved and more than half frozen, having been nearly three days without a drop of water, and on short rations of potatoes and hard bread. The little schooner, which was engaged in shore fishing out of Rockport, Mass., only took provisions and water for one day on leaving port, and had nearly used up the day's supply when she tried to get into Rockport harbor on Thursday afternoon, the 3d inst. Owing to the gale off shore she was compelled to anchor outside, and her cable parting she was blown helplessly to sea, and drifted until Sunday afternoon, when finding himself near Wood island Capt. Martin determined to beach her, as the only chance of saving the lives of the crew. The Boston & Maine railroad gave the shipwrecked men a free passage home on Monday.

A correspondent at Cape Neddick, who has for years been sailing in vessels of the brick fleet, as seaman, mate and master, under date of Dec. 2d writes as follows: "I see in my last Gazette that the schooner Lillie arrived in Ogunquit on Thanksgiving day, and hauled up for the winter; and that Capt. Perkins and his crew are claiming that the Lillie has made more trips between Portsmouth and Boston than were ever made in one season by any other vessel in the business, which claim the Gazette says 'is a very loud call on the rest of the brickers.' I for one do not wish to take a single sprig from Capt. Perkins' laurels, but perhaps a simple statement of facts would interest the readers of the Gazette, and I claim that she is not high line by a great deal, taking everything into consideration. Capt. Perkins ran his vessel nearly all winter, carrying wood to Boston from Ogunquit, and he carried one load of wood from Cape Neddick to Boston; the rest of the fleet ran from eight to nine months each, while the Lillie ran ten or eleven months. Capt. Murch has made thirty-five trips in one season from Durham to Boston in the A. J. Williams, carrying seven or eight thousand more bricks at a time than the Lillie does. The G. W. Raitt a few years ago made thirty-one trips from Durham to Boston and Milton, and only had a tow boat hold of her twice during the season. Capt. Augustus Coleman in the Hattie Lewis went thirty-two trips from Portsmouth to Boston in one season. Capt. Perkins has had an extra chance, he having to go to only one yard for his bricks, and they were all sold in Boston, so he had no delay, while the rest of the fleet have to sell their loads. I think Capt. Perkins a little premature in his claims, and guess he has not hunted up the records of the brick fleet very closely. I think he will find that for this season the G. W. Raitt stocked a great deal more money than the Lillie, and that taking out the time last winter that Capt. Perkins was carrying wood, the G. W. Raitt has been as many trips as the Lillie, though the Raitt did have to go to Durham to load."

The Canadian government has remitted the fine of $400 imposed on the American fishing schooner Marion Grimes, which vessel was charged, on the evidence of a blackmailer, with having sold fishing gear in a Canadian port. The bummer who made the charge is in jail for stealing a coat from one of the schooner's crew.

"Railroad day" to-day.

Winter is apparently very near.

The "no school" signal was sounded by the electric fire alarm at 1:30 o'clock P. M. on Tuesday, on account of the heavy northeast gale and snow-storm then prevailing.

Two hundred quarry men employed by James Andrews & Son of Biddeford struck on Monday, on a question of payment of men who may leave work in the quarry. There was no dispute as to wages, treatment or pay, beyond the demand that if any man left work at any time in the month he should at once receive his pay in full. The firm replied that if they discharged a man at any time, they paid him at once in full; men who gave up their jobs received bills for their wages, payable on the regular pay day, the 20th of the month, and that this rule would be continued, as under the demand of the men the firm would be obliged to keep the amount of the payroll in bank all the time, subject to the call of the men at any moment; and this they could not afford to do.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

A few of those fine dressy Wool Overcoats at a low price, to close, at the Atlantic Clothing Store, No. 6 Market street, J. W. Moses.

We were pleased to learn by the Penny Post of Tuesday evening, about 4:30 o'clock, that "Col. Mosby arrived in this city at 5:00 P. M. to-day, and is quartered at the Rockingham house."

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

The trains were more or less delayed on Monday night and Tuesday by the snow.

The best ready-made Shirt in the market—so all say that have used them—to be had at the Atlantic Clothing Store, No. 6 Market street, J. W. Moses.

Tuesday evening was the time for the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Instruction, but a quorum failing to appear on account of the storm, no business was transacted.

Finest banjos in the city at Montgomery's.

What is fame? The Times of Tuesday evening announced that Col. John S. Mosby would explain how "Job" Stuart's cavalry inflicted much damage on the Union forces in the early part of the war.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: She had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Pulmonary Consumption Curable.

In a treatise lately published by Professor M. Jaccoud, of Paris, with the above title, it is claimed that consumption may be cured at every stage. The author's conclusions are thus summarized: "The incurability proclaimed by Laennec and his immediate successors is disproved by pathological anatomy and clinical observation. None should, therefore, allow themselves to be influenced by such an opinion, which is but an historical souvenir. When the existence of tubercles in the lungs is recognized it should not be inferred from that moment that he who has them is doomed to death because of their presence. Should it be found that the tubercles soften and a cavity forms, it should not be believed that all is lost. It has been shown that this is not the case, and the natural tendency which tubercle has to fibrous transmutation, that is, to recovery, should not be forgotten. Because being discouraged the physician should search and examine incessantly whether the patient is in the requisite conditions for such a favorable evolution.

If all hope of absolute recovery must be abandoned, a relative cure should be wrought, and an attempt made to place the patient in such conditions that he can live, notwithstanding the lesions which are now irreparable; in a word, the plan adopted should be to strive, and to strive always, with the unshaken confidence that may be drawn from the notion that recovery is possible. The enemy can be conquered. This is the idea that should engerder and sustain every effort. It is certain that this conviction is the first condition of success, since it is absence of faith in the possibility of a cure which prevents the adoption of good therapeutic treatment. —Hall's Journal of Health.

Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, I believe that there never was a dog that could master a full-grown wolf. There are few dogs that will attempt to fight a wolf, and when they do they are badly cut up, if not killed outright. The bite of a wolf is not like the ball dog grip, but it is a succession of snaps, which are about as quick as lightning. The wolf leaps back and forth over a dog, his jaws snapping like a steel trap, and the dog is cut up as with knives in less time than it takes to write it.—Cor. Cleveland Leader.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well-sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

A weekly feast of good things to the boys and girls in every family which it visits.—Brooklyn Union.

It is wonderful in its wealth of pictures, information, and interest.—Christian Advocate, N. Y.

The Fountain of Vitality,

The source of physical energy and mental activity, is the blood. Let this become vitiated with bile, or thin and watery in consequence of indigestion and non-assimilation of the food, and an interruption of the functions of the body, and a loss of stamina, flesh and appetite ensues. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a tonic specially adapted to restore all three, because it assists digestion and assimilation, and removes bile and other impurities from the circulation. Protected and strengthened with this admirable defensive invigorant, the system defies influences inimical to health, to which, if unregulated and feeble, it would undoubtedly succumb. Constipation, often an obstinate and chronic ailment, is entirely removed by it, the liver, kidneys and bladder roused from inaction, and a tendency to rheumatism effectually counteracted. It also eradicates malarial disease.

BIRDS AND BIRD PROBLEMS.

Dr. C. H. Merriam's Report—The English Sparrow—The Rice Bird.

The ornithological bureau of the agricultural department at Washington has recently been making investigations into the relations which several common species of birds in this country bear to agriculture. The facts which been collected will shortly be made public in a series of bulletins.

It is the opinion of Dr. C. H. Merriam, the head of the ornithological division, that the English sparrow stands at the head of the list of those birds which threaten destruction to valuable branches of agriculture. In this he agrees perfectly with the little west end boy who declared recently, in a composition, that the English sparrows have taken possession of the roof of the Park Street church, and "we all think they are a nuisance."

According to Dr. Merriam, the increase of these pests is so prodigious that they invade annually an extent of territory equal to 130,000 square miles. They live and breed in cities, towns and villages, but during the year they make destructive raids into the fruit growing regions. The question of exterminating the English sparrow is regarded by Mr. Merriam as in the nature of a problem that must shortly be solved by the people of this country. He says that the aggregate damage they inflict upon the fruit growing industry can hardly be computed.

Dr. Merriam has also given close attention to the bobolink, or rice bird, supplementing the results of his own observation with facts gathered by his correspondents. He has discovered that this bird, when it flourishes forth at the north as the bobolink, is rather helpful to the farmers of that region than otherwise. An examination of the crop of the bobolink shows that it lives on the seeds of destructive weeds and on equally destructive insects.

But its appetite varies with its name, and when it reaches the rice fields of the south its ravages are enormous. It reaches these rich pastures when the grain is in the milky state, and such is its voracity that Dr. Merriam estimates the actual loss to planters at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. No wonder the rice bird on toast is such a rich and juicy morsel.

Dr. Merriam extended his observations to the rice fields of South Carolina, and not only studied the habits of the rice bird, but experimented with a view to preventing its depredations. He found that a field of 200 acres required the employment of fifty men and boys, who with guns, tinpans and other noise producing instruments, endeavor to create such a racket as will prevent the birds from settling on the rice.

Experiments were made with stuffed figures resembling hawks. These were swung on poles, and were successful for a few days, but the birds soon discovered the cheat. Dr. Merriam thinks that a system of falcon training would prevent the depredations of the rice birds, but as the training of hawks and falcons calls for great skill and patience, it is probable that the planters will be compelled to depend on the old methods.—Atlanta Constitution.

Curiosities of English Coinage.

In the second northern gallery of the British museum has been arranged in chronological order a series of English coins in gold, silver and copper. It seems that the coinage of the English had no direct connection with the earlier British coinage, nor with the short-lived currency which the Romans introduced. It was Henry VII in 1504, who placed, for the first time, an authentic portrait on English coins. He also made addition to the gold coins by striking "sovereigns," so called because they bore the figure of the sovereign seated on his throne. It was during and after the reign of Charles II that the English coinage declined very greatly in interest and variety. The first guineas were made in this reign from gold brought from the Guinea coast. In the reign of Queen Anne there were some coins bearing the name of "Vigo," because they were made from bullion captured in Vigo bay.—London Letter.

The Yellowstone Obsidian Cliff.

One of the forthcoming reports of the government geological survey relates to the obsidian cliff of Yellowstone park. This cliff is an elevation half a mile long by from 150 to 200 feet high, the material of which "is as good a glass as any artificially manufactured." The cliff presents a partial section of surface flow of obsidian, which poured down an ancient slope from the plateau lying east. It is impossible to determine what the original thickness of this flow may have been. The dense glass which now forms its lower portion is from seventy-five to 100 feet thick, while the porous and pumiceous upper portion has suffered from ages of erosion and glacial action.—Frank Leslie's.

He Gives It Up.

Mr. Archibald Geikie, director of the British geological survey, and a recognized authority on earthquakes, declares that the more he studies, the less he knows about earthquakes, and that as yet they are totally unexplainable.—Frank Leslie's.

The use of dynamite and fulminating powder has revolutionized methods of dealing with rocks, stumps, and other natural obstructions.

Do you think it wasted time to submit yourself to any influence which may bring upon you any noble feeling?—Ruskin.

DR. HAM'S

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am. Truly yours,

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the horde of trashy sure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Cocoa, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

HIS MAJESTY'S FAVORITE COSMETIC GLYCERINE.

Used by Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and the nobility. For the Skin, Complexion, Eruptions, Chapping, Roughness. $1.00. Of druggists.

capacity had the Colosseum at Rome; St. Peter's 58,000; Milan Cathedral, 40,000; St. Paul's, London, 31,000; Cathedral, Antwerp, 25,000; but, were these wonderous halls filled and crowded they would contain only a small fraction of the number of people who gladly testify that for every medical quality and social purpose the G. O. Taylor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and sold by grocers and druggists, has never been equalled.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

"A Shameless Appointment."

The New York Tribune of the 7th inst., in a Washington despatch under the above heading refers as follows to one of President Cleveland's latest appointments:

"The appointment of Charles B. Morton of Augusta, Me., to be commissioner of navigation, announced a day or two ago, is perhaps the most flagrant and shameless among the bad appointments of President Cleveland. The bureau of navigation was established in July, 1884. Its duties are onerous and complex, requiring a special and technical knowledge of maritime law and of commercial affairs. President Arthur appointed Capt. Jarvis Patten of Bath, Me., as commissioner,—perhaps as well equipped for the duties of this important office as any man living. He has built ships and owned ships. He has, besides, been all his life a close student of the laws of navigation and of commerce, and is the author of a commercial work entitled 'The Seaports of the World,' which has given him a name in the shipping circles of all countries. He has held the office two years, and his work has been considered invaluable to the navigation interests of the country. President Cleveland has now turned Capt. Patten out. A Maine gentleman, long in office here, says that the appointment of Charles B. Morton to the place should be regarded simply as a farce were it not for the fact that blundering in the discharge of the official duties may involve the safety of human life. Morton has never held any higher position than that of clerk in a country express office, and for a short time that of clerk in the office of a weekly newspaper. He is utterly uneducated beyond the simple rudiments acquired in a common school. In regard to navigation he is as ignorant as a man can be, and touching matters of law he knows nothing whatever. 'In fact,' said this Maine officeholder, 'if you give Morton a copy of the Revised Statutes of the United States he would not be able, with the aid of the index, to find the law on any subject. I don't believe that he even knows there is such a book as Revised Statutes. The title of 'Colonel' might suggest that Morton had served in the war, but he never did. He acquired the title from being on the staff of Gareelon at the time of the infamous attempt to steal the state government of Maine.' Morton has for years, so the Maine officeholder says, been a representative of the worst elements of the democratic party, and the appointment to this responsible position will be mortifying and humiliating to the respectable democrats of his state."

Serious Charges.

Volney R. Chamberlin, for many years one of the largest pork packers in the east, was arraigned in the superior criminal court at Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 6th, charged with concealing assets of the insolvent firm of Lincoln, Chamberlin & Co., pork packers, of Boston, of which he was a partner, and also with the crime of perjury in falsely swearing to certain purchases of government bonds. The complainants are John P. Squire & Co., with whom the defendant's firm has done business to the extent of nearly a million dollars, and who attached the estates and business of the defendant some years ago, when the indebtedness of the latter aggregated $500,000.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK, ME., Dec. 6th.

Mr. John Hutchings, who died at York village Oct. 30th, aged sixty-nine years, was one of the older members of the Christian church of York, and had sometimes been a preacher of that denomination. He had carried on the business of a wheelwright and carpenter, and had also been employed on the navy yard. He was very popular among his acquaintances on account of his lively and agreeable disposition. He left a widow, Olive A. Hutchings, nee Young, and two children, John Hutchings and Mrs. Olive Lambert.

Capt. Peter Weare died at Cape Neddick on Nov. 8th, aged about seventy-seven years. Capt. Weare sailed from Cape Neddick in years long gone by as skipper of the fishing schooner Mayflower, and was a noted fisherman for many years from the ports along the eastern coast. Of late years he has been running a pleasure yacht from Cape Neddick during the summer seasons, his son Peter being generally associated with him; he leaves a widow. Men who have sailed with him speak of him as a considerate and kind hearted commander, and of an equable disposition.

There came near being a fatal accident at York village one evening not long since, from the careless use of firearms in the hands of an inexperienced boy. Mr. Evans, landlord of the hotel Bartlett, in passing from his winter residence to the stores, while stopping to light a cigar had a bullet put through his coat sleeve from a pistol in the hands of a youth who was practising at a mark on the opposite side of the street. The young marksman has since been induced by the persuasions of his paternal parent to part with his favorite implement of war, and it is now in the hands of an older and more experienced warrior.

It is reported that Mr. George W. Webber is about building a piazza around his residence near York beach. It is to be copied from that of President Cleveland's cottage at Washington, and there will be about room enough in it for a small carriage to be wheeled around the house.

Mrs. Francis Raynes, nee Bellamy, at Raynes' neck, is ninety-four years of age; yet she enjoys life pleasantly, and is not loath to remain still longer on this terranean sphere. When a young girl of Kittery Point she spent many of her days at the residence of Squire Adams, who owned the fine domain in Portsmouth bordering on Islington street and the north millpond, where now are so many residences, and the works of the Portsmouth Machine Co. She remembers well "Parson Miller" (afterward "Uncle Toby" of the Chronicle,) whose church she attended at the Point nearly half a century ago. The estate upon which she lives belongs to Francis Raynes, Esq., a large real estate owner of Boston; it has never passed out of the name of Raynes since the first settlement, and she hopes it may remain in the same name after her decease. VIATOR.

The storms of Sunday and Tuesday, 5th and 7th insts., were disastrous to shipping along the coast from North Carolina to Miquelon islands. On Tuesday the brig Susie Kyffen, 370 tons, of New York, and the schooner Florence A. Z., of Lunenberg, Nova Scotia, the latter a new vessel launched in May last, were totally lost on the beach at Scituate, Mass.; the crew were saved by the heroic endeavors of volunteer rescuing parties.

The electric lights at the junction of Elm and New Vaughan streets and at Dennett street, Christian Shore, hang fire as yet.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SEVER,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney disease, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

MARITIME NOTES.

Most of the coasting vessels which gathered in the lower harbor from Saturday, the 4th inst., to Tuesday, sailed for their several destinations on Wednesday, the 8th.

Mr. Charles E. Walker on the 8th received a despatch to the effect that the schooner Annie F. Coulon, Seaward master, was ashore at False Cape, Virginia, but was lying easy, and was expected to come off without much trouble. She had no cargo on board.

The wharves wore a desolate and deserted look on Wednesday, the 8th inst. From Pier wharf to Portsmouth bridge only one vessel was in sight, and that was a small two-masted schooner, light, lying at Concord railroad wharf.

A despatch of the 7th inst. from Hull, Mass., says the steamer Allentown, Swasey master, bound from Boston for Philadelphia, light, was driven ashore on Pedock's island at 10:30 o'clock A. M. that day, though she had two anchors down, a towboat ahead, and her own engines working. How the towboat could have kept ahead of her when the wind was so strong that her engines could not keep her up to two anchors, is a little mysterious. She had a hole stove in her bottom, and had eight feet of water in her hold soon after going ashore. The tugs Wesley A. Gove and Ida M. Dalby went to her assistance. The schooner Richard S. Leaming was also driven ashore on Pedock's island during the gale.

The Maine ship carpenters who went to Detroit, Michigan, to work in a ship yard, and were paid by the Knights of Labor to return home, have been sued by the Knights for the passage money, as the men did not leave the state, but are now at work a few miles below Detroit.

USE
HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS

CARE OF SIDEWALKS.

City ordinances, chapter 14, sections 3 and 4, read as follows:

SECTION 3. The occupants, or if unoccupied, the owners, of all the buildings and lands, situate within the city, shall keep the sidewalks adjoining their respective premises, in all cases where a sidewalk has been or may be constructed, free from snow, by causing the snow to be removed into the street, and evenly spread, and when any of said sidewalks are covered with ice, so as to make the passing dangerous, said owners or occupants shall spread over said sidewalk ashes, sand or salt in such a manner as to prevent the same from being dangerous, within six hours after the cessation of every fall thereof, or when the snow shall have blown or drifted upon the sidewalk by the wind. The time herein allowed for the performance of the work to be computed from sunrise the succeeding morning, whenever the fall of snow shall have ceased in the night time.

SEC. 4. Any person disregarding or offending against the provisions of this ordinance, shall, upon conviction thereof, forfeit and pay a fine, not exceeding ten dollars for each and every offence, with costs of prosecution; and it shall be the duty of the city marshal, under the counsel and direction of the mayor, to cause this chapter to be enforced.

BOARD OF INSTRUCTION.

The Board of Instruction met on Wednesday evening, the 8th inst., by adjournment from the previous evening. Present, Messrs. Pender, Laskey, Hodgdon, Gooding, Batchelder, Sinclair, Cotton and Goodrich.

In the absence of Mayor Eldredge, Mr. Pender was called to the chair.

Bills to the amount of $306.67 were approved.

Petition of Miss Nellie G. Ham to be transferred from the Haven school to some school nearer her home, was accepted and placed on file.

Superintendent Morss informed the board that in consequence of the shortness of the afternoon session (two hours) he had directed the omission of the recess in schools of the grammar and intermediate grades.

Voted that the fall term of the schools close on Wednesday, Dec. 22d.

Adjourned.

SCHOOL REGULATIONS, 1807.

We have been favored by John Pender, Esq., with the perusal of a copy of the "Rules and Regulations for the Government of the Public Schools in the town of Portsmouth," printed in 1807 by Peirce & Gardner. The preamble sets forth that "The School Committee of the town of Portsmouth, consisting of The Rev'd George Richards, president; Samuel Hutchings, Elijah Hall, Seth Walker, Luke M. Laighton and Walter Akerman, selectmen, and by vote of the town ex-officio of the school committee; Charles Peirce, Richard Evans and Lyman Spalding; Thomas Elwyn, recording secretary—have, after much previous investigation and discussion, agreed on the following rules and regulations as the best calculated, in their opinion, to form a proper system of public education for the town."

Then follow nineteen articles, some containing but a single paragraph, and some five or six. There were then in the town three English grammar schools, and one Latin and Greek grammar school. There are in the pamphlet no marked differences from the present usage in spelling and punctuation to attract attention, but the committee had a sort of go-as-you-please rule for the employment of capital letters, the words French and English being more than half the time, and Greek every time, commenced with small letters. The first article is as follows:

The hours of attendance in all the schools shall be, viz. From the first of April to the first of October, from eight o'clock A. M. to twelve, and from two P. M. to six P. M. From the first of October to the first of April, from nine o'clock A. M. to twelve, and from two o'clock P. M. to sunset.

What would the schoolboys of the present time think of being cooped up for eight mortal hours a day, for six months in the year? Probably about what the old-time schoolboys most likely thought—that it was a good deal of valuable time wasted from play.

Article II provides that "No boy shall be admitted into school, one quarter of an hour after the bell has rung, without a written apology from his parent or guardian." Fifteen minutes "to come and go on," in the matter of getting to school, was liberal enough. No mention is made of girls in the article, so perhaps they were allowed to be as tardy as they chose.

Article III related to holidays, and if published now by the school board would create a flat-footed rebellion. It reads:

The Holidays shall be, viz. The Fast Day, the 4th of July, Thanksgiving day, Christmas day, Thursday afternoons, Saturday afternoons, and one week in each year; provided that no two schools be vacant at one and the same time.

How was that for an annual vacation? "One week in each year" would not suit the boys, or girls either, very well at the present day.

The fourth article is a long one, and relates to the maintenance of discipline. It directs teachers to make earnest appeal to the higher motives of the pupils, and closes as follows: "If neither the sense of shame nor the pride of virtue be sufficient to preserve strict obedience and attention on the part of the scholars, recourse must be had to the infliction of moderate and becoming corporal punishment." No rule being given by which to decide just what kind and amount of corporal punishment was "moderate and becoming," it is more than likely that there was a frequent difference of opinion on the subject between the punisher and punishee.

As a whole, these ancient regulations are interesting not only because of their wide difference in some points from the rules of our own times, but because they exhibit much thought, and indicate the deep interest even then taken by the people of Portsmouth in educational matters.

RAILROAD MEETINGS.

The annual meeting of the Boston & Maine railroad stockholders was held in Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 8th, and the following directors were elected: George C. Lord of Newton, Mass., Amos Paul of South Newmarket, Nathaniel J. Bradlee of Boston, James R. Nichols of Haverhill, Mass., William S. Stevens of Dover, Joseph S. Ricker of Deering, Me., Richard Olney of Boston, Samuel C. Lawrence of Medford, Mass., and Frank Jones of Portsmouth. On the question of authorizing the directors to unite with the Eastern railroad, or with any other corporation whose road entered Boston on the northerly side of the city, in the building or maintenance of a union station and to make such arrangements as shall avoid the crossing of their several railroads at grade, it was unanimously voted that the corporation accept the act of the legislature granting the right to build and maintain in connection with other railroads a union station in Boston.

The annual meetings of the Eastern railroad stockholders and of the bondholders of the road, were held in Boston on the 8th. The stockholders' meeting to choose three directors was called to order by President Arthur Sewall of Bath, Me., and then adjourned to await the bondholders' election of six directors. The bondholders elected Samuel C. Lawrence of Medford, Samuel C. Cobb and William Simes of Boston, Walter Hunnewell of Wellesley, George Heywood of Concord, Mass., and S. Endicott Peabody of Salem.

The stockholders' train from this city for Boston on the morning of the 8th inst. had ten passenger coaches, but the number of lady "stockholders" who availed themselves of the opportunity to buy in Boston a lot of things they did not want was much less than on previous railroad days.

The jubilee of the Pearl street Free Baptist society, over the freeing of their church from debt, takes place this (Thursday) evening. There will be addresses by the pastor, by Rev. Messrs. Alden and McGinley, and by several laymen. There will also be reading by Rev. Mr. Gooding, Mr. Pickard and Mr. Rockwood. At the supper table Mr. Sweet, of the Hanover street school, will act as toastmaster. All are invited to the audience room; to the supper, admission will be by card of invitation.

The Methodist chapel in the basement of the church on State street, which has recently undergone repairs and enlargement, is to be formally reopened next Sunday at 2:45 P. M., when appropriate services will be held there.

The Ladies' Social Circle, connected with the Universalist church, will give a turkey and oyster supper, with sale of aprons and fancy work for Christmas gifts, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th. The ladies cordially invite the attendance of all their friends. The supper will be served early, and a literary entertainment will close the evening's enjoyment.

The fire alarm gong at the Portsmouth Brewing Co.'s brewery seems not to be reliable at all times, either refusing duty when called on, or insisting on doing duty when not required, in snowy or sleety weather,—just the time when it is most important to have it work all right. A wooden jacket, enclosing the rods and valves and leaving only the whistle exposed, would obviate this difficulty, which should be remedied at once.

We understand that the material necessary to repair the sidewalks and railings of the north millbridge is being cut in the Shadagree forest in the northern part of New York state.

A horse belonging to H. R. Stoddard & Son, which on the afternoon of the 7th inst. ran away with a sleigh to which he was harnessed, was captured by Mr. Wm. F. Ham near the residence of Hon. Frank Jones, and returned to the stable unharmed.

The amount of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York during the week ending Dec. 3d, was $108,046.04. Amount of endowments paid, $14,553.31.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

Compared with what is usual on the evening of "railroad day," the Boston & Maine station in this city displayed a dull scene on the arrival of the seven o'clock train from Boston on the 8th inst. Instead of the usual throng there were not more than fifty or sixty ladies alighted from the train, and of that number four or five did not have packages in their hands.

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

SOUTH ELIOT, ME., Dec. 7th.

There was a very successful and enjoyable social assembly in Brooks hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 4th, gotten up by three young ladies. The grand march was led by Major David Urch and wife. The music was furnished by Messrs. Turner & Getchell of Portsmouth, and a very fine selection of pieces was given.

The Advent society of South Eliot are building a new church, much larger than the old one; they have the outside nearly completed.

Mr. James C. Lydston of this town has purchased a house in Portsmouth, where he will spend the winter. Mrs. Lydston has officiated as organist of the Methodist church of South Eliot for the past three years. HAMLET.

Finest banjos in the city at Montgomery's.

Two men coming down State street during the heavy snow storm of Tuesday night, the 7th inst., found lying in the snow in front of the residence of Mr. James C. Brown a marine, stupefied with liquor and cold, and took him to the police station. He had evidently been lying there some time, and had he laid much longer would have created a vacancy in the marine corps.

Banjo and guitar music at Montgomery's.

Monday, Dec. 6th, having been the 30th anniversary of the birthday of Mr. Thomas J. McCarthy, wine clerk at the Rockingham, a grand supper was tendered him at the Webster house by twelve of his more intimate friends. Mr. John Sughrue was toastmaster.

Montgomery's music and art store will be open evenings from now through the holidays.

The two-masted schooner New Packet, of Calais, Me., lumber laden, Capt. Bernard Strout, with a crew of three men, went ashore on Marshfield beach, Mass., Dec. 6th. The wind was blowing a hurricane from the northeast, and it was so thick the crew could not see twice the length of the vessel. She went upon the beach high and dry, so that the crew got safely ashore, although Capt. Strout was very badly chilled.

A dude, a beautiful tight-trousered dude, slipped on a loose stone and bruised its dainty ankle. The gentle patient is doing well. He uses Salvation Oil.

An avalanche has occurred in Carinthia. Two persons were killed and much damage was done to the forests.

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house. It cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

The Lives of Race Horses.

Where do all the race horses go to? This question is often asked by those who go to race courses. Each year about 500 thoroughbreds make their debut on the race course. About 10 or 15 per cent of these young aspirants for turf honors are successful and the other 85 per cent. are lost sight of. Perhaps two or three, on account of the royal blood that runs through their veins, are sent to the stock farms, and others that are shapely and show nice action are used as saddle horses. Some are set to draw buggies and carriages, but most of them drop to the level of an ordinary hack or cart horse, and after a few years of hard and thankless work serve as food for cats and dogs, if perchance there is enough flesh on their bones for a purveyor of dog meat to trouble himself.

Thoroughbred horses, if unsuccessful on the race-course, are of little use elsewhere. In drawing a wagon they fret and worry and want to run at the speed that is most natural to them, and rarely live long when put to hard work. A race horse that can not win a race is the poorest property in the world. But what becomes of those that run and win races? The average term of horses on the turf is five years. They commence racing as 2-year-olds, and very few remain on the course able to win races after they have reached the age of 6 years. After that time those who have been very successful in winning rich stakes and prizes for their owners are sent to stock farms and cared for during the remainder of their lives. Some of them are taken care of by the men who have grown rich on the earnings of their four-footed friend, and one in particular that is thus honored is old bald-faced Monitor. For years he successfully carried the popular orange and blue to the front, defeating the fastest racers that could be brought against him, and now that he is getting old and has lost his speed, Mrs. Lorillard says he shall have a home as long as he lives. —New York Mail and Express.

According to Mr. W. A. Preece, the English electrician, the so-called induction sounds in telephones, caused by electric currents passing over wires, have been produced in telephone lines not approaching nearer than forty miles to the wire of the disturbing current.

Why have Pain in the Lungs? Why have Pain in the Throat? Why have Pain in the Face? Why have Pain in the Ears? Why have Pain in the Eyes? Why have Pain in the Nose? Why have Pain in the Teeth? Why have Pain in the Gums? Because your blood is impure and your system needs purifying. Why not use a medicine that has been tried by millions? Why not use a medicine that has been used for over 40 years? Why not use a medicine that has been used by the most eminent physicians? Why not use a medicine that has been used in the hospitals? Why not use a medicine that has been used in the asylums? Why not use a medicine that has been used in the prisons? Because it is a fact that SULPHUR BITTERS are the best medicine known to man. Why not use SULPHUR BITTERS? Because they are a blood purifier, and cure all diseases arising from impure blood

Our farmers will rejoice to learn that it has at last been decided that bees do not injure grapes, that neglected colds do unspeakable injury, and that no better remedy can be secured than Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Field, Thayer & Co., of Boston, one of the largest houses in the boot and shoe trade, failed on the 9th inst.

Tone up the system and improve the appetite by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

The national house on the 9th inst. passed the senate bill regulating the electoral count, with amendments. It now goes to a committee of conference.

Every lady who knows its worth (and who does not?) feels that the kindly face of Lydia E. Pinkham is that of an honored friend.

At Lynn, Mass., on the evening of the 8th inst., James Gantlee, a brakeman on the Boston & Maine railroad, while unshackling a moving freight train at the State street freight house fell beneath the wheels, and one arm was so badly crushed that amputation at the shoulder joint was necessary. He was removed to the Lynn hospital, where the operation was performed. He has a family in Beverly.

For sudden pains, weaknesses and soreness, nothing approaches in value the Hop Plaster. 25 cents.

The president on the 8th transmitted to Congress all the correspondence between Secretary Bayard and the British and Canadian authorities, in regard to the fisheries dispute. The documents show that there have been words enough on our side, in response to action on the Canadian side. What is desired by the fishermen is a little action on our side, by Bayard and the president.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

John C. Miller, a patent attorney of Washington, D. C., was fatally shot on the street, Dec. 8th, by a contractor named George N. Walker, who claims to have received insulting letters, involving his wife, from Miller. He has also been threatened with violence by Miller, and had him bound over to keep the peace. He says that when he met Miller he thought the latter made a move to draw a pistol, and so shot him.

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakened by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

The Biddeford Times says that "Rev. Waldo Messaros of Philadelphia, formerly of Wells, Me., has been indicted by the grand jury for an alleged attempt to criminally assault Mrs. Couston, one of his parishioners. The evidence against Mr. Messaros is rather gauzy, and he has a host of friends in Philadelphia who believe that a trial will clear him."

Scrofula, that most dreaded taint in the human system, finds a perfect cure in Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

An anti-socialistic organization has been formed in Chicago.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S ANCESTORS.

His Father an Easy-Going Man—Nancy Hanks—A Life of Poverty.

The life of the pioneer Abraham Lincoln soon came to a disastrous close. He had settled in Jefferson county on the land he had bought from the government, and cleared a small farm in the forest. One morning in the year 1786 he started with his three sons—Mordecai, Josiah and Thomas—to the edge of the clearing and began the day's work. A shot from the brush killed the father; Mordecai, the eldest son, ran instinctively to the house, Josiah to the neighboring fort (Hughes station) for assistance, and Thomas, the youngest, a child of 7, was left with the corpse of his father. Mordecai, reaching the cabin, seized the rifle, and saw through the loophole an Indian in his war paint stooping to raise the child from the ground. He took deliberate aim at a white ornament on the breast of the savage and brought him down. The little boy, thus released, ran to the cabin, and Mordecai, from the loft, renewed his fire upon the savages, who began to show themselves from the thicket, until Josiah returned with assistance from the stockade, and the assailants fled. This tragedy made an indelible impression on the mind of Mordecai. Either a spirit of revenge for his murdered father, or a sportsmanlike pleasure in his successful shot, made him a determined Indian hunter, and he rarely stopped to inquire whether the red man who came in range of his rifle was friendly or hostile.

The head of the family being gone, the Widow Lincoln soon removed to a more thickly settled neighborhood in Washington county. There her children grew up. Mordecai and Josiah became reputable citizens; the two daughters married two men named Crume and Bromfield. Thomas, to whom were reserved the honors of an illustrious paternity, learned the trade of a carpenter. He was an easy-going man, entirely without ambition, but not without self-respect. Though the friendliest and most jovial of gossips, he was not insensible to affronts; and when his slow anger was aroused he was a formidable adversary. Several border bullies, at different times, crowded him indiscreetly, and were promptly and thoroughly whipped. He was strong, well-knit, and sinewy, but little over the medium hight, though in other respects he seems to have resembled his son in appearance.

On the 12th of June, 1806, while learning his trade in the carpenter shop of Joseph Hanks, in Elizabethtown, he married Nancy Hanks, a niece of his employer, near Beechland, in Washington county. She was one of a large family who had emigrated from Virginia with the Lincolns and with another family called Sparrow. They had endured together the trials of pioneer life and their close relations continued for many years after and were cemented by frequent inter-marriage.

There was no hint of future glory in the wedding or bringing home of Nancy Lincoln. All accounts represent her as a handsome young woman of 23, of appearance and intellect superior to her lowly fortunes. She could read and write—a remarkable accomplishment in her circle—and even taught her husband to form the letters of his name. He had no such valuable wedding gift to bestow upon her; he brought her to a little house in Elizabethtown, where he and she and want dwelt together in fourteen feet square. The next year a daughter was born to them, and the next the young carpenter, not finding his work remunerate enough for his growing budget, removed to a little farm, which he had bought on the easy terms then prevalent in Kentucky on the Big South fork of North creek, in what was then Hardin and is now La Rue county, three miles from Hodgenville. The ground had nothing attractive about it but its cheapness. It was hardly more grateful than the rocky hill slopes of New England. It required full as earnest and intelligent industry to persuade a living out of those barren hillocks and weedy hollows, covered with stunted and scrubby underbrush, as it would amid the rocks and sands of the northern coast. Thomas Lincoln settled down in this dismal solitude to a deeper poverty than any of his name had ever known, and there, in the midst of the most unpromising circumstances that ever witnessed the advent of a hero into this world, Abraham Lincoln was born on the 12th day of February, 1809.—The Century.

Unique Punishment for Murder.

The punishment visited upon murderers among the Esquimaux is unique. Capt. Gordon, of the Arctic steamer Alert, recently arrived at Halifax from Hudson's bay and straits, reports that, at Cape Chidleigh, one Esquimau had been "removed" in cold blood by another to whom he had become obnoxious, and the latter, "in accordance with the unwritten laws governing the Esquimaux, now lives with and supports the two wives and families of the murdered man."—Boston Transcript.

Costly Movements.

It costs nearly $200,000 every year to move the viceroy of India and his government from Calcutta to Simla during the hot season and back again when the cool weather sets in. Lord Dufferin has just sent in a bill of this amount and the natives protest.—Detroit Free Press.

Rome's Churches.

Rome possesses, says the guide books, 364 churches, and the guide books seem to think it a pity that there is not one for every day in the year.—Boston Transcript.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

Mr. J. Schrader, a Bookkeeper at 11 German street, Baltimore, Md., states: "I've used Salvation Oil for rheumatism, from which I have suffered greatly for a long while, and can say it entirely relieved me. I would not be without it at any cost."

At a meeting of the New Hampshire bar, held at Concord on the 7th inst., a committee was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions on the deaths of United States Senator Pike and Attorney General Tappan.

capacity had the Colosseum at Rome; St. Peter's 58,000; Milan Cathedral, 40,000; St. Paul's, London, 31,000; Cathedral, Antwerp, 25,000; but were these wondrous halls filled and crowded they would contain only a small fraction of the number of people who gladly testify that for every medical quality and social purpose the G. O. T. Jor Bourbon and Rye Whiskey, bottled by C. H. Graves & Sons, Boston, and sold by grocers and druggists, has never been equalled.

For sale by the bottle or case by John Laighton.

Reuben Hill, a farmer aged fifty years, on the 7th inst. attempted to drive across the railroad track at Mill Creek, Ind., with a wagon in which were his four sons and a man named Laughlin. The father and sons were instantly killed, and Laughlin had a leg broken.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

It is now announced that United States Senator Jones, of Florida, is insane, and is to be looked after by his friends.

Old fishermen always take with them a good supply of St. Jacobs Oil.

Mexico Does Not Like It.

Despatches from the city of Mexico say it is generally believed there that diplomatic questions of grave importance will soon arise between the United States and Mexico, growing out of the position taken by President Cleveland in his message against the right of Mexico to try Americans committing offences against Mexican law while on American soil. The Mexican newspapers of all shades of opinion stand by the government in this matter, on the ground that the principle as announced by Mexico is a sound one, and approved by some of the most highly civilized nations of the world. Preliminary judicial proceedings have been taken to bring criminal libel suits against the authors of recent reports regarding Minister Manning's conduct at a private dinner. The governor of the federal district is active in trying to detect the sources of these reports.

A Biz Trade.

A southern industrial journal, Dixie, has a special despatch from its staff correspondent at Fort Worth, Texas, saying that one of the largest and most important financial transactions ever consummated is now on foot; it is nothing less than a trade between Jay Gould and President Garrett, of the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph, whereby the entire Baltimore & Ohio telegraph system is to be transferred to Gould, who now practically owns the Western Union lines. In return Garrett is to receive the Wabash system, thus giving to the Baltimore & Ohio a through line from Baltimore to Kansas City.

Pan-Electric Omitted.

The New York World, stalwart democratic organ, remarks:

While the president's message takes us all over South America, into the Canadian fishery waters, to Mexico, into Alaska and British Columbia, to the Spanish Antilles, Siberia, the Samoan islands and all over Europe; while it treats of numerous matters of much moment to the American people and touches lightly on civil-service reform, it is dumb as an oyster on one interesting point. Not a single word can be found in the document on the subject of the Pan-Electric suits.

The interest felt in this matter and its close bearing on the administration seem to warrant a reference to it in the message. The people would certainly have been pleased to hear what the president has to say about the affair. Although a paragraph is given to the department of justice, Pan-Electricity has no place in it. But perhaps the president thinks the Pan-Electric affair and Justice do not unite well together.

Gov. Currier and council on Thursday appointed Gen. Gilman Marston of Exeter attorney general of the state, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Mason W. Tappan. The appointment is an excellent one, and if the office is accepted by the General, its duties will be performed without fear or favor, and with the highest professional skill. G. M. L. Lane of Manchester was appointed colonel, and R. S. M. Common of Stoneham lieutenant colonel, of the first regiment N. H. N. G.

Among the many marine disasters caused by the recent severe gales were the wrecking at Lynn of a scow valued at $7,000, the property of the Boston Dredging Co. The schooner John T. Long was totally wrecked at Seabright, N. J., and the Allen Gurney near Port Jefferson, L. I. The schooner Swallow went to pieces on Fawn bar. The Alta V. Cole and Eliza Ann were abandoned off Baker's island, and are supposed to have both gone down. The A. L. Ruland became a total wreck at Long Branch. An unknown schooner sank off Marblehead, Mass. A lumber schooner went to pieces on Norman's Woe, Gloucester. Schooners Thomas G. Benson and William H. Bailey went ashore at Delaware breakwater; and a small schooner, name not given, was wrecked at Brodkill, Del. The chief officer and four men of the steamer Knickerbocker, New York from New Orleans, were lost in attempting to rescue the crew of a sinking schooner off the Delaware capes, during the gale; the body of the chief officer was recovered.

The Young People's Society of the North parish had a sociable—the second one of the season—on Wednesday evening, the 8th inst., in the chapel on Middle street. The exercises consisted of the discussion of a supper served in the banquet room, followed by about two hours of social intercourse and games in the chapel parlors. A number of applicants were admitted to membership.

Mr. Lucius Tuttle, general passenger agent of the Boston & Lowell railroad, and one of the best-known railroad men in the country, has recently been tendered the position of general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific road. Mr. Tuttle was for several years, prior to the acceptance of his present position, the general passenger agent of the Eastern road, and as such was one of its most valued officers. The offer from the Canadian Pacific road, which is said to be a most excellent one, has not yet been accepted by Mr. Tuttle, but if he concludes to make the change his headquarters will probably be at Montreal.

About thirty men and half a dozen teams are engaged in grading the line of the York Beach & Harbor railroad, at the harbor end.

A large and very successful singing school is in progress in the Brixham district of York, under tuition of Mr. Hamilton Keen, an experienced and competent instructor, who has conducted schools in that district several winters, and also in other places.

The president on the 8th inst. sent to the senate the nomination of Naval Constructor Theodore D. Wilson to be chief constructor of the navy, and chief of the bureau of construction and repair in the navy department, with the relative rank of commodore. Also of Pay Director James Fulton to be chief of the bureau of provisions and clothing, and paymaster general of the navy, with the relative rank of commodore; and of Pay Inspector Rufus Parks, to be a pay director in the navy.

The following is the report of York county jail for the year ending Nov. 30th, 1886; Committed during the year, 221; males, 213; females, 8; foreign birth, 94; under 21 years, 7; poor debtors, 3; tramps, 80; intoxication, 127; violating prohibitory liquor law, 6; for one month or less, 160; two months, 9; three months, 10; four months, 1; eleven months and twenty-nine days, 1; sent to state prison, 5; for non-payment of fine, 15; safe keeping, 1.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,
Manager Diamond Soap Co.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

EASTERN RAILROAD.

After the adjournment of the certificate holders, the stockholders re-assembled at 1:30 o'clock, and proceeded to elect directors. The election resulted in the choice of Arthur Sewall of Bath, Me., Nathaniel J. Bradlee of Boston, and Frank Jones of Portsmouth.

On motion of General S. C. Lawrence, the following vote was passed.

Voted, That the stockholders of this corporation hereby reaffirm their acceptance of the act of the legislature of Massachusetts approved April 22, 1885, and authorizing the issue of preferred stock in exchange for certificates of indebtedness; and hereby confirm and ratify the action of the directors in issuing said preferred stock pursuant to said act.

The Christian society at York Corner gave their annual New England supper on Wednesday evening, the 8th inst., at Sea Cottage, Long sands, York, which was attended by about 150 persons, and would have been attended by many more had the weather of the previous evening been such that the supper could have been given on that date, as first intended. The party were allowed "the run of the house," which is large enough to have accommodated many more. Music to enliven the occasion was furnished by the Ellis family (bell ringers, etc.,) of Union Bluff, and the Keen family (vocalists) of York, Miss Esther Mitchell officiating as accompanist. The singing of the Keens was greatly admired.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Dec. 9th:

Present, the mayor, and Aldermen Hodgdon, Conlon, Urch and Billings.

There not being a quorum present, the mayor declared the board adjourned to the time for the next regular meeting.

RUNAWAYS.

A team belonging to a York man made a lively run toward home through Market street, Thursday forenoon, but was stopped by Police Officer Leary near the Noble's island bridge.

A double sleigh containing three young ladies and a naval officer, and drawn by two grey horses belonging to H. R. Stoddard & Son, was capsized on Thursday afternoon in turning from Islington street into Cabot; the occupants and gear of the sleigh were thrown into the snow, and left there, the horse keeping on thaough Cabot, Middle and Congress streets to the Parade, and a short way down Market street, dragging the sleigh on its side all the way. On Market street the runaway team ran foul of Downs & Co.'s store team, and was stopped. Downs & Co.'s team was unhurt, but the big sleigh was considerably the worse for wear. The ladies and gentleman thrown from the team were not injured.

A PLEASANT OCCASION.

The jubilee of the Pearl street Free Baptist society over the clearing of their church from debt took place on Thursday evening, and was as pleasant, social and enjoyable a celebration of the kind as any one could ask to participate in. The edifice was packed with happy looking people, who all seemed imbued with the spirit of the occasion.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. McGinley. Then followed a brief but very interesting address by Father Bradley, of Rhode Island, who was the minister of the church thirty years ago, when the society worshipped in the Old South. Father Bradley related the difficulties under which the society labored there, and how he interested Dr. Peabody in its welfare, the doctor in turn interesting Mr. John Lord, through whose Christian liberality the society were enabled to occupy the Hanover street chapel, where they prospered greatly. Mr. Rockwood read a selection from Dickens, "the death of Paul Dombey;" remarks were made by Rev. Mr. McGinley; and a poem by Dr. Holmes, "conversation between an old man and a young man," was read by Mr. Alfred Gooding; Rev. Mr. Fisher made remarks, Mr. Pickard read a selection from Dr. Holmes, and Rev. Dr. Alden closed the speaking. The choir, who had interspersed solos and quartettes through the exercises, sang the dedication anthem, "These walls we to Thy honor raise," and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Fisher.

At the close of the exercises the pastor of the church, Rev. J. D. Waldron, largely to whose efforts is due the credit of freeing the church from debt, and who had in introducing the various readers and speakers, himself made some of the pleasantest little speeches of the evening, invited the entire congregation to proceed to the vestry beneath the church, and partake of the abundant and excellent collation provided by the ladies and friends of the society. Mr. Sweet presided at the supper, which closed a celebration of which the Christian unity and fellowship of the members of the different seets represented was one of the noticeable and pleasing features.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MAN.

Mr. Ira B. Hoitt, of Northwood, in this state, died at his residence on Monday, 6th inst., in his 86th year. Mr. Hoitt had for a great many years been one of the most prominent residents of Rockingham county. He was clerk of the courts for Rockingham county for twenty-five years, at the time when the Rockingham Bar was in the flower of its glory and contained such prominent practitioners as Ichabod Bartlett, Wells, Christie, and Jeremiah Mason, and was an intimate friend of those eminent men. His wife was Lucy Huntress, of Newington, whom he survived. He was a life-long and consistent democrat, and an adherent of the Universalist creed.

COL. MOSBY'S LECTURE.

The lecture on Stuart's Cavalry, by the famous confederate partisan leader, Col. John S. Mosby, postponed from Tuesday evening on account of the weather, will be delivered in Music hall to-morrow (Saturday) evening. Judging from the extended reports of this lecture given by some of the metropolitan papers, it is a strikingly interesting exposition of stirring and important events which took place during the early part of the war. Tickets can be procured at Goodrich's.

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

Miss Louise Pomeroy, supported by Mr. Arthur Elliot and a good company, commences a week's engagement at Music hall on Monday evening, Dec. 13th, the programme for the week including Lady Audley's Secret, An Unequal Match, The New Magdalen, One Touch of Nature, Pygmalion and Galatea, Hamlet, and Kathleen Mavourneen. Miss Pomeroy played an engagement here last spring, and the audiences increased in size with each successive performance; her "Hamlet" was not merely a remarkable assumption of an exacting male part, for a woman to present, but was one of the most satisfactory renderings of the difficult character ever given here. In lighter and entirely different roles she was equally as good, and the week's performances were successful throughout.

Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

About 30,000 lbs. of cod and haddock were brought in on the evening of the 8th inst., the fares ranging from 1200 lbs. to 3000 lbs., per schooner. The catch brought good prices, $4 and $4.25 per hundred pounds.

There will be a meeting of Masons at Congress hall this evening to discuss the feasibility of holding a Masonic ball in this city at an early date.

Naval officers and those interested in the U. S. S. Kearsarge and Tennessee, will find in Montgomery's show window something that will please them. The articles are fine copper-plate prints in ink, on colored satin, of each vessel, the combat between the Kearsarge and Alabama, and the gun that settled the dispute. These are mounted as banners, and make a very interesting ornament.

An improvement has recently been made at the Portsmouth Brewing Co.'s brewery, which supplies a valuable additional safeguard against fire. It consists of a steam pipe introduced into the malt elevator, so that in case of fire live steam direct from the boilers can be turned into it by the mere pulling of a lever, instantly extinguishing the flames.

Montgomery's music and art store will be open evenings from now through the holidays.

One of those elegant Wrapper Blankets sold by Lewis E. Staples would make a very desirable Christmas present.

Mr. Philip A. Butler, the artist, formerly of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. George Wingate of Stratham, were members of the second Raymond winter excursion party to California, which left Boston, on Thursday, Dec. 9th.

PINKHAM'S "GUIDE TO HEALTH" AND CONFIDENTIAL CIRCULAR MAILED TO ANY LADY SENDING ADDRESS AND STAMP TO LYNN, MASS. Mention this Paper.

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get it of nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may expect the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless agony.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to our house a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person, two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

A Siberian Railway Project.

The Novoe Vremya is again talking of a railway to the Pacific across Siberia. The project is absurd; not because such a line could not be made, but because the expense of construction is more than Russian finances could stand or that the circumstances of the country traversed would justify. The Transcaspian line to the Afghan frontier is a mere bagatelle compared with a Siberian line through to Vladivostock. The former is under 500 miles; while the latter would be nearly half as long again as the Canadian Pacific, and would run for most of the way through a much more difficult country. Practically nothing has been done so far to favor so stupendous a project; the Ufa Zlatoust section of railway to Ekaterinburgh having only lately been decided upon, after years of dispute over the conflicting claims of different towns.

One Russian enthusiast for a Pacific railway has estimated 25,000,000 pounds sterling as not too little for the enterprise. The Canadian Pacific from Montreal to Port Moody cost fully 12,000,000 pounds sterling for construction alone. The Russians will have to devote many years to turning their gun metal into plowshares and their bayonets into pruning hooks before the Siberian railway project becomes feasible. Meanwhile the isolated position of the Amoor provinces will invite the occupation of the first maritime power that Russia finds herself at war with.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Lighting the Parsees' sacred fire is an expensive and elaborate process on the institution of a new temple. Sixteen different kinds of wood in 1,001 pieces of fuel are required to obtain the sacred flame, which is afterwards fed with sandal wood, and the cost of the process averages 2,500 pounds sterling. There are still three large and thirty-three small fire-temples at Bombay.—New York Evening Post.

Her Self-Denial.

Mr. Overdrawn (reading shopping list) — Bonnet, shoes, shoe-buttons, gloves, silk for dress, trimmings, carriage hat, etc. Don't you think you can cut it a little, my dear?

Mrs. Overdrawn—Certainly, love; I know how hard it is for you to get money now. I can get along without the shoe-buttons just as well as not.

Without Adequate Cause,

Or with apparently no cause at all, chills and fever, thought to be cured, germinates and refructifies in the system. This giant among diseases cannot be laid out with quinine. The only way to give it a final and extinguishing quietus, is to use persistently the national antidote to miasma poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which roots it out completely. The process of cure is, of course, much easier if the bitters is used as a preventive when the first chill is felt, but persons who are not acquainted with the nature of the symptoms are sometimes in error as to their cause, and neglect the simple and pleasant remedy of all others best suited to check the progress of this dreaded and destructive malady. Visitors to, or sojourners in, malarious localities will, moreover, act the part of wisdom if they use the bitters as a preparative. Rheumatism, constipation, biliousness, indigestion and kidney troubles are removed by the bitters.

A classical Boston shoe dealer advertises "anhydrous boots." The are presumably a great improvement upon the cowhydrous article.

Tone up the system and improve the appetite by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

The barn of David and William Gaffney at Gloucester, Mass., with sixty pigs, six cows and a quantity of grain and hay, was burned a day or two since.

Every lady who knows its worth (and who does not?) feels that the kindly face of Lydia E. Pinkham is that of an honored friend.

The Savannah, a lumber laden schooner, went to pieces on the South Gooseberry, in Salem harbor, Mass., during the late gale. Crew saved.

For sudden pains, weaknesses and soreness, nothing approaches in value the Hop Plaster. 25 cents.

—Daughter — "Mamma, I'm crazy about this palmistry!" Mother—"The pa mystery I'm crazy about is where your father spends his evenings."

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

—A vicar's little daughter, visiting another vicarage, asked: "What does your pa want a study for? He doesn't smoke."

A Burglar Captured.

This morning about two o'clock, John Wood, the well-known plumber who resides on Main street, was awakened by hearing glass break. He immediately grappled with the burglar, and after a terrible struggle succeeded in holding him until his wife obtained help. On being searched at the station, Mr. Wood's watch and wallet was found on his person. He gave the name of Robert Terry. The broken glass proved to be a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which had almost cured Mrs. Wood of rheumatism.—Exchange.

—Suspicious wives who wish to detect any unusual thickness in their husband's tongues on coming in late at night manage to get them to say "chrysanthemum."

Scrofula, that most dreaded taint in the human system, finds a perfect cure in Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

—On an emigrant wagon that lately passed through Ogallala, Nebraska, was this inscription: "I come from Nemah county, Kansas, and don't know where I am going."

Keep Your Blood Pure.

Impure blood, however generated, is always present in the body when pain is felt. Let poultices and ferments wherever a weak spot exists.

Take Brandreth's Pills to make the blood pure and expel all that is hurtful to the system. They are the one great and unfailing remedy. They cleanse the bowels and restore equal circulation throughout the body. They preserve the vigor of youth and often save life.

—A Minneapolis man is building a genuine log house right in the city. It will be a big, rambling dwelling, with queer corners and quaint windows, but it will have all the modern improvements and will cost $60,000.

St. Jacobs Oil does not simply deaden pain, it makes the lame walk.

—"Pop, if there is a war with Mexico can I go for a drummer boy?" "Certainly not, my son. Why do you ask?" "Because I don't see any other way to get a drum before next Christmas." He got it.

Red Star Cough Cure possesses extraordinary merits. Purely vegetable. 25 cents.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A Good Deal of Truth.

The Rev. Mr. Willetts, of an interior Pennsylvania mining town, has recently been making some remarkable utterances of a very radical nature. In one of his sermons he made the startling assertion that death could only come to humanity from sin before the Bible allotted three score and ten. He said with emphasis that the devil takes all who die before they are 70, adding by way of illustration: "Now, suppose a man dies at 35 or 40, and goes up to heaven, the Lord will say, 'Didn't I tell you to stay down there seventy years? Then what are you doing here at this early period?' 'Oh, I got sick and died,' said the early comer. 'Well, you have sinned and broken my law. Get out, there is no room for you.' Now, that's a pointed way of putting it, but I believe it."

At first, this may seem a little strong, but is there not considerable plausibility, if not a good deal of truth by inference, in it? If a man by systematic gluttony in eating and drink brings on disease that carries him to the grave before he has lived out more than half his days, is it not a species of veritable suicide of a decidedly sinful character? Moreover, even while alive, does he not throw himself into such torpid condition as to be incapable of good to himself or others? One of the most beautiful sights I ever beheld was a white-haired man of 75, as straight as an arrow, with not a wrinkle in his red cheeks, not a shadow in his bright eyes, who had never known an hour's sickness in his life. Righteousness born of temperate living and pure thoughts shone like a halo all over him. He was like a perfect flower, standing erect and beautiful in sunlight, ready for the harvest, without spot or blemish. And one could well understand how he would be met by the joyful welcome: "Well done, good and faithful servant; enter into the joy of thy Lord."

One of the saddest is a young man who should be in the hey-day of his opening prime, blear-eyed and emaciated from excesses in fast living, with wasted frame and sin-polluted soul, tottering on the edge of the grave.—Cleveland Leader.

Cooking on Board Ship.

The first thing that naturally attracts the attention of a landsman is, what a fearful state of confusion there must be in the galley during a rolling sea! Imagine an ordinary kitchen grate covered with saucepans, etc., were it suddenly to swing backward and forward like a sea-saw. This difficulty, however, is easily overcome. Every galley fire is fitted with a number of iron bars fastened to a rod at the back, and which fit into little grooves in a rod in front. Consequently, when the sea is rough these bars are fixed, and each cooking utensil is held tightly in its place between the bars just the same as a saucepan could be held over an ordinary fireplace with a strong pair of pincers.

Another difficulty is when the saucepans on the fire are all full—when the ship rolls they run over. The remedy for this is as simple as Dr. Abnethy's one for the old lady who complained of having such a dreadful pain in the arm when she went "so." He pocketed his guinea and said, "Don't go so." So with the saucepans. The simple remedy is, "Don't fill the saucepans." No saucepans on board ship should ever be more than three-quarters full when the ship is rolling.—Cassell's Magazine.

A Study in Waists.

You ought to make a study of the cadets' waists if you ever come up here. One strapping fellow, nearly six feet high, and broad in proportion, boasted to me that he was only twenty-four inches in the waist, and hoped to be only twenty-three by the time he was graduated. It seems to be this way: For the four years they are here, while their incessant drilling, riding, fencing, and dancing develop and straighten the figure amazingly, they pinch their waists in so when they are graduated they could almost wear Titania's belt. I don't know whether it's healthful or not—although they are the finest physical specimens I ever saw in my life; but it certainly improves the figure and gives young officers that peculiar grace and elegance which we must acknowledge distinguishes them.—West Point Letter.

Danger of Wearing Earrings.

Dr. Morin, a French physician, in his new work on the hygienics of beauty, makes a dead set against earrings. In numbers of cases he has known erysipelas proceed from their use. The idea that they are good for weak eyes he quite disposes of. It is possible, he says, that in cases of inflamed eyes they might act as a counter irritant, but if they did they would make the lobe of the ear, which, not being rich in blood vessels, has little recuperative vitality, in a state of permanent ulceration. There is no surer test of a good or bad constitution than the state of an ear which has been pierced and exposed to the irritation of heavy earrings. If the lobes keep red and swollen, they proclaim bad blood and scrofulous tendencies.—London News.

The Time to Call.

At the office of a physician in the Rue Notre Dame: Patient—Can you tell me when will I be sure to find the doctor alone? Servant—You would do well to come during his hours of consultation, monsieur, between 2 and 4. He is always alone then.—French Fun.

Coastitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind, one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffing and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your good work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

Customs Districts in Maine.

The register of the treasury, in his annual report, gives the following information in regard to the amounts collected in the several customs districts of Maine during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1886, and the cost of collection:

Dist.	Collections.	Cost.
Aroostook	$93,111.29	$10,011.00
Bangor	193,837.35	19,832.00
Bath	77,428.79	8,278.11
Belfast	1,623.43	352.43
Castine	65.49	5,290.00
Frenchman's Bay	25.80	4,400.00
Machias	52.00	1,081.00
Passamaquoddy	65,117.62	16,918.00
Portland	819,278.24	8,711.00
Saco	52.00	252.00
Waldoboro	1,029.27	6,777.55
Wiscasset	3.45	2,073.00
Kennebunk		757.00

Commenting on this showing a Maine exchange says: "The statement of the costs for collecting government duties in Maine shows that in the interest of economy at least one-half of the custom houses might be abolished, or consolidated with the other half. Only five of the thirteen custom houses in the state last year did business enough to pay running expenses. In Castine, where but $65 was collected, it cost $64.52 to collect each dollar. In Saco and Machias the same amount, $52, was collected, yet it cost $1,259 more to collect in Machias than in Saco. Kennebunk goes to the head, where it cost $757 to collect—nothing!"

Some years ago the maintenance of "preventive ports of entry" at ports where no goods, or next to none, ever entered, was a favorite illustration of republican extravagance and corruption, with certain democratic papers, although most if not all of these customs districts were established before the republican party came into existence. In many of them it is not the collecting of duties on goods which are entered, so much as the prevention of the entry of goods without the payment of duty, which makes the cost; and it is probable that if there were no customs expenses at these ports there would be much smaller receipts at the others. Still it is likely that the expenses could be materially reduced without sensibly depreciating the obstructions to smuggling.

Alleged Land-Grabbing.

The commissioner of the general land office in Washington has recommended that proceedings be begun to compel the removal of fences unlawfully inclosing 165,000 acres of public land in Colfax county, New Mexico, of which the Western Cattle company is said to have inclosed about 7000, the Palo Blanco Cattle company 2000 acres, Stephen W. Dorsey 13,627 acres, the Portsmouth Cattle company 2000 acres, the Prairie Cattle company 135,000 acres, and James E. Temple 4700 acres. The commissioner also recommends that the fences inclosing about 87,000 acres in the public land strip south of Kansas, said to have been built by the Western Cattle company, be removed by the military.

A series of forgeries committed by a couple of young women of Lafayette, Ind., have come to light. The girls are Clara and Flora Jones, sisters, and very handsome blondes, who have been conspicuous at all the masquerade balls recently given in the place, and who have been the talk of the town. They will be the talk of the town a good deal more now.

President Bates, of the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph company, denies the report that a consolidation of that company with the Western Union Telegraph company has been agreed upon.

A BAKING POWDER MATTER

More of the Albany Newspaper Investigation.

The "Journal" reaffirms and emphasizes the Facts—Plain Talk from Prof. Tucker—His Opinion on Ammonia and Bread Risers Generally.

The Albany N. Y., Journal some time since published an interesting report upon the subject of baking powders, in which it gave the results of some tests of an elaborate character made for the purpose of determining the question of which is the best and wholesomest of these articles. The analyses and tests required were undertaken by Professors W. G. Tucker, of the Albany Medical College, and W. P. Mason, of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Troy, chemists of the highest standing and reputation, well known for their extended and valuable services as public analysts. Messrs. Tucker and Mason, the Journal stated, had been directed to procure from dealers in Albany and Troy packages of baking powder, to analyze and critically examine them, and to make their reports of facts found entirely without bias or favor.

The report proved a matter of interest and importance, and was widely copied and commented upon. From the facts presented housekeepers had no difficulty in determining for themselves the best and most wholesome baking powder to use. The Journal, its facts having been questioned by a local baking powder manufacturer, returns to the subject and publishes the following interesting interview with Prof. Tucker. The facts before stated are reaffirmed and emphasized in the most breezy manner:

A Journal reporter recently visited Prof. Tucker for the purpose of gaining further information in reference to the baking powder question. He was found in the extensive laboratory of the Medical College, hard at work, but good-naturedly submitted to an inquisitorial interview, the substance of which, here given, will be found of interest.

"Doctor," and the reporter, "it appears that one of our local baking powder manufacturers attempts to discredit the report some time ago published in the Journal with reference to baking powders, for which the analytical examinations were made by yourself and Prof. Mason. Were your analysis and opinion printed correctly?"

"They were," replied Prof. Tucker, "literally."

"Is there any part of the report, or of your views expressed therein, that you would modify?"

"Not a word. My examination was most carefully and accurately made; the deductions I drew from the tests were the inevitable ones, and the opinions I expressed were unquestionably correct."

"You say, Doctor, that the Royal baking powder is superior to any other baking powder which you have examined?"

"That is my report."

"Have you examined many other baking powders?"

"Quite a number."

"Wherein, Doctor, consists this superiority which you find in the Royal over other brands?"

"As stated in my report, in the great purity of its ingredients, in the unquestioned propriety and wholesomeness of those ingredients, in the exact proportions of the same, and the chemical accuracy and skill with which they have been combined. As I said before, it is, I believe, a baking powder unequaled for purity, strength and wholesomeness."

"Doctor, the Journal's lady readers would like you to inform them what are the peculiar virtues of a good baking powder over other and more old-fashioned methods of raising bread, biscuit and cake?"

"That would require a long answer, something in the nature of a lecture. Briefly, however, the advantage of such a baking powder over yeast consists in the quicker work it accomplishes, in the preservation of some of the best elements of the flour which are destroyed in the production of the carbonic acid gas by the use of yeast, and in the absolute certainty of sweet, light and digestible food. Over other methods for quick raising, the merits of a pure baking powder are great. It is always ready for use, the acid and the alkali are combined in exact proportions to produce definite results, or to render the largest amount of leavening gas and leave nothing more than a neutral residuum, which is not the result where cream of tartar and soda are bought separately and mixed in the kitchen. for it will always occur where this is done that one or the other of these substances will predominate, making the food yellow, heavy, bitter and unwholesome. Besides, the cream of tartar which can be procured by the housekeeper is mostly adulterated, adding to the uncertainty of the results or the unwholesomeness of the food. All these difficulties are avoided in the use of a pure, properly-made baking powder."

"Will baking powders keep? How long will they hold their strength?"

"If properly made, until used. A perfect baking powder must combine superlative strength with power to retain it indefinitely. Baking powders generally are robbed of the necessary preserving agent in order to give present strength, or else have their efficiency largely destroyed by the addition of large quantities of flour to prevent premature decomposition. The method by which both these qualities are retained in the highest degree produces the perfect article, and this I believe is fully accomplished in the Royal baking powder. I have seen an analysis of a baking powder which showed 21 per cent. of Rochelle salts. The baking powder was not fresh, and because of the improper manner in which it had been made the ingredients had combined, forming the purgative salt. I give this as an illustration of those baking powders whose keeping qualities are sacrificed to present strength. How to get both strength and keeping quality is the secret of baking powder success."

"Doctor, what about ammonia in baking powder?"

"Sesqui-carbonate of ammonia is sometimes used in the higher class of baking powders."

"Is it injurious or objectionable?"

"Nonsense! Quite the contrary. It has been used for generations in the finest food. It is a very volatile agent. Heat entirely evolves it into gas, leaving no residuum. Were it used in sufficient quantity to do the entire work of aeration, I am inclined to believe that it would be the acme of leavening agents. Some of the highest authorities, as Hassall, recommend its exclusive use for this purpose in preference to yeast or other kinds of leaven. It is universally admitted to be a wholesome and valuable agent, and no chemist of reputation will class it otherwise. I have become indignant when I have read the silly charges that have frequently been made through ignorance or otherwise against it."

"Then those manufacturers who advertise that their powder does not contain it"—

"Confess that their powder lacks a most useful, wholesome and excellent ingredient."

"But they say its origin is filthy?"

"Its origin and method of preparation are no more filthy than are the origin and preparation of bread. All this talk about ammonia in baking powder and its filthy origin is the veriest rubbish. A man disgraces himself when he lends himself to any such statements. It is particularly unfair for baking powder manufacturers to seek to pervert the truth, or prejudice the ignorant or the unwary by statements that it is either harmful or dirty. Ammonia exists in the very air we breathe, and is largely present in nature as a wholesome substance."

Great Storm on the British Coast.

The furious storm which raged on this side of the Atlantic from the 4th to the 8th, seems to have extended across the ocean to Europe. The steamships City of Berlin, Catalonia and Nova Scotian arrived at Queenstown on the 9th, twenty-four hours late, and reported the weather the worst they had experienced for years. Steamer Avondale was wrecked near Dagmar, and barque Pegasus at Holyhead, on the 9th; crews saved. A steamer, supposed to be the Captain McClintock, of Dublin, was seen to founder off Point Lynas. The accounts coming in show that fearful havoc was committed on land and sea. The coasts are strewn with wrecks, many lives have been lost and immense destruction of property effected. It will take some days to discover the exact loss of life and property. The interruption of telegraphic and cable communication was the most serious ever known in the islands.

Rheumatism

Usually settles in the back or limbs, and often so completely overpowers its victims that all business and labor have to be abandoned. Our readers should remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla is not recommended as a positive specific for rheumatism; its proprietors doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But many people who were most severely afflicted, state that they have been positively cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The disease is often the result of impure blood—hence the power of this great medicine over it. Its success in many severe cases justifies us in recommending its use to all sufferers from rheumatism. 100 Doses One Dollar.

O'Dynamite Rossa Denounced.

The general council of the Fenian brotherhood of New York have given to the public a lengthy explanation of the cause for Jeremiah O'Donovan Rossa's deposition from the office of chief executive. They claim that Rossa, while presumably the head of the order, did not even pay his dues; that he withheld money belonging to the brotherhood; that he has lied to cover his misdeeds, that he was deceitful and treacherous, and generally a blackguard. The council in their report say that Rossa has used the funds of the order without authority for what he called the "skirmishing," but that any real "skirmishing" that has been done has been paid for out of the treasury of the United Irishmen's society. The arraignment is a very strong one, and is likely to squelch Rossa for a time.

"NEARLY CRAZED

with pain" is the sad cry of many a victim of rheumatism or neuralgia, and frequently other diseases, such as kidney and liver complaints, are directly traceable to rheumatism or neuralgia. These diseases, for some unexplainable reason, are rapidly increasing, and in many instances are the direct cause of much sickness which so hides its real origin as to be mistaken for other diseases. In curing rheumatism, neuralgia, sick headache, and in many cases of kidney and liver troubles, Athlophoros has wrought wonders. Those who have used it are best qualified to speak of its merit.

Great Falls, N. H., March 12, 1886.

With me Athlophoros outsells all rheumatism medicines and herewith I give you one sample of its work in this place. Mr. Cyrus Curtis has been so afflicted with rheumatism that for the past three years he has been unable to walk, except to put one foot out and drag the other up to it and thus get along. Three weeks ago I recommended Athlophoros to him. Two bottles has so (as he states) unloosened him that he can walk natural again. He is now an earnest advocate of Athlophoros.

F. H. WINGATE, Druggist.

Greenfield, Mass., May 19, 1886.

I have been troubled with rheumatism in one of my knees for years, being at times laid up for several days. Athlophoros has entirely cured me. It has also cured two friends of mine who were the worst cases I ever saw, one of them a young man only 16 years old, who was so bad the doctors gave him up. Two bottles of your remedy entirely cured him. I heartily recommend it to any one troubled with rheumatism.

GEO. W. SPURR,

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

Looks Black Ahead.

The London correspondent of the Providence Journal writes that paper that "A European war is now definitely looked for. The commencement of hostilities is expected in February next at the latest, if the weather at that time should permit of military operations on the enormous scale necessary to carry out the plan of campaign supposed to have been decided on. It is generally believed that Russia hopes to be the first to move, springing upon Austria without warning after creating a sudden excuse for marching. Travellers returning here from Russia report extraordinary secrecy in military quarters, and ceaseless movements of troops, carefully masked, toward the German and Austrian frontiers and Bessarabia. Work on the ironclads is being pushed with feverish haste. The arsenals and navy yards are reported to be working night and day. It is believed here that the situation is the deliberate creation of Bismarck."

The New Hampshire Club.

The December meeting of the New Hampshire Club was held at the Quincy House, Boston, Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 8th. There was a large attendance of members, and a good time was enjoyed. Prof. Moses Pike Brown was the first after-dinner speaker, and relieved in a humorous view to his residence in early life in Manchester, and of his experience with New Hampshire politicians. (How he could extract anything humorous from a Manchester politician is past comprehension.) He was followed by several prominent railroad men. Ten new members were elected at the business meeting.

The South, Mexico and California.—Raymond & Whitcomb's Latest and Grandest Tour.

Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb's latest announcement is a grand excursion of seventy-five days through the Southern States, Mexico, California, Utah, Colorado, etc. The excursionists will travel like kings in special trains of elegant Pullman palace cars, and hotel cars or dining-cars are to furnish meals en route and at points where the hotels are not of the best standard. The party will leave Boston Monday, January 31st. The round through Mexico will be of the same comprehensive character as the Mexico trips of the past two years, and the spring tour on the Pacific Coast and homeward will have the same advantages that have made the regular winter excursions to the Pacific coast so popular. There are many special features which render this tour remarkably attractive. There is certainly no other way in which so much of Mexico can be seen, or in which the traveler can secure such comfort and luxury. There will be other excursions to California January 6, 17 and 20, February 3 and 17, and March 10; one to Mexico March 7; and two to Washington, D. C., January 21 and February 25. Descriptive circulars may be obtained of W. Raymond, 296 Washington street, opposite School street, Boston.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 287 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

POLICE COURT--EATCHELDER J.

FRIDAY, Dec. 10th.

James Gilchrist, alias "Scotty," for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs $6.90. George Prescott, for a similar offence, was fined $3, costs $6.90. For not paying, both were committed to jail.

George Varrell, for an aggravated assault on Wm. Pendergast, was held in $100 for the April term of the supreme court.

David Taylor, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood in default of payment.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner Frank K. P., from St. John, N. B., with 110 cords of wood, arrived at Union wharf on Friday morning.

Lobsters in considerable numbers were brough in on Friday from the Shoals. These crustaceans are reported to be this season very light and poor in this vicinity.

The schooner H. B. Metcalf is frozen in at Paul's wharf, South Newmarket, where she will have to remain for the winter. Navigation on Great bay and the Cocheco river has closed.

Capt. Edwin A. Gerrish of this city has made an engagement with the owners of the ship Thomas Dana of Boston, which is to sail in a few weeks from New York for Java, to go as her captain. The Thomas Dana is a ship 203 feet long, registers 1445.19 tons, and was built in Newburyport in 1876.

About 40,000 lbs. of fish were brought in on Thursday evening and night by the schooners fishing out of this port; the price paid was $3 per hundred pounds. The schooner George E. Hagan came in Friday afternoon with 5,000 lbs. of cod and haddock. The heaviest buyers were Elvin Newton and Edw. Jameson, at Commercial wharf.

A report from Marblehead says that a vessel supposed to be the schooner Eliza Ann, abandoned by the crew on the 5th inst., is on the Dry breakers. A schooner supposed to be the Alta V. Cole, abandoned at the same time, is sunken, with her mastheads out, two miles north of Half-way rock.

Admission free; all invited.

COL. MOSBY'S LECTURE.

Col. John S. Mosby, the noted confederate guerilla, will lecture in Music hall this evening on "Stuart's cavalry."

The Fort Collins (Colorado) Express informs us that "there was a very happy gathering on Thursday, Dec. 2d, at the residence of Ed. H. Hall, on College avenue. It was the occasion of the 70th birthday of Dr. J. F. Hall of Portsmouth, N. H., and a family re-union was held in honor of the event, there being present the doctor and his wife, Professor and Mrs. Blount, Dr. Harry F. Hall and wife, Ed. H. Hall and wife, Mrs. Fortune, Miss Carrie Blount and Master Forrest F. Hall. It was the first occasion in twenty-two years upon which the family had been assembled. The afternoon was happily spent, and will leave a lasting impression and sweet memories with those who were present."

Miss Louise Pomeroy on Monday evening will open a week's engagement at Music hall, with "Lady Audley's Secret." Her supporting company is said by the papers to be even stronger than the one of last year.

Tickets now on sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

James F. Goyette, brakeman on the Rockport branch of the Boston & Maine railroad, who died in the hospital at Lynn, Mass., on Thursday last, from injuries received the previous day through slipping between the cars when making a flying switch, was formerly brakeman on the local freight train between this city and Boston. He has a sister living in Kittery, Mrs. Dean, widow of John Dean. He was a resident of Boston, and a reliable and estimable young man. His age was twenty-nine years.

It was Rev. A. R. Bradbury, of Providence, R. I., and not Rev. Mr. "Bradley," as the name was given in the reports, who took part in the jubilee of the Pearl street Free Baptist society on Thursday evening as a former pastor of the church. Mr. Bradbury came prepared, as he informed the audience, to read a poem on the transfiguration of Christ, but gave them an off-hand, stirring and most acceptable speech instead.

The national house of representatives on Friday passed the bill extending the free delivery of mail matter to cities where the post-office receipts amount to more than $10,000 per annum. Should this bill become a law it would give this city free delivery, as the receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1886, amounted to $13,786,64, an increase of $905.42 over the previous year. The sums received and paid out for money-order business during that time amounted to $80,421.71.

Miss Lillian Haines, who is teaching the east district school in Rye this winter, has rented part of Mrs. George Seavey's house, which is very near the schoolhouse, for the winter, and with her mother is occupying it as a residence. Miss Haines came from Mount Vernon, Me., to teach the school, and is a graduate of the State Normal school at Farmington, Me.

Montgomery greets all with a merry Xmas this morning, in an advertisement setting forth the excellent line of goods for the holidays to be found in his art and music store, opposite the post office.

William Tilley, of Christian Shore, on Friday brought in to G. & J. W. Stott a hog weighing about 460 pounds, fifteen months old.

The till of Harry Lombard's saloon on Water street was tapped last Thursday evening, by some person who secured about ninety cents for his pains. Mr. Lombard, who served in the United States army during the Mexican and secession wars, had that day received his pension money, but had not, as was his custom, deposited it in the drawer. This accounts for the smallness of the haul made by the thief, whose disappointment must have been great, he evidently being acquainted with Mr. Lomb, d's habit, and having taken a set on scooping in his pension.

The best ready-made Shirt in the market—so all say that have used them—to be had at the Atlantic Clothing Store, No. 6 Market street, J. W. Moses.

The new dynamo for running the electric lights at the railroad station and in front of the city building, which are to be kept going all night, arrived at the electric light station on the evening of the 9th inst.

A few of those fine dressy Wool Overcoats at a low price, to close, at the Atlantic Clothing Store, No. 6 Market street, J. W. Moses.

A bill in equity has been filed in the supreme court in which William H. Rollins and other land owners about the south pond are plaintiffs, and the city of Portsmouth and W. G. Marshall, street commissioner, are defendants. The bill contains a prayer for an injunction, and alleges that the plaintiffs are suffering a special injury by reason of certain filings to being done by the street commissioner for the city at the upper end of the pond. A preliminary hearing on the injunction will be reached in course of a week or two.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital field.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. FNOUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Lydia E. Pinkham

A SAD STORY.

A Woman Tortured Nine Years from the Incompetency of Physicians. Relief at Last.

Mrs. T., a lady residing in a country town in Indiana, tells the following painful story: "I had taken treatment from physicians for about nine years and had never received any permanent relief until I took your Compound. I thought I never should get well and cried a good deal of my time. A year ago this summer I was confined to my bed and room for five months, under the doctor's care. I at last made up my mind to quit him and try your Compound, and, with what a joyful result! Oh! I feel so glad that I tried it and so sorry that I did not get hold of it nine years ago." The foregoing is from a letter to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sufferers by taking her Vegetable Compound may escape the writer's regret for years wasted in hopeless misery.

A Letter of Thanks.

Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham: Very Dear Madam: My wife, Arie A. Green, has suffered with a displacement which caused her unknown pains till I had almost given up all hopes of finding any relief for her. But the Guiding Spirit referred me to your Vegetable Compound. I went 12 miles to purchase a bottle and the first two doses gave her immediate relief, and after the use of the first bottle she declared herself a new person. Two bottles entirely cured her. Your medicine is invaluable to me. It was indeed a messenger of peace in my house, it cured my wife, and God knows I am the happiest man alive to-day.

Tenements for the Poor.

One of the fads of rich men with abundant leisure on their hands is to build model tenement homes for the poor. But the trouble is that the effort is too sporadic and the amount of good accomplished is infinitesimal. What could be accomplished by a general crusade is seen in the snarl of one rich property owner at another: "Confound you, your freaks have cost me $1,000 for repairs, because my tenants threatened to move out unless I put my houses in as good shape as yours." This illustrates well the force of example.

The philanthropic association which Professor Felix Adler originated has filed plans for four more model tenement houses in Cherry street. They are expected to accommodate 100 families with good rooms at low rent, and yet to return their promoters a fair dividend on their investment. It is excellent as far as it goes, but the rehousing of our poor under proper sanitary conditions is an undertaking altogether appalling in its immensity. Yet it can be done as it ought to be.—New York Cor. Philadelphia Record.

English Society Gossip.

Many members of the British aristocracy do not scruple to turn an honest penny in this way, though they take good care to keep the fact private. Some high and mighty dames earn pin money by reporting scandals in high life as was shown in the Lonsdale case, where Lady Stradbroke was the correspondent and Edmund Yates got six months in prison for printing what was true. Yates afterwards took a terrible revenge on Lord Coleridge, who sentenced him, by publishing to the world the nobleman's inhuman treatment of his daughter. Valets, footmen, butlers, governesses, private secretaries and ladies' maids are suspected of furnishing a good deal of petty tattle printed in the society papers.—New York Graphic.

May Be Important.

A discovery that may lead to important practical results has been made by Walter Hempel, a German experimenter, in the observation that the quantity of electricity furnished by a machine increases considerably when the latter works in an atmosphere of compressed air.—Arkansaw Traveler.

House cleaning. The best thing ever produced for this and all kindred purposes is James Pyle's Pearline. It makes the housekeeper do the work more satisfactorily in less than half the usual time without the aid of soap, or anything else, and its great value in the kitchen and laundry is attracting wide-spread attention. Sold by grocers everywhere, but beware of vile imitations with names that sound like Pearline.

Mr. Cabell, one of the defeated Virginia congressmen, furnishes an opinion of Secretary Manning's report that will be read with interest if not with cheer by his democratic associates. AROUND HOME.

Col. W. R. Farrell of Washington Heights, New York city, arrived in this city last Saturday morning from New York, with the body of Edwin Briard, a Wall street coffee broker, son of Capt. William Briard, formerly of Portsmouth. The deceased was forty-one years old and a native of this city, and Col. Farrell, in compliance with his dying request, brought his body here for interment in the family lot in Harmony Grove cemetery.

The electric light at the junction of Elm and New Vaughan streets was started up for the first time on the evening of the 10th inst., and the one on Dennett street, Christian Shore, on the evening of the 11th. They are both very serviceable. The pole and gear (all but the lantern) of the Dennett street light were in place on the evening of the 10th, but the light was not displayed, so some of the Christian Shore boys got an oil lantern and hoisted it at the end of the arm, where it burned dimly all night,—by way of satire, probably. Who the boys were, or where they got the lantern, is not known; but the lantern was confiscated by the electric light workmen in the morning.

The subject in the Universalist church yesterday was "Universalism and the origin of things." Text, the first two verses of the Bible. Men judge of each other and of all material objects by their origin. We form estimates of men and of matter when we know where they came from. Yet in justice, we must first know of the nature of that source. The first physical substance was fiery vapor. The last production is spiritual life. Nothing but Spiritual Life could have made the difference. The difference that has been made involves all that we know of God. And this knowledge tells us of great development yet to come. The end will be as Godlike as the beginning.

Mrs. Susan T. Dennett, formerly of this city, but now residing in Malden, Mass., celebrated her ninetieth birthday recently by entertaining several friends and relatives, and treating them with refreshments and some nice cake, which she had made herself, for the occasion. She was the recipient of quite a number of presents, including a birthday cake of elegant design, with her name and age inscribed thereon. Mrs. Dennett retains all her faculties to a remarkable degree, with the exception of her eyesight, which has been impaired for several years.

PROF. CHS. LUDWIG VON SEEGER,

Professor of Medicine at the Royal University; Knight of the Royal Austrian Order of the Iron Crown; Knight Commander of the Royal Spanish Order of Isabella; Knight of the Royal Prussian Order of the Red Eagle; Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, &c., &c., says:

"LIEBIG CO'S COCA BEEF TONIC should not be confounded with the hosts of trashy cure alls. It is in no sense of the word a patent remedy. I am thoroughly conversant with its mode of preparation and know it to be not only a legitimate pharmaceutical product, but also worthy of the high commendations it has received in all parts of the world. It contains essence of Beef, Coca, Quinine, Iron and Calisaya, which are dissolved in pure genuine Spanish Imperial Crown Sherry."

Invaluable to all who are Run Down, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Bilious, Malarious or afflicted with weak Kidneys. Beware of Imitations.

HER MAJESTY'S FAVORITE COSMETIC GLYCERINE.

Used by Her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales and the nobility, For the Skin, Complexion, Eruptions, Chapping, Roughness. $1.00. Of druggists.

Aromatic Invigorator.

SURE CURE FOR
DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE, WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION.

DR. HAM, March 2, 1886.

Dear Sir:—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

H. S. WOODMAN.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

MARITIME NOTES.

Letters received from Capt. Seaward of the Annie F. Conlon, before reported ashore at False Cape, about twenty miles south of Cape Henry, Virginia, report her as having gone ashore in the morning on the 7th inst., in a tremendous gale. The captain saw two lights, but mistook them for Cape Charles and Hog island lights, thirty miles farther north. The vessel was in fair condition on the 8th, so high on the beach as to be dry at half tide; her keel and garboards were strained some, she having pounded considerably, and she had two feet of water in the hold. The Baker Wrecking Co.'s steamer Victoria J. Peed proceeded to her aid from Norfolk on the 10th, but had not arrived when Capt. Seaward wrote.

There were in the lower harbor on Friday, the 10th inst., five British schooners bound from St. John, N. B., for Boston, namely, the Howard Holden, Myrtle Pardy, Eliza Batchelder, Aurora Borealis and Acacia. The schooner Jonathan Sawyer, one of the Dover Navigation Co.'s fleet, was also in the lower harbor on the same date, bound from Bideeford to Philadelphia with a cargo of stone; this schooner had previously been reported as frozen in at a wharf at Bideeford, but had evidently managed to get clear.

The schooner Grace Webster of Portland is hauled up for the winter at C. E. Walker's wharf.

The following were the fishing arrivals on Saturday night and Sunday: Schooners E. A. Williams, with 3,500 lbs.; Franklin S. Schenck, 26,000 lbs. cod, 4,000 lbs. haddock; Wm. H. Crapo, 19,000 lbs.; Bertha M. Miller, 14,500; Comet, 5,000; Mary E. Smith, 1,125; Gertie Freeman, 3,000; John W. Caswell, 5,000; Anna H. Mason, 3,000 lbs. large cod; Lady Thorn, 4,600; Agnes E. Downs, 10,000; Albert Woodbury, 3,200; Clyde, 600; Northern Star, 3,000; Delia M. Tarr, 700; Grace Choate, 6,000; Sarah M. Fyles, 9,000; Alabama, 21,000. The prices paid averaged $3 per hundred pounds.

Forty barrels of frozen herring arrived here on Saturday to Elvin Newton & Co.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. F

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." R. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

THE HOLIDAYS.

Saturday evening, Dec. 11th, the stores in the city were in full holiday attire, glittering with beautiful articles of every description and form, suitable for Christmas and New Year's presents. The mild weather attracted a large crowd of people, busy in examining the tempting array. Among the many dealers we briefly note the following:

Mr. John P. Sweetser displays fancy articles of various kinds, sleds, skates and many other things suitable for presents. His lamps, hanging and table, are very handsome.

Mr. J. W. Moses, No. 6 Market street, the veteran of the street, has a fine assortment of gentlemen's furnishing goods and ready made clothing. If you wish to make a useful Christmas gift, what better than a good warm pair of gloves or mittens. Mr. Moses keeps an unusually full line of these goods constantly on hand.

Montgomer's art and music store is full of the most interesting and seasonable goods, novelties in art, music, musical instruments, from a jewsharp to a grand piano, pictures, etc. This store is well known in this vicinity, and its reputation thoroughly established.

Mr. Mercer Goodrich, at the "corner store" has, as usual, a well selected stock of goods suitable for the season. His display is always attractive.

Mr. Frank W. Moses, at "Stich Ban," has an elegant and inviting assortment of art goods, musical instruments and stationery. We don't know what "stich ban" means, but we do know Mr. Moses has a fine establishment.

Mr. A. P. Preston also has his usual choice display of Christmas goods.

Mr. John S. Tilton is always busy, and always does his work well and keeps his stock well up.

Mr. J. C. Carr, at the old stand on Market street, has a fine assortment of boots, shoes and rubbers. What a nice present at this season a pair of rubber boots makes. We hope somebody will remember us.

Mr. Wm. P. Walker, on Market square, is among our oldest and best known dealers. If you want an artistic fit for the new suit you contemplate buying for the holidays, you can get it there.

Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts, 14 Market street, always keeps the most lovely things in millinery, jet and fancy trimmings, ribbons, plain and fancy velvets and plushes, etc. Hats and bonnets are also trimmed here in the most finished and artistic manner.

H. B. Buzzell & Son display a varied assortment for their patrons, and the little ones love to linger at their tempting counters.

Ayers & Locke, with their great stock of everything in the dry goods line, small wares, cloaks, wraps,—in fact a metropolitan assortment, — are, as always, ready to wait upon and accommodate their customers.

Mr. Lewis E. Staples exhibits a pastoral scene in his window, at No. 7 Market street. Inside he shows a variety of dry goods, nicknacks, fancy articles, etc., which are highly appreciated by his patrons.

MOSBY'S LECTURE.

The redoubtable Col. John S. Mosby, whose name was such a terror—to the northern newspapers—during the rebellion, was greeted by an audience of about two hundred persons at Music hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 11th, The subject was announced as "Stuart's Cavalry," but the lecture was principally a description of the operations of Stonewall Jackson during the famous Pope campaign in Virginia in 1862, with an incidental description of Stuart's raid on the headquarters trains at Bristow station and also at Mannassas Junction. The speaker was introduced by Mr. J. R. Curtis, and occupied about forty minutes in reading his address, closing so abruptly that Mr. Curtis was compelled to inform the audience that the lecture was over, and they were at liberty to go home. Col. Mosby is a good looking, mild spoken man, with a countenance expressing refinement and thought, with nothing in his appearance to indicate that he was ever the leader of "Mosby's rough riders."

At the close of the lecture several of our citizens, including a number of war veterans, gave a banquet at the Rockingham house, in honor of Col. Mosby, where an hour and a half were spent in discussing the choice viands, and in the pleasant interchange of thought and sentiment.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

James Riley, for drunkenness, was fined $3, costs $6.90. Brentwood in default of payment.

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

We unhesitatingly recommend all our readers to secure seats for Miss Pomeroy's first appearance at Music hall this evening. On her former visit to this city, last spring, those who saw Miss Pomeroy were delighted at her artistic excellence, her appreciation of the text, for example in Hamlet, a part in which she especially excels—indeed every part assumed was an abundant success. Miss Pomeroy is ably supported by a company of unusual excellence. The attractions of the week are of the most interesting character. Let us all go.

REDEDICATION.

The enlarged and improved vestry of the Methodist Episcopal society, under the church edifice, was rededicated on Sunday afternoon, the auditorium being filled to its utmost capacity. The pastor, Rev. O. H. Jasper, D. D., delivered a very interesting historical address, in the course of which was the following account of the laying of the corner stone of the church, as printed in the former Commercial Advertiser of this city:

On Monday last was laid the corner stone of a Methodist church, situated on State street, opposite Ark street, to be built of brick. The stone was laid according to the ancient usages of Masonry, by Samuel Cushman, deputy grand master of New Hampshire. The fraternity met at Mason's hall, at eleven o'clock moved in procession to the site of the building, where the interesting ceremony was performed. The services commenced by a prayer from Rev. Brother J. N. Maffit, after which the corner stone was laid, and an eloquent address delivered by M. W. Brother Cushman; and the service ended by a fervent prayer from Rev. Brother Shinley W. Wilson, pastor of the church, and a benediction by Hon. and Rev. Brother Broadhead.

In the centre of the corner stone was hown a cavity, in which was placed a sealed leaden jar, containing another of glass, also sealed, in which was deposited the following inscription:

"This Corner Stone was laid in due form, the 21st day of May 1827, and in the year of Masonry 5827, by Samuel Cushman, Esq., Deputy Grand Master of New Hampshire, assisted by the Grand and other brethren of the fraternity in Portsmouth and vicinity; 51st year of the independence of the United States of America, John Quincy Adams president; His Excellency David Lawrence Morrill of Goffstown, the present governor of the state; Hon. Henry Hubbard, Esq., Grand Master of New Hampshire."

In the jar (which was four inches diameter and seven deep) was also deposited the following articles:

A particular account of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portsmouth.
Minutes relating to St. John's church.
Minutes relating to South Parish church.
New Hampshire Register, 1826.

Union Canal Lottery Ticket.
Patterns of calicoes first manufactured in New Hampshire.
A collection of silver and copper coins.
A silver plate engraved for the occasion.
Several Family Records.
Several private Memorandums.
An address to Posterity by a proprietor.

During the exercises the following dedication hymn, written for the occasion, was sung:

This temple, Lord, to thee we've raised,
Here may thy wondrous name be praised;
This house, our powers, and all we be,
We dedicate anew to thee.
Accept the offering, Lord, we bring,
Teach us thy love and praise to sing;
Command thy blessing here to rest,
And let thy goodness stand confest.
Firm on the "Rock" these pillars stand;
Thy servants, aided by thy hand,
Have reared this house of prayer to thee;
May it a "Bethel" prove to be.
Here, may the erring be forgiven;
Here, wanderers find the path to Heaven;
Here, vesper hymns and fervent prayer
Fall sweetly on the evening air.
May all, O God! within this fold,
The young, the middle aged, the old,
Be faithful, till life's race is run,
Then hear from thee the sweet "Well done."

HACK NOTICE.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 24th, 1886.

I will furnish Hacks for funerals for $2 in the city, attending church 50cts. extra; and at the Catholic yard $2.50. All the hitch-outs to be in first-class order. Similar reductions will be made for weddings, parties, etc. NATHAN JONES.

The Army and Navy Journal of last Saturday said: "A statutory survey of the U. S. S. Kearsarge at Portsmouth, N. H., was ordered on Thursday, to determine whether she shall be repaired or condemned. It is thought the latter will undoubtedly be her fate. The board of survey consists of Capt. R. F. Bradford and Naval Constructors Thomas E. Webb and Wm. L. Mintonye."

The Stacy homestead and out-buildings in Newington were burned last Thursday night. The loss is reported at $2,000.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. MISERIES OF A TIMOROUS MAN.

Life Made a Burden by Fear of Accidents —A Queer Sort of Insanity.

There are some people for whom the recent reduction in the elevated railroad fares has no interest. They would not ride on an elevated road if a ticket cost nothing, with a prize package thrown in. They are the people in whom fear is abnormally developed, and who live in constant terror of being injured by accident. The feeling seems to be constitutional and no amount of experience will lessen its acuteness. It injects misery into every pleasure. There is no place where a person with this feeling can go in safety. On the street there is constant danger of being run over or struck on the head with a falling brick, or of tumbling into holes. No matter what the height of a building, an elevator can not be taken. Elevators are unsafe. Food is eaten with the idea that it is poisonous. A gas jet awakes thoughts of asphyxia and a lighted lamp sends a thrill of agony into the soul. A steam boiler is a torpedo with the fuse burning brightly, and a ride on the cars is a journey to the grave. Everything that is looked at is viewed with the possibility of accident and personal injury.

Such people are not numerous, but they exist. Every one has seen the man who would not ride in an elevator if it was guaranteed to carry 1,000,000 pounds, and who would cross the street to pass a building in course of erection. Dr. Ball, the French physician, tells of a man who recently came to him to see if something could not be done to conquer this fear of being hurt by accident. The patient was a young man, and was engaged to be married to a girl in a distant village. When the marriage-day arrived he went to the depot to take the train for his sweetheart's home, but could not overcome his dread of riding on the cars, and the marriage had to be postponed.

Dr. Ball considers this peculiar manifestation a form of insanity, in which an imaginary danger becomes real and can no more be overcome than any other kind of delusion. This condition is thought to be due to nervous shocks given to children when young by sudden frights, not from the presence of any real danger, but from attempts by older people to frighten them.—New York Tribune.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1886.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1846, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Harper's Bazar

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR combines the choicest literature and the finest art illustrations with the latest fashions and the most useful family reading. Its stories, poems, and essays are by the best writers, and its humorous sketches are unsurpassed. Its papers on social etiquette, decorative art, house-keeping in all its branches, cookery, etc., make it indispensable in every household. Its beautiful fashion-plates and pattern-sheet supplements enable ladies to save many times the cost of subscription by being their own dressmakers. Not a line is admitted to its columns that could shock the most fastidious taste.

Without Adequate Cause,

Or with apparently no cause at all, chills and fever, thought to be cured, germinates and refructifies in the system. This giant among diseases cannot be laid out with quinine. The only way to give it a final and extinguishing quietus, is to use persistently the national antidote to miasma poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which roots it out completely. The process of cure is, of course, much easier if the bitters is used as a preventive when the first chill is felt, but persons who are not acquainted with the nature of the symptoms are sometimes in error as to their cause, and neglect the simple and pleasant remedy of all others best suited to check the progress of this dreaded and destructive malady. Visitors to, or sojourners in, malarious localities will, moreover, act the part of wisdom if they use the bitters as a preparative. Rheumatism, constipation, billiousness, indigestion and kidney troubles are removed by the bitters.

What was It, John,

Why, don't you know, Eva? For over a year I took everything I could think of without helping me, then I bought two bottles of Sulphur Bitters, and now I haven't one pimple on my face. It is the best blood cleanser I ever saw.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

"The Cowboys of the Northwest," by William T. Hornaday, the author of "Two Years in a Jungle," is one of the most striking and entertaining articles in the December Cosmopolitan, published in Rochester, N. Y. It is beautifully illustrated by Meeker, and presents an accurate and animated picture of the hard and unromantic life of the cowboy. The first installment of "Senor Io" by Salvatore Farina, the most deliciously humorous story lately published, is presented. The other fiction is a powerful Christmas story, "Under the Mistletoe" by Harriet Prescott Spofford, "Our Door Bell," a pathetic story by M. Heimburg, the well known German novelist, and "Maumer's Cure for Cowardice" by Mary Rose Floyd, illustrating one of the curious superstitions of the Southern negroes. Olive Thorne Miller's charming sketch of "A Little South American," William M. Briggs' humorous description of Spanish peasant life, entitled "A Humble Castle in Spain," and Nicolas Sakney's thrilling sketch, "The Story of My Escape from a Russian Prison," John Esten Cooke's valuable historical article, "My Lady Pokahontas," and Professor W. C. Richard's humorous poem, "Ninety Degrees," complete the list of articles in the body of the magazine. "A Pink of Perfection," an illustrated story by Clara F. Guernsey in "The Young Folks", and "Sugar Plumbs" by Mrs. Henry Brown in "The Household," should not be overlooked. There are two full page illustrations, "The Guitar Player" and "The First Dancing Lesson."

Weak Lungs Made Strong.

Persons who stay in-doors all the time and lean over a counter or a desk, sooner or later discover that their lungs are giving out. Editors are often thus afflicted. Erastus R. Sutherland, editor of the Eastern State Jounal, White Plains, New York, writes: "I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family since 1868. In that year I had an attack of pneumonia from which I was not expected to recover. My lungs were left in a very weak state, and I commenced using Allcock's Porous Plasters, wearing them constantly three months, two on the breast and two on the back. The result was surprising, at least to me. The pains in my lungs had left me, and I felt like "a giant refreshed with new wine."

On the stairs.
He, before I could forbid it,
Stole a rose, ere yet I missed it,
And, as tenderly he kissed it,
Swiftly in his pocket hid it,
Unawares.

We were talking, after waltzing,
On the stairs.
I had said that he should rue it,
And a lecture I intended,
Which I think he apprehended,
I was kissed before I knew it,
Unawares.

We were silent, after waltzing,
On the stairs.
I had stormed with angry feeling,
But he spoke love, never heeding,
And my eyes fell 'neath his pleading,
All my depth of love revealing,

WHITE PAPER AND EYESIGHT.

The Principal Injury Comes from Improper Arrangement of the Light.

Many believe the eyesight is impaired by the use of white instead of colored, or at least tinted, paper, and at times the subject comes up for discussion. So far as we have seen, no positive evidence has yet been secured to prove the injurious effect of white paper on the eyes, and some recent inquiries lead us to doubt if such evidence is to be had.

A company engaged in the sale of tinted paper recently urged us to say a word against the use of white paper for "billing, letterheads, records," etc., for that it does more to keep the oculist and optician busy than any other cause. Further along they say: "There is no doubt that, in a few years, tinted paper will be used for purpose above named [billing, letterheads, records, etc.], and the white paper now used will be an exception to the rule. In the interests of the clerks and bookkeepers, we appeal to you," etc.

Dr. St. John Roosa, one of the best authorities on the eye hereabout, said, when his attention was called to this: "I have never yet noticed any special ill-effects upon the eye from the use of white paper. I have treated many bookkeepers and others who work with the pen, and do not remember to have heard any complaints against white paper, nor any commendations for tinted paper. my investigations show me that a principal injury to the eye comes from an improper arrangement of the light when writing.

He says he does not believe that people who use tinted paper for writing are freer from eye troubles than those who use white. As for himself, he has used both, first one and then the other, hoping to be able to note the different effects upon the eyes. None, however, were observed. Dr. Roosa might have gone a step farther, and said that instances could be cited where those accustomed to white paper having suddenly changed, and adopted that with a decided tint, found a mal-influence exerted on the eye, and were compelled to go back to white paper.

It is well known that using the eyes too much or in bad lights will serve to hasten the development of miopia, presbyopia, strabismus, and dantonism where there is hereditary inclination; but there is no record of a case, so say the authorities, where the use of white paper hastened or the use of tinted paper retarded such development. It is not likely, therefore, that tinted paper will replace white in the business transactions of the future.—Scientific American.

Meat as Food.

The consumption of flesh appears to be modified largely by climatic conditions and also to be proportioned to the degree of activity of a people. In London for instance it annually exceeds 252 pounds per year for each individual; in Paris it is nearly 164 1-2 pounds; in Berlin it is 110 1-2 pounds. Throughout France the average consumption is about 75 pounds It has increased more rapidly for years in Germany than in France, especially in the large towns, where less farinaceous food is consumed and more meat than formerly.

In nearly all parts of the world it is found that more flesh is consumed in towns than in the country, and there is a marked decrease in the consumption of pork, but a notable increase in beef while veal and mutton remain about stationary.—New York Market Journal.

Life in London Lodgings.

Life in lodgings in London is hopelessly dull and dreary, the cooking generally atrocious. There is, of course, variation to this sweeping denunciation. It is a chep and private way of living, but one must accustom one's self to boiled mutton and Brussels sprouts and a terrible something, called a "sweet," named gooseberry tart. Then begins the battle of words again. Your landlady uses a different vocabulary from yourself, and only her pretty English voice reconciles you to her "haspirations." Here there is apt to be a faithful, good maid, however, whose respectful manners and willing service are delightful after the free and airy unsubserviency of home rule.—Mrs. John Sherwood in New York World.

Really Absent-Minded.

Perhaps one of the best cases or absent-mindedness occurred at a picture-gallery, when an old gentleman, looking at the portraits, happened to pass a mirror which reflected his own image. He stopped, looked puzzled, and said: "Hum—um—very strange, but that face seems familiar to me. Perhaps I'm mistaken."

SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, HEADACHE.
WIND IN THE STOMACH OR PAINS IN THE BOWELS, INDIGESTION,

Dr. HAM, March 2, 1886.
Dear Sir;—I feel it a pleasurable duty to extol your medicine to the very highest. I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease dyspepsia from childhood, and very often after eating have vomited up the greater part of my victuals. About 3 months ago I was induced to try a bottle of your invigorator, which at once gave me relief, and I have not had a vomiting spell since. I feel like a new man, and am perfectly well. I have tried many medicines, but none had the least effect until I took your Invigorator. Hoping you may go on in your great work for suffering humanity, I am Truly yours,

When a lecturer has worked the ladies of his audience so near to the weeping point that they have gotten out their handkerchiefs, and then suddenly changes his tone and speaks of the merits of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, he is bound to rouse a feeling of indignation.

Bank Commissioner Buel C. Carter died at Rollinsford on the 11th inst. He was the son of Sanborn B. Carter, a prominent lawyer of Ossipee Corner, and was born born at Sanford, Me., January 4th, 1840. He graduated from Yale in 1862; was appointed first lieutenant of the Thirteenth New Hampshire Regiment, September, 1862; was severely wounded at Fredericksburg; promoted to the rank of captain, June 1, 1863, and was breveted a major in May, 1864. He served as bank commissioner one term. He leaves a widow.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

Who Is The Boss?

The New York Herald says that the democrats in Congress lack leadership. Speaker Carlisle is a good moderator, but he cannot steer his party friends. Morrison leads his men down a steep hill like the swine in scripture. Morrison does not consult his fellow democrats; he seeks to drive them. The result is, he has never succeeded in passing a bill of his own, since he has been in Congress. These men are nominally the leaders, but they cannot lead. Measures will hang fire in this session as before, till Sam Randall rises to the situation. The Pennsylvania statesman will let his political friends wriggle, until they have again convinced the country and the democracy of their unfitness for administrative generalship, when he will take command, make the best trade he can with the minority, and carry through what measures he desires to have enacted and hang up such legislation as he may disapprove. It is always thus.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Col. Wm. H. Sise, president of the Portsmouth Board of Trade, has received from Major J. A. Smith, Corps of Engineers, United States army, in charge of river and harbor improvements and defences of Maine and New Hampshire, a communication from which the following is an extract:

Some time ago a paper originating in Portsmouth was referred through the secretary of war and the chief of engineers for a report from me in regard to further improvements at Little harbor and Portsmouth harbor. I shall in a few days submit a report recommending the removal of a part of the ledge at Noble's island, south of the Eastern railroad wharf; also of a part of the point of ledge off the point of Badger's island, making the depth not less than eighteen feet at low water. Also a ledge known as Pier rock, outside of a point mid-way between the end of Portsmouth pier and Hale & Rollin's wharf. I shall also recommend the removal of a part of the point known as "Pull-and-be-damned point;" and also a much larger project for making a harbor of refuge at Little harbor.

Major Smith writes that if any persons have any suggestions to make in this connection, he would be very glad to receive them before he makes up his report.

ALONG WATER STREET.

The schooner Golden Gate, Amee master, which arrived from Boston the latter part of last week, had in her cargo 300 empty barrels and 100 hhds. of salt for Elvin Newton & Co., the salt to be used in the curing of spawn, and the barrels for holding the same. Mr. Frank Newton is in charge of the trying-out works for Newton & Co. this winter. Owing to the building near Liberty bridge, previously occupied by this firm for trying out, being too small, they have leased the building on Railway wharf, formerly occupied by John Dixon, for this purpose. Newton & Co. have purchased in Boston 1000 fish-box shooks, to arrive the present week, and Mr. Daniel Haley has contracted to put the boxes together.

The schooner Jonathan Sawyer, of the Dover Navigation Co.'s fleet, has hauled in at Randall & Caswell's wharf, to have her bows sheathed with iron at the deep-load water line, as a protection from ice. The iron, supplied by Geo. T. Vaughan & Co., will be put on by Wm. F. Fernald. She is from Saco for Philadelphia, loaded with stone.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick brought in 2500 lbs. of fish on Monday, the Joseph Garland 1500 lbs., and the Quickstep 2000 lbs. These fares were bought by E. Newton & Co. and Ed. Jameson, at $3 per hundred lbs.

Mr. Daniel Caswell, employed by E. Newton & C., expects to return to work this week after an involuntary vacation, taken on account of an ugly cut on one hand.

Mr. Alonzo Smith will start for Eastport, Me., in a day or two, to purchase fresh herring for the Portsmouth fish dealers.

Mr. Thomas Lee is fitting his Irish smack, the Alice Lee, for winter fishing.

Mr. Daniel L. Randall is to buy fish the present winter, which will make five fish firms buying at the south part of the city. He will buy on Shen's wharf.

Capt. Ed. Jameson cured 500 quintals of pollock this past fall; they were looked after by the well known salt fisherman Mr. Joseph Jameson.

It is expected that after fresh bait arrives more plentifully, the fishing fleet out of Portsmouth will number upward of seventy sail—a larger fleet than has fished out of here for a number of winters. Many of the netters are hauling up, owing to the small fares taken, and are fitting out for trawling.

Lewis Holmes, Esq., the popular agent and treasurer of the Electric Boat Co., is occupying an office on Water street, where he will be engaged until spring making arrangements for the coming season to accommodate his patrons with his large fleet of boats during the excursion months.

MARITIME NOTES.

The sloop Rose Wood, which during the past summer was engaged in transporting bricks from this port to Boston, has hauled up for the winter at Four Tree Island.

It was reported on Monday that the schooner Annie F. Conlon, ashore at False Cape, Va., had bedded herself five or six feet in the sand.

A coal schooner was reported on Monday forenoon to be at anchor off the Rye shore, a short distance to the westward of Odiorne's point, and dangerously near the rocks. A steamer went to her relief.

The Dover Democrat says that before the captain of the schooner H. B. Metcalf concluded to let his vessel remain at South Newmarket for the winter, the tug Ana last week tried to cut her way up river through the ice to tow the schooner down, but found it impossible to get far above the Dover point bridge. In this state of affairs the decision which the schooner's captain arrived at on Thursday, that he would let his vessel stop at the South Newmarket wharf for the winter, was quite natural.

The strike of the stone cutters in Andrews & Son's quarry at Biddeford collapsed last Thursday afternoon, when a meeting of the strikers voted more than two to one to return to work Friday morning on the employers' old terms, which they refused to modify. Several hundred men lost four days' work each; but then the two men who engineered the strike got their money before the regular pay day, and have gone home, which is what they aimed to accomplish when they fomented the trouble.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years.

W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled. 2

At a well attended meeting of Masons held Friday evening of last week the initiatory steps for a grand Masonic ball were taken. A committee of five was appointed to bring the matter to the attention of the members of the two lodges, requesting their co-operation, and to present at the next meeting a list of names of gentlemen to serve on the general committee of arrangements. The subject of a Masonic ball has been agitated for some time by a considerable number of the members of both lodges, and is looked upon with favor by all. An opportunity is offered for a most successful and enjoyable affair.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

A good audience greeted Miss Louise Pomeroy and her dramatic company at Music hall on Monday evening, when Miss Pomeroy's own dramatization of Miss Braddon's novel, "Lady Audley's Secret," was presented. This is the best adaptation of the story yet made, and is a skillful combination of comedy, pathos and sensationalism. Miss Pomeroy was an excellent Lady Audley, and fully sustained the high reputation she gained during her week's performance here last spring. Arthur Elliott made a prepossessing and manly Robert Audley; and Criptie Palmoni, as Luke Marks, achieved a decided success. The rest of the support is good, the company as a whole being even stronger than when here before; and the stage business is especially fine.

This evening the play is to be "An Unequal Match," a charming old English comedy, in which Mrs. Langtry made a beginning of the fame she has attained.

Tickets for sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Dec. 13th.

Thomas Williamson, charged with the larceny of about $50 from Catharine Hennessey, was held in $500 for the April term of the supreme court.

Terence McGrath, for indecent behavior, was fined $3, costs $8.04.

Clara Moulton, charged with brawl and tumult, was discharged, there being no reliable evidence against her.

William Coombs, charged with keeping a disorderly house on the corner of Water and Jefferson streets, was held in $500 for the April term.

THE HOLIDAYS.

We indicated to our readers yesterday some of the establishments where staple and holiday goods in great profusion are displayed. Space did not allow us to particularize all, and we resume the publication this morning.

C. E. Myers & Co., at the corner of Market and Bow streets, an old and reliable firm, keep a full stock of clothing, furnishing goods, oil and rubber clothing, etc. Oil and rubber clothing is certainly seasonable, and a rubber coat is a very useful present.

Alfred Stavers, in Franklin block, has a large and varied stock of hats, caps, trunks, gentlemen's furnishing goods, etc. Young ladies desiring to present a handsome necktie to a—brother, can find what they wish here.

A ton of coal, or a cord of wood, is a gift that will make a holiday in many a needy home. E. F. Sise & Co., J. Albert Walker, O. F. Philbrick & Co., and Daniel Littlefield will promptly fill all orders, and at the lowest market prices.

In order to properly enjoy the festivities of the season, groceries and provisions are needed. The very best goods in this line are sold by John Laighton, John J. Laskey, Flynn Brothers, Charles E. Laighton & Son, and H. M. Clark.

If you desire to make your residence assume a holiday aspect, W. J. Sampson & Co. will furnish paper hangings, curtains, fixtures, etc., at a low price, and apply them in the most artistic manner.

A pair of skates, for a Christmas gift to a boy or girl, is always acceptable. A. P. Wendell & Co., have the latest and most perfect pattern, at a low price.

PROTECTION FOR THE HELPLESS.

I wish, Mr. Editor, that your readers would study more attentively than, I fear, many of them are likely to do, the annual report of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, published in your columns yesterday. I think that if they would do so, they could not fail to be struck with surprise, and perhaps led to think more seriously of their own duty in this matter.

We are too apt to pass by the work of the anti-cruelty societies with a half-smile; to speak of it as the pet hobby of a few sentimental or officious people, who having no serious business in life devote themselves to an uncalled-for crusade against a cruelty which we are inclined to believe at least half-imaginary. Now let any one who has accustomed himself to this style of thinking and speaking look at this list of outrages committed and miseries endured in this state during the past year. Think of it! This is the end of the 19th century; we live in the heart of the highest civilization; we call ourselves a Christian community. And what do we read? "Horses neglected and starving, 35. Starved to death, 7. Overloaded and beaten, 39. Overloaded and overdriven, nearly 200." Five cows starved to death; more than 200 starved, but not to death. Dogs tortured, tormented and burnt to death; calves, sheep, cats, hogs—the sickening list runs on till we shudder and turn away. For what imagination can bear to picture to itself all that is implied in these cold statistics of over 1,500 cases examined in one year? All of this wrong and misery endured by our silent, long-suffering fellow creatures.

And against this vast mountain of sin and misery, stands, almost alone, this brave little society. It cares nothing for contempt or ridicule; it is too used to neglect to expect much else. But it turns an unflinching front toward this army of evil doers, and it works steadily to protect the innocent, to right the wronged, to teach the ignorant and thoughtless, and to punish the hardened sinner.

See the amount of work implied in the mere number of miles travelled in one year by the state agent—almost 3,000. For complaints come in from every part of the state; from logging camps in the dead of winter, and from mountain tourists in the heat of summer. The bitter cry of suffering animals goes up day and night, summer and winter.

Does any one ask, what can I do? Few there are who are fitted by nature or education to take a prominent part in the practical work of such a society—though many might do even this if they would. But is there any one who cannot give the workers a word of encouragement, a God speed? Who cannot help to silence the tongue of thoughtless ridicule or slander? And this is not enough. More than kind works are needed. Money is imperatively demanded. Can all this labor, all this travelling, all this law business, be done for nothing? And the society is entering upon another year with $18.18 in its treasury!

The most carping critic cannot bring the charge of extravagance against the society. Those engaged in similar undertakings in other states constantly express surprise at what the New Hampshire society accomplishes with the small amount of money at its disposal. But how much more could be done with ample means, only those engaged in the work know. Will not more generous hearts then, rally to the support of the society which protects the helpless? Other charities in our city are generously supported; do not let this one languish. Come forward with generous gifts this holy Christmas time, assured that every dollar so given will go to help save some helpless, faithful friend of man from unmerited abuse and suffering.

A SYMPATHIZER.

PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 14th.

BIDS FOR EXCAVATING ROCK.

The following were the bids for removing rock in Portsmouth harbor, received by Major Jared A. Smith, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., Nov. 17th: Edward R. Lowe, New York, $28.75 per cubic yard; Isaac A. Sylvester & Thomas A. Rowe, Boston, $27.87; Solon S. Andrews, Biddeford, Me., $26; Thomas Symonds, Leominster, Mass., $19.25; George W. Townsend, Boston, $18.97. The acceptance of the latter bid is recommended by Major Smith.

Miss Louise Pomeroy on Sunday evening last delivered a lecture in New Bedford on "Before and Behind the Footlights," and the Mercury was so well pleased that it gave next morning a notice of it a column and a half long.

The Universalist Fair, literary entertainment and supper offer a variety of attractions which will fill the vestry at an early hour Wednesday evening. The efficient committee of ladies having the superintendence of the sales-tables have displayed excellent taste in the selection, display and prices of the seasonable goods they offer to voluntary purchasers. Polite and gracious attention will be shown to the guests whether they patronize the tables or not. The fine quality and reasonable prices of their goods and bric-a-brac ensures a ready sale for all they offer their patrons. The excellence of the musical, dramatic and literary entertainments gotten up by the Social Circle is proverbial. The supper this year will be especially rich in variety, quality and flavor, as well as abundant in quantity.

A gentleman of sixty-nine summers was united in matrimony with a widow of thirty-three in this city on Monday.

The ladies of the Home Missionary society connected with the North church will hold a social gathering in the chapel parlors on Thursday evening. A turkey supper will be served at 7:30 o'clock.

The baker's cart of Mr. John E. Stevens of this city was capsized by the drifted snow on the York beach road near the Garrison house, York, last Friday, and a large quantity of eggs in the cart, gathered from farmers, were broken.

Walter C. Harriman, Esq., formerly a resident of this city, and solicitor of Rockingham county, is to locate in Nashua, but will continue to do business in Boston.

Three eligible building lots on Union street, near Middle street, owned by the late Hon. Albert A. Fernald, have been purchased of Mrs. Fernald by Mrs. A. Q. Wendell and Mr. Henry Wendell. Mrs. Wendell will erect a dwelling for her own occupancy on one of the lots; and Mr. Wendell, on another, will put up a house for renting.

HACK NOTICE.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 24th, 1886.

A Hunter in the North.

After June 24, and until March 20, next year—nearly nine months—we were reduced to the dime novel standard thirteen times; or, in short, there were thirteen times when we were without anything to eat in our camp. Yet, in this number of times, so good a hunter was Toolooah, that we can not say we lost a meal, although several times we had to wait pretty late for it, coupled with no small anxiety as to being able to get it at all.

There was one conspicuous example of the thirteen which I shall briefly describe. We were in Erebus bay, off King William's land, late in July, without a scrap of meat to eat for the next meal. As soon as Toolooah got in with the sledge from off the bay ice from our last camp, left in the morning, it was intended that we should seek some game inland for our next meal. When he reached the shore where we were to camp there was a proverbial fog that could not be cut with a knife hanging over the country, and I thought surely our next meal was a good long ways off.

Toolooah, with an Esquimau boy leading a dog by the harness trace, swung his Winchester magazine gun over his shoulders and disappeared in the dense white clouds hugging the earth, I thought he would do well if he succeeded in finding his way back, even without any game. In about three hours he came into camp with the saddle of a reindeer on his shoulder, and reporting that he had killed three, whose carcasses were brought into camp next morning. He had used the dog's nose to find the deer, making a wide detour and cutting across the wind, blowing from the best grazing ground, where he expected the animals might be, if in the country at all. When the dog's nose went up in the air, sniffing and smelling, he turned squarely against the wind, and his score of animals told too well how true his conjectures were. — Lieut. Schwatka in Chicago Times.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE has been called "the model of what a periodical for young readers ought to be," and the justice of this commendation is amply sustained by the large circulation it has attained both at home and in Great Britain. This success has been reached by methods that must commend themselves to the judgment of parents, no less than to the tastes of children—namely, by an earnest and well sustained effort to provide the best and most attractive reading for young people at a low price. The illustrations are copious and of a conspicuously high standard of excellence.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

Harper's Bazar

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR combines the choicest literature and the finest art illustrations with the latest fashions and the most useful family reading. Its stories, poems, and essays are by the best writers, and its humorous sketches are unsurpassed. Its papers on social etiquette, decorative art, house-keeping in all its branches, cookery, etc., make it indispensable in every household. Its beautiful fashion-plates and pattern-sheet supplements enable ladies to save many times the cost of subscription by being their own dressmakers. Not a line is admitted to its columns that could shock the most fastidious taste.

None should be deceived, however, as the word WELCOME and the Clasped Hands are stamped on every bar.

The December number of the "Century Magazine" is not only equal, but we believe superior to any preceding number. It supplies a most interesting variety of reading matter. The more prominent of its contents are the sketch of Ashland, and reminiscences of Henry Clay, by his executor; and Abraham Lincoln, a history by J. G. Nicolay and John Hay. Every one delights to read of Lincoln, and the sketch in this number treats of his military and legislative career. Preceding this history is an autograph poem by Stedman, entitled "The Hand of Lincoln"—

"Look on this cast and know the hand
That bore a nation in its hold."

Mr. Stedman, in war times, at Washington had an abundant opportunity to study Mr. Lincoln's character, and all who recall how the martyr president was in the habit of taking from his pocket a well worn and oft perused cutting from a newspaper, and read to his auditors Stedman's "Abraham Lincoln, give us a man," and know how keenly

"The whitest soul a nation knew"

Appreciated the sentiment of this "Wanted, a man," will easily conceive that the poet's estimate of the statesman was of no common order. With the Second Day at Gettysburg is a likeness of Col. Edward E. Cross of the Fifth N. H. Regiment, who was killed while commanding the first brigade of Caldwell's division. Col. Cross, it will be remembered, was from Lancaster, and was a man of remarkable activity and courage. He had been a printer, reporter, editor, officer in the United States cavalry, and a lieutenant colonel in the Mexican service. A sketch is given of Wm. Miller, who in his celebrated chart published by Elder Himes figured out with mathematical certainty that the world would come to its end in 1843! The Century has an unprecedented number of readers in different quarters of the globe, and it is one of the most interesting periodicals which it is our good fortune to peruse.

Without Adequate Cause,

Or with apparently no cause at all, chills and fever, thought to be cured, germinates and refructifies in the system. This giant among diseases cannot be laid out with quinine. The only way to give it a final and extinguishing quietus, is to use persistently the national antidote to miasma poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which roots it out completely. The process of cure is, of course, much easier if the bitters is used as a preventive when the first chill is felt, but persons who are not acquainted with the nature of the symptoms are sometimes in error as to their cause, and neglect the simple and pleasant remedy for all others best suited to check the progress of this dreaded and destructive malady. Visitors to, or sojourners in, malarious localities will, moreover, act the part of wisdom if they use the bitters as a preparative. Rheumatism, constipation, billiousness, indigestion and kidney troubles are removed by the bitters.

Anderson Perry, the colored janitor of the Maryland university in Baltimore, and John Ross and Albert Hawkins, also colored, have been arrested for murdering Emily Brown, a poor, sick white woman sixty years old. The murder was committed Dec. 10th, and the body was sold to the university for $15, which was the motive for the crime.

Purify your blood, tone up the system, and regulate the digestive organs by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

Three train robbers "went through" a train near Belleville Station, Texas, Dec. 11th, getting about $100 in money, fifteen watches, five revolvers and a gold ring. The robbers are known. Captain Conners was on the train, having in charge two deserters with a guard of five negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth United States Infantry. Captain Connors ordered the soldiers to draw their revolvers to fight the robbers, but several passengers opposed so strongly and pleaded so earnestly in behalf of the women passengers on board that the captain reluctantly yielded, and when the robbers reached the soldiers and demanded their weapons they quietly gave them up.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

A gang of thirty or more tramps raised a row in a liquor saloon at Shenandoah, Pa., and fatally wounded three men. Four of the tramps were jailed.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Democratic reports say that Perry Belmont, the son of his father, is a hopeless failure as chairman of the house committee on foreign relations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound revives the drooping spirits, invigorates and harmonizes the organic functions.

Charles H. Haskell, town treasurer of Topsham, Me., committed suicide at his office Dec. 10th.

House cleaning. The best thing ever produced for this and all kindred purposes is James Fyle's Pearline. It makes the housekeeper do the work more satisfactorily in less than half the usual time without the aid of soap, or anything else, and its great value in the kitchen and laundry is attracting wide-spread attention. Sold by grocers everywhere, but beware of vile imitations with names that sound like Pearline.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—The publishers of the "Atlantic," who maintain that this New England magazine always represents what is best in American thought and letters, promise for the coming year a brilliant and healthful literary enjoyment. Tha list of contributors mentioned in the advertisement is a guaranty of the charactor of the contents of the coming numbers. The readers of the Atlantic have been accustomed to a superior class of fiction, instructive essays and sketches, and a high order of poetry. The very appearance of an article in the Atlantic is a voucher for its excellence. Indeed, we once heard Mr. Aldrich assert that the personage be most dreaded to encounter with his own productions, before acceptance, was the editor of the Atlantic Monthly, who knows no friendship in business. However this may be, we are glad to see that the publishers announce for the coming year, the publication of "The Second Son," a story by Mrs. Oliphant and Mr. Aldrich, concerning which we have great expectations. "What is home without the Atlantic?" is a question which the inmates of very few families of cultivation and refinement in New England would attempt to answer.

The Golden Argosy, published by Frank A. Munsey at 81 Warren St., New York, has been enlarged to a sixteen page journal. It claims, and we think justly, to be the most fully and most beautifully illustrated paper of its class in the world. Eight pages are largely devoted to illustrations, and these pictures cover a variety and range of subjects that appeal to all tastes. The tone of its contents is healthy and pure, and it aims to set a high ideal before the youth of the country. The Golden Argosy enters its fifth year with a circulation of one hundred thousand copies weekly, and it therefore takes its place in point of circulation among the half dozen leading publications of this country. We have seen no other journal that gives so much for the money. For sale by all newsdealers.

"In the Clouds," by Charles Egbert Craddock. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1.25. This work has been running in the Atlantic, and is finished in the December number. It is deeply interesting, strong and picturesque, with many weird, dramatic effects, and well displays the skill of the fair authoress in the use of the peculiar dialect of the southern mountain regions, amid which the scenes of the story are laid.

"Democracy, and other addresses," by James Russell Lowell. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers. For sale by M. Goodrich, price $1,25. A collection of the addresses of Mr. Lowell commencing with his inaugural on assuming the presidency of the Birmingham and Midland Institute, Birmingham, England, Oct. 6th, 1884, and closing with the address delivered in Sanders theatre, Cambridge, Nov. 8th, 1886, on the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of Harvard University. Lowell's orations take high place among American classics, and this collection would be admirable supplementary reading for High schools.

Isaac Lea, LL. D., the distinguished American naturalist, died in Philadelphia on the 8th inst., in the 95th year of his age. Dr. Lea was born in Wilmington, Del., March 4th, 1792. About 1830 Dr. Lea was elected a member of the Zoological society of London, the Linnæan society of Bordeaux, the Imperial society of Natural History of Moscow, and an honorary member of the Asiatic society of Bengal; and at the time of his death he was an honorary member of nearly all the scientific, philosophic and historical societies of the world. He was president of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia from 1853 to 1858. To a collection of minerals and geological specimens made by his own exertions those of palæontology and recent shells were added, which, at the present time, have grown to great magnitude; that of fresh-water shells is entirely unequalled in the world.

The combination, proportion, and process in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla are peculiar to this medicine, and unknown to others.

Edward Cheever of North Attleboro, Mass., was on the 13th inst. arrested on a bench warrant, and was indicted by the grand jury for arson and robbery, being held in $4000 on the former charge and in $2000 upon the latter. The last of August Freeman's large jewelry factory at Attleboro Falls was damaged several thousand dollars by fire. Pinkerton detectives have since been working upon the case, and deeming that sufficient evidence had been obtained against Cheever, he was arrested.

A clear head is indicative of good health and regular habits. When the body is languid, and the mind works sluggishly, Ayer's Cathartic Pills will assist in the recovery of physical buoyancy and mental vigor.

SCALY, ITCHY SKIN

And All Itching and Scaly Skin and Scalp Diseases Cured by Cuticura.

PSORIASIS, Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Lichen, Pruritus, Scald Head, Milk Crust, Dandruff, Barbers', Bakers, Grocers' and Washerwoman's Itch, and every species of Itching, Burning, Scaly, Pimply Humors of the Skin and Scalp, with Loss of Hair, are positively cured by CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exqui ite Skin Beautifier externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier internally, when physicians and all other remedies fail.

PSORIASIS, OR SCALY SKIN.

I, John J. Case, D. D. S., have practised dentistry in this country for thirty-five years and being well known to thousands hereabouts, with a view to help any one afflicted as I have been for the past twelve years, testify that the CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me of Psoriasis, or Scaly Skin, in eight days, after the doctors with whom I had consulted gave me no help or encouragment.
NEWTON, N. J. JOHN J. CASE, D. D. S.

DISTRESSING ERUPTION.

Your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed a wonderful cure last summer on one of our customers, an old gentleman of seventy years of age, who suffered with a fearfully distressing eruption on his head and face, and who had tried all remedies and doctors to no purpose. J. F. SMITH & CO.
TEXARKANA, ARK.

DISTRAYFUL OF SCALES.

H. E. Carpenter, Henderson, N. Y., cured of Psoriasis or Leprosy, of twenty years' standing, by CUTICURA REMEDIES. The most wonderful cure on record. A dustpanful of scales fell from him daily. Physicians and his friends thought he must die.

ECZEMA RADICALLY CURED.

For the radical cure of an obstinate case of Eczema of long standing, I give entire credit to the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently attacked by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all proved into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE consists of one bottle of the RADICAL CURE, one box of CATARRHAL SOLVENT, and IMPROVED INHALER; price, $1.

A box containing 200 lbs. of dynamite was exploded beside the summer residence of King Charles of Roumania, Saturday night; badly shattering the building. The mangled corpse of a stranger was found near the scene of the explosion.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Petroleum, Its Source and Production."

This title indicates to some extent the character and scope of the new Holiday Annual for 1887, by "A Man," which is now in press and will be ready, on or about the 20th inst., for delivery by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway. It is to all intents and purposes a gift to the friends and patrons of that road. The subject is ably handled, and discussed in a clear, colloquial vein that will captivate adults and youth alike, although especially "dedicated to the Boys and Girls of America." It embodies a vast amount of scientific and practical information, is profusely illustrated with diagrams, sketches and full page engravings from original drawings true to fact and nature—with beautiful and striking design on outside cover, printed in colors. It is a book that will challenge wide attention and comment—something choice, elegant and valuable, that will pay to read, study, discuss and preserve—and the company have spared no expense to produce it in first class style. Enclose ten cents in postage stamps, and address "E. A. HOLBROOK, Gen. Ticket & Pass. Agt. C. R. I. & P. Ry., Chicago, Ill."

MARITIME NOTES.

The steam tug Ann, Capt. Drew, started from Mathes' wharf, Dover, on Saturday, the 12th inst., to force her way down the river, through the ice, and tow to Dover the schooner C. H. Trickey, then in the lower harbor, coal laden; the ice was found to be several inches thick, and the tug returned to Dover Saturday evening without having accomplished her purpose. The mild weather of Saturday so softened the ice, however, that on Sunday the tug ploughed her way down, and took the schooner up.

The schooner reported as close in to the rocks to the westward of Odiorne's point, Monday, was the Hattie E. King, Kimball master, from New York. The tug which went to her assistance could not get near enough to do any good, but later in the day the wind hauled sufficiently to enable the captain to sail out of his dangerous position, which he hastened to do, leaving an anchor and forty-five fathoms of chain behind.

The British schooner Water Lily, hailing from Parsboro', Nova Scotia, and a frequent visitor at this port during the past few years, was totally wrecked on Baker's island in Southwest Harbor, Mt. Desert, during one of the recent gales. Her crew of five men escaped in the schooner's boat, saving nothing except what they stood in. They were forwarded from Southwest Harbor to their homes without charge, by the steamer Queen City and the Maine Central railroad.

In August of this year a Gloucester fishing schooner, the Volunteer, was struck three times by a sword fish. When the fish was harpooned it was found to weigh 300 pounds. When the Volunteer went on the marine railway, six feet from the stern and near the top of the keel the sword of the fish was found, broken off in four places. The deepest penetration was ten inches.

HAMPTON JOTTINGS.

Shooting affray. A few nights since Mr. George Page came home and found two young men in his house, his little daughter being entirely alone and in bed. In his efforts to eject them, the two fellows were shot during the melee, one through the left hand and the other in the back, badly, perhaps fatally, it is reported. Of course the direct cause was murderous rum, and the primary agency, the murderous rum-seller,—and always have been. God grant such a "flat justitia" of prohibition that it shall not always be.

Mr. Pray has moved into his elegantly furnished new house on Main street, near the Town hall. He was formerly proprietor of the Boston Hotel for many years, and settles here for the peaceful quietude and restfulness of staid old Hampton and the ceaseless music of the ocean side.

Alfred J. Leavitt, Esq., has retired from the keepership of Boon Island lighthouse to his pleasant home and family in his native town, after nearly a quarter of a century of faithful watch and care of our sea-coast beacons for the wayfarers of the ocean. He has seemed quite satisfied to hold his position for a couple of years or so under the new "powers that be" though not for love or choosing. And this reminds me, as Pres. Lincoln used to say, that we have noticed that office-holders recently have not come home, since the inauguration of the impartial civil service rules, for several days before elections to warn their fellow countrymen "carefully and with tears" of the perils, if not fatal and final catastrophe to the nation, of an incoming democratic administration. "Politics is funny, isn't it."

The funeral services of Mr. Oliver Hobbs will be conducted this afternoon, Dec. 13th, by Rev. Mr. Fay of Bridgewater, Mass., lately pastor of the Congregational church in Hampton.

Mrs. Samuel Drake, we are sorry to learn, is quite ill with a fever. She has been in constant attendance upon her sister, who has been entirely helpless from a lingering typhoid fever, some three months or more.

Sweet charity. One bitter cold morning last week a gentleman called at the door of a poor widow, who is a stranger in town, and asked permission to leave a ton of coal but declined to give his name. "Pure and undefiled religion, before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widow in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

HAMPTON, Dec. 13th, 1886. **

NAVY YARD ITEMS.

Fourteen carpenters were taken on in the department of construction and repair at the navy yard on Tuesday.

The U. S. S. Galena, which has for some time been undergoing repairs at the navy yard, took her powder on board Tuesday afternoon, and it was announced would be ready to sail at slack water this morning.

Boston's Next Mayor.

There were elections in many of the cities and towns of Massachusetts on Tuesday, but the principal interest was centered on the choice of mayor in Boston, to succeed Mayor O'Brien. There were three candidates: O'Brien, democrat; O'Neill, labor; and Hart, republican. Mr. O'Brien was elected to succeed himself by 4,200 plurality.

Worcester, Newburyport, Lawrence, Salem and Lynn, voted for license; Lowell also.

Awful River Disaster.

The Mississippi river steamer J. M. White, 2,027 tons, was burned on the 14th inst. near Bayon Sara, La., and about sixty persons were lost, mostly women and children.

Passed Assistant Surgeon H. T. Percy is ordered to the naval academy.

Lieutenant Commander F. McCurley is detached from the Franklin Dec. 31st, and placed on waiting orders.

Lieutenant A. Dunlap is ordered to ordnance duty, navy yard, Washington, Jan. 3d.

Lieutenant Wm. P. Elliott is ordered to special duty in the bureau of navigation.

Captain Richard L. Law has been detached from command of the navy yard at League island, and placed on the retired list.

Pay Inspector John H. Stevenson is ordered as a member of the naval examining board.

Passed Assistant Paymaster John N. Speel is ordered to duty on the coast survey.

Passed Assistant Paymaster L. A. Yorke has been ordered to examination for promotion.

Passed Assistant Paymaster Josiah R. Stanton is detached from the coast survey, and ordered to settle accounts, then to be placed on waiting orders.

Assistant Paymaster E. B. Webster is detached from duty at the national museum, and ordered to duty in the inspector's department, navy yard, Mare island, on January 1st.

Boatswain Thomas Savage has been placed on the retired list.

Two negroes were hanged by a masked mob at Ringgold, Ga.

Colonel W. G. Moore of the regular army has been appointed chief of the Washington police.

Secretary Manning is in every way stronger than when he resumed his duties.

William Reed, late treasurer of the South Boston horse railroad, last week pleaded guilty to the embezzling of $160,000.

The trial of Richmond J. Lane, late president of the Abington, Mass., National bank, for embezzling the funds of said institution, has been set for Jan. 2d, in the United States circuit court.

Mr. Henry S. Paul, architect, of this city, designed and superintended the construction of a new block just completed in Nashua, described as the largest and handsomest building in that city.

Capt. Augustine Staniford Perkins, of Salem, Mass., died in that city Dec. 13th, aged seventy-three years. He was one of the old-time master mariners, and highly respected. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Lucy A. Jones of this city, who died in 1858. His second wife was Mrs. Catherine Condon, who died in 1883. He had three children all, of whom are dead.

Mr. J. Edward Pickering, of Newington, has accepted a position as teacher in one of the grammar schools at Manchester.

The people of Kittery Point are reported to be moving energetically in the matter of having the York Beach & Harbor railroad run through their part of the town.

The second annual ball of the Boston & Maine Railroad association will be held Wednesday, January 12th, at Mechanics' building, Huntington avenue, Boston. Music will be furnished by Baldwin's Boston Cadet band. Purchasers of ball tickets at any point on the Boston & Maine lines will be sold half-rate tickets to Boston and return.

The Dover Democrat of the 11th inst. says: "There was an old man at the depot this morning who expressed much surprise at the number of trains that were coming in and going out, and the large amount of traffic. Said he: 'My name is Ephraim Simpson. I belong to South Paris, Me., and I haven't been in Dover for over forty years. At that time I lived in Eliot, and came over to Dover to see the first train run to this town. It came as far as where Washington street bridge now is. There was a platform there, and I never will forget as long as I live the great excitement and curiosity of that day. There are a great many changes since then. I left Eliot for Paris soon after that day.'"

From the twenty-fifth annual report of the Maine Central railroad it appears that the company now operates 555 miles of line, including the Mt. Desert ferry. General Manager Tucker's report shows that the road carried 1,268,409 passengers and 863,711 tons of freight, during the year ending Sept. 30th; 980,017 miles were run by passenger trains, and 789,144 by freight trains. Improvements in the way of bridges and tracks have been made, equipment enlarged, side-tracks increased, stations repaired and rebuilt, and other judicious outlays of this kind have been made during the year, including over a thousand tons of steel and 500 of iron rails laid. The road is in excellent condition, and throughout its length gives evidence of the ability and comprehensive judgment of its general manager, than whom there is no better in New England.

A GREAT MISTAKE

has heretofore been made in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous or sick headache. This is evidenced by the failure on the part of thousands of sufferers to find relief, even though they have exhausted the skill of various physicians and tried numerous so-called remedies. To such Athlophoros is offered as a safe, sure, and quick cure. Its success has been phenomenal, and yet it is not surprising because it will do all that is claimed for it. The Athlophoros Co. will gladly refer any who desire to make an investigation to reliable parties who have been cured by it.

Concord, N. H., March 18, 1886.

My father, who is eighty years old, has for years been a great sufferer with rheumatism, also neuralgia, in the stomach. His case was a very severe one and worried not only the family but the doctors as well, who seemed utterly unable to do him any good, as they resorted to the most powerful remedies. My father grew worse and weaker daily, and, unknown to the doctor, we got him to try Athlophoros. Very soon there was an improvement, the pains almost immediately ceased, and there was no longer any cause to keep the doctor in ignorance of what he was using. We told him it was Athlophoros that he was taking, and the doctor told him to continue its use, as it was what he wanted, and so it proved, for he has never been troubled with rheumatism since. J. W. LANE.

Hudson, Mass., May 12, 1886.

This is to certify that I have sold more Athlophoros than all other so-called cures for rheumatism combined. It gives universal satisfaction to my many customers. Have sold Athlophoros for three years. W. L. WEST, Druggist.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

MISS LOUISE POMEROY.

The dramatic company now playing a week's engagement at Music hall, at popular prices, is deserving of liberal encouragement from our theatre-goers. We have had loudly-heralded 75-cent shows here, given by a single star in no wise superior to Miss Pomeroy, "supported" by a lot of sticks who instead of assisting in the delineation of the play bad rather to be carried through by the leading performer. This is not the case with the company now at Music hall. Miss Pomeroy is a painstaking, conscientious and versatile actress, and her "support" is support in reality, each performer seeming to "play for his (or her) side," as the base-ballists talk about, instead of merely for an individual record. The result is a smooth, harmonious and pleasing whole, well worthy the public approval.

The play presented on Tuesday evening was Tom Taylor's comedy "An Unequal Match," in which Laura Keene appeared twenty-five years ago, and which was chosen to introduce Mrs. Langtry to an American theatrical audience. The story is a simple one—a girl in humble life married to a man far above her in rank—troubles and mortifications in consequence—apparent cooling of husband's love — wonderful progress of wife in polish and refinement—recapture of husband, bliss, etc. The comedy needs to be well played to be pleasing, and affords opportunity for some good acting; and it was well treated by the company. Miss Pomeroy as Hester Grazebrook, the young and simple daughter of the village blacksmith; as the deserted wife, the butt of polished society; and as the devotee of fashionable frivolities, exhibited great versatility and careful study of the several phases of character she presented. Mr. Arthur Elliot, as the titled artist husband, appeared to good advantage; Mr. Criptie Palmoni, though his part was a minor one, made considerable of it without in any way marring the play; and the other performers filled well their several parts. The audience, a fair one, repeatedly testified appreciation by generous applause.

This evening "The New Magdalen" will be the attraction, with Miss Pomeroy as Mercy Merrick.

Tickets for sale at Goodrich's, at popular prices; see advertisement.

CHURCH FAIR.

The fair, supper and musical entertainment to be held in the vestry of the Universalist church this evening offers an opportunity for rare enjoyment. The sale of useful and elaborate pieces of needlework, ornamental devices and articles in endless variety suitable for Christmas gifts, will afford a chance for all who are disposed to aid Santa Claus in his annual stocking-filling and pleasure-dispensing tour, to select pretty and inexpensive presents.

POLICE COURT--BATCHELDER J.

TUESDAY, Dec. 14th.

Mrs. Letitia J. Coombs, wife of the man charged the previous day with keeping a disorderly house on the corner of Jefferson and water streets, was charged with perjury in having sworn that no liquor had been sold in the house between certain dates given; a Miss Lizzie Shaw, an inmate of the house, was also before the court on a similar charge. The result of a long investigation was that the Shaw girl was discharged, and Mrs. Coombs held in $400 for the April term of the supreme court.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers of St. Andrews Lodge, No. 56, A. F. & A. M. were installed on Monday evening the 13th inst., by P. M. John Pender, Past Master Harry G. Tanton acting as marshal:

John Tanton, W. M.;
Richard I. Walden, J. W.;
Wingate N. Ilsley, Treas.;
Samuel M. Joy, Sec.;
Lemuel T. Davis, S. D.;
John H. Rose, J. D.,
Alonzo K. W. Green, S. S.;
Michael H. Gregg, J. S.;
Robert H. Hall, Tyler.

WINTER CLOSE AT HAND

On Tuesday afternoon next, Dec. 21st, at four o'clock, the sun enters the sign Capricornus, and the astronomical winter begins. The sun just grazes the tropic of Capricorn, and his southern progress is stayed. Henceforth the nights will grow no longer, the sunrise and sunset points will no longer move southward, and the sun's meridian altitude will no longer decrease in the North Temperate Zone. The winter we have bad so far is of course merely a bogus article, but it seems to answer the purpose as well as the genuine.

MASONIC.

The officers of the Grand Commandry will visit DeWitt Clinton Commandry of Knights Templar on Thursday evening, Dec. 16th. Following the exemplification of the work, a banquet will be served.

AN ECONOMIC SPASM.

Every administration of our national government has frequent intervals of what is styled economy. The term economy is a comprehensive one. It is understood to mean, for campaign purposes, a saving in public expenditures, rather than a judicious and frugal management of public affairs. Just now some agent of the treasury department, who may, forsooth, be new to the service, deems it in the interest of the government to reduce what is termed the cost of collecting the revenue.

It is not merely the cost of collecting the revenue from imports that gives employment to our custom house officers. The coastwise commerce creates certain ceaseless obligations on the part of the officials. Vessels arriving at this port from foreign countries bring cargoes upon which there is no duty collectable. For example, during the past season over two hundred thousand railway ties were imported into Portsmouth and landed at the Noble's Island wharves. There was no revenue collected from this source, but there was none the less required the early boarding of the vessels and the presence of the officers, that not only no smuggling should be accomplished, but also that the masters and crews of foreign vessels should be made aware that the United States government has, as have other nations, agents on the watch to prevent the landing of dutiable goods except in a lawful manner.

In fine, the duties of the inspectors today are not confined to keeping account of imported merchandise from which a revenue is derived, but are discharged in many ways in the proper regulation of coastwise as well as foreign commerce. During the year about closing there have come up to the wharves of our harbor over eight hundred vessels, aggregating over a hundred and eighty thousand tons burthen. This, of course, does not include the fleet of fishing vessels constantly arriving at our port. In addition to the above number, there have been boarded in the harbor over seven hundred other vessels, temporarily in port, mostly for shelter, but which under the regulations governing such cases must be boarded by an officer of the customs. The tonnage of the latter class aggregate so far this season over two hundred thousand tons burthen. It will be seen therefore that a place in the custom-house has its labors and responsibilities, even if the amounts of duties collected do not in money value aggregate large sums.

There have always been investigations, reports, recommendations, suggestions and correspondence, concerning custom-house officers at ports where collections from duties paid have been small. The results of such examinations have invariably shown that a due regard for the proper enforcement of the revenue laws, and the proper observance of the statutes concerning domestic commerce, cannot be had with any less force of men then are employed in those places in the ports of New England.

Storer Post, G. A. R., holds its regular meeting for election of officers this evening. A full attendance is desired.

A meeting of the grammar school teachers of this city will be held at the room of the superintendent of schools, this afternoon, to discuss geography.

The second of the series of select assemblies at Congress hall was graced with a large attendance of "fair women and brave men" last evening.

Strawberry Bank lodge of Good Templars would remind their friends and the public of their "Mum Supper" to be held at their hall on Market street, Thursday evening. Entertainment consisting of music, readings, etc. Admission fifteen cents. Supper served from six to nine o'clock.

The total of death claims paid by the Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York for the week ending Dec. 10th was $145,506.03. Endowments, $8,754.87.

Mrs. Sarah Drown, the widow of Engineer Drown, who went down with the ill-fated steamship Arctic on the banks of Newfoundland in 1854, died recently in East Concord at the age of seventy-five years. Her maiden name was Underwood, and she was a native of this city, her family, of which she was the last survivor, having for many years lived on Vaughan street.

Hon. Frank Jones slipped and fell, Saturday evening, while getting into his sleigh, and was somewhat strained by the fall.

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PERLE, Salem, Mass.

The Prevention of Accidents.

In this country the legislatures has for a long time shown that it considered employers of labor to have duties to perform in seeing that those in their pay run no unnecessary risks. In France however, no attempt was made to deal with this matter until 1874, when inspectors were appointed with power to order changes in factories, with a view to the protection of children. This, however, was found insufficient, and in 1884 a law was passed making the employer responsible for accidents, except where due to carelessness on the part of the workman. In addition to this, to provide that class of risk which may be described as inseparable from the trade, compulsory insurance has to be effected, one-half of the premium for which has to be paid by the employer, and the remainder by the workman. A further proposal is now made to improve the the sanitary arrangements of workshops, as well as to bring about increased safety.

In Germany and Austria similar enactments are in force. In France, however, a useful initiative has been taken by certain unions, in which are representatives of all kinds of industries, who have inspectors of their own, and who form a kind of council, at which full consideration can be given to the best means of preventing accidents. Thus, the engineers of one association have taken, one by one, all machines of a dangerous character and entered minutely into the best means to be adopted for rendering them safe as far as possible. These proceedings have proved very beneficial, and have not only had a local effect, but the recommendations have been adopted in surrounding districts.—Scientific American.

All in a Row.

"Now, you will understand, children," said the teacher of a west side school to his advanced class, "that the whole is equal to the sum of all the parts, and the greater invariably includes the less. Did any of you ever hear of a case in which the less included the greater?"

"Yes, sir," said the lumber dealer's son. "My father got 700,000 feet in one big tow, this week. I heard him say so."—Detroit Free Press.

"A man's memory is like a fine horse," says a specialist. "To do its best work it must neither be overworked nor neglected."

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD,
13 Green Street, Portsmouth, N. H.

After suffering for the last five years from severe attacks of rheumatism I was relieved of all pain by taking one bottle of Athlophoros, and I have not been troubled since. I have recommended it to others. L. H. Patterson, Copake Iron Works, New York.

Five striking railroad yardmen from Dennison, Texas, who went to Palestine in that state and urged the International and Great Northern yardmen to strike, were ordered by the city marshal to leave town, and left at once. The men in Palestine say they do not intend to strike.

How Often

We see some young man who has squandered his money and ruined his health by excesses, and before 30 years of age is an all broken-down played-out man! In all such cases I prescribe nature's tonic and nervine, Sulpher Bitters. They supply food for the brain, strengthen the nerves, and are successful in nine cases out of ten.—Old Physician.

Fourteen oleomargarine merchants in Burlington county, N. J., were on the 9th inst. summoned before the court, and three of them fined $100 and the other cases continued. Other trials are to follow in Salem, May's Landing, Orange, Trenton, Newark and Newton, N. J. The deputy inspector of dairies states that many of the New Jersey dealers are getting into trouble through the crooked business transactions of several Philadelphia commission merchants, who have been selling bogus butter to them as good creamery butter, which has been retailed out as such, and for which they have been arrested and fined $100 each.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most distressing, nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cures of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

Ida Baldridge, a young daughter of Ex-Postmaster Baldridge of Greensburgh, Penn., has been arrested at that place for robbing the mails. She was well and favorably known in the town, and her arrest has caused intense surprise.

Scrofulous humors, erysipelas, canker, and catarrh, can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "I have used this medicine in my family, for scrofula, and know, if it is taken persistently, it will eradicate this terrible disease."—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Italian laborers at Auburn, N. Y., savagely assaulted four Americans, fatally wounding three.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound revives the drooping spirits, invigorates and harmonizes the organic functions.

Eleven of the Cohoes, N. Y., knitting mills have started up with non-union labor.

The Hop Plaster kills pain, strengthens the parts, builds up new tissues. 25 cents. Druggists.

Mrs. A. Lincoln Fairfield, of Putnam, Conn., on the 12th inst. when in a rage with her husband poisoned her daughter, aged eight years, and herself. The child soon died, but the murderess may live.

Two remedies with but a single end—St. Jacobs Oil and Red Star Cough Cure.

Henry C. Bowen, one of the band that started Plymouth church in New York, and for many years owner of the New York Independent, is dead. Bowen was one of the heavy guns of Plymouth church up to the time of the Beecher-Tilton scandal, when he left.

Mr. H. Maddock, Detroit, Mich., cured his cold with three doses of Red Star Cough Cure.

Rev. W. B. Wright has resigned the pastorate of the Berkeley street Congregational church, Boston, on account of the state of his health. He has had charge nineteen years.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites.
For Children and Pulmonary Troubles.

Dr. W. S. Hoyt, Point Pleasant, W. Va., says: "I have made a thorough test with Scott's Emulsion in Pulmonary troubles, and general debility and have been astonished at the good results, and as a remedy for children with Rickets or Marasmus, it is unequalled."

Volney R. Chamberlain, the ex-pork packer of East Cambridge, Mass., was last week found guilty of perjury in dealings with John P. Squire & Co.

John S. Prince of Massachusetts won a six days' bicycle race at Omaha, Neb., beating the record.

Resolve Not to Procrastinate Any More.

On Tuesday, Nov. 9th, 1886, in New Orleans, La., at the 19th Grand Monthly Drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, under the sole care of Gen'ls G. T. Beauregard of La., and Jubal A. Early of Va., the wheel of fortune spun rapidly thusly: No. 94,552 drew First Prize of $75,000. It was sold in fifths at $1.00 each: one to A. L. Beltran of 105 Esplanade St., New Orleans, La., a young sugar refiner there; one to T. L. Pendell of Keene, Ky., a tobacco raiser, paid through 1st National Bank of Lexington, Ky.; one to Mrs. Eliza J. Peterson, No. 53 Moulton St., Charlestown, Mass.; the others to parties in Chicago, Ill., and Manchester, Va. No. 48,000 drew the Second Prize of $25,000, also sold in fifths at $1.00 each: one to Henry L. Valencia, San Francisco, Cal., paid through Wells, Fargo & Co. Express; one to Jas. H. Johnson, San Antonio, Tex., paid through Traders' National Bank there; one each to W. M. Brown and James K. Jackson, both of Boston, Mass. No. 67,853 drew Third Prize, $10,000, also sold in fifths at $1.00 each: one paid to Wm. Tomkin, San Jose, Cal., one to G. Rocco, Stockton, Cal., both paid through Wells, Fargo & Co. Express; one to the Anglo Californian Bank of San Francisco, Cal.; the rest to parties to New York. Nos. 19,011 and 62,825 drew the two Fourth Prizes, $5,000, sold all around. But on Jan. 11th, 1887, the 360th Monthly Drawing will cause $535,000 to go flying about, and any information can be had of M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., on application. It would be well to form new resolutions with the new year, and not procrastinate the wooing of fortune.
